New Ones In Congress Are All Republican.

TURNOVER IN HOUSE

Even Slow Changing Senate Shows the Rout.

A Brief Review of Some of the Prominent Changes to Be Seen.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The first week of the Fifty-fourth congress, which convened at noon today, promises nothing at either end of the Capitol in the way of actual legislation. The time before the Christmas holidays is usually devoted to preliminary matters, and the work of the session does not begin until after the recess. The new congress will probably not be an exception to this rule.

Speaker Reed says that the house committees will not be announced this week, with perhaps a single exception—the committee on rules. This committee formulates the rules which are to govern the house during its sessions, and it is customary for the speaker to name it during the first week in order that it can immediately begin its work.

While it is believed that the rules of the Fifty-first congress, over which Mr. Reed presided, will be reported for the guidance of the present house, a few changes will be made, as a result of experience, which are designed to still further improve the house machinery and the facilitation of public business.

The clerk of the last house called the house to order today. After the rollcall, the election of officers nominated by the Republican caucus last Saturday occurred, and, as soon as Mr. Reed was formally installed as speaker, the drawing of seats, which is known as the congressional "raffle," followed.

The reading of the president's message will consume tomorrow, and at its conclusion the house will probably adjourn until Thursday, and on convening Thursday will adjourn until next Monday. These adjournments will continue probably until the committees are announced. This is the program, but the unexpected might occur, as it so often does in the house, if some aspiring member should introduce a sensational resolution and ask for its immediate consideration.

It is not probable that the first week of congress will witness much serious effort at legislative work in the senate. If anything would be accomplished beyond the receipts of the president's message and the recess nominations and the introduction of bills, the session would be an exception in the history of the senate.

In view of the fact that the message will not be received until tomorrow, the proceedings today consisted in the swearing in of new members who were present and the appointment of a committee to wait upon the president. The message will be read tomorrow, and the brief sessions on Wednesday and Thursday will be devoted largely to the introduction of bills, of which there will be several hundred.

The Rout of the Democratic Party in the congressional elections last fall became apparent for the first time to the naked eye when the new house of representatives assembled today.

No such revolution in the personnel of the members has occurred in recent years at least. Exactly 163 new faces appeared in a total of 356 members. Some of the oldest and most tried leaders among the Democrats were swept out by the tide which rolled up a Republican majority of 140 in the Fifty-fourth house. Of 94 districts north of Mason and Dixon's line which were represented by Democrats in the last congress but 13 returned Democrats to the new house.

In the house the Republicans control 31 of the 44 state delegations, which insures them the next presidency should the election be thrown into the house. They have 20 solid delegations, while the Democrats have but four. In the once "solid south" the Kentucky and Tennessee delegations are almost evenly divided. In North Carolina and Missouri the Republicans control. The West Virginia delegation is solidly Republican. Texas and Virginia each has a Republican, and South Carolina and Alabama send Populists. The number of Populists in the house is reduced from 12 to 6.

Among those whose long service or striking personalities make their absence in the newly assembled house most noticeable are such grizzled old veterans as Judge Holman of Indiana, the "father of the house," and "the watchdog of the treasury," General Dan Sickles of New York, "Silver Dick" Bland of Missouri, William M. Springer of Illinois, General Hooker of Mississippi and General Hatch of Missouri. Others there were whose term of service was shorter, but whose talent and ability made them exceptionably prominent, like William L. Wilson or Bourke Cockran of New York. Then there were such men as William J. Bryan, Tom Johnson, Champ Clark of Missouri, "Buck" Kilgore of Texas, Dan Lockwood of Buffalo, President Cleveland's old partner; Michael Harter of Ohio, Sibley of Pennsylvania, General Tracey of Albany, Outhwaite of Ohio, Enloe of Tennessee, Geary of California, Lafe Pence of Colorado, Dr. Everett of Massachusetts, Caruth of Kentucky and W. C. P. Breckinridge of the same state, and Jerry Simpson, the leading Populist of the house.

Fresh Blood.

These and many others are gone, but there are new men of as striking ability, as interesting history or peculiarities to take their places. Among them are General Walker, the Republican from Virginia, a Confederate soldier, who assumed command of Stonewall Jackson's brigade after the latter was shot at Chancellorsville; George L. Wellington of Maryland, who is prominently mentioned as the successor to Senator Gibson; William E. Barrett, who has made his mark as speaker of the Massachusetts legislature; George P. Hamilton, general Gates successor in Alabama, who was the youngest brigadier general in the Confederate army and who is a [illegible] and grand master Mason, William C. Owens, Breckinridge's successor from Kentucky; George N. Southwick of Albany, who is the youngest member of the present house, and therefore the "baby." He is but 25. H. H. Atwood, from Boston, is a gifted artist; Grove L. Johnson of California looks like the late Senator Mahone, and has a good deal of the ex-chieftain's fire. Two prominent young members are George B. McClellan and William Sulzer of New York. The former is a son of "Little Mack," who commanded the Union armies in 1862. Sulzer has been speaker of the New York assembly. Harry Miner succeeds Tim Campbell from the Bowery district of New York. Frederick Halterman, who represents the old Randall district of Philadelphia, which for 80 years has returned a Democrat, is a Republican. Alexander Stewart of Wisconsin is a lumber king, and Charles N. Henry of Indiana, who succeeds Bynum, made a fortune in gas. Cyrus A. Sulloway of New Hampshire, who succeeds "Educational Bill" Blair, is a lawyer and a member of the Salvation Army. John E. McCall succeeds Enloe from Tennessee. Miles Crowley of Texas once sold papers on the streets of Boston, but drifted to the Lone Star state and became in turn stevedore, cowboy and politician. M. W. Howard, the Populist from Alabama, raised a storm of indignation two years ago by producing a book severely reflecting on congressional morality. W. M. Trelear, who defeated Champ Clark, was a teacher of music. James E. Watson, who succeeds Holman from Indiana, is a young lawyer and a prominent Knight of Pythias. The number of energetic young men is perhaps the most prominent feature of the new house.

Something Unusual.

The presence of new blood is quite as noticeable in the usually slow changing senate as in the house. Among the most noticeable of the absentees are Butler of South Carolina, Ransom of North Carolina, Coke of Texas, Dolph of Oregon, Manderson of Nebraska and McPherson of New Jersey. Of the 30 senators whose terms expired on March 4 last, only 13 were re-elected.

The new men are Augustus O. Bacon of Georgia, who succeeds Patrick Walsh; Baker of Kansas, vice Martin; Butler of North Carolina, vice Ransom; Carter of Montana, vice Power; Chilton of Texas, vice Coke; Elkins of West Virginia, vice Camden; Gear of Iowa, vice Wilson; McBride of Oregon, vice Dolph; Martin of Virginia, vice Hunter; Nelson of Minnesota, vice Washburn; Sewell of New Jersey, vice McPherson; Thurston of Nebraska, vice Manderson; Tillman of South Carolina, vice Butler; Walthall of Mississippi, vice McLaurin; Warren of Wyoming, vice Carey; Wetmore of Rhode Island, vice Dixon.

Of these Chilton, Sewell, Walthall and Warren have served in the senate before, and Carter, Gear and Nelson in the house. Gear and Nelson have also been governors of their states, as have also Tillman, Walthall and Warren.

Messrs. Burrows, Clark, Mantle, Pritchard and Wilson are also new men in the senate, as they had taken their seats to fill vacancies only a few days before the close of the last session. These five added to the 17 who assumed their duties today constitute just one-fourth of the senate, which is probably an unprecedented addition of fresh blood.

The preponderance of seats on the Republican side was noticeable, three having been transferred from the Democratic divison. In consequence of this change the extreme back row of the Republican side of the chamber, which is known as "Pike's Peak," because it was first filled by senators from newly admitted western states, has again taken on the proportions of the Fifty-first congress.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR.

PRINCIPLE vs. POLITICS.

Mr. Adams pre-eminently represents the principle of honor, of worth, of manhood. He offers no bribes, he plays no tricks, he does nothing unworthy of a gentleman. He is a man every one respects and is thoroughly a man among men.

He is not in politics for selfish ends but represents the principle of good government, good honest clean administration of public affairs. No one feels shocked by his nomination, no one declares it a nomination unfit to be made, no one wishes a better man were selected, but every one admits that he is thoroughly qualified and would fitly represent the city of Quincy when in office.

It is a question of principle. It is shutting out Boss rule and all the train of corrupt consequences that follow the overthrow of clean government.

Are you ready for the question?
Answer at the poles tomorrow.

The funeral of Miss Ethel A. Burke was held Sunday afternoon from her late residence on Saville avenue and was very largely attended by many of her associates of the schools of Quincy and Melrose and other friends, who brought many tokens in the form of beautiful flowers, of which there was a profusion. The services which were in accordance with the Episcopal church were conducted by Rev. Walter Russell Breed. The body was placed in the receiving tomb previous to its removal to Charlettetown, P. E. I.

Choose Wisely.

In these days, when reform in municipal governments is in the air, no one can fail to take an interest in the campaign now taking place in Quincy. On one side is Mr. Charles F. Adams, 2d, a young man much respected in his native town and well known in the financial circles of this city. No one can question his capacity, or fitness in the highest sense, for the office of mayor. The Republicans, on the other hand, after a sharp contest, in which the older party leaders were ranged against the skill of a shrewd politician, nominated Mr. C. L. Hammond. The result has been that the older and best respected branch of the Republican party, disliking the methods of the candidate of their party, and distrusting his capacity for executive office, have joined in giving Mr. Adams an independent Republican nomination. A contest in which a man who represents what is best in municipal government is opposed by the questionable methods which too often prevail in our large cities cannot fail to carry a lesson of importance, and it is to be hoped that the citizens of Quincy will choose wisely.

NO-LICENSE SUNDAY.

The Pastors of the City Take a Fearless Stand.

Col. George W. Bain Speaks in Evening to Crowded House.

Eloquent John Anderson Entertains the Scotchmen.

There is no danger of Quincy voting for license this year. The city is prospering under no-license, and the crowds at the meetings Sunday show that the people are enthusiastic on the temperance question. Several of the pastors at their morning services took a firm stand for no-license.

The first meeting of the Citizens' Temperance Committe were those at 3 P. M. at the St. Paul's church to Scandinavians and at Norfolk Downs. There were addresses in Swedish and English at the former, Mr. Frederick Peterson of Boston being the principal speaker. The pastor spoke and there was singing by a mixed quartette.

At 3 30 P. M. a meeting was held in the Presbyterian church, South Quincy, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. It was opened by a praise service led by Rev. Robert Westly Peach. Mr. O. C. Colton spoke briefly, and then followed a very entertaining and convincing address by Mr. John Anderson of Wollaston. Of Scotch birth he was able to reach the hearts of his audience. His figures and comparisons on the amount spent for rum in this country were astounding. While the foreigners may be the rumsellers he made it clear that Americans were responsible and urged the importance of every "No" vote.

Six meetings were held simultaneously throughout the city in the evening. Every seat was filled in the Centre Congregational church, in the auditorium and gallery. Rev. E. N. Hardy and Rev. E. C. Butler opened the meeting with Scripture reading and prayer. Col. George W. Bain was introduced about 8 o'clock and for over an hour the "silver-tongued Kentuckian" held the closest attention of the large congregation. He seemed to meet every objection and to give convincing answers. No short abstract would do the lecture justice and political matter today crowds the LEDGER. A collection of $50 to $60 was taken, and Rev. Mr. Peach offered the benediction.

Atlantic.

A rousing No-license meeting was held in Music hall Sunday evening. John B. Ramsdell presided and presented the following speakers, Rev. Geo. B. Shanor of the Methodist church, Rev. James E. Bagley, and Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks of Wollaston. A quartette from the Methodist church sang two selections. The speakers were all well received but ex-Mayor Fairbanks was given a most cordial welcome, and it was plainly shown that he is held in the greatest esteem by Ward Six.

At West Quincy.

Owing to some misunderstanding the Catholic Total Abstinence Union and the no-license meeting both met at St. Mary's hall Sunday evening and after a conference it was decided to hold a union meeting of the two organizations.

Edward Mulready presided and the first speaker was Mrs. Leonera B. Lake who spoke for an hour. She paid a glowing tribute to Miss Willard and the W. C. T. Union and urged the Catholic sisters to join the W. C. T. U., and work in harmony without discord regardless of religious creeds. Other speakers were Hon. William B. Rice and City Auditor John O. Hall.

At Wollaston.

Sardines in a box would have envied the way in which people crowded into the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday evening to hear Mr. John R. Anderson, the eloquent Scotch temperance lecturer, talk on "The Great Evil." The meeting was opened by a reading from the Scriptures by the Rev. Edward A. Robinson and was followed by a prayer by the Rev. Preston Gurney. The Rev. Charles W. Wilder presided. The music was by the double quartette.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The first information that any of our Scotch citizens heard that there existed a "Scottish Citizens' Association" was by the postal received by them Saturday announcing that this association would tender Mr. Adams a reception this evening, which wound up by announcing a "collation" and "singing." If the leaders of the Democracy think they can secure the Scotch vote by an appeal to stomach, they will find that they have been very much mistaken for it takes more than crackers and cheese to influence the average Scotchman.

A circular purporting to be from the Park and Downs Improvement society favors C. F. Adams, 2d, for Mayor; Messrs. Field, Badger, Baker, Hearn and McGrath for councilmen-at-large, and the Republican councilmen in Wards Five and Six because they will vote for brick schoolhouses. Councilman Sprague thinks he has been misunderstood and has issued a letter in reply.

IN THE CHURCHES.

Mr. Charles Tucker, a teacher at the High school, led the meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E., at the Centre Congregational church, Sunday evening, his text being: "Is my heart right with God."

Preparations for Christmas were begun Sunday at the Memorial Congregational Sunday School. Committees to have charge of the festival were elected. The school also voted to send Rev. E. W. Waldron, the city missionary of Boston, a donation for use in his work in that city.

The attendance at the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School on Sunday was 143; the highest yet.

The Rev. Jas. E. Bagley of the Wollaston Unitarian church exchanged on Sunday with the Rev. George H. Hosmer of the Church of the Unity of Neponset.

Rev. E. N. Hardy continued his sermons on the Lord's Prayer Sunday morning, his text being "Lead us not into temptation."

Rev. Mr. May will speak at the First Presbyterian church Tuesday evening on the Italian missionary work in Quincy which is meeting with great success.

The Memorial Congregational church and society have unanimously voted to extend a call to Rev. Edward Norton, formerly pastor of the Congregational church, Quincy center, to be their pastor for one year from next March.

Rev. R. P. Kendall, pastor of the Weymouth Heights Congregational church, preached at the Washington street church Sunday morning. A large audience was present. His text was 1 Cor., 2 2. The no-license meeting in the evening was well attended, and Mr. Theophilus King made a most earnest and effective address, in the interests of manhood and good citizenship.

Friday will be a special day of prayer in the Congregational churches for the Armenians of Turkey. "How home and foreign missions help each other," will be the subject of the prayer meeting at the Centre Congregational church.

Rev. Edward Norton preached to a good congregation at the Memorial Congregational church, Sunday morning, choosing for his subject, "Patriotism" our duty to our country." He highly commended the work of Samuel Adams and also Dr. Parkharst, of New York. A good choir furnished singing.

Best Of All For Christmas.

Christmas wouldn't mean anything to one-half the world if this delightful custom of surprising your friends with gifts and tokens of friendship were not in existence. It is always a source of anxiety to many to know just what to give their friends, but most thoughtful givers consider first what will add most to the happiness, and give most enjoyment and comfort to those they wish to favor.

What's better than a luxurious Couch or Morris Chair, a Fancy Rocker, Banquet or Piano Lamp, Dinner Set, Tea Table, Writing Desk, Music Stand, Jardiniere or Picture. Even a Parlor or Chamber Set to some homes would be a most acceptable gift, and it will be a great pleasure for us to quote you prices worthy of consideration on any of these goods.

C. T. A. CONVENTION.

A Resolution in Favor of No-License Offered but Withdrawn.

The quarterly convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of the Archdiocese of Boston was held Sunday afternoon at St. Mary's hall, West Quincy.

Vice President James H. Connelley of Charlestown presided, and Edward Mulready of Rockland was secretary. Thirty-seven societies were represented by 93 delegates and the convention was also attended by many not affiliated with any of the societies.

Mr. Connelley in his opening remarks said the society had been criticised by its Protestant friends for not being more active in the csuse of no-license, but the Union had not thought it wise to lay down any rule for the government of its members in this respect but had left the matter to the conscience of each individual.

Reports of an encouraging nature were made by the different societies. The committee on the Fr. Matthew memorial concert held at the Boston Theatre in October also reported that the net receipts were $123.

A resolution recommending and instructing all members to vote for no license was offered.

This resolution resulted in a long discussion, which ended in the mover withdrawing it.

A committee was appointed to suggest a plan of work for the Union for the next three months.

This committee recommended the holding of lectures, public meetings, entertainments and the interchange of meetings by the several societies. The report of the committee was adopted.

Mrs. Leonora Blake Lake of St. Louis, addressed the convention, but contrary to expectations she did not refer to Mrs. Willard.

The speaker urged the temperance workers to organize cadet societies for boys and girls and to instill into their minds while growing the great principle of temperance and the good that is desired thereform. Educate your boys to the cause of temperance and our coming clergymen will be with us.

He applied to the men to vote against license and to purify the ballot box from the whiskey element. Men and women are human, weak and frail in the time of temptation and the ballot in the hands of some women would be as dangerous as in the hands of some men. Yet, the speaker said, she realized if suffrage was granted to women it would be a great power against the saloon. She thought a woman has a greater power than the ballot: the power of home influence as it affects the purity, honesty and morality of our government, and the protection of her home and little ones.

The Catholic women should be earnest workers in the cause of temperance, for they have been the greatest sufferers from the result of strong drink.

Other speakers were Edward J. Slattery of Lowell, Mr. O'Sullivan, Joseph A. Sheahan and Patrick Lane of Boston, Mr. Barrett of Brookline, Mr. McIsaac of South Boston, Mr. Crowley of Cambridge, Hugh F. E. Farrell of Salem and Mr. Daly of Boston.

MR. ADAMS ACCEPTS.

The Correspondence Between Messrs. Bryant and Adams.

The following correspondence between Mr. Charles F. Adams, 2d, and Councilman Bryant is self-explanatory. Mr. Adams' nomination paper as an Independent Republican candidate was signed by many leading Republicans, including, Theophilus King, Joseph C. Morse, Edwin W. Marsh, Thomas A. Whitcher, William P. Barker, A. A. Lincoln, H. T. Whitman, N. G. Nickerson, Henry H. Faxon, James S. Whiting, Charles R. Sherman, Quincy A. Faunce, Israel Waterhouse, Herbert W. Pinkham, Frank W. White, Thomas Gurney, Charles L. Coe, Dr. W. G. Kendall, John Carver, B. F. Thomas, Henry M. Faxon, Edmund Turner, J. Franklin Faxon, Timothy Reed, A. F. Delano, E. S. Thomas, Dr. Homer Clarke, Walter J. Wellington, W. G. Corthell, Harry W. Reed, George H. Hitchcock, James F. Gay, William B. Glover, Cephas Drew, Horace B. Spear, A. M. Swallow, Horace F. Spear, Walter B. Holden, Charles A. Price and Edwin W. Baxter.

Mr. C. F. Adams, 2d, Quincy, Mass.

DEAR SIR: On behalf of many others I have the pleasure to inform you that agreeably to the consent that you gave to allow an Independent Republican movement to be made in your behalf, I have filed with the City Clerk nomination papers to this effect. It was very gratifying to find that in the short space of time allowed to get the necessary number of signatures to these papers such a large number of prominent and influential citizens of the Republican party so readily assented to signing your papers and pledging their support to you in the coming municipal campaign, the belief being that by your election we shall be placing in the Mayor's chair a man fully qualified in both business and executive ability to give the City of Quincy an administration based on thoroughly business principles which every good citizen so fully desires.

Yours truly,
C. M. BRYANT.

ADAMS BUILDING,
23 COURT ST. BOSTON,
November 28, 1895.

C. M. Bryant, Esq,

DEAR SIR: It is a great pleasure to be able to express to you as representing the Independent Republican movement, the gratification which it brings me to feel that the principles of municipal government for which I have stood in the past are such as to commend themselves to so many outside the party which I represent.

I fully appreciate that the importance of the work which the city must this year undertake makes the need of executive ability greater perhaps than ever before, but I face that responsibility unhampered by any promise, pledge or obligation to any man, and, if elected, it shall be my constant aim to justify the belief that I have no other motive or desire than to secure the best and most economical administration of municipal affairs without undue favor to any locality or class.

I shall not spare myself in the endeavor to successfully face the problems before the city, and shall execute what the council may direct with all the care and prudence of which I am capable, not unmindful of the principle that a mayor is the chief executive officer of the great corporation of which our citizens are the shareholders.

Yours truly,
C. F. ADAMS, 2ND.

Important to Voters.

Editor of the Daily Ledger:

All riders of wheels in this city should take a personal interest in and cast their votes tomorrow for the election of Mr. Rupert F. Claflin as Councilman-at-large.

It is of the utmost importance that Quincy bicyclists should have municipal representation; many questions will probably arise of vital importance to bicycle traffic.

Regarding taxation of bicycles, good roads and all questions of damage, these will require in the councilman, fearlessness, superior judgment, keen intellect and sterling principles, and what other man is there in the whole city, who is better fitted for this position than Mr. Claflin?

His character and abitity are too well known to speak of here.

It is hoped that every voter irrespective of party, careful for the welfare of their city, will unite in sending Mr. Claflin to the Council since his well-known qualities as a financier alone, will be of immeasurable value in the advising of city business.

WHEELMAN.

Clams at Wollaston.

Wollaston People have an opportunity now to establish a new industry, that is a clam industry. The Board of Health have been cleaning out the flats and swamp at the north of the Wollaston depot by digging a ditch through the swamp to drain it. Friday the water ran off leaving the mud and sand exposed, when there was exposed to the eye quantities of clams. The clams are a little darker than the ordinary clam and some of them measured 3x5 inches.

A surveyer's level was brought into use when it was found that the swamp was exactly the same level as the tide at Neponset, and it is therefore fair to presume that sometime the tide made up here.

—Those of our readers who have any apple trees that are troubled by the canker worms should at this time of the year use a little of Morrill's tree ink; it stops these worms from crawling up the trees and laying their eggs. It is for sale at the PATRIOT Office at 45 cents a can.

Through a Misunderstanding.

Editors of Daily Ledger.

Dear Sir: As there has been a circular distributed in Wards 5 and 6 endorsing certain candidates for councilman, and purporting to come from the "Wollaston Park and Norfolk Downs Improvement Associaton," we deem it our duty to say that such Association is defunct, and has not held a legal meeting for nine months. Also, through a misunderstanding, certain names of endorsers appear on said circular.

We, as residents of this place, do approve of and will support Eugene H. Sprague of Ward 5 for Councilman at Large.

A False Friend.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

In the LEDGER of last week it was stated that Mr. Hammond's candidacy appealed with much force to the workingmen. That statement seemed at the time peculiar and it was thought proper to look up Mr. Hammond on matters that affected in any way the laboring classes. It is found that Mr. Hammond is not recorded as voting for any important measure advocated by the workingmen, and in voting for some measures ignored entirely the representations made by them. His leaning toward corporations is best shown by act on the Bell Telephone bill and his subsequent ill-advised act in voting to pass this most objectionable measure over Governor Greenhalge's veto, in which he scathingly rebuked the Legislature for its action.

The measure allowing municipalities to manufacture gas and electricity did not meet with his favor as he voted against it, despite the fact that the most representative labor organization in Boston—the Boston Central Labor Union—stood as one of its foremost sponsors. And when the same organization, together with thousands of the people of Boston, petitioned for transfer checks by the West End street railway, Mr. Hammond thought little enough of their voice to vote against the measure that would benefit them more than anybody else.

And does Mr. Hammond think that by his refusal to allow the Subway bill to go before the people of Boston for final action, place him as a friend of labor, when he well knew that all interested in labor societies fought strenuously for the establishment of the principle of the referendum. Nothing deprecatory to Mr. Hammond is here intended, only to show that he has never by any act of his warranted the support of the laboring people. In fact all his votes are repugnant to this class of people, and he consequently has but little to hope for at their hands.

VOTER.

A Wrong Report.

QUINCY, Dec. 2, 1895.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

DEAR SIR: A report has been extensively circulated through this city that the Ancient Order of Hibernians are going to support one of the candidates for Mayor in a body. This report is false as the Ancient Order of Hibernians never allow politics discussed in their meetings. Whatever part the members take in politics outside of the meetings, I know nothing about. I do know that no man or body of men, has any thing to do about how they vote, and and as far as I am aware every member votes to suit himself; they have always done so, and they will do so now.

Hoping you will give this space in your valuable paper, I remain, etc.,

EDWARD POWERS,
President Division 5, A. O. H.

Lecturing Didn't Pay.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 2.—Senator David B. Hill's lecture tour in the northwest came to an abrupt end yesterday, when the senator returned to New York, with the reason assigned for this action that he had contracted a severe cold, making him adverse to further public speaking at present. It is claimed, however, the audiences which gathered to listen to him were so meager that the financial returns were insufficient to pay expenses. Senator Hill declined to be interviewed, and was evidently much disappointed with the reception he had met with while on this tour.

Not Yet Free.

TORONTO, Dec. 2.—The second trial of the brothers Harry and Dallas Hyams, for the murder of young Wells, the beneficiaries of whose life insurance policies, aggregating $30,000, the Hyams ultimately became, ended in a verdict of not guilty. When Justice Ferguson told the prisoners they were free, they started to leave the courtroom, but at the door were rearrested on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the insurance companies in the case of Martha Wells. The prisoners will, therefore, remain in jail until the matter is finally decided.

Pulitzer's Gift.

PARIS, Dec. 2.—The monumental bronze group, designed and constructed by Auguste Bartholdi, representing Washington and Lafayette, presented to the city of Paris by Joseph Pulitzer, was unveiled yesterday in the presence of a distinguished assemblage, including the surviving members of the Lafayette family. The municipality erected a handsome pedestal at the western end of Place des Etats Unis, which is in the midst of the most fashionable quarters of Paris.

Train Wreckers at Work.

SYRACUSE, Dec. 2.—A passenger train on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad ran into a blocked switch at Preble last night and telescoped three freight cars. The engine of the passenger train was completely wrecked and the baggage and mail cars and two coaches caught fire and were consumed. The engineer and fireman were killed. Somebody had tampered with the switch with the deliberate intention, evidently, of wrecking the train.

Ruthless Slaughter.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—An official report received at the treasury department states by actual count 28,000 seal pups died of starvation on the Pryblov islands last summer because their mothers had been killed at sea, and that fully 5000 more were starving on the islands. At this rate of loss the seals in the Behring sea will become extinct within the next three or four years at the furthest.

An Awful Mistake.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Dec. 2.—Willis Broughton of Darien was awakened yesterday morning by a noise in the dooryard, and seeing a person coming toward the house, took him for a burglar and struck him with the blade of an ax, inflicting fatal wounds. When a light was secured, Broughton was horrified to find that the supposed burglar was his hired man, William Lanning.

Alleged Firebug Captured.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Information was received at the detective bureau yesterday of the arrest in Boston of Max Blum, who is said to be one of the gang of firebugs to which Morris Schenholz, now a prisoner in Sing Sing under sentence of nearly 50 years, is alleged to have belonged.

Smallpox Aboard Ship.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Steamer California, from Naples and Gibraltar, is detained in quarantine, owing to one of her steerage passengers being sick with smallpox. The steamer will be disinfected and the passengers will be allowed to land.

British Finances.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Chronicle expects that the budget surplus will amount to £4,000,000. Half of this will be voted to the navy, £1,000,000 to the relief of husbandry and £1,000,000 to the endowment of voluntary schools.

Struck a Dike.

POMEROY, O., Dec. 2.—The towboat Advance struck the Sand Creek dike near Ravenswood yesterday and sank, together with 11 barges of coal. No lives lost.

Victim of Consumption.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The funeral of Cal McCarthy, who died of consumption, occurred yesterday. McCarthy was 26 years old.

Quincy Debating Club.

The following letter from the Rev. Mr. Butler of the Unitarian church is the first of several letters that will be published in the next few days relative to the Quincy Debating Club. The young men of Quincy realize that the Debating Club has come to stay, and that the comparatively small amount of time required will be most amply compensated by the knowledge gained of parliamentary law, of the "questions of the day," local as well as national and above all, by the practice in debate. And yet, on the part of many, there seems to be a holding off, a desire to do nothing but wait and see what others will do. It is hoped that these letters from some of Quincy's best known men, men who can speak with all the force that comes from practical experience, will do something to overcome this inertia.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

The writer of these lines passed the early years of his life in one of the interior districts of New York upon what was known as Christian hill. I do not think, the name characterized the people especially, although they were a religious and law-abiding community. They were however notable through the country side. And this for an institution peculiar to the neighborhood which I shall describe.

It was a quiet place, wholly agricultural in its character, apart from the great centres of life and routes of travel. But on the first Sunday of November for as many years as I can remember and the practice I doubt not is continued yet, notice was given from the pulpit of the Parish church the regular meetings of the Debating would be resumed.

The subject was announced from week to week. "At early candle light" the people assembled not only our grave elders but the young men and boys, all of them with the keenest interest for the contest of the evening. They meant business. The meeting was conducted, in strict parliamentary order and the utmost decorum prevailed. The debaters were chosen for a month in advance. No one was omitted. If a boy was old enough to come there, he was supposed to have ideas upon questions of the day and it was held to be of the utmost importance that he should learn to express them in simple and forcible English. The matter was not left to his option, it was compulsory, as much so as attendance at church or the day school.

The result was something remarkable. The reading and thinking of the community was carried on with an eye to its controversial use, and its effect upon the intellectual life of the place was much like that of Athens, where every citizen placed his own case in the Agora. When a young man had reached the age of twenty he had become a debater of no mean quality. His mind had been subjected to a course of training that enabled him to think clearly, logically and express himself with force and directness before any audience. The men of the neighborhood were in great demand as political speakers. In times of heated political canvass they went far and wide.

The nearest place of any size was Cooperstown, a perfect hot bed of political ferment in those days and some of the ablest speakers of the country came there. It was a recognized fact that none but the ablest would be listened to. But if as frequently happened, the political managers were disappointed they started a messenger with a carriage post haste with the order "you go to Christian hill and capture the first man you meet," and the chances were that he would satisfactorily meet the requirements.

There were more professional men of marked ability who came from that little town than any other of equal population I have ever known. Men who in after life ran fast and far in the race for honor and success. Great lawyers, judges of the supreme court, eminent divines. It was a common saying in that part of the country "beware of the man from Christian Hill, he is dangerous." So he was. But it was owing to the development of his powers acquired in that old red schoolhouse. If he was master of himself, strong, shrewd, a hard hitter, quick to seize advantage, with a mental grip of a subject like an iron vise, it was nothing more than he had gained, it came from his nightly battles with his fellows in the old Eddy school house on the wind swept summit of Christian hill. What a Debating society did for that place it will do for any other.

E. C. BUTLER.

That Thanksgiving Game.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

In reading your Saturday evening edition my attention was called to an article on the football game at the Point Thanksgiving day. I would say in regard to the decision in dispute that the umpire, not seeing the play, made a compromise which was fair for both sides. He allowed the "Pointers" the ball but called it the second down with five yards to gain. As for Captain Flynn being blocked by the crowd I would say that the only crowd that blocked him were the ends and backs of the Point team, he being downed in his tracks before gaining a yard.

DOWN WITH BOSSISM.

Thoughtful, Responsible Residents Will Vote for C. F. Adams.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Tomorrow there will be brought to a close the bitterest political fight that has ever been waged in this city. Bitter, not because it was a fight between rival political parties, but because it was an intestine fight, and such eruptions in a party are always to be deplored, as they rankle the longest and deepest. The trouble is regretted by all Republicans.

If the party at its municipal convention had chosen as its standard bearer such a man of the capacity for administration as Theophilus King, Joseph C. Morse or John F. Merrill, (these names are used because they were not candidates for the office,) the managers of the party would not now be running about acting as apologists and conducting a defensive campaign. Such men would stand upon their records as solid businessmen; men whose minds would be restlessly suggestive of steps to be taken in aid of the prosperity of Quincy, and for improvement in the faculties for her business and the general welfare of her people.

That a previous mistake has been made is now self evident.

The gentleman who has received the Republican nomination has never given the slightest sign of any statesmanship except in the manipulation of party caucuses. By managing these he has in spite of all opposition inside of the party, made the regular party organization his servant, and its caucuses and the convention were mouth-pieces of his will. When we consider that such men stand for none of the higher aims of political life on either side; that they appeal to none of the nobler aspirations of the citizen; that on the contrary, they never hesitate to sacrifice the public interest or the pledges of their parties to the success of their selfish machinations; that the methods they rely upon are systematically addressed to motives of greed; and that they make sport of all political morals, then government has surely reached a low mark. It is time that all good citizens should open their eyes to the progress which this development in our city politics has already made.

The problem this presented is difficult of complete solution.

In the first place to rid a party of a boss, were opposition inside the party, is never sufficient. The well-deciplined forces of the boss will almost always defeat the opposites in the causes; and if these the outwitted or outmanoeuvered opposition meekly accepts the result, and vote the boss's ticket for fear of "hurting the party," bossism will be as secure as if no opposition existed. The secession of public spirited men from the Republican party in this city, defeat of the party, again and again if necessary, until bossism disappears from it by action outside of the party, is the only opposition policy that will produce any practical effect. Whoever abhors bossism must not be afraid of independence.

That high-minded, and public spirited citizens, like the leaders of the Republican party in Quincy, have bolted the nomination is not surprising. While we fully appreciate the scruples of those Republican who stick to the party nominee, we cannot disregard the fact that we are now gradually moving towards that ideal which was seriously discussed when Quincy first became a city,—a citizen ticket, and a non-partisan city government. The defeat of the Republican nominee will powerfully aid that onward movement.

The question which the citizens of Quincy have to ask themselves, in view of the approaching election, is in what way they can cast their votes so as to have a business administration of public affairs. We believe that the thoughtful responsible residents of this city, without respect to party, who wish for good government, will cast their votes for the citizen candidate, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, 2nd.

Schuyler Monument.

By a decision of the court of appeals at Albany, N. Y., last week, Justice Peckham writing the opinion, it has been definitely determined that if any society wants to perpetuate the memory of a person who is dead by erecting a monument appropriately inscribed to him, it may be done, regardless of the wishes of the surviving relatives of the deceased person. This decision was made in a case that was, it is said, unique on the court calendars of the State.

The statue over which the contest arose was one of Mrs. M. M. H. Schuyler, selected as the typical philanthropist by the Women's Memorial Fund Asso. The living relations of Mrs. Schuyler, seven in number, including Dr. A. M. Hamilton, after a consultation, sent a formal request that the project be abandoned. In reply, the association declined to stop its work. The relatives brought suit to restrain the organization from proceeding.

Justice Peckham handed down the decision of the court of appeals (Justice Gray dissenting,) in which he said that We cannot say that we are in the least impressed" with the plaintiff's objections. The fact that the members of the society were not personal friends of the lady to be honored is a matter of no consequence. "Whatever right of privacy Mrs. Schuyler had, died with her. Death deprives us all of rights in the legal sense of that term." Moreover, it was not proved by testimony that the erecting of a monument to perpetuate her memory would have been distasteful to the lady. Further than that the family did not show that any right of their own had been violated.

The complaint was dismissed and the costs must be born by the family.

WILL GO TO COURT.

Believed to Be In Charge of a Mrs. Saunders.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 2.—William Pride of Farmington, N. H., who called at the Lynn police station, Saturday, seeking assistance in obtaining the custody of his 2-year-old child, has returned home without accomplishing the purpose of his visit. It is his intention to return to Lynn soon, however, and begin proceedings by which to gain possession of his child.

Saturday evening Judge Berry advised Mr. Pride to visit the house at 21 Beckford court and take the child if he found it there, and if he was unable to secure it, to apply to the probate court for an order compelling Mrs. H. F. Saunders, who is believed to have the child in her keeping at present, to produce it in court, and show cause why she should retain it in her custody.

Had Probably Gone West,

as she had previously intimated her intention of doing. She once resided in the west. She certainly is not at her home in Lynn and is not believed to have remained at her brother's home in Boston, after having been discovered there by the child's father three weeks ago. She has declared that she will not surrender the child.

The contest for the recovery of the child is, therefore, likely to develop many interesting features. Mrs. Saunders is well known in Lynn, and the publication of the story created much surprise among her acquaintances.

LEADERSHIP OF HOUSE

Figuring on Positions For Men From Maine.

First Day In Congress Characterized by Routine Work Only.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — The guessing season is at its height. The speaker will soon begin to unfold those mysteries of committee leadership that from the start have been so deeply and so successfully veiled.

Mr. Reed insists that he has as yet made no slate, and the silence concerning facts which abides besides the ocean of conjecture and opinion tends to support his statement.

The question of house leadership as determined by priority in the ways and means committee has led to curious conjectures. From the earliest discussion, Payne of New York has been generally regarded as the coming man, with an occasional pointing toward Dingley or Dalzell.

From absolutely authentic inside sources it was known that Payne would be the man, and from information, the correctness of which could never be questioned, it was certain that Dingley was the winner's name.

In this choice is involved a much larger question than any personal preferences of personal judgment of the speaker. From every consideration of political expediency, Payne, as compared with Dingley, would clearly be the man; but from pure intellectual fitness and statesmanlike grasp of the questions involved, Dingley would be preferred. For the speaker to select him, however, would be to ride rough-shod over what the wise-heads call "political considerations."

Payne's selection would please New York state and its delegations in congress and in national convention. Platt has already said it should be so, while from poor little Maine, which will in any event give every atom of its support to its favorite son, there is nothing to be gained by the recognition of Dingley. Payne expects the place and has come to Washington prepared to assume its duties.

It is usually recognized, on the other hand, that there are few, if any, keener and abler men in the house than Nelson Dingley, Jr. His health is poor and his voice weak, but his intellectual attainments and comprehensive knowledge of revenue problems are undoubtedly superior to any other possible selection.

But how is it going to look for Maine's four representatives to have the speakership, the leadership of the floor, and the chairmanship of two other important committees? That Boutelle and Milliken will be so remembered seems almost certain.

To predict either Dingley or Payne as the coming man means in one case that the speaker disregards the ordinary arguments of expediency and selects a man for his intrinsic worth solely, and in the other that he does rather the natural thing, and from certain points of view, the proper thing. Politics would say Payne. He would be, moreover, a good man for the post—strong, aggressive and of good presence.

Judge Powers of Vermont is again at the Riggs House. He expects a new place on the committees and not a promotion in the one with which he has formerly served. The guessing still goes on.

The Opening of Congress.

The house of representatives passed yesterday into the control of the Republicans, and Thomas Brackett Reed of Maine again triumphantly assumed the speaker's gavel.

The opening session was, as is usual, an animated and brilliant occasion, set off with crowded galleries in holiday attire, intoxicating with the perfume of hundreds of floral tributes to popular members, and pervaded with a spirit of jubilation and good nature. Old familiar faces were absent, but there were plenty of new ones to take their places.

Still, the proceedings themselves, as usual with the opening sessions, were of routine character and devoid of any sensational features. The house simply organized, adopted the usual resolutions to notify the president and the senate that the house was ready for business, and wound up by indulging in the biennial lottery or seat-drawing contest.

Speaker Reed was, beyond question, the star of the occasion. His appearance was the signal for a most flattering and enthusiastic demonstration. His inaugural was modest and full of good feeling, but non-committal as to policies. However, it was not expected that he would touch the questions to be dealt with in the house.

Ex-Speaker Crisp assumed the leadership of the minority, and it was significant that Mr. Payne of New York made the motion which usually devolves upon the leader of the majority. This is taken to mean that he is to be chairman of the ways and means committee and the recognized leader of the Republicans on the floor.

Representative Linton of Michigan has the distinction of having introduced the first bill in the house of the Fifty-fourth congress. It is in the interest of the railway postal clerks. Another bill of the postal employes was introduced by Aldrich of Illinois. Mr. Aldrich also introduced a bill making ineligible as receiver of a corporation engaged in interstate commerce any persons who have been officers or employes of said corporation at any time during the three years preceding.

Nothing happened in the senate that had not been anticipated. The body was called to order by Vice President Stevenson. The new senators and those who had been re-elected were sworn in. A committee was appointed to notify the president, and the usual resolutions, incident to the beginning of a session, were introduced. The senate took a recess of an hour at 12:28 p. m., and at 1:30 adjourned, after an absolutely uneventful session.

The Republican Caucus.

Mr. Sherman was elected chairman of the Republican caucus yesterday afternoon and Mr. Dubois secretary. The discussion was informal and centered around the question whether the Republican senators, having a plurality but not a majority of the senate, should attempt a reorganization with Republican officers and Republican chairman of committees.

It was evident that the prevailing sentiment favored Republican organization, and some strong speeches were made, notably by Mr. Davis of Minnesota and Aldrich of Rhode Island, urging that there should be no combination or compromise with any element outside the Republican ranks. This appeared to voice the general view of senators, and no opposition speeches were made.

The question rose, however, as to whether the test of strength should be made on securing the committees or on the choice of a president pro tem. In order to present this issue, Mr. Hoar moved the appointment of a committee on committees to have general charge of a move to secure committee reorganization on Republican lines. Mr. Hale offered an amendment for a test on the choice of president pro tempore.

In the informal discussion following, Mr. Frye's name was mentioned as the probable candidate for president pro tempore. Some senators raised the point, however, that the president pro tem could not be elected while the presiding officer was present and acting under the senate rules.

It was finally decided that no vote should be taken at present, and Messrs. Hoar and Hale withdrew their motions. The understanding was that a definite line of action would be agreed on at the meeting Wednesday, following the session of that day.

To Take What's Left.

The Democrats of the house consumed more than three hours yesterday afternoon voting for nominees to fill the few house offices which the majority allots to the minority. Colonel Isaac Hill of Ohio, who has held the position of deputy sergeant-at-arms in every Democratic house since the war and of Democratic whip in the two Republican houses since 1875, was chosen caucus officer. His opponent was Henry Mohler of Illinois, who was defeated by a vote of 51 to 43.

There was a bitter wrangle over the two messengerships which fall to the Democrats, and the successful candidates were Thomas Coakley, a New York Tammany worker and a protege of Amos Cummings, and George L. Browning of Virginia, both of whom were attached to the last congress. Mr. Mohler was one of the unsuccessful candidates for this office. For page, James English of California was selected.

Populists in the senate called a caucus of silver men yesterday before the session began, which was not fully attended. A regular silver caucus will have to be called by recognized leaders, such as Teller or Dubois, to mean business. The purpose of meeting was in relation to the reorganization of the senate.

Millers' Wants.

The members of the Pennsylvania delegation in congress have received a circular letter from the Pennsylvania Millers' State association, the outcome of resolutions adopted at the annual meeting of the association held in Philadelphia in September to make an appeal for legislation that will broaden markets for American flour.

The letter says the flour mills of this country have ample capacity to grind into flour every bushel of wheat produced here, and that the statistics of our exports for the last fiscal year show that the equivalent of nearly 20,000,000 barrels of flour went out of this country in the shape of whole grain, to be ground in foreign mills, and most of the product sold in competitive markets against American flour.

It is pointed out that the milling industry of this county is the greatest in the United States in point of capital invested and in value of product. The letter continues: "We are confronted with the facts that Belgium, France and Germany levy duties which discriminate against our flour and in favor of the whole grain, and we believe that the millers of Pennsylvania should not submit passively to such a state of affairs while their mills are half the time idle.

"We therefore appeal to you as representatives of a commonwealth which contains nearly as many mills as any other two states combined, and urge you to give your support to a measure which will be calculated to relieve the embargo against our productions."

Threatened With Starvation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Rev. O. H. Dwight, missionary of the American board at Constantinople, yesterday cabled from Philippopolis, Turkey, to The Christian Herald, New York: "Remit funds telegraphically. Harpoot missionaries telegraph starvation imminent." This message from Dr. Dwight has a peculiar significance, as it discloses the fact that the missionaries at Harpoot (whose mission buildings were totally destroyed during the recent massacre there) are themselves suffering the pangs of hunger and cold. The Christian Herald has agreed to forward to the missionaries by cable, free of expense, all sums contributed for the relief of the sufferers in Armenia.

College Cyclists to Combine.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Steps have been taken by the leading colleges to form an intercollegiate cycling association, abolish the two-mile bicycle race at the annual games of the Intercollegiate Athletic association, and instead hold a purely collegiate bicycle meet each spring. The prime object of the movement is to do away with unfair and dangerous trials, and to arrange such a program as will embrace all classes of riders among the college cyclists.

Treasury Figures.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — The monthly treasury statement of receipts and expenditures shows receipts for the month of November to have been $25,986,503; disbursements, $27,199,283, leaving a deficit for November of $1,212,780, and for the five months of this fiscal year $15,869,327. The increase in the receipts for the last month, as compared with November, 1894, was $6,575,100, and of the last five months over 1894, $3,755,796.

LANGERMAN SET FREE.

Had Been Convicted of Criminal Assault Upon Barbara Aub.

The Girl Admits That She Committed Perjury.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Miss Barbara Aub has confessed to having perjured herself in her testimony against Walter S. Langerman, the law clerk who on Tuesday last was convicted of having criminally assaulted her. Langerman was released yesterday, and Miss Aub further confessed that her relations with Langerman were voluntary and that his story of the alleged assault was true.

Langerman was to have been sentenced on Friday. He was brought into court, but, to the surprised of all concerned, he was remanded until yesterday. The surmise was that Recorder Goff was anxious to learn more of the law clerk's past, in order to gauge the sentence to be imposed upon him.

It was 11 o'clock yesterday when the young man, haggard of face, was led across the Tombs to part II of general sessions in the Criminal Courts building to receive his sentence. Colonel Haire, Langerman's counsel, moved for a new trial. District Attorney Fellows asked that the motion be denied. Denied it was, and then the recorder began, as everybody thought, to pass sentence upon Langerman, who stood trembling at the bar.

The recorder, however, had not proceeded far when it was evident that something very sensational was about to be disclosed. The recorder began by giving Langerman a terrible excoriation, describing him as a man of evil reputation. Suddenly the recorder said that after the verdict was found by the jury, he, himself, had made a personal investigation of the case, and then he made known the astounding fact that Barbara Aub had made a confession to him exonerating Langerman and saying she had done him a great wrong. She admitted that her relations with him had been voluntary.

Indictment Dismissed.

The recorder made a very detailed address, occupying nearly an hour. He wound up by dismissing the indictment against Langerman, but committed him to the house of detention as a witness, presumably in any proceedings that may be taken against Miss Aub.

Immediately after Langerman had been committed, Miss Aub was brought into court and arraigned before the recorder on a charge of perjury. The recorder told Miss Aub he was sorry for her, but that she had done more harm to justice in general than she had to Langerman personally.

"In days coming," he said, "when men are convicted on apparently good evidence, lawyers will point to the Aub case as a precedent. The recorder then committed Miss Aub to the city prison."

Instead of being taken to the house of detention, Langerman was released, as friends appeared and qualified as his bondsmen.

District Attorney Fellows refused positively to allow Miss Aub's confession to be seen. The recorder, in the afternoon, sent for the document and kept it in his own custody. It was stated that no one but the recorder, the district attorney and one other man knew just what the confession contained, or what first prompted Barbara to make it.

It is known that in one particular, at least, Barbara swore falsely during the trial. She testified while being cross-examined by Attorney Haire for the defense that she was not expelled from the convent at Flushing, L. I. Colonel Haire tried hard to get her to admit that she had been caught stealing from her schoolmates, and had been expelled for that reason. She denied this, saying that she had been accused of stealing, but that she had been exonerated.

No one in the district attorney's office will talk of the case, but there is a belief that the extremely influential and wealthy friends and relatives of Langerman have exerted themselve to secure the confession made by Barbara, and that the recorder is having the whole matter most thoroughly investigated.

Equivalent to Dismissal.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Baron von Koeller, Prussian minister of the interior, has been granted an indefinite leave of absence, and will undoubtedly be dismissed. Herr Trott Zusolz, councillor of state and framer of last year's anti-revolutionary bill, which failed to pass the reichstag, in spite of strenuous efforts in its behalf by the government, is designated as his successor. Emperor William is said to have been displeased with Von Koeller's recent maladroit prosecutions of Socialists for lese majeste. This action toward Baron von Koeller gives confirmation to rumors of a cabinet crisis, which have been current for some time past.

Must Keep Out.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Admiral Selfridge has notified the navy department of the refusal of the porte to permit one of the United States cruisers to enter the Bosphorus. Such permits have been issued in rare instances in the past, when affairs in Turkey were quiet, but the powers party to the treaty of Berlin alone enjoy the right of entrance to these waters, and they are limited to one ship each.

Double Lynching In Prospect.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 3.—Eight miles from Fayetteville, the scene of the double lynching last week, two negroes yesterday assaulted a white girl, aged 14, knocking her down with a stick and breaking three of her ribs. They failed in their purpose. The entire town is aroused. Pursuers with bloodhounds are tracking the negroes, and if caught they will most certainly be lynched.

Printing Office Gutted.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3.—The two upper stories of the Hogan Printing company's extensive establishment were gutted by fire yesterday, involving a loss of about $40,000. Private Watchman Neuman is missing and eight men were considerably injured.

Best Of All For Christmas.

Christmas wouldn't mean anything to one-half the world if this delightful custom of surprising your friends with gifts and tokens of friendship were not in existence. It is always a source of anxiety to many to know just what to give their friends, but most thoughtful givers consider first what will add most to the happiness, and give most enjoyment and comfort to those they wish to favor.

What's better than a luxurious Couch or Morris Chair, a Fancy Rocker, Banquet or Piano Lamp, Dinner Set, Tea Table, Writing Desk, Music Stand, Jardiniere or Picture. Even a Parlor or Chamber Set to some homes would be a most acceptable gift, and it will be a great pleasure for us to quote you prices worthy of consideration on any of these goods.

AMONG OTHER improvements which the Consolidated Road has made about the Wollaston station is the placing of nine post lights. The effect gives the place quite a citified air. Passengers on the trains are now asking whether Wollaston is the centre of Quincy or Quincy the centre of Wollaston. Wollaston with its broad plaza in front of the station, bordered with stores with plate glass windows and tasty displays of goods, has a decidedly thrifty and business-like aspect.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

A grand election day.

Musical Society concert tonight.

New goods every day at Miss Hubbard's.

Rural lodge will install officers Thursday evening.

The President's Message will appear in full in the election extras tonight.

Miss Emma F. Kimball left Monday for South Hanover where she will teach a mixed school.

The West Quincy Epworth League will hold an oyster supper and entertainment Wednesday evening.

Advertised letters at Wollaston: Miss Rosa F. Geogan, Miss Gertrude Leonard, Miss Maggie Nolan.

Charles H. Johnson offers the Wood estate on School street and other property in the vicinity for sale.

Chairman Orcutt of the Democratic City Committee figures that Adams will be elected by not less than 200 majority.

The Wollaston A. P. A.'s are cutting Chas. M. Bryant and concentrating their strength upon Edward J. Cummings.

The election extras of the LEDGER tonight will be of four pages and will contain the President's Message to Congress in full.

The pupils of the D Grammar Quincy School, Atlantic, voted for Mayor at the schoolhouse this morning. Result was: Hammond, 23; Adams, 16.

J. H. Vogel is not out of business as might be inferred from a recent report. His derrick has been repaired and set up again and some work is being done.

Invitations have been issued for the second annual private masquerade of the Ladies' Social club, to be given at Faxon hall Christmas night. It was an enjoyable success last year.

Another communication on the foot ball game between the Dublins and Quincy Points has been received but the LEDGER has given both sides a hearing and must drop the matter.

Francis A. Veazie a Quincy boy who has been in San Francisco for several years, returned to his native place Monday and will pass the winter here. He looks as though the west agreed with him.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of Atlantic will hold a sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. Chas L. Coe, Billings street on Wednesday afternoon. All members and ladies interested in their good work are earnestly requested to attend.

The Electric Light and Power Co. have ordered a new 3,000 light Westinghouse alternator which was made necessary by the increased demand for lights. They are also to run a new heavy feed wire from the Centre to the Tubular rivet works.

Mrs. Adelaide C. Armstrong of Wollaston is holding another exhibition and sale of art embroidery at her residence on Newport avenue, which far exceeds in beauty and design the very successful sale given by her last year. Mrs. Armstrong has shown a great deal of artistic skill in the shading and coloring of the many beautiful designs which she has worked. Mr. Patterson very tastefully decorated the house with ferns and potted plants. Miss Polson of Wollaston and Miss McKenney of Cambridge poured the chocolate.

IT WILL BE CLOSE.

Hammond Men Confident But Have No Figures to Give Out.

Adams Men Looking to Wards One, Five and Six for Success.

A Large Democratic Gain in the City Council is Expected Next Year.

Yes, it looks close, although it may not be when the votes are counted tonight. Not only is the city regarded close but each and every ward. Both Adams and Hammond men claim Ward One, but it looks to the LEDGER as if Mr. Adams might pull it out. In Ward Two it is more favorable to Mr. Hammond by 25 to 75 majority. Unless the love feast in Ward Three appealed to many last night, Mr. Hammond will carry Ward Three, but a prominent Republican did not regard it sure. Ward Four is an uncertain quantity. It has been a still hunt there and no figures are given out. Some say a tremendous majority for Mr. Hammond and it would not be surprising. There is much doubt as to how Wollaston will go, but Atlantic will probably be with Adams.

Mr. Adams must secure large majorities in Wards One, Five and Six to be elected. If Mr. Hammond carries either of these he will probably be the next Mayor of Quincy, and he may win without them.

The 1 o,clock Vote.

The vote today at 1 o'clock was as follows:

Ward One,	468
Ward Two,	350
Ward Three, Precinct 1,	331
Ward Three, Precinct 2,	281
Ward Four, Precinct 1,	308
Ward Four, Precinct 2,	281
Ward Five,	350
Ward Six,	264
Total vote,	2,633

Ward One.

In the Centre ward the vote in the early morning was largely in excess of last year, being 73 at seven o'clock against 40 in 1894, and 165 at eight o'clock against 141 last year. Many who get off to Boston on the first train were brought to the polls in carriages this morning, and perhaps accounts for the gain.

Two new officers are on duty today, Arthur W. Ryder and Thomas B. Davenport, but they are bright young men, and as Messrs. Packard, Rogers, Dunn and Coyle have the experience, the result will probably be announced before five o'clock tonight. Look out for the LEDGER extras. Several editions may be issued.

In this the ward officers realizing the impatience of the voters to know the result, are trying a new scheme. At 1 o'clock all the votes were taken out and the head of the ticket counted, Then as fast as fifty votes have been cast they are taken out and the head of the ticket counted, so that it will be known how Ward One has gone for Mayor a few minutes past 4 o'clock. The vote at 2 o'clock in this ward was 520.

Ward Two.

At Quincy Point the teams were also out before the polls opened, and voters enough to fill four carriages voted in time to catch the 6.11 train to Boston.

This ward like the other wards of the city is getting out a large vote and from the present indications the larger part of the voting was during the morning hours. As to who will receive the majority for Mayor is an open question both sides claiming it.

The Republican estimate is 40 for Hammond while the Democrats claim the ward by 75 for Adams. The latter estimate, however, is all out of proportion and is not believed by any one who has made a study of the situation.

At 11 o'clock the Republican tellers figured it out that at that hour Hammond had a majority of 20 and that but 75 more remained whom they counted as Republicans who had not voted.

At noon 475 votes had been cast, which is largely in excess of the State election for the same hour.

The election officers on duty are, Albert Keating, M. T. Sullivan, John S. Gay, James H. Webb, John H. Griffin, W. H. Sampson, Jr.; police officers, Murray and Sandberg.

Ward Three.

If there is any voter in Ward Three who does not vote today it will not be the fault of the several committees. They were on hand bright and early this morning with plenty of carriages, so that there can be no excuse for a man not voting.

If there was a ward in the city of which the Democrats were more afraid than another, it was this ward, and during the past few days they have put in lots of work.

Notwithstanding all their work it is generally admitted that Hammond will get a majority which is variously estimated from 50 to 75, and everything points to an unusually large vote.

Edward Lennon the Citizens' candidate for Councilman feels jubilant this morning, and while he does not say that he will be elected, he does say he will give some of them the rub, and if defeated this year he will be after their scalp again in 1896.

In Precinct 1, 140 votes had been cast at 8.30 which is about the same as the recent State election.

The officers on duty are: Dennis Ford, James Copland, George D. Cahill, William Dickey, Frank Mitchell, W. H. Sullivan; police officers, Cameron and Newcomb.

In Precinct 2, 105 votes had been cast at 8.30 which is slightly in excess of the State election.

Ward Four.

The result of today's election in Ward Four, the home of Candidate Hammond will be watched with interest. This ward is the Democratic stronghold, and therefore much will depend on how it goes. This ward has been generally conceded to Mr. Hammond and the Democrats realizing this have been working hard to sustain its reputation as a Democratic stronghold, and to further these ends a story was widely circulated Monday that Mr. Hammond was an A. P. A. The more sober-minded voter, however, will take but little stock in a story of this kind started for political purposes, and Mr. Hammond's friends predict that he will carry the ward by 50. A large vote is being cast and especially so in precinct 2, the Republican precinct, where 25 votes were cast during the first 10 minutes after the polls were opened. Up to noon the vote was in excess of the State election.

Precinct 1 may go Democratic but the majority if any will be small.

In Precinct 2 Nathan Ames, Thomas Dumphy, A. E. Baxter, W. D. Burns, W. H. Teasdale, Mathew Lyons; police officers Shackley and Gordon.

Ward Five.

Warden Sherman is always punctual. At precisely six o'clock the polls were opened for the most exciting political fight ever held in this ward. If Wollaston goes Democratic for Mayor it will be unprecedented as it generally gives the Republican nominee from 140 to 175 plurality. In a closely contested fight such lifts count. Last year Wollaston gave Moxon 285 and Hodges 110. This year the Democratic ward committee estimates that Adams will receive about 270 and Hammond about 170 votes. This estimate although it is based upon a careful canvass, hardly seems possible in view of the comparatively large majority the Republicans have heretofore rolled up, in this ward. The more conservative ones figure that the vote will be about equally divided, each Mayoralty candidate receiving in the vicinity of 200.

The Republican ward committee has made no estimate of the result.

The Republican nominees for the Council will receive the solid party support and the Democratic nominee will poll the full party strength.

Ward Six

Atlantic will go for Adams today, but will otherwise give majorities for the Republican candidates. The vote was heavy in the early morning as usual and the total will not probably reach 325.

The vote by hours was: At 7, 92; at 9.30, 192; at 10, 197; at 11, 2.10; at 12, 221; at 1, 264.

One excited individual cast a blank ballot before he was aware of it in this ward.

The officers on duty were Edmund Pope, Cephas Drew, David Nelson, James Martin, Elijah G. Hall and Joshua E. Drew; police, A. H. Maxwell and H. O. Dawson.

Watch for the several editions of the DAILY LEDGER this evening.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

A Shoemaker Caught in a Levelling Machine While Making Repairs.

Alexander LeFevre, a shoemaker employed at T. A. Whicher & Co.'s manufactory, met with a shocking accident Monday night shortly after 5 o'clock.

LeFevre runs a levelling machine, and as it was not working properly, he undertook to fix it but neglected to throw off the belt. He placed his head into the machine, and was at work upon it when his foot hit the starting lever, and in an instant the machine was in motion.

The lever came down and caught LeFevre's head in the machinery. It tore the scalp on the right side near the base of the skull, and almost tore the right ear off.

Physicians were quickly summoned, and Drs. Garey, McLennan, Davis and Sheahan were soon on hand. It was thought best to remove him to the hospital, but his family objected, and he was removed to his home across the street.

Here an examination showed that the skull was not fractured, as first supposed, but his shoulder-blade and collar-bone were dislocated. It is not thought his injuries will be fatal.

The Harp Recital.

At the literary and harp recital at Atlantic, Monday evening, Mrs. Addie Chase Smith, elocutionist, and Miss Annie Frank Libby, harpist, delighted a very large audience.

Mrs. Smith is certainly a reader of remarkable worth. Her recitations of last night were rendered in such a manner that they called commendations from all who heard her. Her powers of articulation, and the impersonations of the different characters portrayed in her selections, together with her realistic conversational dialects, showed her to be a reader of a very high and intensely interesting order.

Miss Libby in her several beautifully rendered selections on the harp established the idea among all her listeners that she was well worthy of great praise. The manner in which she moved her skilful fingers over the strings combined with the effect and vibrations of her harmonious tones was almost like magic. If anyone can make an instrument fairly talk Miss Libby certainly has that power.

Quincy Debating Society.

To the Editors of the Ledger:

I am very much pleased with the establishment in Quincy of a debating society in which young men can learn the way to express themselves on their feet. A thing which is most difficult for people to do. The readiness in debate, the quick wit which turns the charge against the interruption can only be acquired by practice. To obtain practice the debating society furnishes the only opportunity.

Live topics debated in fair manly way, with a desire to get at the facts will prove to be a mine of information not only to those who take part, but to those who listen. Wishing the society all success.

Very Truly Yours.

Merry Mount Lodge.

The Good Templars' social on Thanksgiving evening was a success. The members were very much pleased to greet so many visitors, and it is hoped that many may avail themselves of the opportunity of joining the grand and noble order.

The following programme was most enthusiastically encored. Remarks by Charles Hobart; comic song, entitled "An Irish Genteel Man;" encore song, "Called Me Back Again," by Frank E. Lawrance; musical selections, violin and piano, Messrs. A. Metcalf and J. Lawler; mimicry by R. B. Leach; piano solo by Mrs. Grace Lawton; remarks and recitation by G. N. Alexander; banjo solo by W. Gragg; closed by singing "America." The piano solo by Mrs. Lawton was especially worthy of mention, as it was her own composition and heartily enjoyed.

METROPOLITAN NOW.

A Bare Majority of the City Council So Decides.

Into the Big Water System We Go on City Solicitor's Opinion.

The Water Commissioners Also Report on Extensions.

The most important meeting of the City Council of Quincy was held Monday evening, when it was voted by a bare majority (12 of the 23 members) to enter the Metropolitan Water system. It was decided on an unlooked for opinion of City Solicitor, overruling the President, to the effect that a majority rather than two-thirds was all that was necessary. The basis of the opinion is given in the report which follows. There were also other water matters and city business of interest.

The only absentees were Councilman Lamb and Rinn.

Water Extensions.

By request the board of Water Commissioners reported on the balance for extension of mains, applications for water, etc. They said:

"The amount of money on hand for the extension of water mains and erection of a stand pipe on Forbes' hill, Wollaston, is $16,148.26. Pending the question of entering the Metropolitan water supply system your board has deemed it unwise to erect a stand pipe on Forbes' hill, for which, including the approaches, $20,000 of the appropriation was asked. Your board purchased about $3000 worth of pipe for approaches and other material necessary to lay the same, the balance of the appropriation has been reserved for the erection of the stand pipe and laying the pipe for the approaches, when it becomes wise and expedient so to do."

Accompanying the report was a summary of extensions asked with number of feet and size necessary, the cost, and the estimated income. Below is given only the feet and income:

The summary of the above was as follows: Length in feet, 23,325; size of pipe, 4 to 8; cost, $21,046 25; estimated income, $1,129 00. The report was laid on table.

Minor Matters.

The election officers appointed to fill vacancies were confirmed.

One application for a license was received.

One application for State aid was granted.

The Committee on Police reported reference to the executive department with their endorsement, the petition from Squantum for night police. Accepted.

Voted that when the Council adjourn it be to Tuesday evening, Dec. 10.

The committee on elections was instructed to meet Tuesday evening, Dec. 3, to receive the election returns.

Councilman Johnson asked for the report of the Committee on Public Grounds on the petition for a public landing in Ward Two. The committee had done nothing. They were requested to report at the next meeting.

The several orders in the calendar for transfers of appropriations were advanced a stage.

Brook Street Hearing.

A 8 o'clock a public hearing was held on the extension of Brook street at Wollaston under the railroad.

George F. Pinkham appeared in favor of the order. He explained the situation of the street and said that the extension under the tracks would avoid the Beale street hill, and make it easier for heavy teaming. There was now only one passage from Adams street to Squantum street and this extension would make another. As the railroad was making some changes near the depot, now was the time to extend this street.

The hearing then closed and the order was recommitted to the Committee on Streets.

An Amendment.

Councilman Sprague moved to refer back to orders and then offered an order changing the ordinance relating to the pay of district engineers so as to read $100 each per year. To joint Committee of Finance and Ordinances.

President Overruled.

Councilman Bryant asked if the City Solicitor had prepared his opinion on the question as to whether a majority or two-thirds vote was necessary to pass the water resolution.

City Solicitor Blackmur said he had his opinion ready but it was not all in writing, he would give it if requested but wanted an opportunity to rewrite it before it was placed on file.

It was the request of the Council that the opinion be given, and it was in substance as follows:

In the act providing for the Metropolitan Water Supply he found no direct provisions as to how cities and towns should avail themselves of that privilege except as provided for in section 23. It is contended as the resolution entails an expenditure of money a two-thirds' vote was necessary. He then quoted at length from the statutes and Metropolitan Water Act. He had conferred with City Solicitor Bailey and others of Boston upon the questions which he summed up as follows:

The steps which the acts require is an application by the city. The fixing by the board of the sum which the city must pay, and then the payment. If the money is paid out of the receipts of water sold or the deficit raised by taxation and put in the annual budget, it would require only a majority under the rule laid down in Smith against Dedham. But later if the assessment is paid by borrowing the money, that method of payment must be by a two-thirds' vote of the Council.

Councilman Geary did not feel like going on record on that resolution at this meeting and thought it should go back to a joint committee.

Councilman Phillips said if there was ever a question that ought to be referred to the people, this was the question.

Councilman Pinkham thought Council should not be afraid to pass the order after the opinion of the City Solicitor.

Councilman Geary moved the resolutions be referred to the joint Committee of Finance and Water Supply.

The motion was lost by a vote of 14 to 7.

Councilman Bigelow was ready to vote against the resolution with both hands. It was establishing a precedent which Council would rue before they got through with it.

Councilman Johnson was ready to vote. If a majority could pass an order entailing an expenditure of money, the Council was placing itself in a dangerous place.

The chair said under the opinion of the City Solicitor he should rule a majority vote only was necessary, to pass the order.

The order was then passed to be ordained by the following vote:

STONE INDUSTRY

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

The Use of Granite for Building Purposes and Street Work.

A Short Extract Today But a Longer One Tomorrow.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

Granite for Building Purposes.

By reference to the table giving the output of granite according to purposes, it will be seen that more stone was used for building than for any other purpose. A great amount of labor by the stonecutter is necessary to fit it for its destined place, but much of this work consists in merely squaring up or subdividing the large blocks as hauled from the quarry opening. Much more work is needed on the stone to be used for fronts, trimmings, and certain portions of superstructures, while for special parts, such as polished columns and ornate keystones and capitals, the greatest skill and longest time are required. The general process of finer finish will, however, be mentioned further on in connection with cemetery, monumental, and decorative purposes, although all stone designed for superstructures, whether rough or finely wrought, has been tabulated under the heading "Building purposes."

Granite for Street Work.

Experience has demonstrated that the best and most enduring streets for heavy traffic in large cities are those paved with stone blocks of proper material and size laid upon a specially prepared bed. The very hard and tough rocks frequently used, though capable of withstanding a maximum amount of wear, soon become smooth and glazed under traffic, and are therefore inferior to a stone which, wearing roughly, affords a better foothold for horses. Many of the granite rocks possess the right degree of hardness and brittleness, and are largely used for this purpose. This industry has increased largely since 1880, the number of granite blocks made in 1889 in the various States aggregating nearly 62,000,000.

A NEW SOUTH CITY.

PEOPLE AND ENTERPRISES OF MODERN CHATTANOOGA.

Scientific Faith of General John T. Wilder. Vast Material For Romance—Veterans of the Blue and the Gray—Scenery and Climate.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHATTANOOGA, Nov. 25.—Of all the many red blooded enthusiasts who banked on this place at the close of the war and by the eye of scientific faith saw in the Cumberland plateau the future "black country" of North America, the most enthusiastic probably and the most optimistic certainly was and is General John T. Wilder. He was long known as the father of modern Chattanooga, but the city now claims to have had several fathers. In Indiana they honor him as the first colonel and organizer of their gallant Seventeenth infantry, and to the nation at large he is known as the commander of the famous Wilder brigade of mounted infantry, and in that capacity he first took his stand before this city one Sunday in August, 1863. The citizens point out with a sort of pride the hill on the north side of the GENERAL JOHN T. WILDER.

Tennessee where he planted a cannon and directed the aiming of the first Federal shot at Chattanooga. He has since told me that at the first sight of this mountain walled plateau he felt it in his bones that here was to be a great manufacturing city. Here he located as soon as the war closed, and here he has made and lost I know not how many fortunes.

Business Enterprises.

He has always been too much of an optimist to realize on his remarkably good foresight and business capacity. In the army he was always feeling that "we are on the eve of some great victories," and when iron is up it is almost impossible to convince him that it is liable to soon go down. One year he cleared $187,000. He promptly extended his business to correspond, and others reaped the benefit of his labors. He established the first coke furnace in the south. He has explored all the hills, valleys and plateaus of east Tennessee and gotten up some of the best geological and orographical maps I ever saw. He has founded towns, promoted railroads, opened mines and built hotels, but other men now own most of them. He built the big hotel on top of Roane mountain, N. C., the highest hotel, I think, east of the Rocky mountains. He founded Chickamauga, a town at the extreme south end of the battlefield at Coffee Springs, and then built extensively at Carnegie, but after all has been compelled to start anew, and some folks say at bedrock, at Johnson City, northeast of Knoxville. He engineered the railway up Lookout mountain and opened the great coal mine there, and his latest project is for the erection of an altogether unique monument, 150 feet in height, to commemorate the part his brigade took in the battle of Chickamauga.

I celebrate him at this length not as a man, but as a type of the brilliant band which located here in 1865, determined to make a great city. It was then, except that it had not been burned like Atlanta, pretty near the worst looking place in the south, with perhaps 3,000 fixed inhabitants. It now has 50,000, including those suburbs which are continuous with the city proper. The latter covers but four square miles. For a few years it was singularly unhealthful in spite of its high location. The army left the streets in quagmires; water stood in stagnant ponds in many places, and hundreds of tons of waste matter lay and rotted where the war left it. The death rate, it is now claimed, is the least of any city in the country. It has gradually become a place of fashionable resort. Missionary ridge is dotted with handsome suburban residences, several of them occupied by men who took part in the battle there. One can ride to the top of Lookout mountain with as little inconvenience as across Washington city and almost as cheaply, and thousands of visitors to the exposition at Atlanta have taken this trip. And yet the citizens are modest, for the strongest expression I heard, and that from an Ohio man, was in these words: "Chattanooga is slowly recovering from the panic, and all her manufactories are solvent except the Malleable Iron works. That has lately gone at receiver's sale, and the men who bought it in intend to reorganize and operate it."

Manufactured Products.

Chattanooga's manufactures aggregated $2,900,000 in the decade ending in 1880. In that ending in 1890 they were $9,800,000. Then came the depression, and it is not claimed that the city has yet regained its old rate of advance. The manufactures are chiefly in iron and woolen products, as little has yet been done in cotton. A woolen mill of 360 feet front is just completed, and the machinery is going in; likewise a big lead pencil factory. The cedar for this purpose is in great plenty all through east Tennessee and western North Carolina, and foreign manufacturers complain bitterly that Americans are now using the wood recklessly and flooding the world's markets with an inferior grade of pencils. Americans always do use their raw materials recklessly, trusting that something will be invented to take their place by the time they are exhausted, and so I suppose the foreigners are correct in this charge. A wood pulp mill has just started, and there are several minor industries. Story writing can hardly be called an industry, but what a vast field, what a fund of materials for romance, is found in the facts I have related and their close relations with the civil war! In every valley and mineral district for 400 miles along the Tennessee are hundreds of men who marched and fought as Federals some 30 years ago over the very ground they now own or work. I often meet veterans who tell me they are now "operating" where they scouted or stood picket in 1863-4, and that they often sit on the rocks where they then rested and muse on the changes. And some of these men known to me in the olden time and not suspected of any great learning can now talk you blind on "cold short pig," "hot short," "cold tough," "hematite," "magnetic" and "basic-specular-spathic" or something that sounds like that, and can scientifically prove that this is the predestined manufacturing center of the south.

A Veteran Editor.

A jolly veteran indeed among the enthusiasts is Colonel J. E. Macowan, chief editorial writer on the Chattanooga Times, who, in his own language, "came into the valley with Burnside and has never been able to get away." He began his military career as captain in the One Hundred and Eleventh Ohio infantry, and there seemed to be luck in that very odd number, as he came out a brevet brigadier, is fairly prosperous, a leader of thought and lives in great comfort on Missionary ridge. The Times is independent Democratic and almost fanatically devoted to the gold standard, but politics as between editors is not so hot and polemical here as farther north. It is estimated that veterans of the Federal army in this city outnumber those of the Confederates nearly three to one. In 1864 the regiment in which I served a short time "held the fort" on the big red hill rising from the Tennessee at Bridgeport, a few miles west of here, and a dismally barren place we thought it. Now most of the ground is owned by a Federal veteran, and from that hill one can see the smoke of several iron furnaces. In fact, the Tennessee valley all the way across Alabama is, I am told, completely transformed in population since the war.

All who followed, by reading the papers, the movements of the Army of the Cumberland remember what a treacherous and disappointing river the Tennessee was. Our fellows swept southward from Paducah to Corinth and then eastward to Huntsville, and just when the public expected them to move on Chattanooga the river fell, and they made a race with Bragg overland for Louisville. The Muscle shoals were in the way, and every Federal who studied the situation deplored the neglect of the needed improvement by the government. It has since expended over $3,000,000 on the canal, and now navigation is secure from Chattanooga to the Ohio. Above the city are 500 miles of river and tributaries navigable only in the winter and spring for ordinary boats. So Chattanooga complacently considers herself "as good as a seaport." Of course the geological formation pays no attention to the course of the river. The great axes maintain their uniform southwest course while the stream wriggles its way through them at the weakest points, the result being some inspiring scenery and many of the grandest rock exposures in the world.

It was at Bridgeport that I first felt the enthusiasm of the amateur geologist. Near there I could stand on a commanding point, and looking across the Tennessee could see on the south side a vast titanic arch of that Niagara limestone which maintains a nearly continuous upheaval from the Ohio far into Alabama. It was as if a mountain consisting of one great and regular fold like an inverted U had been split to the base and the northern part removed to give the student a complete view of nature's methods. The arch seen at that distance seems almost as regular as masonry, and I could gaze upon it for hours with a pleasure all the greater for my ignorance at that time.

The annual floods of I know not how many million years have covered all the lower part of the great valley with alluvion. There are no stones to speak of on the surface, and one arriving at the edge of the valley finds the steep and rocky mountain rising abruptly from a level field of almost inexhaustible fertility. There is no gradual change from low valley to mountain pasture as in New York, and the corn row often terminates at a wall of rock. The residents claim that this formation gives them complete immunity from tornadoes, sudden changes of temperature, severe storms and several other ills, and while the site of Chattanooga is not quite 700 feet above sea level they claim for it the equable average of a mountain vale in a latitude of warmth. They also have much to say about the run of mountains and valleys bringing everything down hill and to a center at this place, but of all this I know nothing by experience.

means a change in the Kidneys from healthy tissue to fat. The symptoms are so obscure that they may not be noticed until too late. The presence of albumen in the urine, Backache and retention of urine are symptoms of disease. If albumen is present, it will show if a small quantity of urine be heated to the boiling point in a silver spoon, when white curdy flakes will appear; or—a few drops of vinegar and a second heating may discover the albumen. Merely a white cloud may show under the test—that indicates the early stage when the disease may be cured. Buker's Kidney Pills if taken at this time will reduce inflammation and help the Kidneys to their normal state. If the urine shows a change, don't neglect the symptom. The pills cost 50 cents at the druggists.

FEARS OF SLAUGHTER.

Missionaries In Shenshi Province Unheard From Since August.

Massacres at the Capital by Chinese Rebels.

It May Mean a General Onslaught Upon Christians In China.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—A dispatch from London states that great excitement is felt for the safety of the Baptist missionaries in the province of Shenshi, China.

No news of them has been received since August. The latest report from them stated that the Mohammedan rebels had captured the city of Si-Ngan, the capital of the province, and murdered large numbers of men, women and children.

The city of Sig-Ngan is the capital of the northwest of China, and is next to Pekin in size, population and importance. It surpasses that city in historical interest, and records, and in the long centuries of its existence has upheld its earlier name of Chang-an or "Continuous Peace."

The population presents a heterogeneous sprinkling of Thibetans, Mongols and Tartars, of whom many thousand Moslems still are spared because they were loyal. Si-Ngan has been taken and retaken, rebuilt and destroyed since its establishment in the 12th century, B. C., but position has always assured for it the control of trade between the central and western provinces and central Asia.

The principal record of the Nestorian mission work in China, the famous tablet of A. D. 71, still remains in the yard of a temple. Some miles to the northwest is the temple Tafu-sz', containing a notable colossus of Buddha, the largest in China, said to have been cut by one of the emperors of the Tang dynasty, in the ninth century.

This statue is in a cave hewn out of the sandstone rock, being cut out of the same material and left in the construction of the grotto. Its height is 56 feet; the proportions of limbs and body of the sitting figure are, on the whole, good, the Buddha being represented with right hand upraised in blessing, and the figure, as well as garments, richly covered with color and gilt.

The cave is lighted from above, after the manner of the Pantheon, by a single round opening in the vaulting. Sixty feet over the rock temple rises a tile roofing, and upon the hillside without the cavern are a number of minor temples and statues.

A Possible Uprising.

The reported massacre at Si-Ngan, China, has caused considerable excitement in missionary circles in Boston, from the standpoint of a general uprising of the Mohammedans against the Christians.

A letter was received yesterday by Rev. Dr. Judson Smith, secretary of the American Board of Foreign Missions, from one of their leading missionaries in China, in which he refers to the Shensi district with almost prophetic fear.

After recalling the massacre of a few years back, Dr. Smith's correspondent calls attention to the large Mohammedan population and the possibility of an uprising against the Christians.

Shensi has an area of 67,000 square miles and a population of 10,000,000, divided into seven prefectures.

Municipal Elections.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Dec. 3.—George W. Greene (Dem.) was elected mayor of the city by a majority of seven votes over George Batchelder (Rep.). He received 1434 votes to Batchelder's 1427. Last year Pothier was elected by 290 plurality. This turn-over is attributed to the dividing of the French vote, which last year was nearly solid for Pothier. Four of the five wards in the city council are Republican. The official count may change the result.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Dec. 3.—Herbert B. Chappel (Rep.) was elected mayor, defeating John L. Hunter (Dem.) by 26 votes. The Republicans elected a councilman-at-large, clerk, treasurer and one alderman. The Democrats elected the sheriff and an alderman.

PUTNAM, Conn., Dec. 3.—L. E. Smith, D., was elected mayor of this city by 23 majority, overturning a Republican majority of 175 in other offices. Mr. Smith is the first mayor of Putnam.

The $150,000 Not Handed In.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—If the Massachusetts Ship Canal corporation fails to deposit $150,000 with the treasurer of the commonwealth by tomorrow night, the act passed by the last general court incorporating that company and giving authority for the construction of a canal across Cape Cod will be null and void. There are no signs of that $150,000 around the treasurer's department, and there is no very great expectation that it will be deposited with the treasurer. Already there are five petitions in the office of the secretary of state, addressed to the next general court, for legislation giving petitioners authority to construct a canal across Cape Cod.

Confessed His Guilt.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—Henry J. Files, a letter carries at the Back Bay postal station, was arrested yesterday on the charge of stealing letters while in transit through the mails. Files has been connected with the Brookline office for many years, and with the Back Bay station for the last three years. When searched, immediately after his arrest, one of two test letters was found in his pocket. These letters had been placed in the early morning mail for the purpose of testing his honesty. Since his arrest he has broken down and confessed his guilt.

A. P. A.'s Out In Force.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Dec. 3.—The A. P. A. element took possession of this city last night and finished the Republican campaign with a parade and patriotic meeting in city hall. Fully 500 members were in line, headed by a band and the American flag. In the procession were a number of "Little Red Schoolhouses," and each person had a miniature American flag in his buttonhole. The paraders were guarded by a heavy detail of police, who were strung along each side of the line, but at no time did the 7000 spectators make any disturbance.

Monument Proposed.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—The colored people of this city held a meeting in memory of John Brown last night. A crayon portrait of the hero of Harper's Ferry was unveiled, after which remarks were made by George T. Downing, Edward B. Brown, Rev. W. H. Scott and others. The ceremony of unveiling the picture consisted of prayer and singing by a crowd of colored girls and boys. The colored people of Boston will co-operate with their Providence brethren in taking steps toward erecting a monument to Brown.

Failed to Work.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—Under the guise of assisting the Carney hospital, an attempt was made in the board of aldermen yesterday to put the members on record as granting a license for a sparring match. Several of the members said they were willing to subscribe their share of the amount that might be raised by such an exhibition, providing the other members would do likewise, but they refused to vote for a permit. When the vote was taken it stood 6 to 6, and was consequently defeated.

Which Town Gets It?

AMESBURY, Mass., Dec. 3.—A dispatch from Paris announces the death of Mrs. William Hilton. Mr. Hilton died in 1884, bequeathing $50,000, or the interest on $600,000, to the poor of Salisbury, now part of Amesbury, upon the death of his wife. A knotty law point has now arisen as to which town shall receive the money—Amesbury, which now includes old Salisbury, or the present town of Salisbury, formerly known as East Salisbury.

To Be Watched.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—It is reported that Rev. Frank H. Smith, who is now awaiting the arrival of papers committing him to the Asylum for the Insane at Washington, is growing worse instead of better, and that his health is failing. He is now in such a condition that he has to be watched constantly, and he imagines that direful things are about to happen.

Charged With Manslaughter.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—Jeremiah J. Reardon of this city, 28 years old, was arrested yesterday afternoon, charged with being a fugitive from justice, being wanted at Portland, Me., so it is alleged, on a warrant charging him with manslaughter. Reardon is alleged to have killed John H. Doyle in a barroom fight in that city. The affair took place on Sept. 17 last.

Harsh Words.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—John G. Woolley spoke in Wesleyan hall yesterday to an audience of about 300 persons, and he told them that this country is "a drunkard." Then he went on to say that the United States can never be saved until the liquor curse has been taken care of.

Diphtheria In Providence.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 3.—Twenty cases of diphtheria have been discovered in this city, and the board of health has started an investigation to determine why these cases had not been reported. It is feared that there are more cases of the infection than anticipated.

Many Unfortunates.

BOSTON, Dec. 3.—The annual report of the Massachusetts School for the Feeble Minded for the first year shows that there are now 423 inmates. The current expenses amounted to $70,012.87, or $3.15 for each person.

Against Lynching.

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 3.—Lengthy resolutions denouncing lynching in the south were adopted at a mass meeting held in this city last night under the auspices of the colored people of Rhode Island.

Six More Cases.

JOHNSTON, R. I., Dec. 3.—Six more cases of diphtheria were added to yesterday's report on the epidemic.

The Latest From Cuba.

HABANA, Nov. 25.—The report which was cabled to the United States, to the effect that the insurgent leader Rego had surrendered with 250 followers at Cifuentes has been proved false by subsequent events. Since Nov. 8 it has been known that Rego had made a proposal of surrender, which had been submitted to Captain General Campos through two intermediaries, who had accepted the offer. This information came through an employe in the foreign office, with permission to wire the information as being already an accomplished fact.

Virginia Library Opened.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Today witnessed the opening of the "Virginia library" of the McCormick Theological seminary. There was an address of presentation of Mrs. Nettie F. McCormick, the giver, by C. H. McCormick; the address of acceptance by Judge Dent for the board of directors, and short addresses by distinguished men of the Presbyterian denomination. Dr. W. J. Craig, chairman of the faculty of the seminary, presided.

Parrell Returns.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 3.—Michael Parrell, a liquor dealer, who is understood to have acted as ex-secretary for the smuggling syndicate and who fled when the exposure began, has returned from St. Pierre. He saw the reports of the withdrawal of the cases and the release of prisoners, and concluded that if he came home and paid his fine his license would be renewed. He is now undergoing trial.

Appeal Will Be Taken.

HABANA, Dec. 3.—General Julio Sanguilly was yesterday sentenced to imprisonment for life for having committed illegal acts against the Spanish government. Sanguilly has proved his American citizenship, and his case will be appealed to Spain on the ground of irregularities in his trial.

New Counterfeit In Circulation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A new counterfeit $2 silver certificate has been discovered. It is of the series of 1891, check letter C, plate number 41, J. Fount Tillman, register; D. N. Morgan, treasurer; portrait of Windom, small scalloped seal. The note is much smaller in every way than the genuine.

Friction Caused Fire.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3.—The cotton mills of the Powhattan Improvement and Construction company at Powhattan were destroyed by fire yesterday, which originated from sparks caused by friction in the machinery. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

Wemple's Case.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Dec. 3.—A commission yesterday examined ex-State Comptroller Edward Wemple of Fultonville as to his sanity. The commission declared Mr. Wemple insane, and he will be taken to the Utica state hospital.

Call For Extra Session.

LIMA, Dec. 3.—President Pierola has convoked congress in extra session on account of the crisis caused by the resignation of the cabinet.

RUSSIA WITHDRAWS.

Will Not Press Claim For Second Guardship in Dardanelles.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily News says that the German ironclad Hagen has been ordered to Turkish waters.

The Chronicle says that the British consul at Moosh reports to the foreign office that the relief work at Sassoun is at a standstill; that the country is in a disturbed condition, and that caravans are not able to leave Moosh for Sassoun.

The Times prints a dispatch from Constantinople which says that in response to the sultan's personal appeal the czar has waived Russia's claim for the passage of a second guardship through the Dardanelles.

Tit For Tat.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—It is apprehended here that the withdrawal by the Canadian authorities of the right exercised by American fishermen for seven years past of buying bait and supplies in Canadian waters may lead to reprisals at the hands of congress, for it has been contended all along that the privilege enjoyed by Canadian railroads of carrying goods in bond through the United States was more than a sufficient off-set to the favors extended to American fishermen by Canada. The action of the Canadian government just taken has not yet been officially reported to the state department, but it is regarded here as an indication of the Canadians' purpose to emphasize the necessity for renewal of negotiations looking to a new fisheries treaty.

Beat Schedule Time.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The first military bicycle expedition conducted exclusively by military riders was successfully concluded yesterday. There were 10 relays of two men each, and the last two riders dismounted at the barge office at 4:48 a. m., 12 minutes ahead of their scheduled time. Lieutenant Libbey was the bearer of a special message from General Nelson A. Miles, at Washington, to General Thomas H. Ruger, on Governor's Island. Lieutenant Libbey and Private Pitkin rode all the way from Washington, starting earlier than the others, and arrived at New Brunswick in time to rest before starting on the last relay.

Cramps Are Left Out.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — While the Cramps, with their offer to build three battleships within the government's allowance for two, furnished an element of novelty at the opening of the bids on the Kearsarge and her mate, little doubt is felt that the Newport News company will take one contract. The other may go to the Union iron works of San Francisco, which underbid the Philadelphia firm on the navy department's plans. Thus the famous builders of many vessels of our new navy are for the first time left behind in the competition for building warships of upward of 7000 tons displacement.

Reichstag Opens.

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—The reichstag convened today. One of the most important measures to be discussed by the new reichstag is the new civil code, which the kaiser wishes to see passed at an early date. The general concensus of opinion is that the session will be quiet and uneventful. The budget, revision of the workingmen's insurance laws, a bourse reform bill and a revision of the commercial laws constitute the part of the program of the ministers which is known to the public.

About Settled.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The housesmiths' strike is practically settled at last. Some details yet remain to be decided on, but the men and their employers have found a common basis on which an agreement is possible. This was accomplished at the conference between President Cornell and a committee of the Housesmiths' union yesterday afternoon. The delegates refused, at Mr. Cornell's request, to go into details until everything is definitely agreed upon.

Might Have Been Half Way Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3. — John W. Flood, defaulting cashier of the Donahue-Keller bank, has given up the fight and will serve his sentence of seven years in prison. His appeal for a new trial has been withdrawn from the supreme court. Flood misappropriated $160,000 of the funds of the bank. He has been fighting for his freedom for four years.

Professor Smith's Sad Mishap.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 3.—Professor T. M. Smith of the Case school of applied science was fatally injured while conducting one of his chemistry classes through the River blast furnace. He was caught in the furnace elevator and terribly crushed.

—Now that Rev. S. F. Smith, D. D., is dead, a movement to provide a fitting monument for him will be appropriate. His hymn, "America," will be his best monument, it is true, but none the less a tangible memorial shaft should be erected. It might most fittingly be raised by contributions from the school children of the land.—Somerville Journal.

—It may not be generally known that the proper name of Turkey is Turkia, "the land of the Turks," and that it is called the Ottoman Empire from its first great Sultan, Othman 1st. The term "Sublime Porte" as applied to the government arose from its magnificent gate entrance to the palace. Turkey as a nation exists only through the sufferance of the Eastern powers, and doubtless from existing circumstances will soon be blotted from the maps. It cannot come too soon.

Somerville.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Dec. 4.—The A. P. A. received a black eye in the mayoralty fight. The result was a surprise for all when it became known that A. A. Perry, the head of the Independent-Democratic ticket, had defeated Levi S. Davis, the regular Republican nominee and the A. P. A. choice, by 69 votes. The board of aldermen and the common council went Republican, and the school committee is equally divided. The vote for license went no by a vote of 4712 to 1858.

Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 4.—The A. P. A. met a crushing defeat here. Newrie D. Winter, D. C., was elected mayor over Charles L. Long by 839 majority. The fusion aldermanic ticket, consisting of five Democrats and three Republicans, was elected. The Democrats elected 10 and the Republicans eight councilmen. Miss Jacobs, C., was elected to the school committee by 2309 majority over Ladner, the A. P. A. candidate. License was carried by 1331 majority.

ACTUAL WORK BEGUN.

Reading of Message Followed by a Deluge of Bills.

Cuban Situation and the Monroe Doctrine

Bring Forth Stirring Resolutions on Each of Those Important Subjects.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—There were 272 bills and 16 resolutions introduced in the senate yesterday, but a large majority of the bills were reprints of measures which failed to pass last season. Many of these, as also a large proportion of the new bills, are for private purposes. There were also several for the modification of the pension laws. Senators Peffer, Stewart and Squire reintroduced their bills of last session pertaining to silver coinage. Naturally the president's message attracted the main attention of the day, but aside from this there were stirring resolutions on the Monroe doctrine and the Cuban rebellion.

The message was given the closest attention from all quarters of the chamber. At the conclusion, Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts offered a resolution, vigorous in terms, reaffirming the principles of the Monroe doctrine and presenting them in such form as to permit their enactment as a permanent law, rather than an expression of the policy advocated by President Monroe.

The Cuban situation received attention from both the Florida senators, Call affirming a resolution for the recognition of the insurgents as belligerents. The Call resolution will be called up today, so that Cuba and the Monroe doctrine will receive early attention, although the purpose is to afford opportunity for an expression of views rather than for an immediate vote.

Senator Call's resolution is as follows:

Resolved, That the government of the United States recognizes a condition of public war between the government of Spain and the government proclaimed and for some time maintained by force of arms by the people of Cuba, and the United States of America hereby declare that they will maintain a condition of strict neutrality between the contending powers and accede to each all the rights of belligerents in the ports and territory of the United States.

The congress of the United States protest and remonstrate against the barbarous manner in which the war in Cuba has been conducted, and the president is hereby authorized to take such steps as may be expedient in his judgment to secure an observance of the laws of war as recognized by civilized nations.

Allen's Vigorous Resolution.

Mr. Cullom (Rep., Ills.) introduced a resolution on the Monroe doctrine similar to that presented by Mr. Lodge. He gave notice that he would call up the resolution as soon as permissible for the purpose of addressing the senate thereon.

Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.) offered a concurrent resolution for the immediate recognition of the Cuban insurgents, the annexation of all islands proximate to the United States, the upholding of the Monroe doctrine and a firmer foreign policy respecting the protection of American citizens abroad.

Following is the full text of Senator Allen's resolution on the recognition of Cuba and the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine:

Resolved, That it is the sense of the senate (1) that the government of the United States of America should promptly recognize the revolutionists of Cuba, who are now honestly struggling to secure their independence of the Spanish government as composing an independent nation possessing all the rights thereof according to the laws of the nations.

(2) That all islands in close proximity to the mainland of the United States of America should as speedily as possible, by the treaties of purchase, be annexed to this government as essential to our safety in times of war and the convenience and necessity of our commerce in times of peace.

(3) That the wise declaration of President Monroe, known as the Monroe doctrine, is a well-established policy of the government of the United States, and should be promptly and effectually maintained by the government in its original purity and purpose.

(4) That while the government of the United States should not needlessly or hastily embroil itself with any foreign power, and should only resort to extreme measures in cases of absolute necessity, a firmer and more prompt policy on the part of this government in maintaining the rights of American citizens abroad should be introduced and pursued.

At the brief executive session the nominations of Mr. Olney as secretary of state and Mr. Harmon as attorney general were confirmed, and that of Rufus H. Peckham to the supreme bench referred to the judiciary committee.

A Worthy Project.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The woman's executive committee of home missions received an offer of $50,000 from Dr. Sheldon Jackson, government superintendent of education in Alaska, to found a Christian college in Alaska Territory. The offer will probably be accepted, and an effort made to raise additional funds for this purpose.

Preacher Killed.

MONTEVALO, Ala., Dec. 4.—An old dispute between Rev T. N. Lucas, a prominent Baptist minister, residing near here, and the Seals brothers, leading farmers, resulted in Lucas' death yesterday. Lucas' son and Robert Seals quarrelled yesterday. Lucas ran to aid his son and was shot by Robert's brother.

Quincy is a Republican city, but it will be many years before the Republican party elect another mayor. Republican, because it gave Governor Greenhalge a plurality of nearly 800 at the State election last month. Republican, because two-thirds of the councilmen-elect are Republicans. Republican, because four of the five Councilmen at-large are Republicans. Republican, because in five of the six wards a majority of the Ward Councilmen are Republicans. Republican, because Governor Greenhalge received over 100 more votes than Mayor-elect Adams.

A study of these figures will show why the Republican party is hopelessly at sea for the future in municipal elections.

	Greenhalge	Williams	Hammond	Adams	Moxon	Hodges
Ward 1,	363	136	272	305	265	307
Ward 2,	262	143	258	241	296	281
Ward 3,	396	219	371	344	281	359
Ward 4,	271	321	420	331	273	398
Ward 5,	333	75	118	282	285	110
	1821	1030	1543	1712	1548	1576

It will be observed that Candidate Hammond received practically the same total vote as Candidate Moxon; that he carried Wards Two, Three and Four, which last year gave majorities to Hodges; that he also reduced the Hodges majority in Ward One. But Wards Five and Six each reversed their large Republican majorities; 170, or over one-half the Republicans of Wollaston, and 116, or over one-half the Republicans of Atlantic, voting for Mr. Adams.

The Republicans of Wollaston alone are responsible for the election of Mr. Adams, and they are probably willing to stand the responsibility. When however they present another candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor or even for the presidency of the City Council, the murmurings in Wards One, Two, Three and Four may peal forth as thunder.

Aside from politics the city of Quincy and its taxpayers are to be congratulated upon the election of Charles Francis Adams, 2d. The LEDGER expects from the Mayor-elect a business-like, progressive and brilliant administration. He will have the support of a Council of experience; seventeen of the twenty-three being members of the Councils of '95 or previous years. We shall expect to see two brick schoolhouses started early in the spring, to see work on a sewer system begun, and the water problem settled. We hope also to see an improvement in our streets and, particularly, a beginning made in the construction of permanent sidewalks. Congratulations to Mayor-elect Adams.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Crowley of Milton was arraigned for killing a horse by beating him with a whipstock, and was fined $25.

John Nicholson was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Tirrell wish to return heartfelt thanks to all neighbors and friends for the kindness, sympathy and love, so generously extended to them during their recent affliction.
Quincy, Dec. 4, 1895.

ELECTION RETURNS.

At City Hall.

Never were election returns received more promptly or satisfactorily at City Hall than Tuesday evening. During the day City Clerk Keith had visited all wards and left extra tally sheets which the election officers were requested to fill out after the vote had been counted and send to City Hall with their returns. The advantage of this scheme was evident for instead of having to wait until the official returns were opened by the Committee on Elections, the City Clerk was enabled to announce how each ward had gone as soon as the returns were received.

The Committee on Elections did not meet until 7.30, but before that hour the returns of all but Wards Two and Six had been made known.

The rooms on the lower floor of City Hall began to fill up early, and in the throng were all the leading politicians of both parties, who were busy figuring out the majorities on what returns they had, and guessing on what they did not have.

When the complete returns from Ward Four were received there were many of the prominent Democrats of that Ward who felt very much chagrined at the result but it only went to show that they might whip the Democrats of that Ward into line part of the time, but they could not whip them into line all of the time.

At 7 30 the City Clerk and Committee on Elections adjourned to the Council Chamber, where Manager Dozier of the Telephone Co. had placed an instrument, over which news from the Wards were received.

Outside the railing there was a crowd of anxious spectators, who were frequent in their applause, and when Ward Six was announced there were cheers.

About 8 o'clock Councilman Adams, the Mayor-elect, was escorted into the hall and was received with cheer after cheer. Mr. Adams spoke briefly, thanking the citizens for the honor conferred upon him.

Someone then proposed three cheers for Mayor Adams which were given with a will. Then there came cheers for Mayor Hodges.

Although the returns were now all in, the crowd still remained discussing the day's battle, while others had sought out Mr. Adams and were congratulating him.

Four Extra Editions.

The DAILY LEDGER can refer with pardonable pride to its achievement election night in giving the news accurately and promptly. Four editions were issued, termed the "7 o'clock," the "8 o'clock," the "9 o'clock" and "The Latest." But they went to press respectively at 6.25, 6.55, 7.20 and 8 o'clock.

The first edition at 6 25 had the full votes of five of the eight precincts. The edition at 6.55 added Precinct 2 of Ward Three. The edition at 7.20 added the full vote of Ward Six, and "The Latest" at 8 o'clock had the full returns for every candidate.

At 8.15 LEDGERS with the full returns were for sale at Wollaston and Atlantic as well as the Centre, and the 8.30 cars took them to other parts of the city.

So much attention was given to the extra editions, that the bulletin service suffered. At 4.15, however, the vote of Ward One for Mayor was announced, and at 4.40 the vote of Ward Five. The LEDGER announced the votes of Ward Six and Two, and the total some time before it was received at City Hall.

The four extra editions aggregated 2,400 papers and practically all were sold, making a sale for the day of over 3,600 copies. All these papers were printed and the office closed at 9.30 P. M.

Smoke of Battle.

About 10 o'clock last night the residents in the vicinity of Councilman-elect John C. Murray, South Quincy, were aroused by the Quincy City Band which was showing its gratification of his election by a serenade to the tune of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Murray is a member of, and was manager of that organization for a number of years.

W. G. Corthell received one vote in Ward Five for Mayor, and Stephen O. Moxon one vote in Ward Six for Mayor.

Just as the warden in Ward One announced "The polls are closed" W. H. Doble rushed in escorted by Galen Vinton Bowditch, but he was too late and Mr. Adams lost one vote.

They say in Wollaston that Al. Williams was the only voter in that ward who voted the straight Republican ticket.

Precinct 1, Ward Four, was the first complete returns received at City Hall, and Ward Two the last.

The general impression is that the day of Republican municipal candidates for Mayor has passed and the outcome will be citizens' nominations.

The Ward Five vote was declared at 1.5 o'clock.

The Ward Two Independent club, of which so much has been heard, came to the polls late Tuesday afternoon in a body. There was three of them.

Two voters in Wollaston voted only for Candidates Hammond and Sprague. Short and sweet!

The name of Councilman Bryant has already been mentioned for the Presidency of the Council. He looks to Ward Five, Six and Two for a majority of the Republican votes.

Wollaston did it!

On the streets election night there was but little excitement the returns had arrived early and had as promptly been announced in the LEDGER extras, and as everbody was satisfied, the majority went home early.

The "Rooster" wins every time.

Shakespearean Party.

The Steadfast Ten, King's Daughters, of Wollaston gave a very unique entertainment at the Congregational church on Tuesday evening. It was a Shakespearean party, all of the attendants at the tables being costumed to represent some one of Shakespeare's characters. The costumes were very pretty, as well as the young ladies who wore them. Tables tastefully decorated with crepe paper and banquet lamps, upon which palms, ferns and flowers, chocolate and coffee, confections, notions, fancy articles and ice cream were for sale, were located in different parts of the vestry. The affair was a decided success. The money goes towards aiding worthy girls to enter college. The arrangements for the sale were in charge of Mrs. Elbert H. Brock who represented Lady Macbeth.

The tables and characters were as follows:

Water fountain,—Cleopatra, Miss Ada Warren.

Palms, ferns, flowers, etc.,—Ophelia, Mrs. Frank Sprague; Desdamona, Miss Fannie Z Litchfield, Miss Marion Sherman.

Confections,—Juliet, Miss Belle Gannette; Rosalind, Miss Florence Hayes; Celia, Miss Mary V. Hastings.

Notions,—Jessica, Mrs. William E. Rowe.

Quincy Debating Club.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Allow me to add a word to the young men who are or should be interested in the Quincy Debating Club. The late Dr. William M. Taylor of New York city, one of the grandest men of recent days, once said—"A man is commonly made or marred for life by the use which he makes of his leisure time." And there are few ways in which a young man can use a portion of his leisure time that will do so much to make him all he may be, as in the study of some of the vital topics of the day and debating them in a well ordered club. One does not know how firmly he can stand upon his feet till he matches himself against some wrestler who would take them from under him. And so one does not know how intelligently he holds his opinions till an opponent challenges them and he is put upon his mettle in their defence. Therefore try the debating club. Give and take in it till you learn to think and speak on your feet. It will be a good equipment for a life which can make itself a recognized force anywhere and everywhere. EDWARD NORTON.

STONE INDUSTRY

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

The Use of Granite for Building Purposes and Street Work.

Paving Blocks and Slabs and the Tools Used.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

Streets paved with the large-sized block used at first were found to be more difficult to keep in repair, worse for horses, and rougher on vehicles than pavements made of the smaller blocks now in general use. There is no uniform standard of size, as specifications of the various cities call for different sizes, but the variations are not great and blocks 3½ to 4½ inches wide, 6 to 7 inches deep, and 8 to 12 inches long are generally preferred. In New York City Brooklyn, and Philadelphia blocks a trifle longer are more commonly used, while in many of the western and southern cities the length does not exceed 10 inches. New Orleans, owing to the peculiar nature of its streets, takes blocks much larger.

The manufacture of paving blocks, though an important adjunct of the granite business, varies nevertheless for obvious reasons in many of its details from the ordinary methods of granite cutting. The high skill and fine workmanship of the stone mason are not needed, but a quickness in seeing and taking advantage of the directions of cleavage, as well as a deftness in handling the necessary tools, is requisite.

Specifications call for blocks so quarried or dressed as to present substantially rectangular faces with practically straight edges. The corresponding dimensions of opposite faces must not vary more than one-half inch, and the surface must be free from bunches, depressions, and inequalities exceeding one-half inch.

The tools used for making blocks are knapping hammers, opening hammers, hand hammers, reels, chisels, and, for initial splits, drills, wedges, and half-rounds. When the block maker quarries his own stock it is called "motion work," and the same process is used as in quarrying stone for other purposes, except that, as large blocks are not required, most of it can be done with plug and feather.

Slabs, having been split out in the usual manner to sizes that may be easily turned over and handled by one man, are subdivided into pieces corresponding approximately to the dimensions of the required blocks. This is done by striking repeated blows upon the rock along the line of the desired break with heavy knapping and opening hammers. When a break is to be made crosswise the grain, it is frequently necessary to chisel a light groove across one face, and commonly across the adjacent sides, to guide the fracture produced by striking on the opposite surface with the opening hammer. Good splits can, however, be made along either the rift or grain by the skillful use of the opening hammer alone. Blocks broken out in the manner described are trimmed and finished with the reel, which is a hand hammer having a long, flat, steel head attached to a short handle. Block breakers become very expert in the use of this instrument, and, without making any measurements, turn out in a surprisingly short time a large number of blocks. In Maine, which is far ahead of any other State in the number of blocks made, the entire product of many quarries is used for this exclusive purpose. This is also the case in California, which comes second, though the blocks are manufactured chiefly from the surface "bowlders" or detached masses of basalt so common in Sonoma County. Other quarries, however, in various parts of the country utilize only the "grout," small or irregular shaped pieces, for making paving blocks, and haul the stock to the breakers, who work in sheds: but the greatest number of blocks are made on the spot where the rock is quarried, the workmen being protected during the hottest months by a temporarily spread canvas fly.

A drowning man would have little use for a method of rescue which would require days. A dyspeptic doesn't want to bother with a remedy that is going to take weeks to show its beneficial effects.

The Mount Lebanon Shakers are offering a product under the name of Shaker Digestive Cordial which yields immediate relief. The very first dose proves beneficial in most cases; and it is owing to their unbounded confidence in it, that they have put 10 cent sample bottles on the market. These can be had through any druggist; and it will repay the afflicted to invest the trifling sum necessary to make a trial.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.

A NOBLE LIFE

SPENT FOR AND WITH SUFFERING WOMEN.

A Life's Work Perpetuated through a Faithful Daughter, and Records of Priceless Value.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

What a vast amount of misery and suffering has been prevented by the clear-headed foresight of one noble woman!

The eyes of the women of the world were upon her.

As she recalled the past, and tried to penetrate the future, a smile of supreme satisfaction passed over her honest face as she remembered that her life's work would be perpetuated.

The room in which she sat contained hundreds of volumes of records; and, turning to her daughter, she said, —

"My daughter, this room, as you well know, contains the records of my life's work, in which for many years you have so diligently assisted me.

"By earnest application you have compassed my methods; and it is a happiness to think that when I leave, the glorious work will, through you, go on.

"The mission is a noble one. Do as I have done: never permit a woman's appeal to go unheeded.

"These records tell of every case ever submitted to me; and it is my wish that the facts they contain shall in time prove a much-needed education to the women of the world."

Thus did Lydia E. Pinkham hand over to her daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Pinkham, what may be termed the salvation of her sex; and that wonderful remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which all druggists consider as standard as flour, goes on redeeming hundreds of women from the fearful consequences of female diseases.

THE MONEY PROBLEM.

Cleveland's Proposal to Retire Greenbacks Generally Endorsed.

How His Message Is Viewed by Statesmen.

London Newspapers Contribute Their Share to the General Comment.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. — The positive character of the president's recommendations in the message naturally arouses great interest here. The absence of the usual ornamental tribute to bimetallism, secured through international agreement, is remarked upon. The proposals for the extension of the national bank system from a Democratic president and the general single gold standard atmosphere which pervades the whole document are the features most frequently commented upon.

Congressman Barrett thinks that he voices the sentiment of the Republican majority when he says that the retirement of the greenbacks will have standing in this house. Other than that, the message is largely an historical recital and contains little that is new.

Senator Hoar, in speaking of the message, said he did not know which was the worse, the folly of the doctrine or the bombastic and inflated style in which it was expressed.

Mr. McCall believes in the gradual retirement of the greenbacks. He approves those sections of the message which recommends a removal of certain limitations upon the national bank circulation. Mr. McCall was impressed with the cheerful optimism with which the president discussed the efforts abroad to shut out American institutions and products.

Representative Moody opposes the retirement of the greenbacks until he can see his way clear to a better substitute for them, but holds all his views on currency matter open to further argument.

Mr. Boutelle of Maine said the president had evidently found it impossible to recognize the true significance of our financial situation without acknowledging the disastrous failure of the Democratic administration. With our income running millions behind our expenditures, his persistence in declaring that the question is not one of revenue savors more of stolidity than statesmanship.

Senator Aldrich says the message is disappointing, from the fact that it suggests no practical remedy for the unsatisfactory conditions which now exist.

Senator Chandler says that portion of the message relating to our foreign affairs is exceedingly well-written, and seems to cover what is generally desired. The rest of the message is freer from the turbid platitudes than has heretofore characterized former messages. His remedy for the distress into which he and his party have brought the country is the retirement of the greenbacks, thereby destroying the national banking system, avoidance of the free coinage of silver and the adoption of the single gold standard.

Representative Walker (Mass.) said: The views of President Cleveland, while theoretically correct, are wholly impracticable with the present condition of public opinion in the country, and instead of facilitating the composing of the finances of the country immediately, which under the circumstances must be done, have only a tendency to defer their settlement by chimerical views.

Mr. Dingley of Maine said the most astonishing of the message is the fact that it entirely omits to inform congress whether there is or not a necessity of providing more revenue. This is an omission the more amazing in the face of the fact that for 29 months there has been a deficiency of revenue amounting in the aggregate of $130,000,000, which deficiency has been met by practically using $130,000,000 of the $182,000,000 obtained by selling bonds ostensibly for the proper valuation of the greenback redemption fund.

Mr. McCreary (Dem., Ky.), who was chairman of the foreign affairs committee in the last congress, said: "The president's message is very comprehensive and interesting on foreign relations. His recommendations are particularly strong and appropriate on the Cuban question, the Venezuelan boundary line dispute, the Behring sea claims, the protection of American residents in Turkey, China and Japan, and proper regulations for our exports to European countries."

Ex-Speaker Crisp: I heard with some surprise and great regret that part of the message relating to our finances. That relief is needed no one doubts. That it can be found in the direction indicated in the message I do not believe.

FROM OVER THE SEA.

President's Foreign Policy Too Vigorous to Suit British Tastes.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—An editorial in The Chronicle says: It is very doubtful if congress will accept President Cleveland's currency plan. The message sounds cautious, but there is a welcome note in the direction of free trade.

The Standard says: We cannot but regret the tone of President Cleveland's references to Venezuela. If we may judge of the tone and substance of Mr. Olney's dispatch from the paraphrase thus imparted to congress, we are not surprised that no answer has been received, and we further undertake to predict that when the reply reaches the White House it will furnish the president with a deal of matter for serious reflection.

The Post says: As regards Samoa and Venezuela, the message appears to be framed on lines which Senator Chandler might approve. In regard to Cuba, there are similar signs of a disposition to conciliate the feelings of popular agitators. These things are incidents of every presidential campaign, and President Cleveland never pretended to be superior to them.

The Graphic says: The crudities and indiscretions of President Cleveland's present pronouncements on foreign affairs might have been evolved by the late Mr. Blaine in his worst mood. Can anything be more absurd than the proposal that the Schomburgk line (in Venezuela) should be submitted to arbitration? The reference to Cuba is infinitely more judicious. It is virtually an expression of sympathy with filibustering.

The Times editorially says: President Cleveland has drawn a startling picture of the difficulties created by the vicious currency system, and we shall be greatly surprised if the plans he suggests are not warmly welcomed by business men throughout the states. But, flushed by electoral victories, it is probable that the Republicans will refuse to allow anything to be done in the direction indicated.

The Daily News says: President Cleveland knows better than to treat the Monroe doctrine as if it were a rule of international law. It is neither dignified nor politic for the administration at Washington to take up the quarrels of the South American communities which do not observe the usages of civilized nations. America will find some day that this sort of patronage involves a corresponding responsibility, and they will not like that at all.

Thieving Politicians.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Three-quarters of a million dollars has been stolen from the campaign fund of the Democratic party, raised for the years 1893, 1894 and the spring of 1895. This charge is sustained by the newly elected chairman of the county central committee, Thomas G. Gahan, in the statement that the funds of the past two years have not been accounted for. The money was raised for the campaign which resulted in the election of Hopkins for mayor, for the county commissioner's campaign following, for the aldermanic campaign and for the drainage canal campaign but recently closed.

Unprepared For Cold.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 4.—Two persons were frozen to death here Monday night as the result of the unexpected cold wave, and two others narrowly escaped a like fate. One of them, an unknown man, about 75 years of age, was found dead in a warehouse, where he had gone for shelter. Moses Baeltz, aged 80, who occupied a shanty, was discovered in his miserable abode, frozen stiff. Mrs. Kate Thompson, and a little girl, aged 6, were found nearly frozen to death in their home in East St. Louis.

On Lexow Plan.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 4.—The police force of this city were summoned before Mayor Connell yesterday and formally notified that Rev. Dr. Charles E. Robinson had charged that Scranton policemen led young men to houses of ill-fame. Forty-nine men were thus summoned. The officers, individually, and the patrolmen, collectively, signed sworn affidavits denying the charge. Dr. Robinson declared that the young men in question had consented to testify and name the guilty policemen.

Watching Wheels of Trade.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Joseph Chamberlain has sent a dispatch to the governors of the colonies with a view of investigating thoroughly the extent to which in each colony foreign imports have displaced or are displacing similar British goods, and the causes of such displacement. He also desires to receive a return of any products of the colonies that might with advantage be exported to the United Kingdom or other parts of the British empire.

Gaining Ground.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 4.—The first reports to the court of receipts and disbursements by the new receivers of the Northern Pacific were filed in the United States court yesterday. The reports state that for October the total receipts were $4,642,297 from all sources. The disbursements amounted to $1,795,762 from all sources, and on Nov. 1 there was a balance on hand of $2,847,534.

Nerves Gave Way.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Margaret Mather is at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from nervous exhaustion. A physician who is attending her said: "Just how sick she is I will not say without her consent, but she is far from being well. Her sickness is her own and her own private business."

Absconder Extradited.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Herbert Krahn, who was arrested here in October upon his flight from London, has been extradited, and returned to England yesterday on the Teutonic in the custody of a government official. Krahn was charged with absconding from London.

Sliding Scale Proposed.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—The tariff committee has agreed upon a bill which will empower the government to apply a sliding scale to the import duty on corn proportionate to the market price. Thus the duty on wheat may be raised still higher.

Ate Poisoned Pork.

TEXARKANA, Tex., Dec. 4.—At a cake walk near this city the negroes ate at their supper a portion of a hog that had been slopped by its owner on strychnine, and 12 persons have died and half a dozen others are sick.

Typhoid In Penitentiary.

MONTREAL, Dec. 4.—The typhoid fever epidemic at the penitentiary of St. Vincent de Paul is still prevailing. One man has died, and 12 are dangerously sick. Bad drainage is the alleged cause.

Arguments All In.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—Theodore Durrant's affidavits and motion for a new trial proceeded to the close yesterday. The court announced that he would pass on the motion Friday next.

In Financial Difficulties.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 4.—Judge Phillips yesterday appointed D. E. Stoner receiver of the Pennsylvania Investment company in response to a petition of shareholders.

BRAYTON'S HOT SHOT.

Republican Brethren Raked Over the Coals at a Love Feast.

Said That They Deserved to Be Beaten.

Truckled to Democrats "Who Voted Not as They Were Paid."

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 5.—The Republican state central committee began the presidential campaign yesterday by inviting to a sort of love feast all the state officers and all of the state central and all the city and town committeemen.

After reports had been made, Hunter C. White, the chairman of the state central committee, called upon General Charles R. Brayton to give the assembled politicians some sound advice.

General Brayton has long shaped the affairs of the Republican party in this state, but this was the first time that he is known to have spoken in public. He declared that good intentions and sweet sayings were all well enough, but that neither cut any ice in successful politics. Registration work, hard and searching, was essential.

Turning to the subject of the recent defeat of the Republicans in this city, he opened up a battery that was wholly unexpected. He said that the Republicans at city hall they had received. They had truckled to Democratic officeholders, to Democrats on the police force, and in the fire, sewer and lamp departments.

Once a month a Republican board of aldermen had voted to approve of payrolls, 80 per cent of the names upon which were those of Democrats who openly worked against the Republican nominees in all elections. The Republican aldermen who had been turned down were the deepest in this truckling business, and they were responsible for the appointments of Democrats to be police and firemen, who voted not as they were paid and who aided in throwing down the Republican city ticket.

This speech astounded General Brayton's auditors, but, recovering from the shock of the rebuke, they applauded him to the echo, and after the meeting was adjourned admitted that it was a bitter but a well-merited dose of medicine.

This is the first instance in which General Brayton has offered any advice in municipal politics, and it foreshadows a vigorous, straight Republican issue for the future.

TIME FOR A HALT.

Man Suffrage Association Thinks Further Argument Unnecessary.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—The Man Suffrage association has issued the following statement "to the people of Massachusetts": After 25 years of agitation by the suffragists the question of municipal suffrage for women has been brought to a test. The voters have been asked their opinion and have given an emphatic reply.

Never before has any question submitted to the people of Massachusetts received so overwhelming a defeat. The vote of the men was: No, 186,976; yes, 87,000; a no majority of 99,976, only 24 short of a round 100,000.

The vote of the women on the suffrage question—yes, 22,204; no, 864—is as significant as that of the men. By the census of 1895 the number of men in Massachusetts qualified to register and vote is 561,699. The number of women qualified to register and vote on the question was at least 575,000. Of these more than 550,000 declined to vote, and less than four in a hundred voted yes. In other words, more than 96 per cent of the women of the commonwealth either prefer the present status of the suffrage or are wholly indifferent in the matter.

In 47 towns not one woman voted yes, and in 138 other towns the women voting yes numbered 15 or less. As the vast majority of the women opposed to the suffrage expressed their opinion by refusing to vote, the women's vote, for purposes of tabulation, has little value.

Every county and every congressional, councillor, senatorial and representative district in the commonwealth cast a majority against the proposition.

In view of such a result it would seem that further agitation of the question at present is uncalled for.

Advice to Farmers.

DALTON, Mass., Dec. 5.—At the winter meeting of the state board of agriculture here yesterday George M. Whitaker delivered an address on "Milk Supply in Massachusetts Cities," in which he deplored the large profit of the middlemen and predicted a prosperous future for this branch of dairy products. Ex-Governor Hoard of Wisconsin advised farmers to abandon their old-time notions and conduct their business in the light of modern necessities. The necessities were more revenue, increasing competition, decreased fertility, increased cost of labor, adulteration, refusal of the market to take the product of crude labor and the increasing liability of loss to dairy herds by modern diseases.

Littleton's New Library.

LITTLETON, Mass., Dec. 5.—The new Reuben Hoar memorial library, given to the town by Clement S. Houghton and Miss Elizabeth G. Houghton of Boston, in memory of their father, William S. Houghton, was dedicated yesterday with appropriate ceremonies. The building is centrally located near the common, 1½ stories in height, of brick, with terra cotta trimmings, and is built in the colonial romanesque style, at a cost of $25,000.

For Others to Copy.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—Chief Campbell and Deputy Milliken of the Pennsylvania factory inspectors have made a tour of this state and expressed themselves as pleased with the condition of things existing here, and will endeavor to have the Pennsylvania legislature enact laws similar to that enacted here, as they think the present sweating evils existing in their state can be greatly reduced thereby.

To Be Auctioned Off.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—The damaged cargo of the German steamer Galicia, New Orleans for Hamburg, which put into this port last week with fire among the cotton and grain, will be sold at auction on Tuesday next.

Noble Responses to Appeals.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—The following telegram was received from New York yesterday by Frank H. Wiggin, who is acting as treasurer of the American Relief committee in Boston: Cable $5000 to Constantinople from Christian Herald, for Armenian sufferers; money in my hands.—C. C. Creegan. Mr. Wiggin has sent the following dispatch to Constantinople: Received $5000 from Christian Herald, for Armenian sufferers. Miss Ellen Carruth, treasurer of the woman's board, has received and forwarded $1251.52 for the same purpose.

Suicide of a Student.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—The Boston police were notified last night that Edwin A. Elder, son of the receiving teller of the National Revere bank of this city, had shot himself five times in the head at the Preble House, Portland, Me. Elder is 23 years old, and has been missing from his parents' home at Newton since Saturday last. Up to the time of his disappearance he was a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Salisbury and Salisbury.

AMESBURY, Mass., Dec. 5.—The present town of Salisbury will contest for the $600,000 left the poor of the town of Salisbury as constituted prior to 1886, and that year annexed to Amesbury. The contest will be on the ground that Salisbury is the only town of the name in Massachusetts, and accordingly is the interested beneficiary by the will of the late John W. Hilton.

Accountant Puzzled.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 5.—Expert Accountant Guild, who has been examining the books of John H. O'Neil, the missing clerk of the American Hand Sewed Shoe company, states that he has found a check for about $3000, which mystifies him. The check was payable to a Providence man, who had no connection with the firm. Nothing further has been heard of O'Neil.

Spaniards or Cubans?

HARTFORD, Dec. 5.—Agents of the Cuban revolutionary party are said to be here for the purpose of buying arms of the Colt's Patent Firearms company, and see if Pratt and Whitney's people have any machine guns that can be put together at short notice. Several men, looking like Spaniards or Cubans, are said to have held a conference here last evening.

Evicted His Family.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 5.—During a heavy snowstorm last night Patrick Kilroy, while crazed with drink, drove his wife and three small children from their home. It was about 11 o'clock, and the evicted ones were clad only in their night clothes. Mrs. Kilroy plodded through the snow in her bare feet and notified the police, and Kilroy was arrested.

Law and Prohibition.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 5.—The officers of the Law and Order league had a hearing with the police commission yesterday, and demanded that the prohibitory law be enforced. They made a general claim that both the police and the commissioners were at fault in not enforcing the law. The commissioners took the matter under consideration.

In a Queer Hiding Place.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 5.—Three bushels of mail matter of all classes were accidentally discovered hidden in the loft of the fire department building at Centre yesterday. Constant complaints have been made of mail being undelivered, and three postoffice inspectors have been working here. The sealed matter had not been opened.

Living a Little Cheaper.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 5.—Commissioner S. W. Matthews of the industrial and labor statistics finds in his investigation that the average cost of food for a person in Maine a day for the last year has been 13 cents. Four years ago the matter was investigated and was found to be 14 cents a day.

Didn't Attend to Business.

BOSTON, Dec. 5.—Another shake-up in the police department occurred last night, when a general order was issued transferring six sergeants and half a dozen minor officers. The change is due to a lax system of making reports, which the commission requires of all sergeants.

Yale's Football Captain.

SUPPORT OF CONGRESS

Will Be Given the President In Dealing With Turkish Affairs.

Reed Going Slow on Committee Appointments.

Congressional Sentiment on Financial Issues Raised by the President.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. — The senate worked yesterday while the house enjoyed a recess, but most of the business transacted was of a routine character.

Mr. Hoar showed the disposition toward co-operation with the president in dealing with the Turkish question by offering a resolution denouncing the atrocities in Turkey, and assuring the executive branch of the cordial endorsement by congress of a vigorous course for the protection of American citizens in Turkey and the suppression of the barbarities against Christianity.

Mr. Hoar did not ask immediate action on the resolution, but he secured the adoption of another resolution requesting the president to submit to the senate all correspondence relating to Turkey. The resolution makes specific inquiry as to what American consuls are absent from their posts by reason of the disorder prevailing.

The first formal speech of the session was made by Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.) on Cuba and the Monroe doctrine. It was read from manuscript and was lacking in the spirit expected in the treatment of these questions. Mr. Allen urged the recognition of the Cuban insurgents, the annexation of Cuba and a strong foreign policy.

The influx of bills continued, several hundred being added to those already introduced.

Policy of Republicans.

Charles C. Jackson, a Boston banker, has been in Washington studying congressional sentiment upon the issues raised in the president's message. He has talked with the influential leaders of the house upon the business propositions involved, and his conclusions, as foreshadowing probable legislative action, are of value.

Mr. Jackson says: "The most probable outcome will be a law authorizing the secretary of the treasury to sell short-term, low-rate coin bonds, not gold bonds, and short-term certificates of indebtedness, in order to maintain the reserve, coupling with it the obligation on the part of the secretary to keep the accounts of the gold reserve entirely separate from the ordinary receipts and expenditures of the treasury.

"This separation of accounts will be a great step in advance, and although gold bonds would be far better than coin bonds, the latter will undoubtedly give the secretary ample power to maintain the reserve at the proper level. By resolution or law, congress is likely to charge the secretary with the duty of keeping a larger gold reserve than the $100,000,000.

"I cannot help believing that if Speaker Reed, with all his great vigor of mind and will, would come out boldly in favor of the withdrawal of the United States legal tender paper, his influence, with that of the president, and with the growing conviction among business men all over the country that such action is essential, would produce positive results upon the action of congress."

Mr. Jackson's observations represent the ascertainable sentiment of the progressive element of house leaders, and were there no senate the probability of legislation along these lines would be granted. As it is, it is too early to know what kind of financial measures can get through the upper chamber.

Guessers Kept Busy.

Members who were closeted for brief times with Mr. Reed yesterday declare that they have no knowledge as to what the speaker intends to do as to committee appointments.

A constant string of visitors have been received by Mr. Reed, but they have emerged with a paucity of information. They say that the speaker listens to all they tell him about the committee places, which they think should be allotted to themselves and their friends, and then he says there is plenty of time yet, and he will give the matter his careful consideration.

Not even by insinuation does he let fall any scraps of information. It is said on good authority that Mr. Reed has slated but few of the many new members for their new positions yet, as he intends to meet them first and take their measures personally. It is shown that Mr. Reed has told certain members who have been preparing resolutions touching upon foreign affairs to confer with Mr. Hitt (Ills.) and obtain his views before they introduce their resolutions.

There is little information in this, however, for it has been a foregone conclusion that the chairmanship of foreign affairs would fall to Mr. Hitt, the only possible obstacle being the fear that his health might not permit him to take up the work.

An Interesting Discovery.

After the senate Republican caucus adjourned yesterday the discovery was made that one of the senate rules allows the appointment of the members of the committees, except the chairman, by a plurality of the votes cast. Inquiry shows this rule, the existence of which had been forgotten, was put into operation as long ago as 1830, and has continued in force ever since. Under it the Republicans can elect the members of the committee, except the chairman, because they have beyond doubt a plurality in the senate, unless all the Populists should vote with the Democrats against them.

Endorsed by Hill.

FORTRESS MONROE, Va., Dec. 5.—Senator Hill of New York arrived here last night from the northwest. Upon being told of Judge Peckham's nomination to the United States supreme bench, he replied: "The nomination is an excellent one and will be confirmed."

Domestic Difficulties Settled.

TONAWANDA, N. Y., Dec. 5.—C. W. Lewis, a sawmill man of New Haven, came here yesterday in search of his wife, who mysteriously disappeared some time ago. They patched up their difficulties, and returned to Connecticut last night.

He Paid His Wager.

Tim Dolan and Owen Dolan are both members of the Be Game Pleasure club. Tim thought Mr. Adams would be elected Mayor and Owen was sure that Mr. Hammond would be the winner, so they entered into an agreement that the man who got left should wheel the other in a baby carriage from Pierce's corner to City Hall.

Owen lost, and Wednesday evening, true to his agreement, he was on hand to pay his bet.

Tim seated himself comfortably in the carriage, and perhaps allowed his thoughts to wander back to the days of his babyhood, when he was his mamma's little darling.

The carriage was gayly bedecked with bunting, and over the carriage to protect his head was a red, white and blue umbrella. When all was ready the procession started on its journey being escorted by the members of the club who were augmented by many who were on the street at the time.

Owen did his part in good shape and in spite of the many exclamations hurled at him along the way, he wheeled Tim to City hall. The club then adjourned to its rooms where a collation was served.

Quincy Debating Club.

The Quincy Debating club holds a meeting tonight in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. The time for meeting is 7.30 P. M. and let everyone make a special effort to be on hand promptly. It is so easy for a club to begin its meetings five minutes late then ten minutes late, and then nobody knows how late. The debating club intends to start aright and begin its meetings at the time set.

A special effort has been made to make this meeting a success and it is hoped that as many as can, ladies as well as gentlemen, will accept the invitation which has been extended to them to be present.

After the principal disputants have spoken the debate will then be thrown open for five minute speeches from the floor and all non-members and members are invited to take part.

A Good Fireman.

A well-known citizen of Edison street has a new method of extinguishing fires, which Chief Williams might possibly put in use. While our friend was quietly snoozing the other morning he was aroused by the servant girl's cry of fire. Hastily stepping into his trousers he hastened down stairs and found a pan of fat on the stove all afire. He thought a moment, and to him to think is to act, and hastily seizing a shovel he shoveled the burning fat out of doors just as easily as though he was shoveling snow off the street railway tracks.

ANNUAL BANQUET.

Young Men's Christian Association Entertain Business Men.

Mayor-Elect Adams One of the Speakers and Royally Received.

In response to invitations issued, between seventy-five and eighty of Quincy's well known citizens gathered at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian association, Wednesday evening, to participate in the reception and banquet tendered the granite manufacturers and business men of Quincy by the Association.

The guests began to arrive early in the evening, when they were received and made welcome by General Secretary Colton and the officers of the Association.

From 6 to 7 o'clock an opportunity was afforded those present to inspect the rooms as well as to witness the class in clay modelling at work. This was very interesting and showed a number of young men diligently at work moulding the shapeless mass of clay into beautiful pieces of work. Everybody was more than pleased at this exhibit which received naught but the highest praise from our business men, who had but little idea previous to this visit of the work that was being done.

Among those present were Mayor-elect Adams, Rev. Edward Norton, George F. Pinkham, A. D. Albee, Henry H. Faxon, E. S. Litchfield, Theodore Gullickson, Herbert W. Pinkham, Andrew Milne, George E. Thomas, Delcevare King, E. L Gourd, M. P. Fuller, J. W. Pinkham, Fred White, A. A. Lincoln, Jas. Frank Merrill, C. Sampson, T. J. H. Totman, Geo. T. Magee, Alex. Marnock, Fortes Craig, J. H. Rev. Walter Russell Breed offered the blessing and an hour or more was then devoted to the inner man.

A. D. Albee, the President, opened the post prandial exercises. The Association was glad to make the acquaintance of the business men and to acquaint them with its work. He gave a few statistics, and spoke of the work among the railroad employes. There was also work among the Negroes and Indians. The work was uplifting and in Quincy it will prove no exception. During the year the debt had been wiped out. The current expenses this year would be about $4,200.

George F. Pinkham was introduced as the presiding officer. He said the Association was for young men, who must be kept out of the saloons. His statement that the saloons had been driven out of the city never to return was roundly applauded.

W. G. Corthell spoke of the works of art abroad, particularly those in granite. How he had been unable to get a small knife blade between two stones laid without mortar centuries ago. It was a pleasure to live in a town with something solid and enduring like granite. Past centuries had lessons to teach us that beauty and utility went together. Ancient tombs were impressive because of their massive grandeur. He often wondered if the stone cutters of Quincy realized how enduring was the work they were doing.

Rev. E. N. Hardy spoke of the relation of the church to the Association, after telling a good cat story. The Association stood for the body, the soul and the mind; three dimensions to solid life. Business, represented extension; education, breadth; and religion, depth or height. Religion welcomes most heartily anything that looks to an enlargement of business. So with education. Was glad that business was recognizing that education and religion were necessary to business prosperity. The Y. M. C. A. has a prominent part to do and it is a work the church cannot do. It helps the churches, unites the churches and develops manhood. It shows religion to be practical. We need more business in the church.

Mayor-Elect Adams

Was next introduced and received a grand ovation, enthusiastic and long. He was asked to speak of the relation of the Y. M. C. A. to the State and city. A city he said depended on its institutions, and we wish to make them lasting. We need the Y. M. C. A. men to make municipal affairs what they should be. It was not the laws themselves but the moral support given them that made us peaceful and prosperous. When the citizens wake up they will overthrow Tammany Hall, Gormanism, and ring rule The Y. M. C. A. can point out that there is a real duty for young men in politics. The highest duty of young men was to the city, State, and nation. If Y. M. C. A. can teach this it will be doing a grand mission. It was worth while to undertake it and throw life into it Applause.

The Y. M. C. A. quartette then rendered a pleasing selection and were encored.

Representative James Thompson received an enthusiastic greeting, and spoke of the relation of the association and the granite cutter. The institution was founded on broad and liberal lines. Not alone on religious lines, but the physical and educational. The equal of Quincy granite had not been found and with skilled labor no competition need be feared. This association in training and equipping the young men in granite line, is to be recommended and supported.

Hon. W. B. Rice said a gathering like this tonight had a power to do anything it pleases in politics or for prosperity in the city. He was interested in what the Association was doing for the granite industry.

J. M. Nowland, instructor in Sloyd work, explained the work to the interest of all.

Frederick White of Boston, assistant State Secretary told of the power of adaptibility of the Association to any work, and congratulated Quincy for taking the lead in educational classes.

Rev. Robert Westly Peach likened the Y. M. C. A. to a Christian clearing house. He thought Quincy also needed a board of trade.

The quartette rendered two more selections.

E. S. Litchfield, one of the directors, spoke of the "sinews of war," thanking the business men for their hearty support, and telling of needs of the year.

Secretary Colton was introduced as the efficient secretary, and spoke of the outlook, hoping to see a grand building soon.

H. M. Federhen thought we ought always to help those who were trying to do good.

E. H. Dewson expressed hearty sympathy with the work being done and told a good story.

A vote of thanks to the Woman's Auxiliary for the banquet closed the festivities.

The Novelty Entertainment.

Quite a large number partook of an excellent supper at the Universalist vestry last evening. A very fine clam chowder, prepared by Mrs. Frank Hobart, was much enjoyed. The entertainment was a variety one, arranged under the guiding hands of Mrs. Pierce, Mrs. Wales and Mrs. Hobart, and gave general satisfaction; the vocal and instrumental music was good; also the tableau, and "The House that Jack Built."

—Janitors did not receive large pay in old times. In the year 1703 the town of Lynn paid the sexton two pounds thirteen shillings for "sweeping ye meeting house and Ringing ye bell for ye past year," and "one shilling for fitting ye Clapper for ye bell."

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

The Use of Granite for Building Purposes and Street Work.

Paving Blocks and Slabs and the Tools Used.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

Blocks are counted as they are thrown into the cart, which is usually needed to haul them to the shipping point. Several paving-block quarries in Maine are situated on steep mountain slopes so near water communication that blocks may be slid in long board chutes from the quarry directly into the hold of the vessel used for their transportation.

Paving breakers seldom work by the day, but are paid a certain sum per thousand for making the blocks, the price paid in 1889 ranging from $22 to $30, according to the size of block made, kind of stone used, locality, and whether the tools were furnished and the blocks quarried by their employers. Workmen using their own tools are commonly paid $1 more per thousand for the blocks made, and when they quarry the stock they use, from $2 to $5 per thousand is allowed in addition.

Curbing and Basin Heads.

Next in importance to the manufacture of paving blocks, in the division of granite for street work, is the production of long granite slabs for curbstones. Granite having a free rift is preferred for this purpose on account of its better working qualities. The dimensions of ordinary curbstones are from 6 to 12 feet long, 6 to 8 inches thick, and about 2 feet deep. The top edge is made full and square and neatly bush hammered, the face is also bush hammered down about a foot from the top. The ends are dressed smooth, so as to make close joints, and the back of the stone, which is placed next to the sidewalk, is also dressed a few inches from the top.

Other Uses.

Other applications of granite to street work are for flagstone, for cross walks laid at the intersection of streets, and for gutter stone, but these are dressed, when required, in the usual manner, and need no special comment here.

Granite is largely used for making macadam and telford roads and concrete and artificial stone pavements, though it is seldom quarried expressly for this purpose, but made of spalls, grout, and waste from other quarries. The pieces are broken with sledges where coarse stones are needed, or run through power rock breakers when a finer subdivision is required.

Benjamin Franklin Stover, Nellie Stover and Charles Stover aged respectively 10, 6 and 5 years, and children of Charles E. Stover of Penn street, did a little celebrating on their own account.

They entered the store of Mrs. Kincaide on Water street which was in charge of a clerk. The boy pretended that he wanted to purchase a comb and while the clerk was busy with him the girl slid behind the counter and took a $2 bill from the money drawer.

When this was accomplished she came from behind the counter and as there were no combs that seemed to suit the boy they went out and directly to the Quincy Adams depot where the older boy purchased two half tickets for Boston.

The agent eyed the children sharply but let them have the tickets giving them all silver in change. The two younger children not having to pay fare. They took the 11.10 train for Boston and started on their lark.

Arriving in Boston the boy purchased a pair of rubber boots for which he paid $1.30 and the balance of the money with the exception of two cents, was spent in candy, fruit, etc.

Officer Furnald in the mean time had been notified, and took the next train for Boston. He found them on Kneeland street headed for the depot. He followed them into the depot and to the smoker of the 1.15 train. Officer Furnald then took charge of them and brought them to Quincy.

LAWYERS VERSUS DOCTORS.

Neither Needed if Laws of Land and Health Are Obeyed.

The Quincy High School debating society met Wednesday. Mr. William Walsh '97 presided at the opening of the meeting but gave up the chair to Miss Chapman. Secretary Meder offered his report, which was accepted and adopted.

The debate of last week was completed. The subject was: "Lawyers versus Doctors."

For the doctors,—Mr. William Walsh, '97; Mr. Wilkins, Mr. Mitchell.

When the debate was open to the society Mr. Wilkins, Mr. Foley, Miss Leake, Mr. Coe spoke.

The statement was made that if the laws of the country were obeyed, there would be no need of lawyers. In reply it was stated that if the laws of health were properly obeyed, there would be no need of doctors. This statement was warmly discussed by Miss Leake and Mr. Coe.

The doctors won.

The entertainment was as follows:

Essay, "What I know about Etiquette," Miss Rothwell, '96. A very interesting paper on a subject of great importance.

Recitation, Miss Ramsey, '96. Pleasingly and clearly rendered.

The Brownies Celebrate Election.

BY FARMER FOX.

When Morton left this far famed shore,
His May-pole dance and revels o'er,
We Brownies fled beneath the waves,
And since have dwelt in ocean caves;
Save when upon some great even',
A night upon the land is spent,
We help to celebrate the day,
As Brownies do, in some grand way.

The night was dark, no light was seen,
Save from Long Island's beacon gleam;
A marshalled host stood on the sand,
And waited there their chief's command;
They shook the sea weed from their hair,
They pranced and danced, and skipped in air,
They crossed the meadows bare and brown,
A goodly place of great renown.
A mansion house of stately mien,
Straight in the Brownies course was seen;
In well stored barns the Brownies knew,
They'd find they had some work to do.

They threshed the yellow sheaves of grain,
The horses groomed, and fed again,
They milked the cows, and butter made,
Then sold the milk, and found it paid;
They took the honey from the bees,
They stripped the apples from the trees,
The pumpkins rip'ning in the sun,
Were baked in pies, and browned well done;
The corn when husked to mill was sent,
For Brownies on a feast were bent.

To the best market, in the square,
Five hundred Brownies did repair,
They emptied shelves, and cleared the floor.
A hundred sheep, and oxen four,
And all the vegetable that grew,
To serve up with their barbecue;
Of fruits and nuts, a keg of yeast,
They found enough for Brownies feast.

Then out upon the street again,
Their heavy burdens cause them pain;
Some mode of transport we must find,
Next puzzled the chief Brownie's mind;
Not long in doubt they crossed the square,
And found ten cars were waiting there.
Inside the house, and fast asleep,
The car men, safe their watch did keep,
Till morning hours their lights shall burn,
When from the dance the guests return.

The Brownies well their trolleys guide,
As down Sea street they softly glide,
They reach the mansion by the sea.
The cooks all laugh in merry glee,
And set to work without delay,
To make of this a grand display;
Then spake the captain of the host,
We'll leave you cooks, your meats to roast,
And serve, when it is nicely brown,
We've other business in the town.

We'll build a sewer deep and wide,
From Hills of Blue, to Squantum's side;
And roads that run in every way,
Shall boast of good McAdams sway;
A massive fountain white and tall,
Shall furnish water pure to all.
In marble halls the children taught
Deep wisdom, with much goodness fraught;
A court house grand our eyes shall greet,
The City Fathers there will meet,
And learned Councils shall agree
To talk in sweetest harmony.
We'll pay the debt from off the town,
And taxes shall no more be known.
A license here ne'er shall be found,
Its influence spreads the world around.

The Brownies paused, the East a light
Of wondrous beauty burst on sight,
Then hied they down to Quincy Bay,
For Brownies ne'er are seen by day.

NOW FOR PRESIDENT

Councilmen Anderson, Bryant, Pinkham and Claflin Named.

But for his course in bolting the Republican nomination for the Mayoralty, Councilman Bryant might have smooth sailing for the Presidency of the Council of 1896, but there are some grave doubts now.

COUNCILMAN BRYANT.

Several of the Councilman who have been interviewed do not wish to be quoted but they do not feel as if they could consistently suppo.. Mr. Bryant. Realizing this another Wollaston Councilman is brought forward, in Mr. Pinkham. He is a rising young lawyer with a good knowledge of parliamentary law.

There will be other candidates, and R F. Claflin and L. S. Anderson are already suggested.

The Council is composed of 17 Republicans and 6 Democrats, and 12 votes will be necessary for a choice.

COUNCILMAN-ELECT ANDERSON.

President Bass, who has occupied the chair three years, will not be in the next Council, not being a candidate for reelection.

Councilman Johnson, who had aspirations to be President, lacked 37 votes of an election. He attributes his defeat to the Hammond men and his votes on the schoolhouses, but says he is willing to stand on his record particularly as he has since election received several letters of regret.

Councilman Bryant will enter upon his third year of service. In 1891, he was on the Committee on Streets, and Committee on Public Buildings. The present year he is chairman of the Street committee and also a member of the Finance committee.

Councilman Pinkham is now serving his first year and is a member of the important Committee on Sewers and Water.

Mr. Claflin is without experience in the Council, which would be against his candidacy, even if he wanted it, which is doubtful.

Mr. Anderson is not a member of the present Council but served in 1893 and 1894, one year on the Committees on Streets and Water, and the other on Finance and Water.

WITH KOREA'S KING.

COLONEL COCKERILL VISITS THE MONARCH OF THE HERMIT KINGDOM.

A Pitiable Ruler of Men—Pigeontoed, Thin, Bloodless, Clinging to General Dye, an American, For Support—General Choy, Minister of War.

This afternoon I went with Dr. Allen and the Russian minister, Mr. Waeber, to have audience with the distressed king of Korea. All was quiet enough about the palace. Korean troops were posted at all the gates and about the inclosures. Taken in hand by the gelatinous and ponderous minister of the household, we were led to the small and rather indifferent pavilion now occupied by the king of Korea. Mounting a few steps and crossing a veranda, we entered a small room, and, turning to the left, we saw in the doorway of a still smaller apartment, decorated in simple Korean style, the poor king, standing, pigeontoed and pavidly, beside his flabby son, still known as the crown prince.

The king is small in stature, thin and bloodless looking. The events of the last few days had added to his waxiness, and his nervousness was painful to behold. He clasped his hands agonizingly, and his smile was piteous as he received us one by one. Turning to the Rev. H. G. Jones, who acted as interpreter, he inquired if he might not shake hands with us. One by one he shook each of us by the hand with considerable fervor and then placed the hand of each visitor into that of his grinning, imbecile son by his side.

THE KING AND CROWN PRINCE.

It should be noted that since this emeute the new cabinet has been trying to get General Dye, the American who is organizing the Korean army, out of the palace. The king has clung to him, and though urged to remove or dismiss the general he has refused to do so. While we were standing before the king the new minister of war, General Choy, was announced on urgent business. He was admitted.

This cutthroat is understood to have been the chief conspirator in this murderous revolution. He is the man who falsely led the Korean troops to the palace on the morning of the butchery. His face is brutal and his mien ignoble in the highest degree. He informed the king that he had come to request that General Dye be directed to leave the palace and come to the war department, where he could be consulted.

Dr. Allen at this point said that General Dye had come to Korea under the auspices of the United States minister; that his appointment to the army as organizer and instructor had been made by the king, and his contract with that personage attached him to the royal household. He would not permit him to quit the palace until he had communicated with the authorities in Washington. The stolidlike gunner wished to discuss the matter. He said that all he wanted was to employ General Dye at the war department, and that he was willing to increase his rank and emoluments, but Mr. Allen informed him that his answer was definite, and the question was not debatable.

At this juncture General Dye, venerable, white bearded, but soldierly in every aspect, stepped to the front and said that he was here to serve the king of Korea. He cared nothing for rank. As he now held the place of vice minister of war there could be no elevation for him save the ministership, and that he did not covet. He would not quit the palace unless the king chose to violate his contract and personally order him from the royal inclosure. General Dye spoke firmly and bravely.

GENERAL DYE.

The fact is, General Dye is a terrible witness against the assassins and conspirators who are now dominating the government. The old usurper is anxious to be rid of him. If the general could be induced to give up his contract and retire from the country, he could have a large sum of money. If he can be taken outside the palace, he will probably be made way with. He sleeps with his guards in a little room at the end of the royal library building, the finest piece of Korean architecture in the country, and there he proposes to stick, loyal to the king and faithful to the end. The spectacle which this sturdy, grizzled soldier presents is somewhat sublime.—John A. Cockerill in New York Herald.

Turned the Church Into a Jail.

The village of Mount Healthy, O., has been incorporated only a short time, and until recently had no town hall or jail. The old Free church had been unused for years, and it was hit upon as a good place for the jail. A cell has been fitted into it, and the old house of worship is now used entirely as a prison.—Chicago Tribune.

LADY FOOTBALLERS.

Russellville, Ky., can boast of the only ladies' football team in the state. The young ladies of Logan college have purchased a pigskin and gone into training. Their system of training is unknown, but is supposed to consist of a mile run and a cold bath before breakfast and cold potatoes to eat. The line up of the team could not be learned, but the captain of the team is said to be low of stature and rather solidly built. The center rush is a large golden haired beauty, and the quarter back is a small girl with black hair. One of the half backs is a rather slender blond girl, medium height, and the other a dark girl of the same height more stoutly built.

Many of the young ladies are said to be bruised from practice. One girl, who has hair exactly the color of the ball, in one of the scrimmages was kicked in the face by another girl, who supposed she was kicking the ball. For several days her face was swollen up like she had the mumps. The bloomer suits have not yet arrived, and it is not known whether or not any games are scheduled to take place outside of Logan college campus. It is presumed that the team is ready to meet any young ladies' seminary in the land.—Russellville (Ky.) Ledger.

THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

Secretary McParlin Thinks It Will Elect the Next President.

Lawrence J. McParlin, secretary of the national executive committee of the People's Party, said recently that the reports to the effect that the People's Party national committee was going to resign are too silly and dishonest for any reputable paper to print. "This fall," he said, "we have increased our vote in every state except one, doubled it in one state and trebled it in another, and we are the only national party that has gained in all the states. We will go into the presidential contest united, and with us will be the silver men of the south and west, who have not heretofore acted with us. There will be a split in both the old party national conventions on the financial question. We will gain those in favor of silver. This will result in our party going to the people in favor of free coinage of silver at 16 to 1, while the gold monometallists will be divided into two parties, Democratic and Republican. The result will be the election of a president by the People's Party or by the house of representatives. In either event the next president will be a silver man. The only thing necessary to unite all the silver forces is for the People's Party to drop the subtreasury plan for the Omaha platform. The party will demand that all the other planks remain."

Amherst's Coming Expedition.

The Amherst college eclipse expedition to Japan in 1896 is now assured, and Professor David P. Todd, who will be at the head of the expedition, has been busy for some weeks perfecting the arrangements. This is the first scientific expedition to go out distinctly under the name of Amherst, although Professor Todd has previously directed five expeditions for astronomical research.

The expedition will sail from San Francisco next spring on the schooner yacht Coronet, which will be in command of Captain Arthur C. James, New York Yacht club, a member of the class of '89. The yacht is now at New York, but will start early next month for its long trip round Cape Horn. Mrs. James and Mrs. Todd will accompany the expedition. Owing to the difficulties and dangers of sailing in the Arctic ocean, Professor Todd has decided to fix his post of observation on the island of Yesso, one of the largest northern islands of the Japanese empire.—New York Sun.

A Ghastly Halo.

For a long time reports have now and again come from Michigan that belated hunters had seen a wild deer with a halo around its head and every time the superstitious huntsman took to his heels and made tracks for the nearest habitation.

A few nights ago a hunter with more courage than others who had seen the wonder came across the deer in a clearing and took deliberate aim and fired. The deer fell dead in his tracks, and the brave hunter found that what had been supposed to be a halo was a bleached human skull firmly imbedded between the antlers.—Philadelphia Press.

Great Canal Projects.

While we are pondering whether we ought to invest as much as from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 in a waterway that will cut through from the Atlantic to the Pacific the French are talking of the very costly project of connecting the Mediterranean with the bay of Biscay by a canal across France. This canal would require fortified entrances, and since it would largely be undertaken for strategic purposes it is urged that a better expenditure of the vast sum needed could be made in furnishing a larger fleet.—New York Sun.

Brother of Dr. Livingstone.

A brother of Dr. Livingstone, the famous African explorer and missionary, is in Fremont, Wash., where he arrived a week or so since on a visit to his son, a resident of that place. His name is John Livingstone, and he is 86 years of age. He appears to be of as hardy a physical type as was his famous brother, and shows little of the weakness that would be natural at his age. He has another son living in southern California, whom he will visit before returning to his old home.

DEEPLY LAID PLOTS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 5. — The book of "missing links," which has been prepared by Michael Quinlan, the detective employed by the Haywards, was given to the printers yesterday afternoon. It is of remarkable interest, inasmuch as it represents the closing act in the drama of Harry Hayward's life.

The whole book is virtually a confession of Hayward's guilt. Quinlan, himself, evidently believes in it most thoroughly. Two chapters are devoted to a running account of the crime and trial. The remaining chapters are devoted to the "links," and are so designated. The most important is that on which the confession is based, which appears in link five. In that chapter a visit to Hayward at the jail is detailed by the detective. Harry had been discussing with his detective a preposterous plan for getting Adry out of the way. The plan was an exceedingly ingenious and daring one. Quinlan said:

"Well, Harry, your scheme is a great one, and well put up, but you must remember that you only look at one side of it. You know there are two sides to everything. You remember how well your plot was laid in you last job on the murder of Miss Ging, and you see how poorly you put up that job. You look only at one side of it."

"Well," replied Hayward, petulantly, "who in heaven's name would think that his own brother would go back on him? Had Adry stayed with me, I would never have cared what Blixt or Stewart would have said. They did not disprove my loan to Kit (Miss Ging) on the trial, and that alone would have carried out my theory."

"That," says Quinlan, "was Hayward's conversation."

On another occasion Hayward said to Quinlan: "If Adry only told all the truth and the facts as they are, he would not help me any, but he would get hanged, just as I expect to be. We both deserve hanging for the crimes we have committed before this."

A third confession is narrated just at the close of the book, in a bit of unwritten history. It simply states at one time, while Adry was on the stand, Harry announced to some of his friends that he was going to throw up the sponge and confess the whole thing. He was only deterred from this by the earnest solicitation of those interested in the case, the appeal being placed solely

"For His Mother's Sake."

Quinlan claims to have secured the first knowledge of the attempt to break jail through a question from Dr. Thadd s Hayward, who came to his office and wanted to know what he would charge to go away with a man and keep him under cover for one year.

The detective describes the effrontery exhibited by Harry in requesting Quinlan to send to Chicago or St. Louis for a real live cutthroat, who knew his business and be ready for a consideration to enter Elder Stewart's house, blow chloroform through a quill into the elder's bedroom, and when he was gone "off" to enter the room, "remove" him with a rope around his neck, and then clean out the place. Harry was to put the thug "on" so he could make a rich haul, and people would think the elder had been murdered for his money.

The plan of kidnapping Adry had been already explained. Harry congratulated himself that with Adry and the elder "removed," Assistant County Attorney Hall "could get no more lies out of them."

Two of the most important bits of evidence, the "T" rail and the soldered can are touched upon, each being given a chapter. The connection of the former with Harry Hayward's first plan to kill Miss Ging with it is shown in chapter 3—how Harry had planned it out by the lonely road and expected to do the job with it, but failed through his "coward heart."

A good deal of space is devoted to Adry Hayward's connection with the case. He says Adry was interested with him in burning the mill at Hamill, and participated in the profits from the insurance. He also accused Adry of being the robber who held up Harry, Miss Ging and a companion one evening a year ago last summer at Lake Calhoun. Harry, according to Quinlan, was in the scheme and held the head of the horse while his brother was trying to snatch diamonds from the occupants of the carriage.

The book exposes a good many of the double purposes of the actors in the drama, and shows clearly how deceived and mystified were Harry's attorneys by their client's actions.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Daily News this morning prints a long account of the Kharpoot disorders.

It says: There was a slight attack on Sunday, Nov. 10. On Monday the Kurds and Turks attacked Husenik and slaughtered many Christians. Soldiers from Kharpoot went out to meet them, and parleyed with the Turks before the attacks began. It was plain that everything was planned, for the soldiers, in pretended defense of the Armenians, only fired over the heads of the Kurds.

The Christians were shot down everywhere. The American missionaries have written to their friends in Constantinople that Dr. Barnum applied to the military commander for protection. Some soldiers were sent, but they left directly, except two, who demanded backsheesh for remaining.

"We entered the school building," says the message from the American missionary, "and the Turkish officers summoned us out. We declined to come, and told them that we had no more confidence in them; that they could protect us there if their professions were sincere, otherwise we would die there. At last a Circassian named Mehmet Bey called the soldiers and helped us quench the fire.

"We were stripped of everything except the clothes we wore. On Tuesday Mehmet told us that he could no longer protect us in the college building, but Dr. Barnum still declined to leave. The attack was renewed, but in a milder form, and an order came from the government to stop the attack.

"All the Christian villages in the Kharpoot district have been burned except Garmuni, and 400 persons are still in refuge with the American missionaries."

Strike Is Still On.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5. — The executive board of the Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's union met last night, and, after a prolonged session, unanimously decided not to order the strikers back to work. This was regarded as a defiance to the Cornells and Millikens, and an answer to Cornell's statement that he would not meet a committee of his striking employes until the strike should be declared off. This will not be welcome news to the strikers, and the opinion prevails among them that their leaders should make strenuous efforts to bring about an immediate settlement.

Brady's Bluff.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Corbett will not agree to meet Fitzsimmons for the $20,000 purse offered by Dan Stuart of Texas. The ultimatum was handed to Stuart yesterday afternoon by William A. Brady. Stuart made a direct proposal that Corbett meet Fitzsimmons for a guaranteed purse of $20,000. "We have retired," was Brady's reply, and then he inaugurated a verbal whirlwind, the argument of which was to show the impossibility of breaking up a prospective profitable theatrical engagement just to fight Fitzsimmons.

War Has Begun.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Recent rumors of an impending legal attack upon the American Sugar Refining company crystalized yesterday when papers were served upon Secretary Searles in a suit to restrain the company from doing business in this state. John E. Parsons, of counsel for the company, was asked as to the person in whose name the papers were served. He replied that the name of the applicant was Hunt. Two names were filled in, but he could not recollect the other.

Leonard Girl Rescued.

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—The police officials of this city have in their possession a child which they claim is the daughter of Mrs. Leonard of Boston. The child was taken from gypsies at a point near the American border, where the Bohemians had fled from Three Rivers, after they learned that police were hunting them. The child is 3 years of age, a girl, and answers the published description of the little girl.

OUT OF LOYAL LEGION.

Ex-Commissioner Andrews Expelled From New York's Swell Commandery.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Major William S. Andrews, ex-street cleaning commissioner and formerly excise commissioner, was expelled from membership in the New York commandery of the Loyal Legion last evening. Major Andrews was found guilty by the commandery upon five of seven charges preferred against him, of conduct unbecoming an officer. Major Andrews has been active in his efforts to secure at the hands of the Legion of Honor the less severe punishment of suspension or reprimand. The charges were based upon testimony taken at the time of the sessions of the Lexow committee.

A Fearful Explosion.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 5.—An explosion of nitro-glycerine completely demolished the factory and two storage magazines at Humes' torpedo factory near Butler yesterday. Two employes named Black and Bester were killed. Portions of Black's remains were picked up 75 feet away, but nothing but a part of Bester's underwear can be found. It is thought the young men were thawing out a can of glycerine. The concussion shook houses and shattered windows for miles around.

Was Unavoidable.

BREWSTERS, N. Y., Dec. 5. — Coroner Penny held an inquest yesterday over the remains of the 10 men who were killed in the Tilly Foster mine disaster on Friday last. Ten minutes after the jury brought in a verdict finding that "these persons came to their deaths by being crushed by the slide of rock from the northeast side of the mine at Tilly Foster on Nov. 29, 1895, and it is the opinion of the jury, from the evidence adduced, that the accident was unavoidable."

Big Auction Sale.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Under a decree of the United States court, the leases and franchises of the Long Island Traction company were sold at auction today. This involves the Brooklyn Heights Railroad company, which has a 999-year lease of all the lines of the Brooklyn City Railroad company. The foreclosure suit was brought by the New York Guarantee and Indemnity company.

Story of Terrible Hardships.

HALIFAX, Dec. 5.—The Norwegian bark Elsie was wrecked on Anticosti island Nov. 23, during a hurricane. Her officers and crew, 20 in all, remaining in the rigging all night with the seas going over them, reached land, and then had to tramp two days and two nights to reach a habitation. They were frostbitten and footsore. They reached Halifax last night.

DIDN'T DO HIS DUTY.

Letter Carrier Rawson Claims That He Was Pressed For Time.

Nearly Twelve Bushels of Mail Matter Hidden.

Sealed Envelopes, Newspapers and Circulars Kicked About Promiscuously.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 6.—James A. Rawson, a substitute letter carrier, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of detaining United States mails. Rawson's offense was a strange one, and indicates one of two things: He was lazy, else he was crazy. Since last July he has, instead of delivering mail matter of the second and third class, been hiding it in a room used for a workshop, situated in the central engine house and directly over company M's drill hall.

The room is used by the employes of Superintendent of Fire Alarm Cummings as a repair shop and storeroom. The firemen and others employed in the vicinity have, from time to time, noticed Rawson, with a mail bag slung over his shoulder, go up stairs, but never for a moment suspected that there was anything criminal in his visits to the building.

Wednesday afternoon, however, one of the workmen had occasion to look for a cross arm, and in stooping down to get at it

Fished Out an Unsealed Envelope.

As he pulled at the arm he fished out packages of circulars, also in unsealed envelopes, and on looking further found a package of delineators.

He reported his discovery to Fireman Tabor, who notified Postmaster Sullivan. Assistant Postmaster Hoar and one or two others went over to the workshop, which is up three long flights of stairs, in the fourth story, and picked up nearly 12 bushels of mail matter.

It consisted mostly of Canadian newspapers and advertising circulars, some packages of pamphlets issued monthly, educational tracts and fashion books. There were about 10 sealed letters, nearly all from Canada.

It was found that the addresses showed a number of different routes, and suspicion fell on Rawson, the substitute, and the postmaster called him into his office and questioned him. Rawson finally admitted his guilt, and

He said that he had not the time to cover his route, and was afraid if he was late or unable to do his work within the time limit that he would be discharged. That was his explanation for his very strange conduct. He couldn't deliver his matter in eight hours. He said that no carrier was implicated with him.

Postmaster Sullivan immediately suspended Rawson, and conferred with Inspector Boynton in Boston. A warrant was sworn out by Commissioner Fiske, and last evening Rawson was arrested.

The culprit said he did not open any mail matter; neither did he destroy or steal any. He is about 23 years of age, and has been substituting since last April.

Two postoffice inspectors have been in the city for a few weeks looking after the carriers on the matter of overtime, loitering, etc., but these men had no connection with the Rawson case.

Workmen had been kicking about old and unsealed envelopes in the room mentioned since last July, at which time Rawson began to hide the mail matter.

Much of the stuff is such that people to whom it was addressed would never think of asking for it, and this explains why the case has gone so long undetected.

Detaining the United States mail is a criminal offense under the postal laws, punishable by a fine of $500 or one year's imprisonment.

Amesbury Women Terrified.

AMESBURY, Mass., Dec. 6.—Miss Annie Boothroyd, who was knocked down and injured by an unknown man on Powow street, Wednesday night, is in a critical condition. The affair has caused intense indignation here, as it is the fourth case of the kind that has occurred within a month. The object of the assault was robbery, as the man attempted to snatch the young woman's pocketbook. The women of Amesbury refuse to venture out alone after dark.

The Hyde Park Disaster.

BOSTON, Dec. 6.—The railroad commissioners have rendered their decision in the accident on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, at Hyde Park, five weeks ago, in which one man was killed and over a score injured. The commission finds that Engineer Burnham of the Providence express, the conductor and brakeman (John Austin, who was killed) of the local train were all negligent in not following the rules of the road more closely. Engineer Burnham has been on the road for many years.

Assessment Too High.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 6.—In the supreme court yesterday Chief Justice Matterson rendered the opinion that the tax assessment on $700,000 worth of personal property of the Rumford Chemical works was void. The company claimed that the assessment was illegal, and meant a tax payment by the concern of $8400 over any previous year.

AT SULTAN'S COMMAND

Moslems Would Gladly Inaugurate War Involving All Christendom.

What May Happen if Humiliated by the Powers.

Latest News From Turkey of a Decidedly Disquieting Nature.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Sultan of Turkey is the recognized head of the Moslem world, except the Persians and the people of Morocco, who are dissenters and followers of Ali, the son-in-law of Mohammed.

ABDUL HAMID II.

High officials are the authority for the statement that Sultan Abdul Hamid has appealed to Queen Victoria, Emperor William, the Czar of Russia and other European sovereigns to spare him the mortification of having gunboats sent through the Dardanelles against his protest, and predicting that such an occurrence would be followed not only by serious riots in Constantinople, but by a general uprising of Mohammedans all over the earth, who will revenge the insult to the head of their religion by attacking Christians wherever they find them.

There is a wide difference of opinion as to the number of believers in Mohammed. Estimates vary all the way from 175,000,000 to 400,000,000. There are 35,000,000 in China who are now in rebellion against the emperor, and are overrunning the western provinces. In India there is a Mohammedan population exceeding 40,000,000 more than in Turkey, where the total is 22,000,000. There are 30,000,000 in the Malay peninsula, 15,000,000 in Central Asia, 18,000,000 in northern Africa, 11,000,000 in Central Africa, 5,000,000 in Egypt, 11,000,000 in Arabia and 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 in Afghanistan. In southern Russia, in the Balkan peninsula and in Bulgaria the believers in this faith are very numerous, and there are large colonies in southeastern Austria. At least 60,000,000 Mohammedans are found in British colonies alone.

The sultan is recognized by all these people as a sacred person, the successor of Mohammed, just as the pope is recognized as the successor of St. Peter. They do not deny Christ, but consider him a Mohammedan prophet, and give his pedigree in the Koran. The Moslem will swear by Christ or by Mohammed with equal readiness, but Mohammed is last and the greater of their prophets and the founder of their religion.

In one of the mosques at Constantinople the green mantle of the prophet is preserved. If that is taken out and a holy war proclaimed, the whole Islam population of the entire world, except Persia and Morocco, would promptly respond, and the sultan is the only man who can issue such a proclamation.

Decisive Action Imminent.

The Times today prints a dispatch from Constantinople which says that the embassies have received instructions from their respective governments that the guardships question must be pushed home, and that it is impossible for the powers to retire from the positions which they have assumed.

A Berlin dispatch to The Daily News affirms that Germany has been much more active in endeavoring to settle the Armenian difficulty and to maintain the unity of the powers than is generally believed. "It was upon Germany's advice," says the dispatch, "that the porte opened negotiations for the submission of the Zeitoun insurgents, which, however, proved fruitless."

Information comes from Naples that a squadron of five Italian men-of-war is anchored at Gaeta, and is under orders to be in readiness to proceed to Turkish waters.

Mail advices from Jiddah, the seaport town of Mecca, dated Nov. 25, say that the Turkish authorities there have made several arrests among the chiefs of the Bedouins, with a view to force the tribes to surrender those persons who made an assault upon the British consul and vice consul, the Russian acting consul and the French consular secretary there on May 30 last. The Bedouins, as a reprisal, are trying to capture several Europeans to hold as hostages. It is feared that unless a settlement is arrived at, the caravans, during the coming pilgrimage season to Mecca, will be attacked by the Bedouins, and there will be much bloodshed. The whole country is now unsafe.

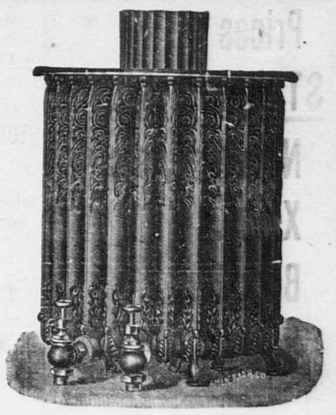

The Daily News has a dispatch from Constantinople to the effect that the embassies have unofficially informed the sultan that if the firmans for the extra guardships are refused, the Dardanelles will be forced by the powers. The same correspondent says: The venal press here congratulates the sultan upon the success of his reforms and of his repressive measures, but if the massacres diminish it is merely because victims are scarce. Today's news is that 200 Armenians were killed in Kaisariyeh (Cassarea). A massacre has occurred at Hassan Kahleh, in the villayette of Erzroom, about 20 miles east of the city of Erzroom, where the Armenian monastery was sacked and burned, and the bishop, the vicar and other inmates were killed. A feeling of alarm still prevails.

The Daily Telegraph has a dispatch from Vienna which says that 63 Armenians were butchered at Zileh and 57 at Hassan Kaleh, with every accompaniment of ingenious cruelty. This correspondent affirms that even in Constantinople the aspect of affairs is far from reassuring.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

THREE WOMEN are candidates for the School Committee in Boston, but they have not an Adams.

CHARLIE BRYANT is a candidate for alderman in Boston and he lives on Hammond street. Hammond is evidently good enough for the Boston Bryant.

CHARLES L. HAMMOND is mentioned as the next Republican candidate for Mayor, but Mr. Adams will be his own successor if he gives the city a non-partisan, independent administration.

THE MASSACHUSETTS Highway Commission held a public hearing for Norfolk County at the Court House in Dedham on Thursday afternoon. There was a discussion of questions relating to the public roads of the county and the work of the commission. Commissioner Perkins, who presided, told of the work done and being done in Norfolk County. His board had so far received 16 petitions from 14 towns in the county, asking for sections of State road aggregating 37.51 miles. So far work had been or was being done upon some over six miles of road in the towns of Walpole, Norwood, Wrentham, Holbrook and Weymouth.

Should not Quincy put in a petition and have a portion of the large appropriations spent here.

Fair at Atlantic.

The Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church, Atlantic, held a successful fair in Music hall on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings. The hall was tastily decorated, the American colors being in abundance.

There were many articles both ornamental and useful on sale and tables representing several days of the week which were presided over by the following: Monday—Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hammond; Tuesday—Mrs. G. A. Brown and Mrs. Mitchell; Wednesday (fancy) Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Woodward; Thursday, (reception) Miss Hammond, Miss Burr, Miss Moxon, Miss Stnezel, Miss Nelson, Miss Smith, Misses Brown, Miss Jennings and Miss Cassidy; Friday, Mrs. Clare and Mrs. McKay.

The Junior League had an attractive table presided over by members. Supper was in charge of Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Hislop. Ice cream and other refreshments were served by Mrs. Smith, Miss Smith and Miss Mitchell, and Mrs. John Ramsdell sold many cans of delicious preserves.

Mrs. J. Blanchard and Mr. Pember were occupants of the gypsy tent.

The entertainment on Wednesday evening consisted of musical and literary numbers, the music being in charge of Mr. E. J. Josselyn, while Rev. E. H. Hughes and Mr. Harvey Fleming conducted the literary part.

The fair was well attended, the attendance on Thursday evening being lessened somewhat by the storm.

Indicted At Dedham.

Among the indictments returned by the grand jury at Dedham Thursday were the following from Quincy: Anthony Powello, breaking and entering and larceny of bush hammers, four indictments; William Shields, larceny from a building. These are the two men who made almost nightly visits to the granite yards a few weeks ago, and in every case carried away from one to six bush hammers belonging to the workmen. These men were found guilty in the local court and held for the grand jury.

QUINCY DEBATING CLUB.

Good Arguments For and Against Woman Suffrage.

The inclement weather somewhat interfered with the attendance at the meeting of the Quincy Debating club Thursday evening, subject—"Resolved, That Massachusetts should grant full suffrage rights to women."

Alex. Craig opened the debate for the affirmative. He contended that no act was passed by the Legislature that did not effect both men and women alike. This being so, is it justice that the men should reserve the right to make laws? With the march of time woman is more clearly demonstrating her ability, and the advance she has made in art and literature shows her to be able to help make laws. The steps woman has taken have made her better able to protect the home and fight the battle of life. They are denied a voice in the spending of money, but the tax collector takes her money. Why should those who desire to vote be debarred from the right. There are questions in political life that involve the happiness and comfort of women, and they should be given the right to help make the laws.

Robert S. Atkins then opened the negative side of the question. He was heartily in sympathy with anything that would lesson woman's burden and add to her happiness. There can be no doubt that the majority of women do not want suffrage. We have not taken any right from women because she never had it. It was a dangerous experiment to try. If the majority of women are so indifferent would they not be easily influenced?

It would admit all classes of women and that would be dangerous. Women cannot be just like men. They may wear bloomers, a collar and a high hat, yet they cannot physically compete with men. The tax is paid for the protection it gives, and women may rely upon their husbands and brothers to protect their rights. It was not expedient or necessary for the public good to grant full franchise rights to women.

W. W. Parry, for the affirmative, said it was a fact that in the majority of our municipal elections the question of ability is not looked upon, but women if given the right to vote would look at the ability. Is it expedient that half of the people of this country should be denied equal suffrage? Women are more law abiding than men. Women are a majority of our school teachers and also in many manufacturing places. We do not go to the gambling places and saloons to find women, and they are equally capable to vote and use the ballot rightly. It was a notable fact that in the recent election the smallest vote in the affirmative was in the worst wards of Boston, and the largest affirmative vote in the best wards.

C. T. Tucker, replying for the negative, said the question should be stated "Should Massachusetts inflict full suffrage right on women." The prosperity of our country depends on our homes. It is made up of homes, not of individuals. Nature has rendered woman capable of doing many things men cannot. Man has been made physically stronger than woman, and he was given strength to do the harder part of the work, and woman was given the finer qualities that she might do the better part of the work of the home. Intellectually, she is the equal, if not the superior, of men, and he did not see any reason for men voting, except for the protection of their homes and families.

The contestants were then given five minutes each for rebuttal, after which a vote was taken as to the merits of the debate, which resulted 5 to 4 in favor of the affirmative.

The debate was then thrown open for anyone who desired to take part, and remarks in the negative were made by Delcevare King, E. S. Litchfield, O. C. Colton and by F. W. Crane, and J. M. Nowland in the affirmative.

MILTON.

The death of L. C. Barnes last Friday evening came like a shock to the people of East Milton. Mr. Barnes bought out the grocery and provision business of T. L. Pearce, and came from Wilton, N. H., Sept. 16. Shortly after he moved his family here, and the future looked bright for him. He was much pleased with the people of East Milton and those who came in contact with him were favorably impressed, and take it all in all he was the right man in the right place. Some twelve days ago he was stricken with typhoid fever from which he died. Prayers were said at his East Milton residence Saturday, after which the body was taken to Wilton, N. H., where funeral services were held from the Congregational church on Monday. He was 32 years of age and leaves a widow and a young son.

The East Miltons defeated the Wollastons at foot ball Thanksgiving day by a score of 8 to 0. The feature of the game was C. Gallagher's long run.

The ladies of the Congregational church are to hold a fair about Christmas time.

A lodge of the Ladies' American Protective Association was organized at East Milton, Tuesday evening, with 30 members.

A most brutal affair took place at East Milton, Monday. John Crowley was driving a stone team through the village, when one of the horses bothered him some, at which Crowley beat the horse unmercifully, which resulted in the death of the horse. Crowley was taken into court and fined $25.

Wor. Master Whiton thanked the installing officer for the beautiful and impressive manner in which his duties had been performed, and invited him to visit the lodge often.

Grand Lecturer Kaan replied with a speech. He found Rural lodge to be among the oldest and best and was pleased at its prosperity.

The lodge was closed and all were called to refreshments. Bro. Henry J. Seiler had spread a tempting repast of salads, escalloped oysters, croquettes, fritters, ice cream, sherbets, frozen pudding, cake, coffee, etc.

It was one of the pleasantest public installations ever held by Rural lodge.

WOLLASTON RED MEN.

The Hunter's Degree Last Sleep, and a Public Raising Up Next Moon.

Steadfastness of purpose and a strict adherence to the path of duty were among the more prominent traits of the primitive Red Men; and the members of Hodenosaunee tribe, O. R. M., of Wollaston, showed on last Thursday sleep that they are earnest in their emulation of the many good characteristics of the hardy race, whose customs they strive to perpetuate, for a very large number were present in the council chamber, in spite of the big snow storm.

The candidate showed his eagerness for advancement by coming from Montclair through drifts, which had almost entirely obliterated the trail. The work of the evening was the Hunter's degree, which was exemplified in an excellent manner under the chieftaincy of Past Sachem William A. Jordan.

Executive chiefs for the six moons beginning Jan. 1st were nominated, as well as clerical chiefs for the next great sun. The principal business of the council, however, was the decision of the tribe to have the chiefs "Raised Up" in public at the first council sleep in Cold moon (January); the general opinion being that, as the recent entertainment was so well received by the tribe's paleface friends, they should be given another opportunity to observe the customs of Improved Indians.

—A man in South Weymouth put up a job on his boy the other day. The lad is very fond of athletics and the man told him to go to a local store that is noted for the taking advertising display it makes in its windows and select what athletic goods he wanted. He went, but his heart is broken for they showed him a saw-horse and saw, the only athletic goods they keep.

—It will cost the government $7,500 to maintain the captive Apache Indians. But that is less than they cost the government when they were on the warpath. There are 296 of them all told, 50 of them being able-bodied and enrolled as soldier and kept under strict military dicipline. They are at Fort Sill, in the Indian Territory and about 1000 acres of prairie land is under cultivation by them.

—The largest church in the world is St. Peters in Rome, and the smallest is one 10 feet square in the Isle of Man.

—Owing to the trolley car the decrease in the use of oats in the past year amounted to over five million bushels.

A Mother's Report

"Hood's Sarsaparilla, is an excellent medicine. I have taken it for catarrh and impure blood and it has given me a good appetite and strength. My husband has also taken it and he is now in good health. When he feels a little run down he gets a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before it is gone he is all right and is able to work all the time. I give it to my baby occasionally, and we have never had to have a doctor attend her." MRS. E. K. WARREN, Greenfield, N. H., Box 34.

The sale and entertainment on Wednesday afternoon and evening in Knights of Honor hall, Wollaston, by the ladies of the Methodist Episcopal church was largely attended, and was a gratifying success socially and financially. The articles on the well filled tables were nearly all sold, and the busy workers who have been preparing for months for this sale, returned to their homes satisfied and happy. The same thing can de said of their many visitors and patrons. The orchestra's music was excellent and Miss Maude Hathaway's recitations greatly enjoyed.

Best Of All For Christmas.

Christmas wouldn't mean anything to one-half the world if this delightful custom of surprising your friends with gifts and tokens of friendship were not in existence. It is always a source of anxiety to many to know just what to give their friends, but most thoughtful givers consider first what will add most to the happiness, and give most enjoyment and comfort to those they wish to favor.

What's better than a luxurious Couch or Morris Chair, a Fancy Rocker, Banquet or Piano Lamp, Dinner Set, Tea Table, Writing Desk, Music Stand, Jardiniere or Picture. Even a Parlor or Chamber Set to some homes would be a most acceptable gift, and it will be a great pleasure for us to quote you prices worthy of consideration on any of these goods.

In Tartan Plaid.

A pretty wedding reception frock is made of creamy white broadcloth, combined with tartan plaid velvet. The skirt is abnormally full, setting out in perky folds, and lined with tartan plaid silk, which betrays itself at every step. The back is in blouse form, smoothly fitted at the top and finished by a high stock. It pouches gracefully over a narrow belt of cardinal velvet, just the color found in the plaid, and fastoded by a jeweled buckle. The sleeves add chic to the garment and make it as frenchy a creation as one would wish to see.

—The late judicial decision, that reserved seat tickets to any performance cannot be sold after the performance has commenced, is a knock-out blow to speculators who have made the lives of concert patrons miserable by buying up whole blocks of tickets, and then selling them on the sidewalk at an advance. The decision is to the effect that the holder must prove that he bought the ticket for personal use, before he can sell it to another person.

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

Granite for Cemetery Monumental and Decorative Purposes.

The Polishing of Granite—How It Is Prepared.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

Cemetery, Monumental and Decorative.

A considerable portion of the stone for these uses, especially for small-sized monuments, tombstones, and grave markers, is shipped from the quarries in rough blocks, which are suitably shaped and finished by masons working in town shops or stone yards. Large monuments and large polished blocks for buildings, columns, pilasters, and statuary are generally worked at quarry sheds, polishing mills, or shops not far distant.

There has been a decided increase in the use of polished granite for cemetery purposes since the introduction of machinery for its polishing, which has greatly decreased the price for this kind of finish. For these, as well as for all purposes where a polished surface is desired, as bottom courses in buildings, columns, pilasters, wainscoting, etc., the red, pink, dark-gray, and black varieties are in high favor, since they have a richer look and present a much greater contrast between a hammered or chiseled surface and a polished one; but for granite statuary and ornately carved building blocks, and for all purposes where it is desirable to present fine detail, it is necessary that the granite be of a light color, fine grained, and easily worked to secure the best results.

Polished Granite.

The varieties of granite susceptible of the highest and most enduring polish are those containing the largest percentages of the hard minerals, quartz and feldspar, quartz being especially important. Hornblende, however, takes a fairly good polish, and contributes largely to the coloring of most dark granites. Much mica, especially in large plates, is objectionable, as it will not polish, but remains dull and lusterless except where the direction of its cleavage planes happen to coincide with the face of the stone.

After being prepared by bush hammering, the block is transported to the shop or mill to receive further smoothing and its final finish. The surface to be worked upon is brought to a horizontal position and ground smooth with an abrasive material mixed with water and moved about by a revolving iron or steel disk perforated with holes or made of concentric rings. This disk, which is 12 or 14 inches across, is revolved by an upright shaft, to the bottom of which it is fastened, and the power is communicated through a main shaft running overhead. Joints in the upright or counter shaft and its peculiar attachment to the main shaft allow its lower end to be swung over a considerable area, thus permitting the workman who guides it to move it over a surface of stone many times larger than the disk itself.

MRS. ADDICKS LOSES.

Husband Now Contemplates Bringing Divorce Proceedings Himself.

WILMINGTON, Del., Dec. 6.—Commissioner Cooper yesterday afternoon made a return, recommending to the superior court that the petition of Mrs. Rosalie Addicks for an absolute divorce from her husband, J. E. Addicks, the gas man and politician, be dismissed at the cost of the petitioner. Mrs. Addicks' lawyer will attempt to open the case on the question of costs, but it is not thought that they will take exceptions to the finding.

Mr. Addicks stated that he intends to have a number of the witnesses arrested for perjury, and declared that he could prove a conspiracy against him. He would say no more than this, but from another and authorative source it was learned that he contemplates bringing divorce proceedings himself.

Tariff Talk.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Berlin correspondent telegraphs to The Times a suggestion that Germany's anxiety to secure sole control in Samoa may stimulate her desire to avoid a tariff war with America. The correspondent adds: The tone of the more responsible newspapers, with reference to President Cleveland's complaint (of German restrictions on American food products and American insurance companies), is significantly moderate and conciliatory, and, although the American grievances are regarded as ill-founded, there is little disposition to resent the form in which the president utters them.

Sold at Low Figures.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6.—Securities of the Jarvis-Conklin Mortgage company of the face value of $1,775,000 were sold at public sale yesterday by J. W. Downing, receiver of the company. The North American Trust company, of which R. R. Conklin of the old Jarvis-Conklin company is the controlling officer, bid in all the securities in bulk for $236,000. The securities were previously sold in separate lots, however, in which manner $110,000 more was realized than when afterward sold in bulk. The court, which ordered the sale, will determine which sale shall stand.

Salisbury to Olney.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The papers say it has been learned that the reply of Lord Salisbury to the recent note of Secretary of State Olney relative to the Venezuelan question, which reply is now en route to Washington, discusses at length the history of the question for 40 years, and intimates that Great Britain does not depart from the view that the Schomburgk boundary marks the minimum of the territory she possesses in that region.

Conferred In Secret.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—National Association of Wool Growers met behind closed doors yesterday to adjust some differences over the memorial to congress which it was decided to draft. The delegates from Texas and New Mexico protested to the association that the McKinley tariff schedule worked a disadvantage to their grade of wool, and urged higher duties on such wools than the McKinley rates.

Defense Takes a Hand.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—The United States closed its case and the defense opened yesterday in the United States district court in the trial of Moses Rosengarten, Max Frank, Jacob Fineburg, Jacob Freedman and Henry Greenburg, alleged counterfeiters. The men are Russian Jews, and are charged with having banded together as the "Yehuda" brotherhood to flood the country with spurious coin.

Oleo and Meat.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—The executive committee of the National Live Stock Exchange today reported to the national body that the exchange favors the repeal of the tax on oleo and new legislation for the uniform inspection of meat. Much stress is laid on the allegations of the inefficiency and irregularity in government methods of meat inspection.

Broke Contracts.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—J. S. Scott, owner of John R. Gentry, and John G. Taylor, owner of Joe Patchen, were yesterday ordered to pay the Lincoln Park association, Lincoln, Neb., $75 each, entrance money, for breach of contract. Their horses will be suspended until the order is complied with.

Smith In Asylum.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Rev. Frank H. Smith, the Cambridge (Mass.) clergyman, who was tried for sending scurrilous postal cards through the mails to members of his congregation and was adjudged insane, was confined in St. Elizabeth's asylum yesterday. It is said that he needs constant watching.

Ransom Again.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The president yesterday sent to the senate a number of recess appointments. Among them were M. W. Ransom of North Carolina to be minister to Mexico. Mr. Ransom was confirmed by the last senate to the same position, but it was held that his appointment was illegal.

The Langerman-Aub Case.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Attorney Haire, counsel for Walter L. S. Langerman, secured a writ of habeas corpus yesterday from Judge Andrews to bring before him his client to be discharged. Langerman is held as a witness against Barbara Aub, who is under indictment for perjury.

Gold For the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The treasury department yesterday received a shipment of $100,000 in gold from the People's National bank of Pittsburg, in exchange for currency, and $5000 from a Washington (N. C.) bank.

O'Connell's Appointment Confirmed.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6.—Cardinal Gibbons yesterday received a letter from Rome announcing that Rev. William O'Connell of Boston has been confirmed by the pope as rector of the American college in Rome.

Boiler Exploded.

BELLEVILLE, Ills., Dec. 6.—Six men were badly injured by the explosion of a boiler in the engine house of the New Athens Coal company yesterday. Two are not expected to recover.

Out of the Storm.

HALIFAX, Dec. 6.—Quite a fleet of Gloucester (Mass.) schooners bound to Newfoundland for fish put into Halifax yesterday for shelter.

Evenly Matched.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The Dixon-Erne fight last night at the Manhattan Athletic club was declared a draw at the end of the 10th round.

BIG WAVE OF CRIME.

NEW YORK UNDERGOING ALMOST A REIGN OF TERROR.

One Thousand Felonies In a Month—Police Force Totally Inadequate—Possible Return to Byrnes' Famous Plan of Employing Stool Pigeons.

The records of the New York police department show that crimes of violence or felonies increase and decrease within certain periods without any apparent cause. Crimes have been increasing so rapidly of late in some quarters of that city that people are panic stricken and are afraid to leave their homes after dark. The wave of crime appears to be at its full height, and the energetic efforts of nearly 4,000 policemen have not had any perceptible effect in preventing its commission. Arrests are being made for felonies at the rate of about 500 a month, but the ranks of crooks seem to fill up so rapidly that these arrests have not had any effect.

It has been the policy of the police for years to prevent publicity in all cases of felony in which the alleged offender is not arrested. If the records of all complaints entered in station house blotters are compared with the record of arrests which are kept in police headquarters, it will show that in considerably less than 50 per cent of the cases are the complaints followed by arrests.

The police claim, with a considerable show of pride, that robberies involving large sums of money by thieves in the first rank have been held in check, but it cannot be denied that small or forcible robberies are on the increase.

The felonies committed will average about 1,000 a month, and many of the offenders escape because under the present system of communicating between station houses and police headquarters there is always more or less delay in notifying the detective bureau of the commission of a crime. Criminals, even murderers, frequently get four or five hours' start, as appears from the record in the Krauer murder case, before competent detectives are detailed to work on the case.

The thieves in New York hailed with delight the announcement made by Acting Captain O'Brien, when he took charge of the detective bureau, to the effect that the detective force would be operated without the aid of stool pigeons. When ex-Chief Byrnes was in charge of the detective bureau, he established a stool pigeon corps which was so powerful and well organized that thieves, big and little, were afraid to talk about or make plans for an important robbery of any kind. No thief could be sure that he was not talking to one of Byrnes' spies, and this kept robbery in check. The effect of the practical abolition of the stool pigeon system was to encourage thievery, and it is the belief of policemen who have had long experience that the present activity in criminal circles is largely due to the absence of the stool pigeon and his daily reports to the station house or his favorite detective.

It is a record of the detective bureau, though not one open for public inspection, that in the 12 years ex-Chief Byrnes was in charge of the bureau at least 75 per cent of the arrests made were due to the work of the stool pigeon. The percentage of arrests at present, in comparison with the number of complaints made of crimes committed, is much less than it was when the stool pigeon was the premier detective in the department, although he did not get credit for his work publicly.—New York Recorder.

Cold Air on Tap.

A company has been incorporated in New York city for the purpose of supplying cold air for refrigerating purposes to hotels, restaurants, meatshops and households through a pipe service similar to that employed in the distribution of steam. The cold air is to be manufactured by the anhydrous ammonia process at a central plant, is piped into mains which are laid beneath the streets, and the house connections are made by service pipes, which are carried into the refrigerator or cold storage compartments.

The degree of refrigeration is under perfect control, and any number of varying temperatures may be secured in adjoining compartments. For isolated customers in districts removed from the pipe service the refrigerating material is delivered in a steel cylinder similar to those in which soda water is delivered to drug stores.—New York World.

A Coming Queen of Finance.

Ex-Congressman Ben Cable of Illinois has a little daughter who has the making of a great financier in her. One day her father called her to him.

"My dear," said he, "a man this morning offered papa this room full of gold if he would sell little brother. Now, that means gold enough to fill this room from wall to wall and from floor to ceiling. If I sell little brother for that sum, I shall be able to buy you everything in the world you want. Shall I sell him?"

"No, papa," answered the little girl promptly, and then before her delighted father could embrace her for expressing so much unselfish affection she went on: "Keep him till he's bigger. He'll be worth more then."—Washington Post.

News From the Pitcairners.

About a year ago a party of Seventh Day Adventists chartered the brigantine Pitcairn and started out with her from San Francisco on a missionary expedition in the south seas. Word of the vessel has just been received from Nukuhofa, Aonga. The party had visited Tahiti, Rarotonga, Rurutu, Pitcairn and many other islands, stopping long enough at each one to distribute tracts and pamphlets and Bibles and to do missionary work in various ways. The vessel took to Pitcairn a number of the islanders who had been visiting San Francisco.

Christmas Magazines.

The December number of The Delineator is called the Christmas number, and is filled with holiday good things. The exposition of winter styles is complete, and the season's millinery is attractively presented. There is a special holiday article on dolls and their dressing, and another on novel home made Christmas gifts.

The Christmas number of the New England Magazine is one of the most beautiful numbers which has ever appeared, and no number has ever offered a richer table of contents. It is full of the Christmas spirit and strong also in articles which appeal particularly to the patriotic sentiment. "A Story of Christmas Christianity" is the sub-title of Edward Everett Hale's story "From Generation to Generation," which will probably attract more attention than anything else in the magazine, and almost every story in the number is warm with the fraternal spirit which belongs especially to Christmas.

Godey's, the oldest of the magazines, follows the good old custom of proffering Christmas confections in their proper season. The December number is notable, therefore, with Yule-tide fiction and verse, besides such seasonable articles as "Holiday Decorations," "Christmas, Past and Present," and "Christmas Day in a Japanese Go-Down"—this latter richly illustrated by C. D. Weldon.

There is the usual abundance of good stories in the December number of McClure's Magazine, including a Christmas story, one of Anthony Hope's ever-welcome Zenda stories, and a humorous story of African exploration and London stage life by Robert Barr. Of several new stories of Lincoln told in the second installment of the new "Life of Lincoln," one of the most interesting is that, when Lincoln removed with his family from Indiana to Illinois, he made thrifty use of the opportunities of the journey to peddle out, at a good profit, a stock of small wares which he had bought for the purpose.

The old-time Christmas number of a domestic magazine was a good thing, fairly adapted for use at the fireside and in the home, but the Christmas number of today, as is well typified in Jenness Miller Monthly, is a fitting illustration of the development of literary work and taste in the last few years, especially as it applies generally and in detail to what might be called the kingdom of women.

Outing for December is seasonable, interesting and finely illustrated. The fiction department has two complete stories, while the sporting field is admirably covered. "The Cream of the Vale," a fine picture of English Fox Hunting; "Skating," by Ed. W. Sandys, an expert on the blades; "Hunting the Caiman," "Caribou Hunting," "Two Hours over Decoys," "An Outing in Labrador," by R. G. Taber; "A Turkey Hunt," appeal to all sportsmen.

Castle Square Theatre.

It will be welcome news to the vast number of patrons of the Castle Square Theatre, to know that Fra Diavolo is to follow Carmen. The opera was given early in the season, while the company was as yet hardly formed, and its repetition now with the splendid voices and striking ensemble of the present company should prove a wise step for the management. Mr. Persse will doubtless make a striking figure as the outlaw chief, who was a gentleman and even robbed his victims with such grace that they forgot the sting of their losses and could not but admire him. Zerlina, the innkeeper's daughter, will be well cast with Miss Lane and we may expect to see the part handled with all that dainty grace we have learned to expect from the charming Castle Square prima donna. A new comer to Boston will be Miss Rose Leighton, long and favorably known from her connection with the best operatic companies in America. As for scenery, Mr. Edison, together with Mr. King, the scenic artist, promises something beyond what has yet been seen at the Castle Square, and though this entails considerable in the way of planning, still the opportunities are great and one can look forward to a treat when the curtain rises on the mountain scene of act 1st.

Altogether, Fra Diavolo is a wise selection and reflects praise on the discretion of the management.

"Content and Happiness."

How is it that men pray their earthly lot
May be "content and happiness?" Dire foes,
Without one common trait which kinship shows,
I hold these two. Contentment comes when sought,
While Happiness, pursued, was never caught.
But sudden storms the heart with mighty throes,
Whence forth mild eyed Content, affrighted, goes
To seek some calmer breast, less danger fraught.
Bold Happiness knows but one rival—Fear,
Who follows ever on his footsteps, sent
By jealous Fate, who calls great joy a crime,
While in far ways, 'mong leaves just turning sere,
With gaze serene and placid, walks Content.
No heart e'er held these two guests at one time.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Pittsburg Bulletin.

HARRIS IS SELECTED

Chandler Submits a Plan For Free Coinage.

Speaker Reed Has Begun Definite Outlining of His Committees.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The Democratic senatorial caucus yesterday decided upon the nomination of Senator Harris for president pro tempore, in case the Republicans should decide to attempt to select one of their number to this office.

SENATOR HARRIS.

The caucus also authorized the chairman, Senator Gorman, to appoint a steering committee, six of whom shall be old members, three to fill vacancies of those who were not re-elected. This committee is to confer with the Republican committee on committees for the purpose of reaching an agreement as to senate committees.

There were several speeches on the policy of organization of the committees, and all were favorable to permitting the Republicans to take them in case they should decide that they wish to do so. No opposition was developed to these plans. The six members of the old committee who are to constitute a part of the new committee are Senators Gorman, Cockrell, Harris, Blackburn, Brice and Jones of Arkansas.

Chandler's Proposal.

The session of the senate was brief again yesterday. Its only feature, beyond the introduction of a bill by Senator Chandler of New Hampshire for the free coinage of silver, was a short speech by Senator Call of Florida in favor of the recognition of the Cuban revolutionists as belligerents.

There are good reasons to believe that Mr. Chandler will keep his idea conspicuously before the senate this session, by way, as he would express it, of an antidote to the president's gold standard situation. He resorted to the plan pursued in cases where especial attention is to be directed to a subject, having the whole bill read to the senate, instead of confining it to a report of its title. Section 1 provides that

Any person may deposit in any United States mint gold or silver bullion not less in value than $50, and the same shall be coined free of charge if the metal be sufficiently pure to need no refining, the gold into the coins provided for by existing laws, and the silver into dollars 9-10ths fine, the weight of the pure silver in each dollar to be 15½ times the 23 22-100ths grains being the weight of the pure gold in the gold dollar; that is to say, 359 91-100ths grains, which with 39 99-100ths grains of alloy will make the total weight of each silver dollar 399 9-10ths grains instead of 412½ grains as now by law provided.

Sect. 2. Payment shall be made to said depositor for such bullion in coins similar to those into which the metal is to be coined, or the secretary of the treasury, at his option, may pay the depositor in treasury notes of convenient denominations, promising to pay an equivalent number of dollars, which notes shall be redeemable in gold or silver at the option of the secretary of the treasury. The silver dollars coined in accordance with this law, as well as the gold coins of the United States, and the treasury notes herein provided for, shall be a full legal tender for all debts, public and private. The existing silver dollars shall be retired and recoined according to the new ratio, the profit accruing therefrom to be applied to the expenses of maintaining the mints.

Sect. 3. This law shall take effect and become operative when similar laws shall have been adopted by the governments of England, France and Germany; which laws shall in substance provide for the purchase of gold and silver bullion without limit and shall make legal tender of the gold and the principal silver coins and any certificate representing them, the ratio between the gold and silver to be the same provided for in this act; and when such laws have been passed by the governments aforesaid, the president shall make proclamation accordingly, and this law shall then take effect and be in force.

Fixing His Slate.

Speaker Reed has begun for the first time to definitely outline his list of committees on paper. He gave more interviews to members yesterday and listened to the presentation of their claims.

No information has leaked from the speaker's room except remarks made by Mr. Reed to the friends of a member who asked for the chairmanship of the committee on labor, which seemed to indicate that he has decided to give that place to Mr. Phillips of Pennsylvania, whose name has been presented by the labor organizations.

The labor unions are taking an interest in the committee on immigration, as well as the labor committee, and are endeavoring to bring about the selection of committeemen who will favor Senator Lodge's bill, which, among other things, would bar illiterate foreigners from entry. It is estimated that not less than 20 per cent of the foreigners entered under existing laws would be excluded by a system requiring the ability to read and write their own language, and this is what the labor organizations wish to secure.

Probably the strongest pressure being brought to bear upon the speaker comes from various candidates for the committee on ways and means. The Republicans will be entitled to 11 places on this body, if the party proportion of the last congress is maintained, and 7 of the 11 will be new men. The influence of business of every class and section has been invoked, and many letters and petitions are pouring in.

Next to the ways and means in their desirability from the standpoint of the members are the committees on appropriations and rivers and harbors, the two bodies which have charge of the distribution of the largest sums of money.

Armenians at the Capitol.

Many senators and members of the house were interviewed yesterday by a delegation of Armenian citizens from Boston and Worcester, who are urging congress to take every possible step to prevent the continuation of the outrages on Armenians in Turkey. A large proportion of the Armenian citizens in the United States live in the neighborhood of Worcester.

Representative Walker (Mass.) introduced a resolution in the house today calling upon the president to use every means in his power to protect all American citizens in Turkey, and to leave undone nothing permissible under the usages of international law to check and discourage the continuation of the outrages upon Armenians under Turkish jurisdiction. The delegation saw Representative Hitt, the probable chairman of the committee upon foreign affairs, and were assured of his sympathy with their cause.

Motorcycle Plums.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—The judges of The Times-Herald motocycle contest met yesterday and considered the claims of the vehicles which competed in the Thanksgiving day contests. They awarded the medal to the Morris-Salom electrobat of Philadelphia on the following points: Safety, easy of control, absence of noise, vibration, heat and odor; cleanliness and general excellence of design and workmanship. The first money prize of $2000 was awarded to the Duryea Motor Wagon company of Springfield, Mass. This motocycle came in first in the road race.

A Midwinter Vacation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The president left Washington last night on the lighthouse tender Maple on a hunting trip through the North Carolina sounds. With him were Dr. O'Reilly, Secretary Wilde of the lighthouse board, and Commander Lamberton, in charge of the lighthouse district comprising the sounds. The light vessel was well-provisioned, and it is likely that if the weather is fair the president will not return to Washington before the 12th or 13th of the month. It is expected that the cruise will extend as far south as Wilmington, N. C.

Names Given.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 6.—The investigation into the charges made by Rev. Dr. Robinson that members of the Scranton police force were in the habit of showing young men to immoral houses was begun last night. Dr. Robinson named Police Lieutenant David and Patrolman Bloch as the principal offenders. The defendants pleaded not guilty. Four young men corroborated the clergyman's assertions.

Injunction Refused.

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—"I cannot see anything to prevent these companies from consolidating. I cannot see that it is contrary to the statutes of this state," said Judge Showalter in the United States circuit court yesterday, in refusing the injunction against the Gas trust. In 1872 only two of the Chicago gas properties were incorporated. The other companies have come into existence since 1873.

On Operators' Terms.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 6.—The miners' delegates to the joint wage convention of miners and operators yesterday considered the operators' ultimatum of 64 cents a ton for the first three months of 1896 and 70 cents for the balance of the year. The miners want 74 cents for the entire year, but there was a disposition to accept the operators' ultimatum, and an amicable settlement is looked for.

Wo . Surrender.

NEW YORK, [illegible] 6.—The demand for a recognition of [illegible] union and a uniform scale of wages by the housesmiths is being vigorously pushed, and the hostilities waged against the Iron league in an endeavor to secure that result is renewed with new vigor on the part of the strike leaders.

Guests Had Narrow Escape.

HORTONVILLE, Wis., Dec. 6.—The Greenville hotel, six miles east of here, burned to the ground yesterday. William Reuter was suffocated. Several persons escaped death by jumping from the second-floor windows, clad only in their night clothes.

Smugglers Seized.

HALIFAX, Dec. 6.—Schooner La France and brigantine Elste, both owned at Lunenburg, were seized here yesterday by the customs authorities for smuggling. Quantities of contraband goods were found on board.

No Reason Assigned For Suicide.

DENVER, Dec. 6.—John M. Kinkade, a real estate dealer, committed suicide by shooting himself yesterday on a train returning from Cripple Creek. The cause of the suicide is unknown.

A CHRISTMAS HINT.

The Women of the Family Will Be Pleased With a Needlecase.

Purchase 14 brass rings an inch in diameter and crochet over each with some handsome shade of knitting silk; then, with a single thread of the same, work what is technically known as a spider's web in the center of each and join them, as the drawing shows, seven for each side of the needlecase.

Cut six pieces of fine white flannel in the shape of the united rings, and with the silk buttonhole closely the edges of each. Lay them one above the other, with one cover on each side, and make all fast together at the two rings that form the top. Attach No. 2 ribbon and tie in a bow, after the manner indicated; then fill with assorted needles of the best make.

The case will be both dainty and of eminent service, and, though small, can be trusted to find a place in the recipient's regard, for what woman among us all but likes to find a needle close at hand and in her heart treasures her sewing outfit as a boon beyond that of any acquired right?

For the Housekeeper.

The pride of every housekeeper's heart is her linen closet, and pretty fancies for the dinner table are an ever welcome addition to it. A centerpiece for the table is of linen damask 24 inches square. The design is composed of large grape leaves, seven inches in diameter. These are worked in white linen floss or rope silk, or in the wash filoselle of the new electric shades—terra cotta, pomegranate, pale and old gold, old pink and dark red, pale and gendarme blue and apple green and olive—make an artistic assortment of tones. The stitch is long and short buttonhole, the longest three-eighths of an inch deep. The veining is done in etching stitch. The work is then cut out around the edge. A set of six of these leaves, worked in shaded filoselle, makes a very pretty table decoration. They may be laid around the centerpiece of fruit or flowers or in groups of three at opposite corners of the table. Done on bolting cloth they make very pretty doilies.

A Photograph Box For Christmas.

Photographs are forever on the increase, and any convenience for their safe keeping that is at the same time an attractive object is an excellent thing to make. A good sized box for this purpose is 15 inches by 11, but there can be no fixed rule. All the parts, bottom sides, ends and cover, are made separately and overhanded together at the edges and corners. A good model is made of old pink agra linen. Each piece of board is neatly covered, wadded and lined with thin silk. On the sides and on the top are painted the pure white daisies of the field, and the edge of the cover is supplied with a loop by which it can easily be opened and closed.

Not a Novelty, but Always Acceptable.

This will surely be acceptable to a gentleman, provided he has a beard: Outside of the tissue paper that is to be used is a sheet of parchmentlike paper upon which is written in indelible ink and large letters that which the owner is supposed to desire—"A Clean Shave." Above this is a smaller cover of ecru silk folded over and laced down each side with an olive green cord, which is tied at the termination in loops and ends, the latter being tipped with pompons. Similar pompons are across the edge in front, and upon this portion are cleverly outlined the shaving utensils. A ribbon is drawn through the shaving paper and the eyelets of the case holding the paper, making a loop by which the pretty holder may be suspended. White tissue paper is good taste, but colored ones may be used if desired.

DEATH OF MRS. MORAN

Was Due to Suffocation, According to the Medical Examiner.

Husband and His Mother Stick to Old Stories.

CLINTON, Mass., Dec. 7.—John H. Moran, who is charged with murdering his wife, was given a hearing in the second Worcester district court yesterday before Judge Stone.

Some of the neighbors learned on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3, that Mrs. Moran was dead. Her husband said that she died about 4 o'clock that afternoon. The defendant and his mother claimed then, and subsequently when questioned by the police and by Medical Examiner O'Connor, that death was caused by an accident which took place the evening before. A horse which the women were driving, they said, became frightened at a passing train, and the old lady was thrown out, while the younger woman jumped.

When seen by the neighbors and officers the face of the old lady bore out the statement that something unusual had happened, for it was badly bruised, as was that of the alleged murdered woman.

Moran claimed to Mr. and Mrs. Austin O'Malley that Mrs. Moran had not taken any food since the accident Saturday night, and that a little water was all she had been given.

The evidence of the medical examiner, who reached the house about 6 o'clock Sunday night, two hours after Mrs. Moran died, according to the husband's statement, was that there were bruises and abrasions upon the face and Discolorations Upon the Throat.

That the stomach showed food which had been eaten about two or three hours before death; that the body was cold when he arrived, and that rigor mortis had set in, all of which indicated that she had been dead some time—much longer than it was claimed by those who clung tenaciously to the story that death was caused by an accident.

Medical Examiner O'Connor also testified to finding the clothing of the bed upon which the dead woman lay in a greatly disturbed condition. The lungs and base of the brain were suffused with blood, which indicated that death was caused by suffocation. He testified that death was not caused by a fall or concussion, in his opinion.

The defendant's mother was not introduced. Her testimony is regarded as very important.

Judge Stone held Moran for the grand jury, and the prisoner was taken to Worcester jail.

Politicians In Debate.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—Five thousand people crowded into Music hall last night to listen to a debate between Timothy W. Coakley, the leader of the independent Democracy, and John B. Moran, ex-independent leader, and now a follower of the regular Democratic party, on the merits of the two mayoralty candidates, Curtis and Quincy. Several thousand people were unable to obtain admission. Coakley attacked the Democratic machine and Josiah Quincy's record as assistant secretary of state, and his attitude in the printing controversy, which necessitated an investigation. Moran attacked Mayor Curtis and his heads of departments, and declared his administration was not one that recommended itself to the people.

Freights In Collision.

WAKEFIELD, Mass., Dec. 7.—Two freight trains met in collision at the Wakefield Junction station on the Boston and Maine road last night. Both engines came together with a crash. Firemen and engineers on both trains jumped and escaped with slight injuries. Four cars of grain of a Portland freight were overturned, blocking both inward and outward lines. It does not appear that the trainmen were to blame for the collision, although it remains to be determined what was the direct cause.

A Lottery Question.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 7.—An agent of the Watch and Ward society of Boston has begun a campaign against the druggists of this city who have been giving prizes away with purchases, in violation of the anti-lottery laws. The druggists declare they give full value for the money, and that all prizes are given away. Purchasers can take them or leave them, just as they please. The druggists will fight any attempt made to abolish the system.

Depositors Will Get Half.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Dec. 7.—Receivers Hall and Stiles of the Dime Savings bank have completed their inventory of the bank's assets and liabilities, excepting the amount due depositors, which cannot be determined until the depositors' books are all in. The grand total of assets is reported at $420,926. At these figures depositors are expected to receive a dividend of 50 per cent, and perhaps more.

Alleged Extortion.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 7.—Henry I. Lord of Biddeford, pension claim agent, is on trial here, charged with extracting excessive fees from Mrs. Laura E. Greaves of Saco, in collecting her claim. The amount awarded Mrs. Greaves by the government was $2175. She claims that Lord took $1175 of this amount for his services. Lord denies this. While on the witness stand yesterday Lord swooned.

Probing a Mystery.

KINGSTON, R. I., Dec. 7.—The town council of Kingston has announced its intention of paying $500 for information which will lead to the identity of the person or persons who burned the property of Marcus L. Metcalf at Usquepaugh last week. The money will also be paid to anyone who will name the author of threatening anonymous letters which Metcalf has received.

State's Aid Invoked.

MONTAGUE CITY, Mass., Dec. 7.—State Detective Munyon has been called upon to make an investigation on the death of Mrs. Levi Fourneir, who died suddenly from some cause which the doctors refuse to divulge. The husband's story of finding his wife dead caused some suspicion. No arrests have yet been made.

Bloody Revenge.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 7.—There was a lively stabbing fracas last night between three Italians to settle an old dispute. Two brothers waited upon the victim at his quarters here with a gang that are working on the Manchester waterworks. After some words the two attacked the man with razors, making four terrible gashes on his face and throat. The two made their escape.

A Gift of $25,000.

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 7.—By the will of the late William W. Brown of Manchester, Dartmouth college has received a bequest of $25,000, the sum to be put at interest until it shall amount to $4000, when the income is to be used for the foundation of a professorship in physiology and allied branches.

Charged With Train Wrecking.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Dec. 7.—The three Porter brothers who are charged with attempting to wreck a train on the Boston and Maine railroad near here last October were placed under $3000 bonds by Justice Newton yesterday for trial in the superior court.

No Trace of Missing Children.

BANGOR, Me., Dec. 7.—No trace has been found of the two children, Gladys Rowell and Harry Harvey, who disapeared from their homes in East Dover. The river has been dragged and the woods searched. It is believed that the children have been kidnapped.

Settled For $12,500.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 7.—The Providence Gas company has settled the suit for damages brought against it by the heirs of the five men who lost their lives by asphyxiation in a gasometer last summer. The families of the victims will receive $12,500 in all.

THE ARMENIANS' CASE

Pathetically Outlined In a Petition For Our Congress to Consider.

In It Lies Their Hope For Peace and Liberty.

European Powers Refuse to Move Because Blinded by Jealousy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Rev. M. V. Deroonian, D.D., who is the representative of the Armenian patriarch at Constantinople, has come to Washington as the bearer of a petition to congress, prepared at a mass meeting of the Armenians of New England, held at Worcester, Mass., on Thanksgiving day. The petition which was presented yesterday is as follows:

To the House of Representatives and Senate:

Recognizing the fact that the influence of your honorable and august body, when exerted on behalf of humanity, has been powerful in securing justice for the oppressed, far-reaching in effect and lasting in results, we, the representatives duly accredited by the mass meeting of the Armenian colony of Worcester, Mass., held on Thanksgiving day, humbly petition that vigorous measures be recommended by you to his excellency, the President of the United States, for putting a stop to the most horrible crime of the century—the indiscriminate slaughter and annihilation of Christians at the hands of the Turkish government.

In times past, the strong, eloquent words of American statesmen uttered on the floors of the house and senate have contributed largely to the peace and liberty of wronged nations beyond the seas.

Though the sultan has given his tardy and reluctant consent to the reforms demanded by Europe, no hope of benefit can be entertained, as the whole machinery of government is centralized in the palace, and the provincial governors are creatures subservient to the sultan, either personally, or else fanatical Moslems, who, instead of stopping disorders and murder, show inclination to lead the mob and lend the soldiery aid in the slaughter of life and the destruction of property.

Based, as Turkish law is, upon the Koran, the sultan is recognized as the shadow of God on earth, and the impossibility of getting justice for Christians in Moslem courts is self-evident. Disarmed, as we are, resistance on our part is useless, and help must come from without. The sword of Islam is unsheathed, and unless Europe and America step between fanaticism and its helpless enemies, Armenia, once a vineyard, must inevitably become a desert and a tomb.

Within a year there have been murdered at least 50,000 of our people, while hundreds of thousands have been reduced to starvation. Yet the massacres still go on, while the warships of the earth's favored nations swing at anchor in Turkish waters. Blinded by mutual jealousy, the powers of Europe refuse to move.

Therefore, turning our eyes to the United States, we look to congress for words of encouragement and the warning note that will stay the bloody arm of our oppressors. We appeal to you, not as aliens, but in the name of 10,000 industrious and law-abiding Armenians, now resident in the United States and who are rapidly giving it their allegiance.

Hagop Boggigian, representing the Armenian society of Boston, accompanied by Senator Lodge, called on Secretary Olney yesterday, and presented the following petition addressed to the president, and signed by the mayors of 26 Massachusetts cities:

We believe the people of Massachusetts, without distinction of party, desire you to take the most vigorous measures to prevent further cruelties toward the Armenians in Turkey and toward our citizens there and will support you in such action.

Fall River's Sympathy.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 7.—A public meeting was held here last night to protest against the Armenian atrocities. Many contributions to the Armenian relief fund were received. Resolutions of indignation against the Turks and approval of energetic governmental action were adopted, and a committee was appointed to receive subscriptions to the fund.

Armenians Growing Desperate.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that there is rumor there that the Armenian committee has become desperate at the inaction of the powers, and will organize fresh demonstrations.

The British, Russian, French and Italian consuls at Erzroom have signed a memorial declaring that the massacre there was not provoked by the Armenians. This memorial has been presented to the porte. No news has been received from the interior of Armenia since Nov. 26, owing to the fall of snow and the consequent impassable condition of the country.

Special dispatches from Constantinople allege that H. M. S. Imogene and Cockatrice have landed blue-jackets at Pera to protect the English embassy.

A dispatch to The Chronicle from Vienna says: It is stated that the ex-sultan, Murad, has not fled from Constantinople, but has been secretly killed by the sultan's entourage on account of his liberal tendencies.

The Daily News says: The Circassians from Sivas, under Mirali Bey, arriving at the Angora frontier, produced orders from the vali of Sivas to devastate all the Armenian villages. The Angorian officials thereupon excluded them. At Gemerik, near Caesarea, Turks and Christians united and barricaded the streets, and repulsed four attacks of the Circassians. The rising at Caesarea was arranged for Nov. 15, but was forbidden by the government until Saturday last.

The Daily News also has letters from Marsovan which say: As far as can be learned, the Turkish troops did not share in the massacre, but, rather tardily, checked it and placed a cordon around the city on the following day to exclude the hundreds of villagers bent on sharing in plunder.

The Graphic's Odessa correspondent says that Admiral Kopytoff, commander-in-chief of the Black sea fleet, has been summoned to St. Petersburg. It is supposed that the summons is in connection with the Armenian question.

Tied Up by Hurricane.

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—A regular hurricane raged in Germany for 40 hours and stopped all telegraphic communication. Dispatches from Vienna report a terrible storm and great damage to property. There were two violent earthquake shocks at Laibach.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Liver Ills, Billousness, Indigestion, Headache. A pleasant laxative. All Druggists.

NO CHEAP TALENT.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 7.—There is no denying that interest in the international chess match opening tomorrow centers on the young American champion, Harry N. Pillsbury, who defeated all the old-time champions at the recent tournament at Hastings, England.

These contests are not open to the world, there will be no cheap players at the tables. Only the winners of the first, second, third and fifth prizes at Hastings will compete here—namely, Lasker, Tschigorin and Steinitz. The winner of the fourth prize, Dr. Tarrasch, is prevented by professional engagements from participating.

Each player is to contest four games with every other player, thus giving to each party the first move twice, so that the question of pre-eminence should for the present at least be settled.

PARIS, Dec. 7.—At the conclusion of the debate on the budget of the ministry of justice in the chamber of deputies a man in the gallery fired two shot from a revolver. ☞ Taylor's Anti-Headache Powders are just as harmless as water. Yet, look how powerful water is in putting out fire. Our powders cure Headache and Neuralgia in the same manner exactly. THE NEW COMMISSIONER.

[From the Quincy Patriot.]

A rumor is current that W. Walter Ewell, the ex-Commissioner of Public Works, will be the next Commissioner. It is said to be not only a rumor, but a fact, although the PATRIOT has not interviewed either the Mayor-elect or Mr. Ewell, and cannot speak with authority. However, it would be the most level-headed appointment that an independent Mayor could possibly make. Commissioner Ewell, during his three years of service in 1891, 1892 and 1893, made a decided improvement in our highways generally and in several streets in particular. He is honest and independent and obtains a dollar's worth of work for every dollar expended. His annual appropriations were very small, causing almost rigid economy, but it cannot be denied that he accomplished much. It is to be regretted that a change of administration caused his removal two years ago, because it will require at least one year to put the streets back in the condition they were when he retired.

Had it been generally known that Mr. Ewell was to be appointed, Mr. Adams would have received hundreds of more votes than he did. Very few other changes should be made in city officers. City Treasurer Burgin is peculiarly adapted to his position, City Clerk Keith is efficient and courteous, Chief of Police Hayden a faithful officer, Chief Engineer Williams a model fire fighter, and Principal Assessor Federhen a good man for the place. Improvements might be made in some of the boards, and doubtless will be.

The LEDGER was unable to see Mr. Ewell today, but learned that Henry H. Faxon was interested in the appointment, and called upon him. He said that he was interested in having Mr. Ewell appointed, and that he should start in Monday to circulate petitions to that effect. These petitions will be circulated in each ward of the city, and he has no fears but what he will be enabled to get the signatures of 500 of the prominent citizens of the city.

89th BIRTHDAY.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Brown gave a reception at their residence on Hancock street last evening in honor of the 89th birthday of Mrs. Lucy Ann Newcomb, who is Mr. Brown's grandmother. On account of the lady's age only the immediate relatives were present.

Mrs. Newcomb is remarkably smart for one of her years, and entered into the full enjoyment of the evening's pleasures with a zeal that was surprising. She received many congratulations on the advent as well as many pleasing reminders from those present and the evening will long be remembered by those present.

During the evening Hanson's orchestra rendered a number of selections, Miss Mann of Boston gave a number of readings, and Miss Badger, of Weymouth, and Miss Nettie Louise Packard, of Wollaston, piano solo. A collation wae served.

Mrs. Newcomb who is one of the oldest ladies in the city, was born in Quincy and was the daughter of William and Lucy Packard, and was the oldest of a family of seventeen children of whom only four besides herself are now living; Col. A. B. Packard, Mrs. A. W. Dunbar and Mrs. Sarah Burrell of Quincy and Mrs. L. P.

Her early life was passed in Quincy and she has the honor of opening one of the first private schools in Quincy, way back in the 20s. She was also one of the first teachers of vocal and instrumental music and was one of the first to play the pipe organ at Christ's church in 1826. She also taught school for a short period in New York.

She married Dr. George Newcomb, by whom she had two children, Georgianna, mother of Mr. George H. Brown of this city, who married Mr. C. H. Brown of Detroit. The other child died in infancy.

Upon the death of her husband in 1865 Mrs. Newcomb went to Detroit, and resided with her daughter until 1880, when she came to Quincy once more, where she has since resided with her grandson. Within a year she made a long visit to another grandson in Connecticut.

☞ The Buker Pill Company of Bangor, Maine, have issued a new book entitled "Good Health and Buker's Kidney Pills" which they are distributing throughout New England. It is a well written pamphlet on kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, and should be read by everyone. It is now being distributed in this city. Those who fail to get a copy can have one mailed to their address free by sending a postal to the office of the Company, corner Main and Rowe street.

QUARRY FOREMAN MISSING.

The Quincy police have a mysterious disappearance case on their hands which is a puzzler. The missing party is John Scott of 3 Bunker Hill street, a foreman at Badger Bros'. quarry.

On Thursday the men in the quarry did not work, on account of the storm, and Scott went to Boston. Whether he had any money with him is not known. Some say he had, while others say when in Boston he did not have a cent.

He drank something but not enough but what he knew what he was doing and he came to Quincy on one of the early evening trains, and started up Granite street toward his home, in company with James Galvin.

Mr. Galvin accompanied Scott as far as Jones corner, when he left him and the latter started on toward home alone. This was about 8.30, and Scott has not been seen or heard from since. His wife waited patiently all night for her husband but he came not, and Friday she called upon Badger Bros., who had not seen him.

She then became alarmed and a search was instituted, but no trace of him has as yet been found, and this morning his disappearance was reported to the police.

The missing man is about 38 years of age and has a wife and six children. The police with employes of Badger Bros. will continue their search today.

Company K Notes.

The event of the season, the annual ball, will be held on Friday evening, Jan. 24.

Corp. Lowe has returned from a seven weeks' hunting trip in the wilds of Maine. The members of the Company have been entertained with some tall stories of his many thrilling adventures and of the game he bagged.

Upon invitation of Serg't Cahill, the officers and non-coms of the Company, met at his home Friday evening for a social time. Arriving at the house the party were royally entertained by the genial sergeant and the evening spent in talking over the many pleasant experiences they had enjoyed while soldiering together. During the evening, Lieut. Whitney, in behalf of those present, presented a handsome chair. Although greatly surprised, "Bob," has been a soldier too long to be completely taken off his guard, responded in a neat speech of thanks.

85th BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. Joshua Fisher Four Score and Five Years Old.

There was a happy family gathering at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Prescott on Spear street last evening, it being the 85th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Prescott's mother, Mrs. Joshua Fisher, who makes her home there.

Mrs. Fisher belongs to a long lived family, all of her sisters reaching a good old age, three are yet living and a brother. Mrs. Prescott and Mr. J. S. Fisher, her only children, were present, and there were grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Mrs. Fisher is in very good health, and goes about outdoors as well as indoors, evenings as well as days. She enjoys nothing better than an evening gathering and a good game of cards, late hours not seeming to tire her.

Newbury Social Club's Party.

The Newbury Social club of Atlantic held its first social in Music hall last evening. Sprague's orchestra furnished music for the 125 couples who were there until 2 A. M. The party was made up mostly of young people prominent among whom were Misses McAulliffe, McDonald, Dolan, O'Neil, Cunniff, Wellington, Randall, Coffee, Sullivan, Hastings, Gerry, Leary, Mugouty, Shaw, Nelson, Walters, Newell, Buckley, Osborn, Barry, Anderson, Taylor, Whalen, Duggan, Mahoney, Millet, Twoehy, Slavin, Ago, Mullen, Watson, Hogan, Hoar, Jones, Belovore, Butler, Rushton, Perrow, Myett, Juner, Mrs. Albee, Mrs. Watson, and Messrs. Kerrigan, Lyons, Conley, Slavin, Nelson, Mahoney, Cunniff, Sheridan, Kelley, Lavell, Haskins, Brady, Reagan, Chubbuck, Dolan, Scannell, McAulliffe, Dunn, Albee, Chaill, Canty, Coligan, Walters, Sullivan, McKenna, Coffee, Merrill, Anderson, Guston, McDonald, Fitzpatrick, Luck Sullivan, Burns, Taylor, Welch, Bent, O'Brien, McCarthy, Noble, Hastings, McGovern, Mullen, Maxwell, Granahan, Dr. Kelleher and many others.

The floor was ably managed by Frank S. Stevenson, who was assisted by the following aids, each one of whom wore a very tasty mark of their position on his lapel, P. H. Barry, F. A. Maxwell, E. S. Ago, Joe Millet, R. Small.

The ladies all appeared in evening dress and a greater part of the gentlemen also wore evening dress, making a remarkably pretty party.

Yacht Club Hop.

The Squantum Yacht club house at Norfolk Downs was the scene of a gay party last evening, the occasion being the second dance of the club. The boys of the club have ae envious reputation as entertains during the ssummer months, and Friday evening's affair proved them to be as successful in this line on land as well as on water.

The dance was held in the upper hall, which proved none to large to accommodate those who attended. Benjamin Sargant had charge of the floor and was ably assisted by A. F. Barstow and H. A. Corbett, the necessary accompaniment for dancing being furnished by the Astrella orchestra.

Down stoirs Capt. Drew and Dr. Clarke were very much in evidence, and under their skillful manipulation the merry makers on the upper floor were supplied with ice cream and cake during a brief intermission. Everybody present said they had a good time and appearances indicated that they did.

Mysterious Burglary.

The residence of Alexander C. Smith at 50 Franklin street was entered by burglars sometime during last night and a pocketbook containing $9.50 taken.

The money was a drawer in an old fashioned secretary in the dining room, and it is claimed the party entered the house through the cellar door and then went up stairs and passed tnrough the kitchen into the dining room.

The burglery is rather a mysterious affair from the fact that there were no tracks in snow outside the door and there were no burnt matches about the rooms. Another peculiar thing is that the silver on the sideboard in the same room was not touched.

RUSSIA'S ROYAL BABY

GETTING READY FOR A BIG TIME AT THE CHRISTENING.

The Whole Empire Will Be En Fete—The Elaborate Preparations—An Account of the Ceremony—Great Festivities Attending a Royal Birth.

If all goes well, there will be a royal chistening at St. Petersburg before long, and a tiny bit of humanity will be the cause of national jubilation from one end of the vast Russian empire to the other. While some of this merrymaking will not be altogether voluntary none of the subjects of the czar cares to attract the attention of the police by failing to make some sort of a show of festivity during the period of national joy.

For months past the young czarina and the ladies of her court have been preparing for the elaborate ceremonies which always surround the birth of a royal baby in Russia. Of all these ceremonies the most magnificent and imposing is the christening according to the ritual of the Greek church. The christening always takes place as soon after the birth of the royal youngster as its general health will permit.

At the christening the child is carried in the arms of its godmother to the church or chapel. Royalty and nobility, glittering in brilliant uniforms and gala toilets, fill the body of the church and stand grouped around the font. The priests wear magnificent robes embroidered with gold crosses, and sacred banners are borne before them. Two deacons carry a portrait of Christ and the Virgin Mary.

The godfathers give the high priest nine wax candles, which are lighted and fastened across the font. The priest incenses the godfathers and godmothers and consecrates the water with many ceremonies. Then a procession is formed round the font by those taking part in the ceremony, each one bearing a lighted wax taper. The name of the child is given in writing to the priest, who puts the paper on an image which he holds on the child's breast, meanwhile saying a prayer.

When the priest asks if the child forsakes the devil and his works the godparents turn their backs to the font to show their horror and aversion to the question and answer "Yes." They again face the font, and the priest takes the child, which is quite naked, and holding it by the head so his thumb and finger stop the ears, dips it three times in the water, pronouncing the words, "I baptize thee in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

The cross, which has been given by the godfather, the child is under obligations to wear all its life. If this cross be not found upon the child at death, the priest says to the godparents, the child may not have Christian burial, even though he be the son of a hundred kings. A particular saint is also assigned to the child, whose image he is charged to cherish with special devotion.

Holy oil, or chrism, which is used at royal baptisms, coronations and consecration of churches, is prepared with elaborate ceremony. There is a copper vase, overlaid with pearl and called alabaster, in which is kept the original oil sent from Constantinople when Christianity was introduced into Russia. A few drops are taken to prepare the chrism and are replaced with other oil, so the quantity never decreases. Wine, roses, lavender, balsams and spices are mixed with the oil.

Forty days after the birth of the child its mother, the empress, is "churched," and the infant is received visibly into Christ's church by the giving of its first sacrament. When the royal gates are opened during mass, the deacon appears with the chalice. The baby is carried to the steps, and the priest, coming forward, puts a drop of wine into its mouth with a spoon, saying, "The servant of God communicates in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

There is no ceremony corresponding to confirmation in the Russian church, but the child continues to receive the sacrament from its baptism twice a year, at Easter and on its saint's day, until it is 7 years old, when it is brought to the confession on Good Friday.

The social functions attendant upon a birth in the royal family are very elaborate. They last several days. All the riches and magnificence of the court and nobility are displayed. At night the illuminations transform the capitals. Lamps are removed from the street posts, and in their places shine illuminated stars and circles. All house fronts, roofs and chimneys are outlined with lights. The trees are full of festoons of Chinese lanterns, and from every limb hang globes of glass in red, yellow, blue and green, each formed and hung so as to resemble fruit. The houses of the nobility look like fairy palaces. The gardens are ablaze with light, and everywhere appear the burning monograms of the emperor and empress.

On the day the child dons its first shoes the czarina gives 300 or 400 pairs to be distributed among the poor children of St. Petersburg. These are ordinary shoes, of course, not a bit like the royal baby's, which are of white leather, embroidered with gold.—New York World.

A Refusal With a String to It.

Mr. Whitney has put forth a positive statement with regard to the Democratic nomination for the presidency. "I am not a candidate and have not been a candidate and must not be considered a candidate," says Mr. Whitney. Yet if the Democratic national convention should insist upon nominating him there is nothing in this declination to prevent the honor being forced upon him, and a very handsome and popular candidate he would make, notwithstanding his present refusal.—New York Sun.

Leaks.

Leaks in the skies and on the land,
Leaks here and there on every hand,
Leaks in the characters of men—
When will they stop? Oh, tell us when!

Leaks plugged with much dishonest gold,
Leaks telling tales of honor sold,
Leaks in the ballot now and then—
When will they stop? Oh, tell us when!

Leaks drenching legislative halls,
Leaks through which even manhood falls,
Leaks in council hall and den—
When will they stop? Oh, tell us when!

Leaks in basins, walls and tanks,
Leaks in rotten micaceous banks,
Leaks dripping from a partisan pen—
When will they stop? Oh, tell us when!

Scandal Mongers.

Do you hear the scandal mongers
Passing by,
Breathing poison in a whisper,
In a sigh,
Moving cautiously and slow,
Smiling sweetly as they go,
Never noisy, gliding smoothly like a snake,
Slipping here and slipping there,
Through the meadow fresh and fair,
Leaving subtle slime and poison in their wake!

Saw you not the scandal monger
As she sat
Beaming brightly 'neath the roses
In her hat?
In her dainty gloves and dress,
Angel-like and nothing less
Seemed she, casting smiles and pleasing words about.
Once she shrugged and shook her head,
Raised her eyes and nothing said
When you spoke of friends, and yet it left a doubt.

Did you hear the scandal monger
At the ball,
Through the music, rhythm, beauty,
Light and all?
Moving here and moving there,
With a whisper light as air,
Casting shadows on a sister woman's fame—
Just a whisper, word or glance—
As she floated through the dance,
And the world is busy with a spotless name.

You will find the scandal mongers
Everywhere,
Sometimes men, but often women,
Young and fair,
Yet their tongues drop foulest slime,
And they spend their leisure time
Casting mud on those who climb by work and worth.
Shun them, shun them as you go—
Shun them, whether high or low.
They are but the cursed serpents of the earth

Old Glory.

Wave, priceless banner of the free,
In majesty, from sea to sea!
With buoyant heart from gulf to lake
Shall freedom follow in thy wake—
Old Glory.

Wave, emblem bright, forevermore!
No foeman treads upon our shore,
Nor hostile ship shall plow our seas,
When floats thy beauty on the breeze—
Old Glory.

Wave proudly when the morning light
Shall greet thee on the mountain height,
Or, mid the valley's shade, thy sign
Shall blend the mortal and sublime—
Old Glory.

Wave, gleaming folds, with fadeless glow!
Thy spirit conquers every foe.
Beneath thee youth and age have stood
To sing one common brotherhood—
Old Glory.

Wave till the cycling ages tell
The story of thy mystic spell,
And still thy beauty be unfurl'd,
The crowning ensign of a world—
Old Glory.

Wave, wave, till men's ambitions rise
To pierce the beauty of the skies
And millions 'neath thy folds have trod
The lovelit way that leads to God—
Old Glory. —J. H. Mackley.

A Portrait.

His hair was red, not "auburn," as some say;
His whiskers matched his hair; his skin was white;
His eyes were grayish blue, or greenish gray,
And gleamed like sulphur matches in the night.

The poorest stuff that chanced to be about (Stray odds and ends, the tails of cat and pup,
And other trash) was utilized, no doubt,
By frugal nature, in his making up.

A jack of all trades, as his tiny brain
Might prompt, he'd give one avocation up
And fly at something new with might and main.
He loved, above all things, to train a pup.

Through forty years his vagaries increased
(Thus long he lived, this planet to infest,
Mildly despised by those who knew him least,
Held in contempt by all who knew him best).

And when he died, unknown to wealth or fame,
His nearest neighbor wrote him up in rhyme.
For epitaph they carved below his name,
"Here lies the model failure of his time."
—Charles Perez Murphy.

Theories.

We lavish too much thought on theorizing,
And subtle schemes we call philanthropy,
In vain and intricate philosophizing,
And seeking other names for charity.

With formulated prayers, demure demeanor
And weekly worship 'neath a gilded spire,
We ask not if the heart be thereby cleaner
Or all our aspirations nobler, higher.

We preach with glowing language, chastened duly,
(How marvelously sweet the phrases sound!)
Some pet theology just fashioned newly—
All means of grace are in its doctrines found.

Daily we meet God's poor and wretched creatures,
Made in his likeness who for sinners died,
And hasten by them with averted features
And hearts made hard and cold with sinful pride.

The cup of water that we might have given,
The little ones we might have clothed and fed,
The heights we might have reached had we but striven,
The kindly words which we have left unsaid.

These opportunities for better being—
How often do they pass unnoticed by,
While we inert, indifferent sit, not seeing
That angel hands would lift us up on high.

Oh, could we rouse ourselves to grand endeavor,
And sympathize, unselfish with our race,
'Twere worth all thoughts and theories that ever
Have sought true honest action to displace.
—Mary G. O'Sheridan.

We Must Help.

Sittin still an grievin
Won't make the apple drop.
Good Lord helps the harvest—
You must hoe the crop.

Sittin still an wishin
Never'll help your state.
Good Lord makes the fishin—
You must dig the bait.
—Chicago Times-Herald.

Trust.

Love thou the Past as thou wouldst a wayward but well beloved brother;
Lean thy heart to the Present as the babe trusteth its mother;
Look to the Future as a soul looks to its God and none other.
—Jessie Stanford.

GARZA IS ALIVE.

The Mexican Revolutionist Now a Cuban Insurgent Leader.

Advices were received from Palo Blanco, Nueces county, Tex., that Mrs. Catarino Garza, the wife of the Mexican revolutionary leader, who created such a disturbance on the lower Rio Grande border a few years ago and who was reported to have been killed in Colombia, South America, several months ago while engaged in a political insurrection, has just received a letter from her husband.

According to the information contained in this letter, Garza is very much alive and is taking a leading part in the Cuban revolution, where he has command of a company of insurgents and is known by the name of El Mexicano.

Mrs. Garza lives on the ranch of her father, Don Alejandro Gonzales, near Palo Blanco. She has claimed all along that her husband was not known in Colombia, and that she would hear from him soon. The full contents of the letter are not known, but it is believed that Garza will obtain an important engagement with the Cuban government if the insurgents are successful.—New York Recorder.

INGERSOLL OUT OF LUCK.

He Finds That the Criminal Classes Are Ungrateful.

Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll believes that he has become what thieves and confidence men call "an easy mark." The other day he started on a long lecturing tour with his daughter, Miss Maud Ingersoll. He had sent two trunks for repairs to a store. On the night the trunks were sent to his house the expressman carried one of them up stairs and returned to find that the horse, wagon and the colonel's other trunk had disappeared. Later the horse and wagon were found, but nothing has been heard of the trunk.

Last September Colonel Ingersoll delivered a lecture at Elmwood, Ills., on the abuse of criminals. After he had made a fine plea for criminals who wish to reform he returned to the hotel and found that his pocketbook containing $250 had been stolen.

When he left for the west, Colonel Ingersoll said that his views on the relation of the criminal to society had been considerably modified by personal experience.—New York World.

The Man For the Occasion.

Not long since Sandow was going from Kansas City to Omaha, and the strong man had occasion to go into the day coach. In passing through the car he was accosted by a tall gentleman, with long side whiskers a la Taffy.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, "but are you not Mr. Sandow?"

"Yes," said the strong man.

"You can lift three tons in harness?"

"Yes, sir, that is my record," the Hercules returned.

"You can hold a 200 weight at arm's length?"

"Yes."

"And put up 800 pounds with one arm?"

"Yes."

"And 600 with two?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, would you kindly raise this car window for me?"—St. Louis Republic.

A New Oyster Disease.

Oyster dealers along the Virginia rivers are greatly exercised over a new disease which exists among bivalves.

The oysters have been attacked by some malady which has, in a measure, rendered the catch in various sections worthless. The inner space in the shells is filled with a reddish liquid which closely resembles blood. The oysters themselves show no sign of being affected by the liquid and seem to be healthy. The dealers who have received such oysters have, in some cases, had them returned after they had been sold.

Various opinions have been advanced as to the cause of the disease. Some say the condition is due to the continued dry weather, while others attribute it to long continued fog.—Baltimore Sun.

Flywheel Weighing 180,000 Pounds.

The largest single piece of machinery ever shipped in this country is now on its way from Philadelphia to Joliet, Ills. It is a flywheel and weighs 180,000 pounds. Two cars had to be specially constructed to convey it. Ten miles an hour is the limit of speed, and even at this slow rate the journal boxes were constantly heating and causing delay. At the present rate of traveling it will require several months for the wheel to reach Joliet.

Epigrams by Eugene Field.

True hearts are rare, but those who prudent look
Must find firm friend in well selected book,
Which has this charm: Though with it you dispute,
Find constant fault, its storied lips are mute.

If Shakespeare now, with magic pen in hand,
Could England view, where he won lasting fame,
Methinks he'd change one epigram to stand.
These days, alas, all things are in a name.

Say, bachelor, would you know bliss?
Then wed fair maid to love, clasp, kiss!

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

LIZA.

A plain, old fashioned name, unheard by me for many years,
But still I see it has the power to ope a fount of tears.
It calls up, too, the youthful days among the hazy hills,
Of mornings thrilled by mocking birds, of nights by whippoorwills,
And somehow even now I think, as often long ago,
No days have been as sweet as then, when I was Liza's beau.

I'm told her married life was hard and changed her much at last,
But now she's slumbering well up there, where all her years were passed,
Forgotten are all wrongs to her in that unending sleep—
The look unkind, the cold neglect, the words that made her weep—
But now and then I find myself a-wishing she could know
One heart is still as true as then, when I was Liza's beau.

STABAT MATER.

Father Michael—the choir boys had dubbed him Old Hunchback—was organist in Muhlhausen. Every man, woman and child in the parish knew him. Mon Dieu! for over 30 years the old women had dozed and nodded to his music and the young girls had sat dreaming about weddings and christenings while Old Hunchback up in the organ loft sat and improvised soul swaying melodies on his instrument. But outside of the parish not a cat knew Father Michael.

What happened to him has happened to many others; after his death his name was known over land and kingdom. Then fame took it on its wings, and now, wherever dwells an Alsatian is known the legend of Father Michael's Stabat Mater.

In his youth he had dreamed of great achievements and honor as an artist, but never had he believed that his name would be celebrated in legend and in song—he who in his old age had become accustomed to being laughed at by everybody.

And pitifully ridiculous looking he was with his hunched back and his monkey face, so ugly that the dogs barked when they saw it. And for this reason he had gone through life with love for naught but his music.

Up in the organ loft of the church, lifted above his fellow men, he was transformed into another being. And he played with such wonderful skill and touch that the maidens heard sweet whisperings of love in the flow of melody, while the dozing mothers were swayed into dreams of happy girlhood under the influence of his strains. But this was of no consequence to Father Michael; he played mostly for himself—expressions of his heart's silent dreams.

* * * * * *

They jeered and ridiculed him in the village. Every time he went into Moser's, the tobacconist, he was greeted by a sarcastic:

"Why don't you marry, Father Michael? Are you going to live without leaving so much as your name after you? What you improvise on the organ amounts to nothing; it dies away at once. No, it is a great deal better to give the schoolmaster a little trouble and present some fine boys to the army."

Everybody in the store laughed a this sally. Michael was just the right one to give his country brave soldiers! But he let the people laugh and sought consolation in his beloved organ.

* * * * * *

The war was ended.

But after that time it was that Father Michael felt his loneliness heavier and more dreary than ever. The wounds of jeering words sunk deeper, and he felt their cut with bleeding heart. There were moments when even the music failed to bring him peace. It seemed to him as if the words of his neighbors were becoming more cruel and that there lay more seriousness in their railery. Perhaps he was right. Misfortune dwelt with them; there was bitterness in many hearts. Perhaps now they found a certain satisfaction in giving relief to their bitterness by tormenting Old Hunchback—him who did not weep with them, but only played on his organ—the old good for nothing.

Yes, poor old Michael thought that he himself was the most wretchedly useless creature in existence.

Moser and the others were decidedly right. During the anxious days of the war the others had done everything they could. Fathers and sons had seized their arms and gone forth to battle; the women had cared tenderly for the sick and the wounded—he, he alone had only been able to mourn and dream. Day after day he had sat for hours before his organ immovable, with his face hidden in his hands—seeking after something he had never been able to find—a melody which breathed and lived in his soul; a miserere full of tears and of sorrow, but through the sighs there should sound the cry of wrath! the cry of revenge! Oh, if he, with thunderous, raging and rushing billows of sound could have checked the advancing enemy!

But days, weeks, months passed. The loathsome annexation was a bitter fact. The time passed and no deliverer came. Gradually the necks were bent. Slowly, almost imperceptibly, they grew accustomed to the burden of the yoke.

Now and then was heard an exalted voice hurling an insanely impotent protest against the conqueror and seeking to incite the people, but the people listened, terrified, to the bold words. Once in a while a rebellious conscript created a scandal in the barracks by shouting, "Vive la France!" when the oath of allegiance was to be administered. It also happened that a daring patriot had nailed the tricolor to the belfry of the church tower on the morning of the 14th of July. And great consternation was caused by a young blond girl who at a fete crossed the market square, where all the military authorities were assembled, dressed in a neckerchief of red, white and blue.

Further than that the rebellious spirit did not evince itself. But with every such outburst the grief and pain of Father Michael became intensified. The memory's fever, which was whipped out of the others as soon as it showed itself, was locked up and hidden in the soul of the old man. But there it lay and grew to a sickly hate, to a helpless envy against all these others. He envied the unknown youth who had nailed the flag of France to the old tower; he envied the recruit who had shouted, "Vive la France!" in the barrack yard, and he envied the girl who had had courage to bear the colors of France right through the lines of the enemy.

Everywhere about him they found every day some new way of showing their strong memory and a faithfulness that knew no death. He alone could do nothing, could find nothing. He was useless—always useless. Yes, yes—his soul could weep, but his organ—it sang beneath his fingers.

* * * * * *

But one day Old Hunchback stepped into the tobacco store, and they scarcely knew him. His face beamed. Moser filled his snuffbox, and as usual began his sarcastic remarks.

"Well, now you see, my good Father Michael, of what use really is such an organist, eh?"

But Moser did not finish. This time Father Michael did not bend his head. This time it was Old Hunchback who smiled with a peculiar and proud expression. He looked frankly and earnestly at those present, and there lay a calm dignity over this hunchbacked old man with the curious monkey face, and his voice was resonant and firm.

"Yes," he said, "even organists may be useful. Just wait; I will prove it."

They crowded around him. They insisted and coaxed him to tell them what it was, but he was silent. Smiling as they never before had seen him, he stepped out of the store, and his step was elastic as that of youth. He looked almost straight, this hunchbacked old man, as he passed down the street.

Moser and the crowd in the store soon came to the one conclusion that the organist had gone mad, stark mad.

In the evening the whole village knew that old Father Michael had a screw loose. This was in holy week, on Wednesday. Maundy Thursday the bells are rung for the Christians of the whole world, even for the Alsatians, and everybody goes to church. But in Alsace-Lorraine they thought not only of the holy resurrection, but also of another—the morning of the resurrection of liberty, which no bells as yet had proclaimed.

Good Friday the church was thronged with people. High up on the altar stood the black draped cross. Heavy bands of crape were twisted about the unlighted candles. From the chancel the priest read heavily and slowly the holy words of the suffering of our Saviour; about him who bent his head in death to give to the world peace, forgiveness and liberty.

And the people reverentially knelt on the flagstones and offered up their hearts in silent, sorrowing prayer. Slowly the priest goes toward the altar, and now the grand "Stabat Mater Dolorosa" was to be sung. It was a moment of deepest silence in the church; the congregation had opened their prayerbooks. To them it seemed as if their country was the sorrowing mother, who stood under the cross, with the sword piercing her heart, sighing after deliverance and liberty.

The silence became long, oppressively long. The organ would not begin. Was it then really true that Father Michael had gone mad?

The sexton in the chancel pulled the string that led up to the organist. Over the entire church could be heard the faint tinkling of a little bell. Then the organ woke. The whole church resounded with fierce trumpet calls. The singers arose in wild amazement. Why, this was not the prelude to "Stabat!" And the whole congregation was as if struck by lightning.

No! It was not "Stabat Mater" that sounded from the organ! It was a hymn full of thunder and of fire, the organ pipes rang out like brazen trumpets, the deep bass tones roared like cannons, and the defiant rattle of the snare drum's beat echoed through the sanctuary. Clanging of arms, rattle of musketry, shrieks intermingled with trumpet blasts and clashing of swords there were in this fierce outburst of sounds. The organ groaned and trembled beneath its burden.

But the congregation below had risen. They were like a crowd in tumultuous uproar. Voices took up the strains of the organ; first one, then a mighty union of voices burst forth in fierce unrestraint. Mothers stood upon the seats, stretching their children toward the organ, weeping, but singing with wild intensity. Choir boys and priests made frantic motions to check the organist, but all the while they were singing the "Marseillaise" unconsciously.

And Father Michael played on; nothing could stop him. He played like one possessed, and now and then his thin, shrill voice could be heard, as if spurring on the tones of the organ, now rising in a wild, challenging cry:

Suddenly the organ was silent. Father Michael had sunk from his bench. They found him lying on the floor. They heard him whisper with a peculiar smile:

"I knew that I should find it. It is my hymn—'Stabat Mater,' retribution's stabat mater dolorosa!"

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 8. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—God's triumphs in the mission field.—Ps. lxvii, 1-7.

Christian missions are at a critical period in their history. The outrages that have been omitted in foreign mission fields in the past year have brought the subject prominently before the world, and the comments by the secular press have not been flattering to say the least. Ridicule, false caricature and violent criticism have mostly prevailed. This perhaps is not to be wondered at. It may be explained in many ways. Yet the fact still remains that it may have an injurious effect upon missions. The public press wields a powerful influence. It is to be deplored that it is not the champion of the cause of missions rather than its severest critic.

Yet criticism is often very beneficial. It should be in this case. It should arouse all who are interested in missions to a deeper study of the subject, so that they may be able to show more clearly and forcibly just what mission work is doing for the world. The secular world and the secular press look at this as all other subjects from a practical standpoint. If we can prove that it pays to risk life and even that which is dearer than life, that it pays to spend thousands of dollars annually in this cause, then we may expect to receive the approval of the secular world and press, and not until then. The time has therefore arrived when we must dwell not so much upon the sacrifices that missionaries make in leaving home and native lands upon their work as upon what they are doing.

Much, too, is being done. God is triumphing on mission fields. If the world knew how much was being done, it would sing the praises of missionaries instead of criticising thier labors. Special lines of study that might be engaged in to show this to be true are:

1. Medical missions. In all heathen lands the practice of medicine is marked by the densest superstition and characterized by the most extreme cruelties. Christianity is benefiting the world by giving its darkest places the advantages of the most improved medical skill and practice.

2. Educational missions. Christianity is educating the world. Its schools and colleges stand in the darkest places in heathendom as bright and shining lights, leading the mind from the grossest superstitions and densest ignorance to a standard of knowledge that is not excelled even in civilized nations.

3. Scientific missions. I mean by that what missions have done for science in giving the scientific world a knowledge of the geography, the flora and fauna, the language, the animal kingdom, the habits and customs of the people of unknown parts of the world that had never been obtained in any other way. Many of our greatest explorers have been missionaries, and science owes a debt to Christian missions that can never be paid.

4. Moral and spiritual missions. The best work of all from the Christian's standpoint is the moral and spiritual elevation accomplished in mission fields.

If that which gives the world the best medical science, if that which raises the standard of the world's education, if that which brings to science an accurate knowledge of many parts of the world, before unknown, if that which means the moral and spiritual elevation of mankind does not pay, then what does pay?

Bible Readings.—Ps. ii, 1-12; Isa. ix, 2; lii, 7-10; Dan. iv, 3; Zech. ii, 10, 11; Math. xxviii, 18-20; Luke ii, 25-32; xxiv, 46, 47; Acts xvi, 9, 10; xiii, 44-49; xxviii, 28-31; Titus ii, 12-14; Rev. v, 9, 10.

In Their Own Light.

The editor of The Lutheran Evangelist, referring to that small class of ministers that are constantly preaching about the dangers that attend the Christian Endeavor movement, says: "It is strange that these ministers do not see that when they begin to show the weakness of the Endeavor movement they are only showing the imperfections of their own church members and indirectly advertising their own inability to guide and direct young Christians in the development of Christian character and activity."

For His Sake.

Consecrate your affections. Love some one for Jesus Christ's sake. Don't pick out a genteel, well tailored, perfumed sinner. Jesus Christ never stopped to ask of those he would help if they had been vaccinated or fumigated, or if they had certificates from the board of health. —Rev. J. F. Cowan, D. D.

Importance of the Juniors.

"A Young People's society without a Junior society is something incomplete and unfinished, like a lily plant without a bloom, a vine without grapes, or a pearl without setting." Thus wisely speaks the Christian Endeavor organ of Ireland, The Christian Worker.

The Greatest Miracle.

Christ as the bread of God is the greatest miracle of all.—Rev. John E. Bushnell.

Abide With Me.

Abide with me. Far darkly looms the future's mystic way.
My straining eyes yet fail to catch the glow
Still in this gloom all fears give way, all shadows swiftly flee.
A thrill of peace illuminates if Thou abide with me.

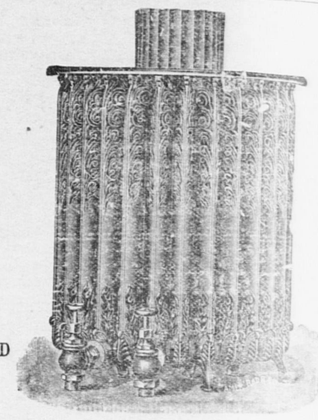

Abide with me while morn is fresh, ere noonday's scorching heat,
With lash of fire, lays bursting blooms in ashes at my feet.
Abide with me when all seems lost, when all the melody
Of life is choked, yet still I'll sing if Thou abide with me.

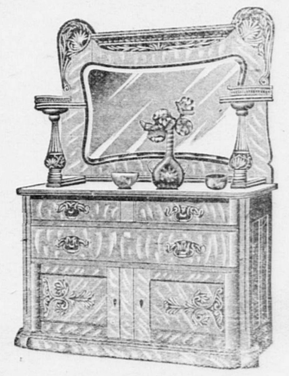

When softly creeps the drooping sun adown the western skies,
When from its glories, speeding swift, the golden sunbeam flies,
And when the close of day is near, and, blinded, cannot see,
I'll sink to sleep, to sweetest rest, if Thou abide with me.

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

Granite for Cemetery Monumental and Decorative Purposes.

The Polishing of Granite—How It Is Prepared.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

The abrasive material now almost exclusively used for grinding granite is either chilled-iron globules, steel emory, or crushed steel. A coarse grade is used at first, then a finer kind, and for the last grinding fine emery is often used. Polishing is done in much the same way as grinding, except that a felt-covered disk is used in place of an iron one, and putty powder mixed with a little water, instead of coarser grinding materials. Before the final polish, however, the surface is usually given a dull gloss or "skin coat" by the disk and water alone. A polish is sometimes produced by the use of oxalic acid instead of putty powder, but the polish thus made is less durable. Moldings are ground and polished by means of blocks fitting the grooves dragged back and forth either by power or hand.

Granite for columns, balusters, round posts, and urns is now worked chiefly in lathes, which, for the heaviest work, are made large enough to handle blocks 25 feet long and 5 feet in diameter. Instead of being turned to the desired size by sharp cutting instruments, as in ordinary machines for turning wood and metal, granite is turned or ground away by the wedge-like action or rather thick steel disks, rotated by the pressure of the stone as it slowly turns in the lathe. The disks, which are 6 to 8 inches in diameter, are set at quite an angle to the stone, and move with an automatic carriage along the lathe bed. Large lathes have four disks, two on each side, and a column may be reduced some 2 inches in diameter the whole length of the stone by one lateral movement of the carriages along the bed. The first lathes for turning granite cut only cylindrical or conical columns, but an improved form is so made that templets or patterns may be inserted to guide the carriages, and columns having any desired swell may be as readily turned. For fine grinding and polishing the granite is transferred to another lathe, where the only machinery used is to produce a simple turning or revolution of the stone against iron blocks carrying the necessary grinding or polishing materials.

Blocks are prepared for the lathe work by being roughed out with a point, and by having holes chiseled in their squared ends for the reception of the lathe dog and centres. This principal of cutting granite by means of disks revolved by contact with the stone has been also applied to the dressing of plain surfaces, the stone worked upon being mounted upon a traveling carriage and made to pass under a series of disks mounted in a stationary upright frame.

Tracery and lettering for polished granite are usually first drawn upon paper which is firmly pasted to the surface and the design chisled through to the requisite depth in the rock.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, means a change in the Kidneys from healthy tissue to fat. The symptoms are so obscure that they may not be noticed until too late. The presence of albumen in the urine, Backache and retention of urine are symptoms of disease. If albumen is present, it will show if a small quantity of urine be heated to the boiling point in a silver spoon, when white curdy flakes will appear; or—a few drops of vinegar and a second heating may discover the albumen. Merely a white cloud may show under the test—that indicates the early stage when the disease may be cured. Buker's Kidney Pills if taken at this time will reduce inflammation and help the Kidneys to their normal state. If the urine shows a change, don't neglect the symptom. The pills cost 50 cents at the druggists.

Bright's Disease

The Debating Club.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

Upon official request, I willingly join the Contributors' club of the Quincy Debating club, and with every assurance of my belief in the Society's prospective helpfulness to its members and to the city, send in my quota of reminiscences and reflections.

My personal experience has been largely confined to the debating feature of college literary societies. I have a pleasant recollection of arguing for the affirmative of the Total Abstinence question when in preparatory school, and again of leading for the affiirmative on a resolution in favor of Constitutional Prohibition while a student in the university of my adopted State.

There is no excuse for a man's suffering defeat when he is on the right side of a question, but I fear that I did not modestly attribute the victory won to the merits of the case. "A haughty spirit goeth before a fall." Vacation time coming around, I went home for a visit. Now, in our county almost every cross-roads' schoolhouse had its winter debating society; and from a farm nigh to one of these a young man had graduated to a merchant's life in town. He had organized a literary society, which met in a hall over one of the stores. He was also pressing the affirmative of a perennial question with my younger sister. This young man hesitatingly invited me to take the other side of a subject he was going to debate at the next meeting of the society; and—well, the way he defeated me was one of his strongest arguments on the other question, if I mistake not.

Never rashly measure words with a man who has been trained in a cross-roads' schoolhouse debating club.

From the report in Friday's LEDGER it would seem that the affirmative had the better of the argument on the Woman Suffrage question last Thursday evening, and worthily won the decision given. This is as it should be. When the men who cannot read the constitution of the United States or write their own names, the men who understand it but do not accept it, the men who have never foresworn allegiance to all other temporal powers, the bribe-givers and bribe-takers and all other criminals, the vagrants and the tramps; when all these are disfranchised and the intelligent, pure-minded, patriotic women are enfranchised, we shall have a better country.

But this sentiment is not given as an echo of the debate, for a debating society is not a school of the prophets, and "an ounce of fact is worth a ton of theory." On the suffrage question, as for all other living issues, there are plenty of men to give us the "would be's" and few to give us the "have been's;" many to draw conclusions from their own unproven assertions, and few to develop the logic of facts. In proportion as this latter class is strengthened and the other diminished, will the Quincy Debating Society be a strong educative factor in our life.

One other consideration marks such a society a necessity; it is the only place where debating is admissible. To debate is to try to defeat the other side by stress of argument and quick wit. It is an exercise which belongs to the arena. In private conversation people ought rather to discuss—to seek to learn each from the other.

—Several houses on wheels have lately been heard of in various parts of the country, the occupants being bent on long journeys solely for pleasure. One passed through Colorado a week or two since en route from the Pacific coast for the Atlantic seaboard. Another is now reported traveling through Indiana, on the way from Coldwater, Mich., for Wildbrook, Fla. This is a miniature house built on a heavy log wagon. It contains a bed, bureau, wardrobe, chairs and a kitchen, and is carpeted with brussels. The owner, Charles W. Coreless, his wife and little daughter occupy the wheeled cottage. They expect to reach Florida by Christmas, and will winter there, and go back to Michigan in the same contrivance.

—The Carrara marble quarries are practically inexhaustible. The entire mass of Monte Sagro, 5,600 feet high, which dominates Carrara, is solid marble. About 166,000 tons of marble are annually exported, most of which comes to America.

—Miss Dora Wells is owner and purser of the Puget sound steamship Delta, which runs from Watcom to the San Juan islands Victoria, B. C., three times a week. She collects fares, makes contracts for freight and takes a hand in navigating the steamer.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mansfield were presented with a son on Monday.

The Quincy and Boston electric street railway company has a new snow plow and it did good work Thursday.

Mr. Geo. Black, superintendent of the Columbia Rubber Company's works has been under the weather for the past week.

Mr. Samuel A. Bates is now quite well. He was able to shovel out his paths Thursday night and he did in a way that many a younger man might follow.

The Home Missionary circle met last Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of the First church. There were about eighty present. Gentlemen were invited to supper and those who responded are glad they went and there are others who wish they had been there.

Mr. F. B. Allen was able to be out yesterday for the first time since last week Friday. He was threatened with pneumonia but good care brought him through.

A church on one of our neighboring towns held Union services Thanksgiving day. There were six ministers present and the audience numbered fifty. What would our forefathers say?

The Ladies' Aid society connected with the M. E. church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of the pastor, Thursday afternoon and evening. Supper was served from 5 to 7 o'clock.

The Parish Guild of Trinity church, Weymouth, meet with Miss Susan Allen on Commercial street, and a very pleasant evening was spent. A pretty play, "Champion of her sex," was acted out by eight young ladies of the East village.

Miss Cynthia Smith of Taylor street spent a few days last week, including Thanksgiving day, with her daughter at Canton her son Oscar accompanied her.

The Edward Reed estate on Elm street has been sold to C. E. Merrill of this town. Mr. Merrill will immediately place upon the market some twenty lots. This property will be sold subject to restrictions as regards the cost of buildings, location and all requirements to make it desirable for first class homes. Streets will be built as soon as possible. Plans will be in the hands of C. A. Belcher, who will act as agent, at an early date. He will be pleased to furnish any information in regard to the property.

Principal Ewart is arranging to display the weather flags upon the Monatiquot building, the early part of next week. A white flag indicates fair weather. The blue flag, rain or snow. Flag with lower half blue and upper half white, local rains. A white flag with a blue centre, cold wave. Look out for them.

Rather witty, that fellow who said yesterday, as he looked at the town clock, "That must be a money church—no tick there."

Miss Healy, of New York, is visiting her cousin, Mr. Benjamin F. Dyer, South Braintree. Miss Healy attended Thayer Academy a few years ago and has many friends in Braintree.

WE HAVE often wondered why electric roads did not equip their lines with a telephone service. Many a long wait could be remedied if immediate communication existed along the lines. The Braintree & Weymouth Company will find its new departure in this direction a great convenience.

—The buildings at the State farm at Titticut are being wired for electric lights. About 1300 will be put in. Three electricians have the work in charge, the inmates working under their direction.

There is nothing more appetizing than well-made bread—nothing so unwholesome and unpalatable as poor bread. Often, when the bread is poor, the blame is laid on the cook; but in nine cases out of ten this is very unfair, because, if carefully investigated, the real trouble will be found in the use of poor flour. Poor flour can never make good bread, no matter how good the cook or how careful the baking. Among professional cooks and culinary artists this has become an axiom, and they are as shrewd and careful in buying their flour as they are in selecting tender meats.

One flour there is in the market that can always be relied upon as to quality, namely, "Pillsbury's Best," which for over twenty-five years has been the standard flour of the world, and is today recommended by the leading grocers and cooks throughout the country. Mrs. Brayton-Valsie, in "Points About the Flour of the Family," Boston Household, August, '95, says: "Experience has never failed to show Pillsbury's Best to be in all respects as represented. For twenty-five years they have maintained, undimmed, a reputation for never letting down the quality of their output. Don't be deluded if some people earnestly recommend some cheaper brands as being 'just as good' when you mention Pillsbury's."

Pillsbury's Best is made from the best materials, by the best methods, in the best and biggest mills in the world, makes better bread and more of it to the barrel than any other flour known, and is therefore a luxury and an economy combined, and the best investment a housekeeper can maake. Ipo

—In perforating postage stamps a die-plate is placed below the needles of a machine carrying 300 needles. As about 180,000,000 holes are punched a day, the wear on the die-plate is excessive; brass plates wear out in a day, and even steel plates are rapidly destroyed.

—One of the latest scientific vagaries is the proposition that the central heat of the earth may be drawn upon and utilized by sinking wells or pits deep enough to tap superheated steam or gases having sufficient pressure to drive machinery and diffuse comfort on the surface.

—In front of the ticket seller's box on the New York side of the Brooklyn bridge may be seen in the morning as many as 100 theater ticket checks scattered around on the walk. The theatergoers returning home, come across the checks in their pockets when paying their fares and throw them away there.

—Mrs. Edward M. Poteat, daughter of the late Rev. A. J. Gordon of Boston, has raised a furor of indignation throughout the country by affirming that more boys are ruined in Yale than anywhere else, and that she would as soon send a boy to hell as to Yale. Either Mrs. Poteat's knowledge of the universities of the world is limited, or else she is very careless in her statements. She should know that the moral influence of a college is uplifting rather than degrading, and that the forces for good in the average institution far outnumber and outweigh the evil.—Franklin Sentinel.

SOME FINE DIPLOMACY

Must Be Shown In Dealing With the Venezuelan Dispute.

England Expected to Evade the Main Issues.

Anything Approaching an Open Breach Would Result Disastrously.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Lord Salisbury's reply to Secretary Olney's letter requesting a final and definite statement of Great Britain's purposes concerning Venezuela is in Washington, having been delivered to Sir Julian Pauncefote last night. The answer was brought to Washington by Donalson, the special messenger to the embassy, who received the reply from the steward of the steamship Britannic, on which it arrived at New York yesterday.

While it is true that the administration is aware that Lord Salisbury's reply to Secretary Olney's note of July last, touching the Venezuelan boundary dispute, is adverse to the proposition to arbitrate the title to the lands lying westward of the Schomburgk line, speedy action by our government in this matter is not considered likely.

Pauncefote may occupy himself several days, at least, in its careful consideration, in order that he may make sure that he is transmitting to Secretary Olney the views of his government, so far as it is proper for them to be communicated to the United States government, without at the same time imparting any portion of the note that may be framed for his private guidance. Then the absence of the president from this city will obviate further to delay proceedings, for Secretary Olney would not feel justified in making a forward movement at this stage of the case without advising fully with the president.

As the latter has promised congress to communicate in a special message the nature of Lord Salisbury's reply, further delay may be caused by the preparation of this message, so on the whole it is impossible that the next step can be taken before the latter part of the present month, if so early.

Sized Up In the House.

There is a pretty general discussion of Venezuelan affairs among members of the house.

The general opinion among those who will have the conduct of foreign affairs in charge in the house is that Lord Salisbury's reply will be a diplomatic evasion of the main issues and will be couched in friendly terms, and while expressing a willingness to arbitrate as to a portion of the disputed territory, will deny the right of the United States to ask Great Britain to arbitrate as to territory the ownership of which Great Britain claims is hers beyond dispute. In other words, it is believed that Great Britain's reply will temporize with the subject and simply open the way for further correspondence.

"A glance at the correspondence," says a prominent Republican member, "will show that this has been England's position and policy for 50 years. She will seem to yield something, but she will stake off a line beyond which she will not go in this matter of arbitration. That was Lord Granville's policy. It will be Salisbury's. Though Salisbury is imperious by inclination, he will be exceedingly cautious. The considerations involved in an open breach with England, or anything approaching an open breach, are gigantic. Credits would be immediately shaken. The question of the tariff is infinitely of more importance to Great Britain than the ownership of a few gold mines in Venezuela."

Of Interest to New Englanders.

The house was in session but half an hour, when it adjourned until Monday. Mr. Baker of New Hampshire, who has proclaimed war upon Secretary of Agriculture Morton, because of the latter's refusal to expend an appropriation for the purchase of seeds for distribution among congressional constituents, attempted to put through a resolution calling upon the secretary for information on the subject, but Mr. McMillan of Tennessee objected. Later, Mr. Walker of Massachusetts, in whose district reside 9-10ths of the naturalized Armenians in this country, asked for the printing in the record of their resolution reciting the outrages committed upon their relatives in Turkey, and pledging the support of congress to any steps that might be taken by the executive for their protection, but to this Mr. Turner of Georgia interposed an objection.

Public bills of interest to New England were introduced in the house as follows: For public buildings at Westerly, Woonsocket and various river and harbor improvements in Rhode Island; for a public building at Plymouth, Mass.; for public buildings at Nashua and at Keene, N. H., and for the adjudication and payment of the claims of New Hampshire for reimbursement of national bounties advanced by the state upon authority of the secretary of war; for public buildings at Stamford, Conn.; for an addition to the public building at Hartford.

Representative Miller of Kansas introduced a bill and a resolution calling upon the president, if in his judgment not incompatible with public interests, for all information received by the government in regard to the arrest and trial of ex-Consul John I. Waller.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Over-Production Largely Responsible For a Sluggish Movement.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say: Business is still sluggish, as if gorged by excessive indulgence of the appetite for buying when prices were advancing. In nearly every branch stocks not yet distributed to consumers stand in the way of new orders, and competition of a producing force largely exceeding the present demand puts down prices, that decline retarding purchases yet more.

After the holidays men look for a larger demand—whether large enough to support all the producing force awakening to activity by the abnormal rush of buyers last summer remains to be seen. For the present the springs of new business are running low, but enough is doing on old orders to keep most of the works employed in part and a good proportion fully.

Financial influences have not hindered and rarely has the opening of a session of congress affected business so little.

Wool has been slightly strengthened by the London sales, but the average of quotations by Coates Bros. is only 1-10th of 1 per cent higher. Sales continue large, 6,463,100 pounds for the week, of which 60 per cent was foreign. Manufacturers have much machinery idle at present, and orders thus far are not encouraging. Dress goods are in less demand, and Atlantic all-wool cashmeres were reduced 10 per cent.

Cotton has been weak again, declining ¼ cent for the week and the January option 27 points.

Wheat has advanced about 1 cent for the week, though western receipts have been 7,014,911 bushels, against 3,727,788 last year, and Atlantic exports, flour included, again exceed last year's—2,326,093, against 1,887,737 bushels. The best western estimates of the crop have been raised again.

Corn moves from farms less freely than a year ago, the low price hindering, but exports were 1,293,774 bushels, against 178,813 last year.

Boot and shoe shipments for the week are larger than last year, and manufacturers are getting increased orders with general reductions in prices, but leather has declined 2 cents for union backs and for oil grain, and ½ cent for buff. Hides are about ½ cent lower throughout.

Failures in the United States for the week have been 324, against 385 last year.

On Redskins' Trail.

PHŒNIX, A. T., Dec. 7.—Latest reports from the vicinity of the San Carlos agency indicate that the outbreak of the Apaches is of more importance than was at first supposed. The bodies of four white men were found Thursday in the lower Gila valley, close to Fort Thomas, which was recently abandoned by the United States troops. This is 45 miles from Ash Springs, where the Merrills were killed, so it must have been done by a different party of Indians, and undoubtedly by a larger band. Settlers in that section are under arms and troops are scouring the country. The Ash Springs murderers have been trailed to Steins Peak range, a favorite locality for Apaches when they have been doing mischief.

Shipping Suffered Badly.

HALIFAX, Dec. 7.—The heaviest windstorm for many years occurred yesterday, and extended all along the coast to Cape Breton. Great damage has been done to shipping interests, although, so far as yet known, no lives were lost. Altogether about 20 schooners were wrecked or stranded, mostly coasters. Upper Prospect, a fishing settlement near this city, suffered badly, the fishermen losing all their gear, boats and fish sheds. The government pier at Souris, P. E. I., was damaged, and the signal light there destroyed. Several days will elapse before the full extent of the damage either on land or sea will be known.

On a Lively Chase.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 7.—Z. T. Lewis of Urbana, who deceived numbers of people by selling municipal bonds, is being hotly pursued over the world by Ralph Crawford, a Cincinnati detective. Crawford has unlimited means in cash and letters of credit to enable him to travel around the globe if necessary, and this money is furnished by the banks. It is said that the Cincinnati banks kept perfectly quiet about a loss that is given anywhere from $150,000 to $250,000.

Insurgents Lost a Battle.

HABANA, Dec. 7.—A correspondent in Porte Principe confirms the report of the engagement near La Riforma, in which General Suarez Valdez diverted the advance of Antonio Maceo on Santa Clara. The insurgents were repulsed, their loss in killed and wounded and prisoners being reported at 300. The insurgent leader, Camilo Ruiz, has been sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Fortunes in Copper.

HALIFAX, Dec. 7.—D. M. Geldert, principal owner of undeveloped copper mines at River John and Carribou, who has just returned from the United States, states that he has interested a syndicate of New York and Boston capitalists in the properties, and they will send experts to Nova Scotia to examine and report upon the copper deposits preparatory to bonding them for purchase.

Treasury In Good Condition.

VIENNA, Dec. 7.—The budget which was presented yesterday for 1894 shows a surplus for that year of 20,000,000 florins. This was brought about in spite of the withdrawal of 24,000,000 of florins for the currency reform. The funds in the treasury at the end of 1894 amounted to 211,400,000 florins.

Captain Bassett Very Sick.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The sickness of Captain Isaac Bassett, the venerable assistant doorkeeper of the senate, took a very unfavorable turn yesterday, and it is now believed that his death may occur at almost any time.

Troubles Came Soon.

FRANKLIN, O., Dec. 7. — The Alpha Paper and Bag company has assigned. It has been organized but about a year and has a bonded indebtedness of $60,000. Assets and liabilities not stated.

Set Free by Goff.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Recorder Goff yesterday discharged Walter L. S. Langerman from the house of detention, where he was held to appear as a witness against Barbara Aub.

Chief Conlin.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Peter Conlin was appointed chief of police last evening, having passed his examination, gaining a percentage of 93 3-10ths, out of a possible 100.

TALKING OF HYPNOTISM

In Connection With Irregularities In Merchants' National Bank.

Cashier Lane Made Nothing by the Transactions.

Dr. Moore Claims That Certain Stories "Are Largely Misrepresentations."

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 9.—The publication of the financial difficulties of D. W. Lane, which resulted in his resignation as cashier of the Merchants' National bank, and the connection therewith of Dr. J. C. Moore, created a tremendous sensation in this city.

The method by which Mr. Lane became thus involved was in carrying the protested drafts of Dr. Moore, placing them one side in a drawer as they came back from Boston and crediting them as cash on the bank's accounts. When they had mounted up to over $44,000 Mr. Lane acquainted the bank with the fact, and when the officials made a demand on him to make good the amount, Mr. Lane turned over all of his property in trust to the bank, his bondsmen making good the balance, about $1500. Mr. Lane tendered his resignation as cashier, but has since been retained as clerk in the bank.

The bank officials state that the action of the late cashier is inexplicable. "The only way I can explain the matter," said President Hunt of the Merchants' bank, "is on the theory that Mr. Lane was hypnotized by Dr. Moore. He was absolutely to the doctor, and did not profit 1 cent by the transaction. The bank has not lost a dollar by the transaction."

Mr. Lane declines to discuss the matter other than to state that he alone is responsible for the affair, and that the bank has treated him with the utmost consideration and kindness. He is greatly broken down by the disclosures, and has the sympathy of all the citizens.

The feeling against Dr. Moore is intense, especially among those who suffered through the wreck of the Commonwealth and Derryfield banks and the People's Fire Insurance companies, of which institutions he was president when they collapsed two years ago.

It is understood that Dr. Moore claims that the drafts will yet be paid and that Mr. Lane will lose nothing.

Dr. Moore's Side.

The following statement, signed by Dr. Moore, was telegraphed here last night from Lakeport, where the doctor now is:

"The stories published in relation to the Merchants' bank matter have some foundation in fact, but are largely misrepresentations and nearly all misconceived. Besides, whatever there was to it, was arranged weeks ago between the parties interested, and neither the bank nor Mr. Lane are complainants and neither will lose anything.

"As to statements regarding the Union Publishing company, there is hardly a semblance of truth in them, whether referring to indebtedness or anything else. All changes which have been made have been made at my suggestion, with everything amicable. This, too, might properly be left to the parties in interest, and certainly ordinary courtesy would suggest the propriety of leaving the affairs of my ward to be adjusted in the proper place.

"My affairs are, and have been, complicated, but sensational newspaper misrepresentations can hardly be considered fair, or as helpful in bringing about an improvement."

HATCHET AND RAZOR

Brought Into Use by Young Hurd to Take His Father's Life.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Dec. 9.—Alfred J. Hurd, who was arrested Saturday on suspicion of having murdered his father, James M. Hurd, at his home on Oak street, Saturday morning, has made a full confession to Marshal Harmon.

He said that he had been annoyed repeatedly by his father's attitude toward him and that in a moment of unconsciousness he took his father's life. Hurd's father wanted him to seek employment. He asked his son to leave town if it was necessary and go to work. That was one of the ways in which Hurd said he was annoyed. He did not care to work, and became enraged at constant reiteration of his father's demands.

Hurd further said the razor which was found was not the one he cut his father's throat with, but the actual weapon would be found under the piazza, where he threw it. The razor was found under the piazza, all covered with blood.

Hurd then told how he had killed his father. He entered the chamber where the old man was sleeping and struck him an awful blow with the hatchet. He then cut the throat of the unconscious man from ear to ear with the razor in order to make sure of the job. He told the officers that he fully realized what he had done and expected to suffer the consequences.

When asked if he was not sorry that he had killed his father, the prisoner said he did not know as he was. He further stated that things had come to such a pitch that the murder had to be committed. He was very cool when he made his confession, and told everything in connection with the murder, even to most minute details. That he was temporarily insane when he did the deed is the opinion of the officers. Young Hurd is a telegraph operator and is 24 years old.

Bound to Grow.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—The First Baptist church was crowded yesterday with people anxious to hear Mrs. Ballington Booth. Mrs. Booth announced that she would take no particular text, but would endeavor to speak out of her heart to the hearts of her hearers. She related many anecdotes, and forcibly applied their morals to conditions as present existing in society. Mrs. Booth gave an illustration of the work of the army as the growth of a plant called in California the "love plant," which no matter how much it is kicked about, how often it is torn into shreds, or into what kind of barren soil it may be thrown, it will always grow and become firmly fixed.

Important Captures.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 9.—Four men were arrested yesterday on a charge of breaking and entering the clothing house of B. W. Hayes & Co. and the larceny of a large amount of clothing. Charles Thompson was also arrested, charged with receiving the stolen property. Those arrested are William Smith, George Bennett, John Godfrey and Charles Mosher. Belanger's shoe trading store and B. W. Hayes & Co.'s clothing house were entered yesterday. Smith was arrested on suspicion, and afterward some of Hayes' clothing was found in his possession. The other arrests quickly followed.

Praise For Cleveland.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—The Massachusetts Reform club dined at Young's Saturday night and heard addresses on current topics by prominent speakers. Edward Atkinson delivered the principal address of the evening. His subject was "Jingoism," and was a strong argument in favor of the foreign policy of President Cleveland and against the doctrines recently enunciated by Senators Chandler, Lodge and other Dissatisfied Veterans.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—A Grand Army association was formed here Saturday. The new organization is the outcome of dissatisfaction that has existed with a number of the rules of the Grand Army. Many of the Grand Army posts refused to send delegates. It is probable that the Grand Army will take some action against the new association, if it can be proved that the rules were violated.

Handled.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—Henry Alexander, 25 years old, of Norman street, is under arrest on a charge of attempting to kill Mary J. Rosa, one of his neighbors, who called at the house. It is alleged that he threw her down two flights of stairs. Her arm was broken and she was internally injured. She is in a critical condition.

Indicted For Libel.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—Frederick W. Peabody has been indicted on the charge of libeling Congressman H. H. Atwood. The action arose from the campaigns of 1892 and 1894 in the "Fighting Tenth" district. Peabody, one of the candidates, charged Atwood with certain actions during his term as city architect.

Diseased Milk.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 9.—The health authorities have discovered that the four deaths from typhoid fever and the 29 cases in this city during the past 10 days are due to impure milk furnished by a Johnston milkman. The fever was probably caused by the cows drinking impure water.

Who'll Win?

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—The largest wager that has yet been made on the city election is one for $10,000, made between Albert Geiger, a real estate man, and Charles J. Groves. Groves wagered that Mayor Curtis would be re-elected tomorrow, and Geiger accepted the bet.

A Horrible Death.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—Isaac Hazlehurst, 60 years old, engineer at Folsom's candy factory, was making repairs in the elevator well, and in some way the car broke loose from its fastenings. It descended, striking him on the head. His head was severed from his body.

Trip Postponed.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—Six passengers, who were about to take a Fall River train for New York, were arrested on charges of breaking into cases of shoes on board a Boston and Bangor steamship, and the larceny of the contents. The prisoners are Russians.

Hacker Discharged.

BOSTON, Dec. 9.—Frederick Hacker, a teamster, was charged with manslaughter in causing the death of George Nash by running over him with a heavy team on Nov. 25. At the close of the testimony offered, Judge Bragg ordered his discharge.

Municipal Strife.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 9.—A movement has been started here to consolidate the police board and license commission and oust the present chief of police, Benjamin H. Child. The chief, however, is backed by a majority of the board of aldermen.

Two Bad Boys.

MERIDEN, Conn., Dec. 9.—Two inmates of the state school for boys—Charles Adams, aged 15, and Frank Smith, 14—assaulted Mrs. J. W. Gregory, an attendant, and after blindfolding her took her keys away. They then easily escaped.

THE LABOR QUESTION

Will Receive Due Consideration at the Hands of Federation Delegates.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor opened this morning at Madison Square Garden. Labor leaders from all over the country, Canada and Great Britain are present to lend their prestige to the importance of the meeting as an assembly of the leading representatives of the organizations of the working classes of the United States. There are present about 120 delegates, who will represent a membership of upwards of 600,000 wageworkers. Although this figure does not show any increase in numerical strength, the Federation is not considered to be diminishing in influence.

PRESIDENT M'BRIDE.

The terrible industrial depression through which we have passed is said to be responsible for any loss in this direction. Lack of work has caused many union men to become unable to keep up the payment of dues, and consequently they have temporarily lost their membership in the union to which they belonged.

The convention was called to order by President McBride. Samuel Gompers' friends are endeavoring to have him selected as next president.

Mustn't Be Too Sure.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Senator Elkins gave a dinner last night to a number of members of the Republican national committee. During a discussion of party measures Chairman Carter took occasion to say that he did not think it wise for the Republicans to be too confident. He said that the president had placed himself squarely in favor of retiring the credit money of the country. It was possible that the financial centers of the country agreed with him. There was no doubt that a course of that kind, if pursued, would make Populistic votes.

Outcome Is Still In Doubt.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Whether the housesmiths' strike will come to an end tomorrow, whether a sympathetic strike on all buildings sub-contracted for by Milliken Bros.' and J. B. & J. M. Cornell will be ordered, or whether the men who are out will remain out, is a matter of mystery. President Lary of the Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's union, refuses point-blank to make any statement on the subject.

Safe, After All.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Dec. 9.—The British ship Strathnevis, which was supposed to have foundered in the North Pacific ocean, was spoken by the British bark John Gambles, which arrived at Vancouver Saturday, from Japan. The Strathnevis was in a disabled condition, 810 miles northwest of Cape Flattery, and on the sailing track between Puget Sound and Yokohama.

Train Upset.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—A freight train on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, bound north, jumped the track between One Hundred and Thirty-second and One Hundred and Thirty-third streets. The train upset, and Thomas Fitzgerald, engineer; Frederick Maples, brakeman, and Thomas C. McNalley, brakeman, were killed.

HALIFAX, Dec. 9.—The captain of the brig Sceptre, at Lunenberg, reports that on Nov. 27, in lat. 31.45, long. 73.09, boarded the schooner George E. Vernon, of Newport, R. I., hard pine laden, waterlogged and abandoned. The weather being rough, was unable to set her on fire.

Mosher Alone Blamed.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 9.—The jury in the case of R. C. Outcal, cashier of the Capital National bank, for having wrecked, which Charles Mosher is serving five years' imprisonment, returned a verdict of not guilty. Outcal was indicted for complicity with Mosher.

SILVER WEDDING.

A Swedish Couple Celebrate at St. Paul's Church.

There was a quite a large gathering at St. Paul's church, Saturday evening, to offer congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John Carlson on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nilson and Mr. and Mrs. August Siberg officiated as ushers, and presented the guests as they arrived to Mr. and Mrs. Carlson.

For entertainment there was singing by the choir, who rendered music appropriate to the occasion, and addresses by Rev. Mr. Witting, the pastor of the church, and Rev. Mr. Hanson of Boston. A wedding supper was also served.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlson received many valuable gifts, among which was a silver tea set from the church choir.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlson were married in Sweden and have resided in Quincy about 8 years.

Changes. Desired.

The time for giving notice of any desired changes in the granite bill of prices expired Nov. 30. The Granite Cutters' Union have notified the Manufacturers' Association of a number of changes which they desire March 1 in the agreement now in force. These will be published in Tuesday's LEDGER. The Manufacturers' Association has referred the matter to the executive committee.

Horrid Condition.

When Hon. Chas. F. Adams, 2d, chooses his new Superintendent of Public Works we should be pleased to have the Superintendent drive over Hancock street from the High school to Neponset bridge, and see what is needed. One drive over that street we think would fully acquaint him of its needs, as the street is in a horrible condition for a main street.

The Elliot club had a most delightfu evening among "The Yearly Magazines" at its last meeting. Mrs. N. G. Nickerson entertained and articles were prepared by Rev. E. A. Robinson, Mrs. R. J. Saxe, Mrs. J. G. Witham and Mrs. H. T. Whitman.

R. R. IMPROVEMENT.

An Interview with Supt. Sanborn of N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

Gates on the Cars to be Practically Abolished.

The Consolidated Road has in contemplation several improvements which will add not only to the efficiency of the service but to the great convenience of the travelling public in this city.

In conversation a few days ago with our Wollaston correspondent, Supt. Sanborn said that the greatest improvement contemplated will go into effect in a few days, and that is the allowing of the ingress and egress of passenger trains from either side of the cars, in other words the use of the gates upon the cars will be practically discontinued.

This means that passengers arriving at Quincy from Boston can alight from the cars directly on the inward track,—all of the space opposite the depot being planked. This will be a greater convenience to the Quincy patrons than to those of Wollaston. At present the Quincy passengers who do not care to slide under the gates are compelled to alight upon the right hand or off side and wait for the train to pull out of the station before they can cross. This is a great inconvenience to the travelling public. To obviate the difficulty Supt. Sanborn has formulated this plan.

In conjunction with the gate rule it may be well to add that Mr. Sanborn emphatically stated that the rule forbidding a train to pass another train waiting at a station will be rigidly enforced. Any engineer violating it will be suspended. This rule has been on the books for years but so many accidents have occurred from people climbing under or over the gates when trains were in motion, that it has been decided to strictly enforce it and abolish the gates.

As to the improvements about the Wollaston station, Mr. Sanborn was especially enthusiastic. The present work to be undertaken there in the rebuilding of the Beale street bridge. This unsightly structure is to be removed at an early date, possibly in the spring or before, the plans having been prepared, and a substantial bridge put in its place. The new bridge will be much wider than the present structure and will be of long enough span to go over four tracks. From the bridge on the easterly side leading down to the inward track a broad staircase will be built. This is more especially for the convenience of the residents of the First and Second Hills. By going to the station this way the hill patrons will avoid crossing the four tracks.

Regarding a waiting shed upon the westerly side of the tracks, Mr. Sanborn stated that it was now the custom to do away with them, the Boston and Albany having discontinued building them some time ago. At Wollaston a waiting shed would detract greatly from the appearance of the approaches to the station and would be of no practical use, since passengers could alight or board a train on either side, consequently a waiting shed will not be built.

Although Mr. Sanborn would not state definitely when the two extra tracks would be laid, it was understood from what he said that the time is not far distant, and when this is done further improvements will be made about the Wollaston station.

Regarding the Brook street extension and the report that the road had offered to assume a portion of the expense, he said that no such offer had been made, as the apportionment of the cost would be made by the commissioners. As to the story that the road had contemplated the construction of a foot way under the tracks opposite Brook street he also stated that the road had no such plan in view.

The question of a new depot for Quincy was touched upon, but Mr. Sanborn, although admitting that a new one would be built declined to discuss the subject.

It will be seen from the foregoing interview that the road will spend thousands of dollars in improvements in this city. It shows a progressive management, and one that will be undoubtedly appreciated by our citizens. When the Consolidated road first absorbed the Old Colony there was a bitter feeling along the line towards the new management, but as time has gone on and the new officials have gradually improved the system, at first with considerable opposition from the patrons, the rough edges have been worn off and now there are no warmer supporters of the present management that some of the former opponents.

In outlining this brief plan of improvement to the citizens of Quincy, Supt. Sanborn shows that he has the prosperity of the city at heart and believes in its future development. The moving of the Wollaston depot at an expense of something like $2,000, and the consequent improving of the approaches to it, as well as to the adjacent property, was the first practical step in this direction. The others which are to follow are the four tracking of the road, the equipping of the two suburban tracks with electric motive power, and the building of the European freight terminals at Squantum, will all be productive of substantial results and add to the city's prosperity.

PLACE FOR EACH MAN.

Senate Chairmanships May All Be Filled by Republican Members.

More Important Ones Already Mapped Out.

Congress Not Likely to Settle Down Until After the Holidays.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The Republican caucus committee of the senate will hold its first formal meeting today after the adjournment of the senate for the purpose of considering the question of filling the committee vacancies and selecting chairmen of the various committees. While nothing has been finally agreed upon, it looks now as if the chairmanships of the more important committees would be assigned as follows:

Agriculture, Proctor; appropriations, Allison; coast defense, Squire; census, Chandler; commerce, Frye; District of Columbia, McMillan; finance, Morrill; fisheries, Perkins; foreign relations, Sherman; immigration, Lodge; Indian affairs, Pettigrew; interstate commerce, Cullom; judiciary, Hoar; military affairs, Hawley; naval, Cameron; postoffices and post roads, Wolcott; printing, Hale; privileges and elections, Mitchell of Oregon; public buildings and grounds, Quay; relations with Canada, Carter; rules, Aldrich; territories, Davis.

A majority of these assignments go to the senators whose names are mentioned by virtue of seniority, but there are some exceptions, made necessary by the probability of senior members receiving other assignments.

Among the important chairmanships concerning which there is no certainty as yet are those of contingent expenses, claims, education and labor, enrolled bills, library, Pacific railroads, patents, pensions, railroads and revision of the laws.

Senator Shoup is the senior Republican on pensions, but the probabilities are that he will surrender the chairmanship to Senator Gallinger and accept another assignment. Senator Jones of Nevada will, in all probability, be returned to his old position on contingent expenses, notwithstanding his independent proclivities. Senator Mitchell is the only Republican on the committees of claims, and as he will probably resign his membership, it will be necessary to reconstruct the committee entirely. Senator Hansbrough could have the chairmanship of this committee, but it is understood that he has virtually declined it.

Further Speculation.

There are committees on which memberships are as eagerly sought as are the chairmanships of others. These are appropriations, judiciary, finance, foreign relations and commerce. There has been some talk of increasing the last committee from 9 members to 11, but the probabilities are against this. If it is not increased, and if the Republicans organize, Senator Brice will be retired from the committee and his place will be filled by a Republican. The aspirants are Senators Quay, Pettigrew and Perkins.

It appears probable that the finance committee will be enlarged from 11 to 13 members. In that event the Republicans will name Senators Cameron and Platt for the two places at their disposal, and the Democrats would probably select Senator Daniels as their additional representative.

The membership of the judiciary committee has been considerably discussed. There are two vacancies there, and it is possible they may be given to Senators Davis and Thurston, or to Thurston or some other new man.

There are four places to be filled on the committee on commerce, but nothing is certain about the filling of these.

Senator Mitchell, as chairman of the caucus committee, has been devoting himself to procuring data for the guidance of the committee's deliberations. He finds that there are 40 standing and 14 select committees—the Republicans 9 and the Populists 5. There are 15 new Republican senators who have no committee assignments. In the event of the Republicans being allowed to organize, they will have a chairmanship for each Republican senator, with one to spare, even after the Utah senators will have taken their seats.

This Week In Congress.

The probabilities are that the work in the senate this week will be given up largely to caucusing by all parties, and that the senate daily sessions will be brief, with little effort at legislation. The introduction of bills will be continued, though no work of consequence can be done until the committees are filled.

There is nothing on the calendar except two speeches, one by Senator Morgan on the Behring sea question, and the other by Senator Cullom on his Monroe doctrine resolution. It is understood that Senator Morgan will pay his respects to Ambassador Pauncefote and Lord Salisbury.

The house program this week is a dreary waste. Until the committees are appointed, the machinery of the house is blocked, and nothing can be done, save by unanimous consent. Speaker Reed expects to announce the committees by the end of the week. The indications are that practically nothing can be done in the way of the consideration of actual legislation until after the holidays. However, the congressional hoppers are filling up, preparatory to the grinding that will follow later. Last week several hundred bills were introduced, and it is probable that fully as many will be started on their journey to the statute books this week.

As the president is absent on his hunting trip, there is no probability that the reply of Lord Salisbury to Secretary Olney's note regarding the Venezuelan boundary dispute, in which congress is so deeply interested, will be sent to the house this week. There may be an attempt through a resolution to procure from Secretary Olney the letter sent by him to the English premier last July, and Lord Salisbury's reply received Saturday.

The adoption of such a resolution would require unanimous consent, and there is no doubt that some friend of the administration will object to it as lacking in deference to the president in his absence, and the fact that Mr. Cleveland in his message advised congress that he would send the reply to congress with a special message would doubtless be taken as an additional reason why it would not be good taste to make a demand on the executive department of the government until it manifested at least a disposition to send to congress the correspondence.

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

Granite for Sculpture is Steadily Increasing.

Massachusetts Leads All Other States in Yearly Output.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

Carved Granite.

Statutes, capitals, keystones, and, in general, all highly ornamental designs, are worked out with chisels from detail drawings or plaster casts. It is necessarily a slow process, owing to the hardness of the rock, and the cost of such work is consequently great. The MacCoy pneumatic tool, however, which has been recently patented and successfully applied to this purpose, gives promise of superseding much of the tediousness of the hand process. This instrument is connected to a flexible pipe, supplying the compressed air or steam by which it is driven, and works at a remarkably high rate of speed. It may be moved to any part of a surface, and works with a celerity unapproached by other means.

The use of granite for sculpture is steadily increasing, particularly for outdoor statuary. The white fine-grained muscovite-biotite granite found at Hallowell, Manchester, and Augusta, in Maine, is particularly well adapted for this purpose. Statutes made of the Hallowell granite are to be found in nearly every State, though possibly the stone is not superior to varieties found in other localities.

Some Statistics.

The value of the stone produced in this country in 1894 is shown by States. The total value of granite was $10,029,156, and Massachusetts lead with nearly one-fifth—$1,994,830. Maine and Rhode Island were the only others over a million dollars.

In value of granite paving blocks made in 1894, Maine leads, but Massachusetts is a good second with $593,726.

The granite out-put in Massachusetts was not as large by over half a million dollars in 1894 as in 1890, 1891 or 1892. In 1892 Maine led all other States but in 1890, 1891, 1893 and 1894 Massachusetts was away ahead.

Relative to the industry, Massachusetts in 1894 the government report says:

This state seems to have prospered exceptionally well during 1894, considering the hard times. The value of the output increased from $1,631,204 in 1893 to $1,994,830 in 1894, and the State maintains first position among the granite-producing States of the country. Many complaints of financial depression are to be heard, of course, and in times of prosperity the output would have been much larger. Lower prices than in 1893 have been generally prevalent. The most productive counties in order of importance are Essex, Worcester, Norfolk, Middlesex, Bristol, and Hampden; small quantities were produced in Franklin and Hampshire counties. As is true of other New England States, more attention than usual was devoted to the production of paving blocks, for which the demand was good, but lower prices prevailed than were received in 1893.

The next extract from the report will speak of the components of granite, and a subsequent extract on the classifications of granites.

Quincy Debating Club.

The new Debating club is receiving words of encouragement and support from our prominent citizens, and Mr. Theophilus King adds a letter today to those already published:

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The development of ones faculties and powers is the work of youth and young manhood. The enjoyment and enrichment which comes from the use of these developed powers is the privilege and satisfaction of later life. When in youth the development is small and meagre, the after results are correspondingly curtailed. All the world over the structure must be rightly foundationed if it is to stand and endure. If therefore, one would build well the structure of his life, he must see to it that he puts the best into the foundation. If the opportunity to do that at the right time is neglected, it is exceedingly difficult to correct it later on.

Every young man should be fully alive to the fact that he has a great work in hand in the making of himself through his preparation for the future. What he is learning in his youth, must be digested and put into structure, through reflection, composition and discussion in young manhood. There is no place where developing effort counts faster than in associations for the general debating of the questions of the day. The young men whom I met in the discussion of such questions at Park Street church, the Boston Young Men's Christian Association and the Mercantile Library Association have shown in their after lives the benefit of such endeavor.

A wealthy Boston gentleman said to me only a few weeks since, that he had always deeply regretted his failure to join debating societies when a young man, as through such non-action he felt strongly that he had lost a power that he might have had.

In Quincy now there is an opportunity at the Young Men's Christian Association to engage in this grand work. On the basis of what I have seen and experienced, I would earnestly advise every young man to take hold now and take hold strongly, if he desires to make the most of himself.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

Rev. Edward Norton Accepts the Call from Atlantic.

Dr. William Everett on the Blessings of the Gospel.

Items from the Sunday School and the Y. P. S. C. E.

Rev. E. N. Hardy delivered Sunday morning the last of a series of sermons on the petitions of the Lord's Prayer—"Deliver us from evil." There was a large congregation.

Large congregations assembled in First church Sunday. Rev. Mr. Butler in the afternoon spoke of death and salvation. Ave verum corpus was sung by choir. The tenor solo "If with all your hearts ye truly love me," was fine. Very many pews that have for years been vacant, are now occupied in the church.

The Christmas committees for the Sunday School concert and festival of the Wollaston Baptist Sunday School have been selected and are hard at work.

At the meeting last week of the Alliance in the First church chapel, a study on Genesis, "The poem of the Dawn," was conducted by Mrs. George W. Morton and Mrs. A. E. Faxon. Miss Bessie Pratt read a sacred poem of Hagar in the wilderness by N. P. Willis. At the close the pastor suggested a plan for monthly social reunions.

The Unity Circle of King's Daughters will meet this evening in the Congregational chapel.

"The need of sustaining surfaces in this life" was the subject of Rev. Preston Gurney at the Wollaston Baptist church. The text was taken from Psa. 40:2.

The Quincy Bible school, which meets in the Centre Congregational church, will hold its annual meeting on Thursday evening.

The collection for the Christmas festival at the Congregational church will be taken next Sunday.

The total attendance at the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School on Sunday was 152, the highest number recorded since the school was organized.

The Rev. G. W. Puddefoot, Field Secretary of the Home Missionary Society delivered an exceedingly bright and interesting address upon his special line of work at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday fornoon. In the evening the Y. P. S. C. E. held a Home Missionary service which was largely attended.

At Christ's church Sunday evening the rector delivered the ninth lecture in his course on the Ten Commandments. One of the features of the service was the anthem, the solo of which was sung by one of the choir boys.

Rev. Edward Norton at the close of his sermon at the Memorial Congregational church on Sunday last announced that he had accepted the pastorate of that church which was extended to him last week. Mr. Norton has won much favor while preaching for the past month in Atlantic. The attendance at church Sunday was very large at both the morning and evening services, and the sermons given by Mr. Norton were very interesting.

Dr. William Everett of Quincy preached at the New South church, corner of Tremont and Camden streets, Boston, Sunday morning on the blessings of the gospel and is reported by the Journal as follows:

Among the blessings enumerated by the Doctor were the life of the Saviour, which gives us the nature and divine character of Him who came to save the world.

"I do not profess to be one of those," said Dr. Everett, "who can by thought on abstract things appreciate the beauties of religion. I need a hero whom I can look up to and honor, without anything to mar that admiration. Life is full of such heroes, Milton, King William, Erskine, Scott and many others, but we find in all these some fault that spoils the ideal.

"In Jesus Christ we have a hero who is altogether perfect. It is unintelligible to me the saying that men are loved for their vices. I must have a hero whom I can love and honor altogether, who has one single pure nature.

"I do not understand what some theologians mean by declaring that Christ has two natures, and that He speaks in His teachings from both natures. He is all one to me, and is the only man born of woman whom I should want to follow in every detail of his life.

"Again, I find in Him, or, rather, in the God of whom He tells me, a father. In this hard, cold world, where men and women are striving to attain their own selfish ends. It is pleasant for me to know that there is some one to stand by me and see me through every difficulty.

"It does not need a very despondent spirit or a pronounced pessimist to find disgust at the way in which the world goes today. Political parties, each striving to cause splits in the other, education taking up useless things, religion without practical work, temporizing with science, society impurely and uselessly aesthetic, all these things inspire disgust, but God and his son are with us. There is wrong in the world, but God reigns.

"We have in Christ a sure model to love, a sure champion to defend; one, in short, who combines both love and faith and hope. I can claim only one man's authority, but one man's authority I do claim, in that I have found this true, not as philosophy, but as experience, as can anyone who sees fit to find for himself."

Walt Whitman.

I am the one-in-all, the all-in-one.
Unmeasured by the laws of time or space,
I front the infinite and from his place
Hurl down and drink the ardor of the sun.

The lowliest insect takes its life of me,
As I my life from it. I fling my soul
Out to the unknown worlds wherein they roll
And read their hidden books of mystery.

Through dust and crime I move. In high or low
All breathe the one immortal ego. This
Dark, sin stained soul from mine did spring amiss,
Or in this white stoled saint my soul I know.

Mine is all perfectness. Mine every flaw,
Field, flood and air, the noisome, creeping things,
Or calm eyed angels with soft folded wings,
Since from each form of life my life I draw.

And they from me, howe'er the thread is spun,
I joy or suffer, I with all, and know
This ever was and ever must be so,
The one-in-all, and still the all-in-one.
—C. B. St. George in Chicago Inter Ocean.

I heard a mighty singer, and his song
Was like the song of nature, now upspringing
From summer's leaf pavilioned scenes, now ringing
From mellow autumns, and now borne along
Through winter's barrenness, amid the thing
Of naked trees and evergreens still singing
With sweetness yet replete, forever winging
Its flight, forever free, forever strong.
His was a song born not of one estate,
Nor of one cast of things, nor of one clime,
But of the world. In it were consecrate
The types of all things, lowly and sublime,
Profane and sacred, foul and fair and fate
And life and themes beyond our sphere and time.
—Richard T. O'Malley in Home Journal.

Master Ralph's Opinion.

Grandmothers are very nice folks.
They beat all the aunts in creation.
They let a chap do as he likes
And don't worry about education.

Grandmothers have muffins for tea,
And pies a whole row in the cellar,
And they're apt, if they know it in time,
To make chicken pie for a feller.

And if he is bad now and then,
And makes a great racketing noise,
They only look over their specs
And say, "Ah, those boys will be boys!"

Quite often, as twilight comes on,
Grandmothers sing hymns, very low,
To themselves, as they rock by the fire,
About heaven and when they shall go.

And then a boy, stopping to think,
Will find a hot tear in his eye
To know what will come at the last,
For grandmothers all have to die.

I wish they could stay here and pray,
For a boy needs their prayers every night,
Some boys more than others, I s'pose.
Such as I need a wonderful sight.
—Christian Advocate.

Endurance.

How much the heart may bear and yet not break!
How much the flesh may suffer and yet not die!
I question much if any pain or ache
Of soul or body brings our end more nigh.
Death chooses his own time; till that is sworn
All evils may be borne.

We shrink and shudder at the surgeon's knife,
Each nerve recoiling from the cruel steel,
Whose edge seems searching for the quivering life,
Yet to our sense the bitter pangs reveal
That still, although the trembling flesh be torn,
This also can be borne.

We see a sorrow rising in our way
And try to flee from the approaching ill;
We seek some small escape, we weep and pray,
But, when the blow falls, then our hearts are still.
Not that the pain is of its sharpness shorn,
But that it can be borne.

We wind about our life another life.
We hold it closer, dearer than our own.
Anon it faints and falls in deathly strife,
Leaving us stunned and stricken and alone.
But, ah, we do not die with those we mourn.
This also can be borne.

Behold, we live through all things—famine, thirst,
Bereavement, pain, all grief and misery,
All woe and sorrow. Life inflicts its worst
On soul and body, but we cannot die,
Though we be sick and tired and faint and worn.
Lo, all things can be borne!
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Chicago Herald.

Love.

The gem that clasps a royal robe
The worldling's eye may dazzle,
But Love will light his glowworm lamp
In cot as well as castle.
—Francis S. Osgood.

Failure.

In the lexicon of youth fate reserves
For a bright manhood there is no such word
As fail.
—Lord Lytton.

No Mercy Shown by Moslems In Attacks Upon Armenians.

Total Number of Victims Estimated at Sixty Thousand.

Guardships Question Must Soon Be Settled One Way or Another.

[Copyright, 1895.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 9.—Authentic details have been received of the Sivas massacres. They show that the slaughter began on Nov. 12 and continued for a week following. It is known that 1200 Armenians and 10 Turks were killed before there was a cessation of the bloody work. The manner of the outbreak is described as follows:

Suddenly, at noon, as if by a preconcerted signal, the Turkish soldiers and police, the Circassians and even the laborers and Moslem women and children rushed into the market under the command of officers. All were armed, the laborers with tools or clubs or anything that could be used as an offensive weapon that came to hand.

They attacked and looted the Armenian shops, and pursued with relentless ferocity the unfortunate occupants, who seemed helpless with surprise at the suddenness of the onslaught. Many merchants and clerks were killed and their bodies stripped. As the importing business was almost exclusively in the hands of the Armenians, financial disaster must overtake Sivas when the fury of the storm of blood and greed has subsided.

The stricken Armenians slowly gathered the mangled and naked remains of their kinsmen and buried them in a great trench in the cemetery.

The Armenian villages in the vicinity were also looted, and the people left to beg and die. The winter will bring terrible suffering to all the living victims of the outrages.

A high official, in position to know, declares that the massacres were the deliberate act of the sultan's vengeance for having been compelled to grant the reforms in Armenia demanded by the powers. A few of the Turkish shops were attacked to afford a pretext on which to accuse the Armenians of having started the disorder.

It is asserted that the kaimakin of Gurun, where there are 5000 Armenians, telegraphed to the vali of Sivas: "You may rest assured that there is not an Armenian left in Gurun. They resisted the butchers, and they suffered the worse for it."

The expulsion and removal of the Armenians from Constantinople and from the villayets continue by wholesale. All the Armenian monasteries in the vicinity of Erzingen have been pillaged. The massacre there occurred after the Armenians had been disarmed and Zekki Pasha had faithfully promised to protect them.

At the village of Pesuan, near Erzingen, the Kurds and Turks attacked a crowd of Armenians who had taken refuge in an Armenian church, and killed 40 of them.

Altogether, 400 were killed and 800 were wounded in the Erzingen disaster.

An official statement that the number of the Armenian victims amounts to 60,000 has produced a sensation.

Still Dallying.

The situation here on the question of the extra guardships of the powers remains unchanged and continues to offer a tribute to the powers of delay and evasion of Oriental diplomacy as practiced by the Turkish government. Statements are constantly reiterated of the continued accord of the powers on the subject and their determination to insist upon a compliance with their demands.

Less is heard, however, of the rumors, which were of frequent occurrence in the early period after the demand had been presented, that the sultan had at last decided to grant the necessary firmans to permit the passage of the Dardanelles, or even that he had actually issued them.

Since the return of H. M. S. Dryad to Salonica bay no word has been heard of any actual order or movement to advance upon the Dardanelles. Opinion continues divided as to whether the delay in taking any action to enforce the demands is due to a fear of causing a fanatical outbreak against the Christians by the Mussulman subjects of the sultan or to a dread of a clash ensuing between the powers themselves.

Explicit instructions were again received yesterday by all the ambassadors to insist upon the admission of the guardships; but, as has been stated, without effecting any change in the situation.

Sultan In Dire Distress.

The flight of Said Pasha and his refuge in the British embassy are the subjects for most sensational interest, and the frantic efforts made by the sultan to induce him to leave there and to return to the Yildiz palace indicate his fear either that he has lost the most powerful intermediary that he could hope for between himself and the powers in evading the demands they make upon him, or the most dangerous adversary he could fear having in counsel with the powers.

So persistent has been the pressure upon Said Pasha to leave the British embassy, and upon the embassy to relinquish him, that all palace officials are now excluded from there except one of the palace sheiks, whom the sultan has sent, and who vainly tried to induce Said to relent and return to the sultan. The sultan has protested to the powers against the exclusion of his messengers, but the other ambassadors support Sir Philip Currie in his position. The report that they advised Said to again accept the position of grand vizier has proved to be unfounded.

That the sultan lives in a state of constant apprehension of his life was indicated by his demeanor during the course of the ceremony of the Selamik on Friday, which involved the departure of the sultan from the walls of the palace and his appearance in public for a sort of a review of the troops, attended by many high officials, followed by prayers at the mosque.

On Friday, as the sultan was quitting the mosque, a man attired as a Turk and bearing a petition, forced himself through the soldiers to the sultan's carriage. The sultan was seen to become much agitated and deathly pale, and the man was promptly arrested and hustled off to prison without having accomplished any harm to the sultan's person.

A letter from Erzroom, under date of Nov. 17, says: All the refugees in the American mission have returned to their homes, but the Christian schools have not yet started again, nor is any divine service being held. Many children have died from the exposure and irregular diet.

TELL-TALE FACES.

PINCHED AND CAREWORN,

As Worn by Many American Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

The "tell-tale face" is worn by many American women, and is a symptom of symptoms, a signal of distress.

When pains and aches are felt in every part of the body, when faintness, dizziness, and that bearing-down feeling prevail, when loss of sleep and appetite are reducing flesh daily, when the society of friends is irksome, and the hopeless "blues" predominate, then the face is pinched, haggard, and careworn, and prompt relief is necessary, or a beautiful life will be sacrificed.

An American woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, a student of women and their diseases, twenty years ago succeeded in [illegible] an absolute cure for all diseases of women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands to-day as it did [illegible] eminent.

Mrs. [illegible] Wampler, of Barabo, Wis., whose letter we were permitted to publish [illegible] years, writes that she hopes Mrs. Pinkham will continue to use her name, as the publication in newspapers of the account of her own wonderful cure and relief from years of misery has been the means of influencing many suffering women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and become well like herself. Mrs. Wampler feels, and rightly, too, that in this way she is doing a great good.

A MURDERER'S FAREWELL.

Harry Hayward Shows His Villainous Character In Its True Light.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 9.—"May the curse of God fall on you and yours, and allow me from the minute I drop from the scaffold to haunt you day and night until your death. Then I will welcome you on the brink of hell with a red-hot iron."

These were the farewell words of Harry Hayward to his brother Adry yesterday afternoon. He hurled them at the latter as he descended the stairs leading to the tier in which the prisoner was confined, and passed through the iron doorway to the outer office. It was their last meeting on earth, and such the murderer intended it to be. Adry was as calm as the prisoner was impassioned. He was unmoved by the anathemas.

Patriotic Venezuelans.

CARACAS, Dec. 9.—Patriotic enthusiasm over the boundary controversy with Great Britain is intense. At Puerto Cabello a public meeting has been held, and subscriptions opened for the purchase of a torpedo boat for the defense of the harbor. At the city of Bolivar another subscription is being received by the Central bank, citizens of all parts of the republic agreeing to contribute a stated sum weekly. A convention is to be held here, probably this month, to consider the question of defense. The movement was started by the Central Society for the Propagation of the Defense of Venezuelan Territory, but has apparently secured official approval, as members of President Crespo's cabinet and the governors of the several states of Venezuela give it full endorsement.

Run Down at Last.

FORT GRANT, A. T., Dec. 9.—The party of White Mountain Apache Indians who are missing from their camp on the San Carlos reservation, and who are supposed to have murdered Mr. Merrill and his daughter near Solomonsville three days ago, were arrested and brought into San Carlos agency yesterday. The party consisted of seven men and a boy, all mounted and heavily armed, two of them carrying cavalry carbines that fit the identical bullets which brought Merrill and his daughter to their untimely end. They are being held under guard at San Carlos.

Who Gets the Prize?

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. — Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco, three of the cities that are competing for the honor of holding within their limits the next national Republican convention, are now well represented here by their delegations. Pittsburg, the fourth competing city, has her vanguard in Washington. By night all will be here and prepared for the meeting tomorrow. Headquarters have been established, and everything points to an interesting and quite spirited contest.

Were Mismated.

PERRY, O. T., Dec. 9.—Rev. George Capron, a noted minister and professor in the theological schools of Taunton and Andover, Mass., has been granted a divorce from his wife, formerly Miss Whitney, to whom he was married in 1882. The decree gives Mr. Capron custody of their two children. Infidelity with the plaintiff's brother was charged. It was also charged that the wife had a violent and ungovernable temper.

Kentucky Politics.

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 9.—The Democrats won in the special election in the Fourth legislative district, sending A. J. Carroll to the legislature by a majority of 468 over Charles A. Blatz (Rep.). The Kentucky legislature is thus left with a tie on joint ballot, and the balloting for a United States senator to succeed Senator Blackburn is likely to result in a deadlock.

A Rebel Victory.

MADRID, Dec. 9.—Advices from Habana state that the rebels under Gomez and Maceo have entered the province of Santa Clara and surprised the Spanish column there, killing nine of the troops. The remainder retreated. Other insurgents have arrived at Matanzas. The Spaniards are advancing to meet them, when a battle is expected.

In the Crescent City.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9. — Charlas W. Lounsberry, who mysteriously disappeared from this city on Oct. 24, and who was thought to have been robbed of $4200 and then drowned in the Delaware river, has been located in New Orleans. It is now alleged that his departure was a scheme to evade creditors.

Another Block.

HOUSTON, Dec. 9.—W. K. Wheelock yesterday saw Martin Jullian, manager of Bob Fitzsimmons, and tried to induce him to sign articles for the meeting with Peter Maher. Julian positively refused to sign, objecting to the date, Feb. 15, and to the size of the purse hung up, wanting $20,000.

Sala is Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 9. — George Augustus Sala, the well-known journalist and author, died yesterday at Brighton, where he had been sick for a long time. Mr. Sala's death was caused by a complication of disorders. He suffered from liver and kidney troubles and shattered nerves.

Large Amount Involved.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 9.—The jury in the case in which the state sought to recover from ex-Treasurer Hill and his bondsmen the sum of $236,000 lost in the failure of the Capital National bank in January, 1893, returned a verdict for the defense.

Water, Water Everywhere.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 9.—High tides have flooded all the towns in northern and western Jutland. The towns of Kykjobing, Struer and Lemwig are inundated, and the dyke at Ferring has burst. Great damage has been done everywhere.

Gold Overflow Continues.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—The exports of specie from the port of New York for the week amounted to $3,183,487 in gold and $1,085,805 in silver. The imports were: Gold, $29,644; silver, $66,112.

Von Koeller's Successor.

BANK LOSES NOTHING.

Ex-Cashier Lane Must Pay the Penalty For His Foolishness.

He Depended Upon Promises Which Were Broken.

Appears to Have Had the Greatest Faith In Moore's Integrity.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 10.—Judge Nathan P. Hunt, the president of the Merchants' National bank, has made the following statement:

"Last summer, soon after I was elected president of the Merchants' National bank, I discovered that Dr. Joseph C. Moore was "kiting" checks through the institution, and at once notified him and the cashier that it must be stopped. Later on we received from him for credit to his account many checks which were protested, and on Sept. 23 voted to close Dr. Moore's account and have no more business with him, of which action he was informed in writing, and Mr. Lane, the cashier, was told orally.

"We supposed this ended our business transactions with him, and congratulated ourselves that we had closed it without loss. On Nov. 5, when Mr. Heard, the National bank examiner, appeared to make the usual examination, Mr. Lane called me aside and told me that instead of having about $44,000 to our credit in the National Bank of Redemption in Boston, as our books showed, and as we supposed, our account there was slightly overdrawn.

"He then said he had used the money in cashing Dr. Moore's paper, and explained that the doctor came to him with a check for $1000, which he paid and sent to Boston to be credited to our account there. This check was protested, and of course charged against us and then sent back to us. When Mr. Lane received it, instead of entering it upon our books against our Boston deposit, he laid it in a drawer, and upon Dr. Moore's assurance that he would take care of it in a few days, left it there.

"A few days later Moore appeared with a much larger check which he assured Lane would be paid, and exchanged it for the first one, receiving the balance in cash. This, too, came back protested, and went into the cashier's private drawer. Beginning in this way, Lane continued to cash Moore's checks at the expense of the Boston funds, and to conceal it by neglecting to enter the transaction on our books, until the arrival of Examiner Heard, whom he knew would go to Boston to verify the Redemption bank account, when the Deficiency Amounted to $44,000.

"This has been paid on Dr. Moore s repeated promises, and Mr. Lane's own hope and expectation that the full amount would be repaid and he could make good the shortage. Since that time something over $2000 has been paid on the protested checks, and Mr. Lane's loss reduced that amount.

"He at once resigned his position as cashier and transferred to the bank all his property, which was sufficient to make good the bank's loss, and the institution has not suffered a penny by his terrible mistake. Mr. Lane had the entire confidence of our board, as he had of the whole community, and we shall have perfect faith in his honesty, which has been proved by a long life of integrity; but, of course, he could not retain his position as cashier after what has happened.

"We know he did not, could not, expect to profit a dollar by what he did, and he has our sympathy in the condition in which he has placed himself to accommodate another. It is understood that he is now penniless, and how much, if anything, he will be able to recover from the wreck of his fortune through Moore's ability and willingness to discharge his obligation is of course a matter of conjecture."

It is probable that Lane may be prosecuted by United States District Attorney Branch for presenting two false returns to the comptroller of currency relative to the Merchants' National bank. The comptroller notified Bank Examiner Heard to begin an investigation, and Dr. Moore's checks will figure in the alleged false returns. It is natural, then, that Lane will be prosecuted, although he will probably be lightly dealt with on account of his reimbursement to the bank.

Moore In Custody.

The announcement that Dr. Moore has been delivered into the custody of the sheriff created a decided sensation in this city.

Moore was taken into custody at the instance of his bondsmen, Roger G. Sullivan and Hiram D. Upton. They are his bondsmen to the extent of $10,000 on the two indictments in the cases growing out of the smash of the People's Fire Insurance company and the Derryfield Savings bank. The circumstances attending the downfall of the financial institution with which he was connected are still fresh in the minds of the people, and a crisis in his career was not unexpected by many. His alleged dealings with Cashier Lane, whereby the latter was compelled to make good over $40,000 worth of Moore's paper, which was deposited with the Merchants' National bank, have been the subject of widespread comment.

Result of Brockton Investigation.

BROCKTON, Mass., Dec. 10.—The members of the board of aldermen appointed a committee of the whole to investigate the police department of this city reported last night that they found no evidence to show that any person or persons had received money for allowing illegal liquor selling. The report stated that the evidence showed that the law had not been fearlessly and faithfully carried out because of jealousy and lack of discipline in the police department. It was also shown that while some dealers had been warned to cease selling liquor, others had been prosecuted without warning. The committee recommended that the department be reorganized and a new set of rules adopted. It was also found that members of the department had testified falsely during the investigation.

Shrouded in Mystery.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 10.—Mrs. Ellen Dolly and her son Warren, who live in Windham, have been arrested as witnesses in the case of Rose Dolly, who is suspected of having murdered her child in Leighton's woods at Prides Corner. Rose has disappeared, and officers are searching all over New England for her, but, so far, have met with no success. The woods for miles around Prides Corner have been searched, without success, for the child's body. Many people think that Rose is in hiding with the infant, and that the sheriff has been led astray by other persons who are more implicated in the mystery of Prides Corner than she is.

Gilbert's Doom.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The full bench of the supreme judicial court of the commonwealth yesterday handed down a decision dismissing the application for a new trial of Angus D. Gilbert, the murderer of Alice Sterling. Gilbert was convicted last summer of murder in the first degree. The murder was committed last spring. The victim, a girl 10 years old, was killed with an ax and her body buried in a manure heap under a stable at Savin Hill, Dorchester. Gilbert was at once arrested two days after, and a complete web was woven about him. As he is a British subject, he will probably ask the English government to interfere.

Typhoid Still Raging.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 10.—Five new cases of typhoid fever were reported here yesterday. Milkman Arnold, in whose milk the germs were found, is seriously sick with the disease. It has been discovered, it is said, that the milk sold by him was diluted with water, and an analysis of the water will be made at once. Thus far 36 cases and 5 deaths have resulted from fever since its discovery.

Heroic Action.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 10.—Rev. J. O. Knowles was painfully burned about the head and hands yesterday while rescuing Mrs. Noah Lord, a helpless invalid, from a fire in her house. Mr. Knowles was passing Mrs. Lord's house, when his attention was attracted to the flames. He found the helpless woman nearly suffocated, but by heroic efforts saved her life.

For Social Purity.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The American Purity alliance conference opened in this city last night. Rev. Mr. Sabine read a paper on "Social Vice and National Decay." Other papers were read by Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, on "Moral Equality Between the Sexes," and William L. Garrison of this city, on "The Relation of Poverty and Purity."

Bullets For Two.

ORONO, Me., Dec. 10.—Michael Lanahan, a jealous lover, attempted to kill his sweetheart, Mrs. Grace Griffin, last night, because she refused to go out walking with him. He fired one shot, which struck her cheek bone, glanced off and entered the roof of her mouth. She will recover. He then shot himself. He cannot recover.

In Financial Straits.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Whitten, Burdett & Co. have asked an extension of time from their creditors. This house failed six years ago for $1,200,000. It is probable that the liabilities at the present time will not exceed $300,000. Warm weather and the dullness in trade are said to have been the cause of the trouble.

Ghoulish Work.

HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 10.—Selectmen of Norwich, Vt., have begun an investigation into a body snatching incident which came to light yesterday. In the grave where the late John Murdock, who took his own life by hanging, was supposed to be resting, only the box and one end of the coffin were found.

Died a Pauper.

AMHERST, Mass., Dec. 10.—Samuel W. Thurber, who died yesterday in the South Amherst almshouse, admitted, before his death, that his real name was Stebbins, and that he had been a major in the Civil war. He had lived here four years, but no one knew anything of his history.

Short $4000.

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 10.—At a meeting of the city council last evening, John E. Gagne, who was collector of taxes in 1893, was reported short in his accounts to the amount of about $4000. The city solicitor was instructed to begin proceedings against him and his bondsmen.

Eaton Evidently Innocent.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Dec. 10.—The investigation begun some time ago into the affairs of the city engineer's department by the board of aldermen was continued last night. The evidence given failed to show that dishonesty existed in the late Mr. Eaton's department.

Hearing Ordered.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 10.—The aldermanic committee appointed to investigate charges of dishonesty preferred by the Providence News against Overseer of the Poor Cummings last night voted to begin the hearing at once.

Chinamen In It.

BOSTON, Dec. 10. — The residents of Chinatown and other Chinamen last night formed a Christian Endeavor society, the first of the kind ever formed in this city. Yong Kay is president and Yee Foy his assistant.

Paying For Illegal Sales.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 10.—Nearly $3000 in fines was paid the Kennebec superior court yesterday by liquor dealers against whom indictments were brought at this term of court.

Held Over a Week.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 10.—Charles Johnson was yesterday held in $10,000 and the case continued until next week, on charge of assault with knife on John Connelly.

THERE ARE many candidates for the Presidency of the Council, at least many names that are mentioned as candidates. These include Messrs. Bryant, Claflin, Anderson, Pinkham, Rice and Holt, and perhaps others. With so many aspirants it would not be surprising if there was a deadlock Jan. 6, for twelve votes or a majority of all the Council will be necessary for a choice. The new Council will be composed of seventeen Republicans and six Democrats, but as in the municipal election, politics will not count, unless a caucus is held and a dozen Republicans agree to abide by the result. It does not appear now that any candidate commands twelve Republican votes; in fact some Republicans are in favor of Mr. Claflin or Mr. Rice as against Mr. Bryant, Anderson or Pinkham. Against a caucus nominee it is said the six Democrats might vote for another Republican, unless they saw that they had the balance of power and might later elect one of their number. In recent organizations of the Council, the Democrats although in the minority have dictated the choice of President and that of 1896 may be no exception.

BY THE report of the Water Commissioners to the Council at the last meeting it was shown that the extensions asked would yield but a small per cent. on the outlay. The estimated income on the 23,325 feet asked is $1,129.00, only about five per cent. Perhaps too the cost is estimated low and the income high.

THE MAXIMUM salary of the schoolmasters of Boston is $2880, and there is a movement for an increase, but the maximum for women teachers is but $744. Is not this a great injustice to the women?

The pastor of the Washington street church discoursed Sunday morning on John 17: 15, and in the evening on the first Psalm. The effort in the evening was to bring out the contrast between righteousness and sin, and to arraign the prevailing indifference to a high standard of Godliness.

While several boys were skating on the ice opposite the Citizens' gas works on Sunday the ice gave away and John Barry sixteen years of age was precipitated into the water. By great presence of mind he managed to grasp a projecting stick in the ice, and with the assistance of his companions was rescued from a watery grave, none the worse for his shower bath.

MORE TOOL THIEVES.

Two Places Entered Last Night—One Burglar in Court.

Officer Leary of Milton overhauled two young men on Milton Hill just before midnight last night acting in a suspicious manner and having in their possession a a bag containing eight bush hammers and two hand-hammers.

They claimed that they hailed from Fall River and were on their way to take a job. As the story was rather unreasonable, the officer placed them under arrest, but while on the way to the police station one of them got away. The other fellow who had the bag gave the name of Fenton Vatcher when locked up.

The name of the other fellow he gave as Twink Sullivan. This morning it was learned that Vatcher formerly worked for James R. Qualey in Quincy, and that he left that place some months ago under a cloud. Further investigation showed that Qualey's blacksmith shop had been entered last night and $55 of stone tools taken and those found in Vatcher's possession were identified as the ones missing from Qualey's place. The key of the blacksmith shop was kept in the cutting sheds and as Vatcher was familiar with the premises he had no difficulty in getting into the shop. Vatcher was arraigned in the District court and held in $500 until Wednesday morning.

It was also reported this morning that the carpenter's shop of Fagan & Ballou at West Quincy had been entered Monday night and four bush hammers, three bush chisels and two hand hammers, all valued at $40, taken.

Hawthorne Lecture.

There was an appreciative audience Saturday evening at the lecture on "Hawthorne," by Leon H. Vincent of Philadelphia for the benefit of the Adams and John Hancock schools. He described the five classes of genius, and said Hawthorne belonged to the fifth. In his boyhood days he was an active athelete and fond of base ball. Often had fights with his playmates. As a man he could work in the field or engage in business with as much skill as he could write. He had a dual nature.

The meeting of Hawthorne and she who was to become his wife, was a case of love at first sight. The marriage was a perfect union, while Hawthorne was writing "The Scarlet Letter" his wife supported the family by introducing lamp shades to the public.

The lecture was a happy blending of biography and criticism. The style was chaste and pleasing, at times racy and pungent with flashes now and then of gentle humor.

Merchants' Conclusions.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—At a meeting of the Boston Chamber of Commerce yesterday the report of the harbor improvement committee was accepted. The report says that the work of deepening the channel should be vigorously prosecuted; that the bowlders in the upper harbor should be removed, so that a channel could be had of a depth of 30 feet at mean low water; that congress be urged to appropriate $1,450,000 to complete the work already under consideration, and that it is of the utmost importance to urge upon congress the necessity of appropriating at once $10,000 for surveys and $500,000 for the work of deepening Broad Sound channel.

Might Be Worse.

WILMINGTON, Dec. 10.—The report of Past Assistant Surgeon E. R. Stitt, who accompanied the Nicaraguan canal commission in its trip of inspection last summer, upon the climatic conditions of the country through which the proposed canal would pass, has just been published. Generally speaking, the surgeon finds that these conditions are much more favorable than has been supposed. While the cutting of the canal may be a source of disease for a time, the ultimate effect of the construction would be beneficial.

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

Quartz and Feldspar are Essential Components.

The Variation of Accessory Ingredients is Great and Determine Character.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

Components of Granite.

The essential components of the true granite are quartz and feldspar. Quite a number of other minerals are, however, to be found in the granites, and these have been classified by Mr. G. P. Merrill, in the Tenth Census report on stone, as follows:

Essential, — Quartz, Feldspar (Orthoclase, Microcline, Albite, Oligoclase, Labradorite.)

Of the two essential minerals, quartz and feldspar, the former is invariable in composition; but in the form of particles and in appearance it is quite variable. As is evident from the enumeration of the various kinds of feldspar already given, there is much latitude for differences in granites, due to the feldspathic constituent. According to the kinds of feldspar present, the granite shows a number of variations in color, which may be due to the color of the feldspar itself or to its transparent or semitransparent character, and its consequent effect upon light. Red and pink granites owe their color to the feldspars contained in them; dark effects in granite are sometimes caused by the absorption of light effected by transparent crystals of feldspar. While the hardness of quartz is always much the same, that of the feldspars is subject to considerable variation in its resistance to the stonecutter's tools.

The variation in the amounts and the kinds of accessory ingredients is great, and these determine very largely the character of the stone as to its resistence to disintegrating agencies, its strength, its color, and its susceptibility to ornamentation or polish. Of these accessories mica is the most common. White muscovite gives a light effect to the stone, but if it appears in the form of black biotite the granite is dark in general tone. Much interest attaches to mica as a granitic constituent, for, while its color effect may be very attractive, it does not polish so well as the other constituents, nor does it retain polish so well, frequently becoming dull on exposure. In stone for polishing the manner of occurence of the mica particles is of importance as well as their amount. Numerous fine particles are less objectionable, if scattered promiscuously, than are occasionally occurring larger crystals.

Mica is frequently replaced wholly or in part by the minerals hornblende and pyroxene. Both minerals are frequently present in the same rock. Hornblende is more desirable than mica as a constituent of granite, having cleavage in two planes instead of one, as in mica, and polishing much more easily. Pyroxene is more brittle than hornblende, and is therefore liable to break out in polishing, leaving little pits which mar the surface. The presence of pyroxene in granite is sometimes a source of much vexation to the quarryman and stonecutter. Of the three minerals, mica, hornblende, and pyroxene, the second is, all things considered, the most desirable as a constituent of granite.

AN EIGHT HOUR DAY.

The Granite Workers Ask for It Next March in New Bill.

One of the most important changes desired by the stone cutters from the present agreement is an 8-hour instead of an 9-hour day, and this clause is likely to cause some trouble if pressed before it is settled.

In dull times like those at present manufacturers say they would be willing to substitute an 8 hour day, but in the spring of the year when business is brisk and they are all drove up with orders 9 hours is little enough.

The LEDGER hopes to be able to give the changes desired by the granite cutters in full in Wednesday's issue.

Our Debating Society.

In the years before our Civil War, there was a Quincy Debating Society, which met over the Savings Bank. Many men, whose boys now are agitating this new Debating Club, were members. Those men have taken a high degree in life. One has lost his hair in the exercise of his talents, but Quincy gave him her highest honors. Others took their degree in laying down their precious lives in unholy war. The world is on a higher plane now, and nothing can be better to teach our boys self control than this debating.

In those days some girls, mothers of these boys, were allowed to go to listen if they would not speak.

How some of the lively ones wanted to have their say, and did they not make fun of the mistakes in grammar, or logic, the young men made?

Now we believe, in some of the Y. M. C. A. debates, a woman may be allowed to give her opinion of the subject under consideration. Englishmen lose their temper in debate, and "he lies me lud," the "noble lud lies" is often heard on the floor. Let our Quincy lads learn to be tolerant and patient in debate, respecting all opinions, but maintaining it, if right is on their side in a strong manly way.

School Girl Abducted.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hunt of Atlantic have not lived together for some time, and whenever they meet there is sure to be a clash, several of which have been aired in court.

The last time this pair appeared in court Mrs. Hunt was told to keep away from the children, which were placed in Mr. Hunt's care. She complied with the order of the court up to Monday afternoon when she went to the Quincy school and took her daughter away. She is probably somewhere in Atlantic, and Mr. Hunt through his lawyer will try to obtain possession of the child again.

Playthings.

The streets are full of human toys,
Wound up for threescore years;
Their springs are hungers, hopes and joys,
And jealousies and fears.

They move their eyes, their lips, their hands;
They are marvelously dressed.
And here my body stirs or stands,
A plaything like the rest.

The toys are played with till they fall,
Worn out and thrown away.
Why were they ever made at all?
Who sits to watch the play?

—Edmund Gosse.

The Difference.

Born in a palace on Golden square,
Swaddled in laces rich and rare,
Rocked in a cradle of gold filigree,
Imported expressly from over the sea.

Born to be petted, indulged and caressed,
Born to be always exquisitely dressed,
Servants in legions to wait her command,
And all things about her the best in the land.

Born to be married some sunshiny day—
High priest, grand old church and royal display,
Bridesmaids all beauties and a bridegroom beside
With a rent roll as long as the train of the bride.

Who would not be born to a life such as this,
Born and brought up to unvarying bliss,
And at last, when death comes, to lie down to rest,
To waken in heaven with the fairest and best?

* * * * * * * *

Born in a hovel in Rattlebone lane,
Wrapped in coarse rags, neither plenty nor clean,
A cradle of straw, a carpet of earth,
And never a neighbor to welcome her birth.

Born to be tossed and tumbled about,
Born to go hungry "'cause mother is out,"
Day after day left alone in the pen,
Unthought of, uncared for by angels or men.

Born to wander about from her earliest days,
"Please, ma'am, cold victuals," her oft uttered phrase,
Born to pick cinders and rags from the street,
Drest but in tatters, with poor, naked feet.

Born and brought up a nursling of vice,
Its sounds for her ears and its sights for her eyes,
Nothing but misery, darkness and shame
Till death ends it all like some terrible dream.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

LIGHTING THE YULETIDE LOG.

An Old English Custom That Has Not Entirely Disappeared.

A custom at one time prevalent in England, and still observed in some of the northern districts of the old country, is that of placing an immense log of wood—sometimes the root of a great tree—in the wide chimney place. This log is often called the Yule log, and it was on Christmas eve that it was put on the wide hearth. Around it would gather the entire family, and its entrance was the occasion of a great deal of ceremony. There was music and rejoicing, while the one authorized to light it was obliged to have clean hands.

It was always lighted with a brand left over from the log of the previous year, which had been carefully preserved for the purpose. A poet sings of it in this way:

With the last yeere's brand
Light the new block and
For good success in his spending
On your psaltries play,
That sweet luck may
Come while the log is a-tending.

The Yule log was supposed to be a protection against evil spirits, and it was considered a bad omen if the fire went out before the evening was over. The family and guests used to seat themselves in front of the brightly burning fire, and many a story and merry jest went round the happy group.—Selected.

HOW TO WRAP THE PRESENTS.

A Little Care In This Matter Adds Much to the Simplest Gift.

Several spools of narrow colored ribbon, a package of smooth white tissue paper and a ball of gold cord are among the first essentials for the happy season now at hand to those who intend making more than two or three presents. Christmas gifts are different from birthday, souvenir and wedding offerings. They are appreciated, as a rule, for the feeling existing toward the person who bestows them and are valued in proportion to the intensity of this feeling and the impression they make when first received.

No gifts, no matter what their intrinsic value, make a more lasting or a more satisfactory first impression than those done up in a neat little shroud of white tissue paper tied with a bow of delicately tinted ribbon. Even a pair of galoches rolled up in a smooth, soft sheet of pearl white or cream white tissue paper, with its ends held by dainty little knots of gold cord, seem to possess a greater value, both as to their vitality and money value, than if done up in a piece of common brown wrapping paper or even a cardboard box.—Selected.

A myth of the middle ages says that before the crucifixion of Christ the mistletoe was a forest tree; but, owing to its supplying the wood for the cross, it fell into disgrace and became a mere parasite as a lasting memorial of its ignominious use.

If from folklore and myth we turn to philology, we find another point of interest in this associate of the Christmas feast. Its name consists of two words, "mistle" and "toe." The former of these comes from "mist," an Anglo-Saxon root which had different meanings—mist, gloom, darkness, the meaning now used by the former in "mistle," and in old Dutch glue or bird lime. In "toe" a final n is dropped, and the syllable represents the Anglo-Saxon "tan," a twig, so that the whole word is equivalent to bird lime twig and is so called from the viscid matter which surrounds the seed within the berry.

The Christmas Tree.

After all has been said and done, Christmas is not Christmas without a Christmas tree. You may omit the holly, even the mistletoe, but the Christmas tree is as essential an attribute to a "real live" Yuletide as the turkey or plum pudding. In humble households the turkey is often missing. Of necessity it must give place to a more plebeian chicken, and the pudding to a "store" mince pie, or something of that kind. Yet no one can demur, for how could any one dare to be hypercritical on Christmas day? But take away the tree, and every child in the household will pronounce this feast of feasts a dismal, melancholy failure.—Home and Country.

The Three Kings of the East.

The story of the magi, or "Three Kings of the East," belongs, of course, to Christmastide, and the adoration of the wise men formed a favorite scene in early English mysteries. In the legend the three kings are called Melchoir, who was old, with gray hair and beard, and who offered gold to the infant Saviour; Jasper, who was young, and presented frankincense, while Balthasar, of dark complexion, with dark, flowing beard, brought myrrh. The star which guided them had the form of a radiant child bearing a cross.—Exchange.

Long Live Santa Claus!

Long may Santa Claus continue to pour his toys into children's socks on Christmas eve, to astonish them with his chubby face and his woolly head, and to puzzle and delight them by his unerring knowledge of their tastes and wants. May misfortune fall upon the scientist who succeeds in demolishing the Santa Claus theory.—Toronto Globe.

Cheer For the Needy Neighbor.

Now that the presents for the children are purchased it would be the right thing for the head of every family who can afford it to ask if in his circle of acquaintance there is not some family that must go without Christmas cheer this year unless he provides it.—Philadelphia Times.

An Ugly Myth.

One of the ugliest of all myths is that Santa Claus cannot visit the little children of the poor because they have no stockings to hang by the chimney. It is a myth that cannot be too soon exploded.—Buffalo Courier.

CHRISTMAS HOLLY.

HISTORY OF THE PRESIDING PLANT OF A JOYFUL SEASON.

Its Use In Decoration of Great Antiquity. Sprigs Used In Churches Supposed to Bring Good Luck — Mistletoe of the Druids—Why Holly Berries Are Red.

Holly belongs to that evergreen flora which antedates the glacial period in this northern hemisphere. It is a plant which possesses vigor enough to stand by its ancestral habits, rather than conform to the deciduous customs of a newer generation which owes its prosperity to its time serving propensity. It is one of the genus Ilex, some of which, like members of the "ancient regime" of France, have adopted plebeian habits and have begun to shed their leaves annually. No less than 150 species make up the genus, and only a minority now inhabit what is at present called the temperate zone. The majority are found in the tropical regions of Asia and America. Europe possesses one sole survivor of that miocene flora which resembled the forms now met with in Asiatic and South American forests. This is the well known European holly. The United States of America has at least ten representatives, six of which have conformed to the deciduous habits of recent times. Only one of these, however, concerns us now, and that one is called the American holly. The European holly is Ilex aquifolium; the American holly is Ilex opaca. Doubtless it was the former of these which was invested with the right to preside over the decorations of the Christmas feast, but that honor has rightfully been transferred on this side of the Atlantic to the latter form, although the leaves of opaca are not so glossy, nor its berries so brilliantly scarlet, as those of its sister plant.

The use of holly in Christmas decoration is of great antiquity, and probably is merely a continuation of the Roman customs of pre-Christmas times, for it was held by Rome in such esteem that wreaths of holly were used as symbols of congratulation at weddings. The ancient Teutons also hung up branches of evergreens—of which holly was the commonest—in their houses, as places of shelter for the sylvan spirits during the cold weather. It was natural, therefore, that when Christians began to decorate home and church for their religious festivals they should use the plants they had been accustomed to in other days. It was in this way doubtless that certain plants became associated with certain seasons. Holly and ivy apparently were accepted without reservation, and their use became universal, and now a celebration of Christmas without one or both of these would be an anomaly.

Some plants do not seem to have been accepted with equal favor. There is the "baleful" mistletoe, provocative of the dangerous habit of kissing, which the doctors are trying to break up by disclosing what terrible microbes are communicable in the operation. To quote the historian of Christmas at Bracebridge Hall: "On reaching the church porch we found the parson rebuking the gray headed sexton for having used mistletoe among the greens with which the church was decorated. It was, he observed, an unholy plant, profane by having been used by the Druids in their mystic ceremonies, and though it might be innocently employed in the festive ornamenting of halls and kitchens, yet it had been deemed by the fathers of the church as unhallowed and totally unfit for sacred purposes. So tenacious was he on this point that the poor sexton was obliged to strip down a great part of the humble trophies of his taste before the parson would consent to enter upon the service of the day." So the mistletoe, sacred among the Druids, is rejected, but ivy, sacred to Bacchus, is accepted.

Holly which has been used for the decoration of churches is highly valued in Worcestershire and Herefordshire, and a small piece with its scarlet berries is treasured because it is supposed to bring good luck for the ensuing year. In Rutland, another English county, they say it is unlucky to bring any holly at all into the house before Christmas eve. Some varieties of European holly are much more prickly than others. The smooth are called "she holly" and the prickly "he holly." According as one or other predominated in the decoration, say the wise in such matters, so the wife or husband will rule the house during the year. A careful selection by the husband might be beneficial, but then again he might be circumvented as the man was at the well of St. Keyne in Cornwall.

The evergreen habit of the holly has given point to a Scotch proverb which defines an inveterate liar as one "who only tells lees when the hollin is green."

And why are the berries red? Ah, thereby hangs a beautiful tale of adaptation. They are red to entice the birds, so that dispersion and distribution may be attained. But we have said enough about our "sprig of holly" and trust that its efficacy at "merrie Christmas" will be none the less because we have brightened up the knowledge of its history.—New York Post.

Ben Jonson's Opinion of Christmas.

Any man or woman that can give any knowledge or tell any tidings of an old, old, very old, gray bearded gentleman, called Christmas, who was wont to be a verie familiar guest, and visite all sorts of people, both pore and rich, and had ringing, feasts and jollitie in all places, both in the citie and countrie, for his comming: whosoevere can tel what is become of him, or where he may be found, let them bring him back againe into England.—Ben Jonson.

Hail, Christmas!

Hail, Father Christmas! Hail to thee!
Honored ever shalt thou be.
All the sweets that love bestows,
Endless pleasures wait on those
Who like vessels brave and true
Give to Christmas homage due!

NOT WISE OR PROPER.

What Senator Morgan Thinks of the "Lump Sum" Agreement.

Further Figuring on the Senatorial Committees.

Populists Have No Objections to Republicans Assuming Control.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The house held another short session yesterday, and devoted most of its time to discussing the appointment of house officers.

Resolutions were presented by the Republicans calling for the correspondence in the Waller case; for lists of pensioners who have been stricken from the rolls since March 4, 1893, or reduced, and for Secretary Smith's reasons for an order affecting the action of the land offices in connection with the perfecting of titles to Pacific railroad grant lands in Utah and Nebraska—but all were objected to by Democrats. An effort to have printed in The Record the memorial of the National Wool Growers' association for higher rates met the same fate.

A large number of bills were introduced, the most important of which were: By Senator Berry, to provide a territorial form of government for Indian Territory, with the usual staff of territorial officers, the territory to take the name of Indianola; by Senator Palmer, giving a uniform pension of $50 a month to all who lost a hand or foot in the late war and $60 to those who lost an entire limb; by Senator Allen, disfranchising any citizen of the United States who shall solicit or accept a title, patent of nobility or degree of honor from a foreign nation, and punishing this act as a crime by both fine and imprisonment.

In a letter sent to the house, congress was asked to appropriate $50,000 in connection with the survey of the boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia. This amount is asked in view of the possible necessity of running definite lines of demarcation on the Upper Yukon, and providing for the contingency of surveys which may be required along the boundary in unforeseen localities.

Morgan and Behring Sea.

The feature of the senate was a speech by Senator Morgan of Alabama, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, and a member of the Behring sea tribunal, upon a resolution offered by him last week instructing the foreign relations committee to investigate the question of the liability of the United States for seizures of British ships in Behring sea in 1890. Mr. Morgan took the position in the last congress that the settlement of the claims by the payment of a lump sum of $425,000, as recommended by the president, was not either wise or proper.

SENATOR JOHN T. MORGAN.

His remarks on that occasion were the subject of some sarcastic comment from the British ambassador here in the latter's official correspondence with Lord Kimberly. The correspondence was printed recently from the British Blue Book, and most of Mr. Morgan's speech was devoted to paying his respects to Sir Julian Pauncefote. His resolution, which was as follows, was unanimously adopted at the closing of his speech:

Resolved, That the message of the president received by the senate on Feb. 13, 1895, and his message read in the senate today (meaning Dec. 3), relating to the payment by the United States of the claims of Great Britain arising out of the Behring sea controversy, be referred to the committee on foreign relations, with instructions that said committee examine into the question of such liability on the part of Great Britain or Canada arising out of said controversy, and that said committee shall have authority to report by bill or otherwise.

Committee Guesses.

The Republican caucus committee of the senate was in session for three hours yesterday, but adjourned without completing its assignment of committee membership. The work accomplished is only tentative, but so far as it has progressed it has confirmed the forecast of chairmanship assignments previously sent out.

In addition to these places, it is now practically decided that Senator Teller will become chairman of the committee on claims, Senator Hansbrough on library, Senator Gallinger on pensions and Senator Shoup on patents. There has been an exchange of places by which Senator Cameron takes a membership place on foreign relations and Senator Wolcott the place on finance, which was conceded to Mr. Cameron before he announced his intention not to stand for re-election to the senate. There is a probability that this committee will be increased by the addition of only one member. This increase is to be made to give the Republicans an opportunity to put a silver man and an anti-silver man on the committee. Senator Jones of Nevada is to be allowed to retain his place, but as a Populist and not as a Republican, as heretofore.

This arrangement will give the Republicans 6 members, the Democrats 5 and the Populists 1. On financial questions the committee will stand 7 to 5 in favor of silver. It is about settled that the appropriations committee will also be increased from 9 to 11 members. This will enable Senator Brice to retain his place on the committee, and will give the Republicans two appointments there. Senator Pettigrew will receive one of these, and the other will go either to Senator Quay or to a Pacific coast man.

The six members of the Democratic senatorial caucus committee also held a meeting for the consideration of the situation, but decided not to attempt to outline any definite plan of action until the committee should be filled.

The Populists probably will retain their present chairmanships so far as they have them, Stewart remaining at the head of mines and mining, Allen of forest reservations and Peffer of the committee to examine the several branches of the civil service. It is possible that Kyle may be transferred to a less important committee than education and labor. Butler will be given a minor committee and Senator Jones (Ark.) will be restored to his old place at the head of the committee on contingent expenses.

The Populist senators have changed their former decision concerning the organization of the senate, and have now agreed among themselves to interpose no objections to the Republicans taking control. They will act together, but will withdraw as a body, and allow the Republicans to elect their candidates for the senate offices. They may possibly nominate a candidate for president pro tempore, but they will not press his claims nor continue his candidacy so as to materially delay organization.

A One-Sided Report.

ROME, Dec. 10.—News was received here yesterday from General Baratiteri, the commander of the Italian troops in Abyssinia, announcing what appears to be a serious disaster to the Italian forces operating against King Menelik. He cabled that the king's army, numbering about 20,000 men, surprised and surrounded on Sunday five companies of Italian troops, under Major Toselli, at Ambalagi. Another body of Italian troops, under the command of General Arimondi, advanced to the support of Major Toselli, but they were stopped by the enemy. A severe battle was subsequently fought, and the result was not made known here. The official dispatches say that the losses of the Abyssinians were heavy, but no news was furnished concerning the fate of Major Toselli's command, and nothing was said about the losses of the Italians.

Voting In Massachusetts Cities.

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—The municipal campaign in 10 Massachusetts cities closed last night and today the voters are declaring their choice for mayor, aldermen, councilmen, members of the school committee and minor officers. The question of license or no license will also be decided upon. The campaign in this city has been the most stubbornly contested one conducted for many years. Additional importance is added to today's election in this city by the fact that the mayor and city government will be elected for two years, the first time that the two-year term has been adopted in this city. Both sides claim to be sure of success.

Today Settles It.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The national Republican committee met today at the Arlington hotel to select the time and place for holding the national convention next year. Each rival city has taken headquarters at the hotel and is being boomed with great diligence. Each offers to pay off the debts of the national committee, and besides offers a separate and superior set of qualifications and advantages, both sentimental, material and geographical. The question of candidates does not appear to enter into the question of the choice of the convention city. It looks now as though St. Louis would be selected.

A Second Confession.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Dec. 10.—Alfred J. Hurd made a second confession yesterday, saying that he struck his father on the head twice with an ax instead of once. He heard the old man groan, and thinking he was not dead, got a razor and slashed his throat from ear to ear. He emphatically stated that he was fully dressed when he committed the deed, but only a drop of blood was found on his clothing, and that was on his underclothing.

Will Be Appreciated.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The postoffice department will soon make a change in the postal service between New York and Boston that will give each city materially earlier service. The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad has submitted a proposition to forward the mails on trains leaving each city at 11 o'clock at night and arriving at destination at 5:30 a. m. This plan will be put into operation at once.

Considered Cleveland's Message.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—In the reichstag yesterday the minister of foreign affairs made a statement on President Cleveland's message to congress. He denied that there was any differential treatment in Germany of American cattle and insurance companies, and urged the house not to be intimidated by threats of reprisals.

Financiers on Trial.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—Charles W. Raymond, ex-president; Edward M. Raymond, ex-cashier, and Joseph Raymond, formerly a director of the defunct Middletown National bank, were placed on trial yesterday on the charge of misappropriating funds of the bank. The money involved amounts to nearly $200,000.

Losing No Time.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 10.—Manager Lewis of the Southern hotel received telegrams from Thomas B. Reed and William McKinley, yesterday, asking that rooms be reserved for their respective delegations should St. Louis be decided upon as the place to hold the next Republican national convention.

Unevenly Distributed.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 10.—The will of Peter McGeoch, filed yesterday, disposes of an estate of from $550,000 to $1,000,000 to his two daughters and son. His widow gets the sum of $25,000 in fulfillment of an ante-nuptial agreement with her.

Severe Damage by Storm.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—The gale is causing immense damage in this vicinity. Trees have been uprooted, hayracks destroyed and houses unroofed and ruined. The damage will amount to hundreds of thousands of marks.

Peace Prevails.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Venezuelan minister here has received a cablegram from Caracas stating that the revolution has been quelled, and that perfect peace prevails throughout the republic of Venezuela.

Verdict In Cleveland Viaduct Disaster.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10.—Coroner Arbuckle yesterday rendered his verdict in the viaduct disaster, in which 18 people were killed. He finds no one guilty in the case.

Seven Were Drowned.

DULUTH, Dec. 10.—By the sinking of the tug Pearl B. Campbell off Huron isle, in Lake Superior, seven men, all of whom but one lived in this city, were drowned.

THE UNION OF TRADES

Declared to Be the Only Remedy For Correcting Workmen's Wrongs.

The Labor Problem Discussed by Active Leaders.

Poorly Paid Toilers Make America a Paradise For the Capitalists.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—A mass meeting was held in Cooper Union last night under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers presiding.

Mr. Gompers made a short address, in which he said that the objects of the convention of the American Federation of Labor were to bring unity of action between trades unions of the country and to decide what would be the best in the interest of the toilers of the country. The workers of the land might feel discouraged at times at the seeming slow progress made, but if a look back were taken it would be seen that progress had been made from the days of serfdom, till now the men and women who would be entirely free could at last swing their banners to the breeze and bid defiance to the enemies of organized labor. The most lasting progress made is that established by the trades unions of the world.

The chairman then introduced John McBride, president of the American Federation of Labor, who said: "The trade union movement will force recognition by its earnestness and energy. The work of the unions has been a wonderful and successful one, and today receives more recognition from the public and press than ever before. Conditions are changing, and the labor union will change as often as the conditions warrant and the will of the people demand. While we may disagree as to the methods, we all agree to the ends or objects of the unions. We all agree that there are too many palaces, and if not too many palaces, at least too many hovels; if not too much wealth, too much poverty; if not too many schools, still too much illiteracy; if not too many luxurious homes, at least too many alleys and tenements.

"The system that the few are enriched at the expense of the many obtains in this country, and the wrong is increasing. It is an unequal distribution of wealth—the concentration of power in the hands of the few at the expense of the many, and is the greatest crime of the 19th century. In proper comparision with the wealth of the country, American labor is more poorly paid than that of any other country, and in no other country is capital more highly rewarded."

John B. Lennon, treasurer of the Federation of Labor, was the next speaker introduced. "We have passed through a period of unusual industrial depression," said Mr. Lennon, "and yet the trades unions have stood as a solid wall against the indiscriminate reduction of wages by manufacturers and employers throughout the country. The trades unions have done more for the bettering of the condition of its members than has any other organization on earth."

"Labor Trust" Advocated.

James O'Connell, president of the International Machinists' association, made a short address, in which he told of the work of the unions in keeping down the abuses of the factories and sweat shops. It was organization that was power. Individual action might be powerless, but in organization—perfect organization—was the power which could oppose militia, federal troops, federal courts and a federal president. Why cannot labor have a trust, as have the coal barons and magnates of the Standard Oil company, who own the earth?

Henry Weissman was the next speaker. He was greeted with a storm of mingled hisses, applause and cheers. Some one called for three cheers in a regular way, and they were given so that the arches rang with them.

"I am proud of the enemies I have made," began Mr. Weissman. "It is a source of uncommon pleasure to me to be able to greet the delegates of the American Federation of Labor in this city. I want to show certain of those here that neither Gompers nor Weissman nor any others whom they have chosen to hate can control the American Federation of Labor. Every sentiment should be tolerated in the Federation. There are few men on this platform who are better socialists than the man who is now addressing you. I maintain that it is a disgrace that the socialists in this Federation cannot put aside their intolerance. I believe in concerted action, and for that reason believe in excluding such methods upon which the masses cannot agree. For that reason matters of a dogmatic nature should be excluded. The result of a reverse policy was seen in the fact that the last remnant of the Knights of Labor, a once powerful organization, met two blocks away—met in two factions, each with knives out to end it all in a dying struggle. The disgraceful proceedings of district assembly 49 was a blow to organized labor, and the man who made it is not worthy of membership in trades unions." Mr. Weissman ended by declaring that the one question which labor organizations should consider was the starting of a crusade for the eight-hour day.

The New Woman.

Mrs. Valish, who said she was a new woman of the western prairies and a member of the Typographical union, talked next, and took the heart of the audience. "I want to talk about the new woman in relation to the trades unions," said she. "I am a new woman, although I am married. You will recognize my newness when I tell you that I have spoken from the platform with Susan B. Anthony and Mary A. Lease. The new woman is not so new as she thinks she is. She was registered when she left her home and went out to work in the factory. The trades unions have recognized the new woman, and that is why I talk to you tonight, and predict that the unions will stand by and teach the new woman until such time as there will be no longer a necessity for her leaving her home to earn a living."

James Maudsley, secretary of the Textile Workers' union of Great Britain, talked of the fact that trusts are today being organized, and, to him, meant that the workingmen by their franchise should see without delay that legislators are selected and legislation secured to stop the movement in that direction.

Robert Howard of Fall River, Mass., closed the meeting with a short address. He talked about how the trades unions in Massachusetts had improved the condition of children in the factories.

"Snow, Beautiful Snow."

Winter Sets in in Good Earnest.

It is a mooted question today who wrote that beautiful poem, but there is no question about the virtue of that Cough Syrup I make, for its good qualities are well known to hundreds of our citizens. I do not warrant it as a cure for consumption. If I could my fortune would be made. But I can say that Hearn's Improved Cough Syrup will cure a cough if taken in time.

Democrats Carry Everything In the Hub's Municipal Contest.

Hot Contests In Other Cities of the Bay State.

A. P. A. and the License Question Figure In Many Battles.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—Ten cities other than Boston held elections yesterday. Beverly, Lynn, Salem, Chelsea and Cambridge elected Republican mayors. Newburyport and Lowell elected Democrats. In Everett and Worcester the winners were elected on Citizens' tickets. In Medford no election for mayor was held, owing to the biennial law in effect there.

The temperance people scored heavy majorities everywhere, especially in Cambridge. Lynn and Salem swung back into the no-license column. The results follow:

City.	Mayor Elected.	License—Yes.	License—No.

Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—The Republican administration which has been in control of municipal affairs for the past 11 months was overthrown at the polls yesterday, after one of the most spirited and hotly contested campaigns in the history of local politics, and Boston once more returns to its old position in the Democratic column.

The Republican mayor, Edwin U. Curtis, was defeated by 4376 plurality, and all branches of the city government are Democratic, the Republicans losing control of the board of aldermen and school committee. Josiah Quincy, the successful Democratic mayoralty candidate, showed greater strength than even his own party expected.

Over 75,000 voters went to the polls, the largest number ever recorded in an election in Boston, and representing over five-sixths of the total registration. The campaign was fought on straight party lines. The new mayor elected will serve two years, it being the first election since the legislature doubled the length of the ordinary term.

Mayor Curtis' administration was generally satisfactory to the business men in the city, and they gave him their support. The mayor-elect is well known through the eastern states, having served as assistant secretary of state during Mr. Cleveland's present term, and also as a member of the Democratic national committee.

The city declared in favor of license by over 15,000 majority. The new board of aldermen consists of 7 Democrats and 5 Republicans. The common council is strongly Democratic.

Worcester.

WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 11.—The city election resulted in the choice of General A. B. R. Sprague, the Citizens' candidate for mayor, by a vote of 6977, to 6172 for Rufus B. Dodge, Jr., the Republican candidate. The vote on the license question was: Yes, 7417; no, 5114. The minority system of representation in the board of aldermen was tried for the first time and resulted in the choice of six Republicans and three Democrats. The common council will consist of 15 Republicans and 9 Democrats, and the school committee will be the same.

Salem.

SALEM, Mass., Dec. 11.—The Citizens' ticket defeated the Municipal League ticket, whose candidate for mayor was endorsed by the A. P. A., James H. Turner, Citizens' candidate, receiving 3092, against Meek, League candidate, 2586. The Citizens' ticket also elected the entire board of aldermen and more than one-half of the common council. The vote for license was completely overturned, the vote standing: Yes, 2339; no, 3374. The city went license last year by 117.

Cambridge.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 11.—Bancroft and no license swept the university city, notwithstanding the energetic work done by Andrew J. Rady, the Citizens' candidate for mayor. The campaign was not fought on party lines and at no time was the contest in doubt. Mayor William A. Bancroft received 6309 votes and Mr. Rady, 3930. The vote on license resulted: No, 5663; yes, 4160, a gain of nearly 1000 votes over last year.

Everett.

EVERETT, Mass., Dec. 11.—John D. Henderson was elected mayor, after the closest contest and largest vote ever polled here, beating his opponent, the present mayor, John S. Cate, by 101 votes. The election was between the administration and the anti-administration parties. The aldermen and common council are tied. The vote for mayor stood: Henderson, 1342; Cate, 1241. The city went no license by 1152.

Beverly.

BEVERLY, Mass., Dec. 11.—The election here resulted in the election of Charles H. Odell, Republican candidate for mayor, by 94 votes over Perry H. Collier. The vote stood: C. H. Odell, 968; Perry H. Collier, 874. Five Republican and one Independent aldermen were elected. The A. P. A.'s elected their candidate for school committee. E. R. Hodgkins. The city went for no license by a vote of no, 1245; yes, 605.

Chelsea.

CHELSEA, Mass., Dec. 11.—The Republicans were successful in the city election and elected their candidate for mayor, John C. Loud—2408 to 2268 for Samuel P. Tenney, the Citizens' candidate. The A. P. A. element supported Loud. The board of aldermen consists of six Republicans and one Independent. The Republicans elected the entire school board. The city went no license—2641 to 2137.

Lowell.

LOWELL, Mass., Dec. 11.—William F. Courtney, D., was re-elected mayor, beating his Republican opponent, Joseph Miller, by 1471 votes. The Republicans elected 6 out of 9 aldermen, 18 out of 27 councilmen, 6 out of 9 members of the school board and 6 out of 9 overseers of the poor. The city went license by 1412 majority. The mayoralty vote is a rebuke to the A. P. A. element.

Newburyport.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 11.—The largest vote ever cast in this city was brought out. Andrew R. Curtis, Better Government candidate for mayor, received 1197, against Orrin J. Gurney, Independent Citizen, 1143. The Independent Citizens secured the board of aldermen, the common council and the school committee. The vote for license was: Yes, 1309; no, 992.

Lynn.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 11.—The largest vote in the history of the city was polled, and resulted in the election of Eugene Bessom for mayor, who defeated Asa Newhall, Citizens' candidate, by over 1000 votes. No license also won by 1100 votes—a turnover from last year. The aldermen, common council and school committee are all Republicans.

Medford.

MEDFORD, Mass., Dec. 11.—The feature here in the election was the fight over the license question, and as a result the city will be "dry" by a vote of no, 1257; to yes, 723. Three Republican aldermen were elected.

Miss Dolly Found.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 11.—Sheriff Plummer arrived here last night from Boston with Miss Rose Dolly, who was arrested in Boston yesterday. Miss Dolly is charged with the murder of her 6-weeks-old child, by leaving it naked in the woods at Prides Corner to die of starvation and exposure. It is understood that Miss Dolly made a confession in Boston implicating her mother, the substance of the confession being that she was threatened by her mother, and it was through her influence that the murder was committed. The mother was rearrested last night, charged with being an accessory before the fact.

Collision on the Fitchburg.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Dec. 11.—The express for Watertown on the Fitchburg road crashed into a train of cattle cars near the Union Square depot yesterday afternoon. Both the engineer and fireman of the express had miraculous escapes from death, as their engine was badly wrecked, but neither was injured nor any passengers. Many sheep on the cattle train were killed and injured. The neglect of the cattle train conductor to flag the express is said to have brought about the collision.

Protecting a Bank.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 11.—Upon application of the board of bank commissioners, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Chase has issued an order enjoining the Peterboro Savings bank from receiving or paying deposits. This action has been made necessary by reason of the steady withdrawals of its depositors, which, if continued, would necessitate the sale of a portion of its securities at a sacrifice.

Libel Alleged.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 11.—Mayor Olney has taken action against Henry C. Clark, and demands $25,000 damages for an alleged libelous letter published under Clark's signature in a Providence newspaper. The letter charged Mayor Olney with "winking" at gambling and other forms of vice, besides not enforcing the city ordinances.

Has Disappeared.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 11.—Deputy Sheriff Colvin and Coroner Woods of Scituate have notified the Providence authorities that they have given up the search for Mrs. Clara Valois, the woman who is wanted to answer a charge of killing her father, John W. Rossler of Scituate. It is believed that Mrs. Valois has left the country.

Duty Stands.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—The board of general appraisers have sustained Collector Warren in the case of the salted herrings aboard the schooner N. E. Symonds, on which a duty of ½ cent a pound was assessed by the collector. The board finds that the fish are salted herrings, and are not the product of American fisheries.

Highway Men Held.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 11.—George Landon, George Taylor, John Callahan and George Lougee were arraigned here yesterday. Taylor turned state's evidence, and upon his testimony they were held in $1500 each for attempted highway robbery. Landon was held in $2000 for assault with intent to kill.

New Railway Coming.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 11.—Capitalists have decided to build and operate an electric railroad from this city to Taunton, Mass. The capital is placed at $3,000,000, in shares of $10 each. The fare from end to end will be 30 cents, and a round-trip ticket will cost 50 cents.

A Flourishing Grange.

ATHOL, Mass., Dec. 11.—The 23d annual session of the State Grange of Massachusetts was opened yesterday in the Academy of Music. The report of Secretary Jewett showed a healthy growth, and that of Treasurer Harrington a sound financial standing.

Long Overdue.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Dec. 11.—Fears are entertained that schooner J. H. Carey of this port, which cleared for the Grand Banks Aug. 20, and which has not been sighted since an August gale, is lost. She carried a crew of 14 men.

DIED AS HE LIVED.

Even the Gallows Failed to Terrify Murderer Harry Hayward.

Hanged For the Murder of Catherine Ging.

Sequel to a Tragedy Which Startled the Whole United States.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 11.—With the utmost nonchalance Harry Hayward walked to the gallows early this morning and was launched into eternity for the murder of Catherine Ging, thus ending one of the most sensational tragedies in the history of the northwest.

HARRY HAYWARD.

Hayward's swell dinner, the "last supper," as he profanely expressed it, was served according to his desire, shortly after 10 o'clock last night, and he partook of it with apparent relish.

During the evening Hayward held a lengthy conversation with his attendants, and laughed and joked on the subject of his approaching execution.

It being his last night, he was allowed quite a privilege and was continually surrounded by friends. He was gay and jovial all the time. He passed cigars around freely and talked about his great meal. The toast he proposed at his dinner was: "Here's to the girl who loves me, and to the girls whom I love."

CATHERINE GING.

On the evening of Dec. 3, 1894, a little after 8 o'clock, the dead body of Miss Catherine Ging, a well-known dressmaker of this city, was found lying by the side of the lonely road that skirts Lake Calhoun, one of the favored summer drives, but less used in December. An hour before, she had taken from the Goodman stables a buggy and what has now become famous as the "buckskin" horse, and had driven away, unaccompanied.

Soon after 8 o'clock her dead body was found, and at about the same time the horse came trotting into the stable alone and with no indications of having run away. At first it had been thought that there had been a fatal runaway. The battered condition of the head seemed to point that way, but the coroner soon found a bullet wound in the back of the head, and it became a question of murder or suicide.

Harry Hayward's first appearance in the matter was at midnight on the night of the murder, when he came to police headquarters and expressed his belief that the woman had been murdered, explaining that he believed that it was the scheme of some unknown person to "do" him out of several thousands of insurance money from policies Miss Ging had assigned to him as security for loans.

ADEY A. HAYWARD.

Owing to his close friendship for the woman, Harry was closeted with the officers, under the direction of Mayor Eustis, for 13 hours, and during that time was subjected to a terrible inquisition, without

THOSE WHO received a copy of the LEDGER yesterday were fortunate. The paper went to press on time but scarcely one hundred had been printed when a valve in the engine got out of order. At first it was thought to be trifling, and that the delay would be of short duration, but it was more serious than we anticipated, and it was necessary to take parts to a machine shop. It was evening before the repairs were completed, but close connections not being made on deliveries the paper was much later than usual in reaching customers. While many were disappointed, we doubt if the delay was as vexatious to any one as to the publishers. To the proprietors of the Advertiser we would say that the kind offer of the use of their press was appreciated, although we did not avail ourself of it, expecting to start our own press every minute.

QUINCY HAS been a prominent name before the country for a century or more, as the birthplace of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence, as the birthplace of two Presidents of these United States, for its unlimited supply of unsurpassed granite, as the city where the first railroad in this country was built, for its public school system, for its illustrious sons—Hancock, the Adamses, the Quincy's, and others. Again Tuesday, Boston elected Josiah Quincy Mayor of Boston. He will be the third of that name to occupy the executive chair of "The Hub," while the city of Quincy will have a member of the illustrious Adams family. The Mayor-elect of Boston was born in Quincy in 1859, and up to two years ago had his residence in this city.

Commenting on the election the Herald says: No doubt, the honored name of Josiah Quincy had something to do with it. It is a name that is indissolubly linked with the best traditions of Boston as a municipality, and we have faith to believe it will not suffer at the hands of its latest representative when he assumes the position honored by his grandfather and his great-grandfather before him.

BUT FOUR of the eleven cities voted license Tuesday. Lynn and Salem were gained for the temperance side. The "No" vote was larger in seven cities than last year while the "Yes" vote was larger in but four. The "No" vote was smaller in four and the "Yes" vote smaller in seven.

THE NATIONAL Republican convention will be held in St. Louis June 16. The Massachusetts delegates will miss the Seventeen of June, but perhaps they will have as grand a holiday.

IT WILL be Mayor Curtis in Newburyport if not in Boston.

SALARY OR NO SALARY

How Much Shall the Sewer Commissioners Receive?

City Council Table an Amendment Against a Salary.

Many Reports Made at the Meeting of Last Evening.

The discussion of the evening at the meeting of the City Council on Tuesday night was on the salary of the newly appointed Sewerage Commissioners (Messrs. Blackmur, Shea and Whitman.) It is said that one of the members expected a salary of $1,500, but the Committee on Ordinances (Messrs. Lamb, Sidelinger and Barker) reported $500 in the proposed ordinance, and now the Finance Committee (Messrs. Adams, Spear, Rice, Bigelow and Bryant) report an amendment that the commissioners serve without pay.

The absentees were Councilmen Adams, Grindell and Johnson.

Petitions.

Petitions for State aid were received from Harriet H. Connor and Harriet H. Lapham. Referred.

A petition was received from Edwin R. Wheble to carry on a slaughter house on land of B. Johnson on Town river, to kill twenty-five swine per week on Mondays, Tuesdays and Saturdays.

The Board of Health was authorized to issue such licenses.

Reports of Committees.

The Committee on Elections reported the result of the recent municipal election, which was declared in accordance therewith.

A member of the Committee on Public Buildings reported that he had preambulated the boundary line between Quincy and Braintree and submitted his description of the line. Report accepted.

Acceptance of Faxon road and Billings street, repairs of North street, electric lights on Independence avenue, acceptance of Madison street, acceptance of Billings road, West Elm avenue and Elm avenue, acceptance of East Elm avenue, $3,000 for paving School street, and the matter relating to City Square and grounds about the Unitarian church.

The Committe on Streets made its annual legacy to the incoming Council by referring these petitions. Accepted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting a location to the Quincy & Boston street railway on Hancock street for a double track from the head of Granite street to Boston line, the same to be completed inside of one year from Jan. 1, 1896. Ordered to second reading.

The same committee on petition for removal of tracks on Saville street reported leave to withdraw, as the tracks had been covered and street placed in good condition. Accepted.

The same committee reported orders laying out Butler road and Bennington street as public ways. Ordered to second reading.

The same committee on petition to extend Brook street, reported that the Mayor be authorized to enter into any agreement with the railroad for the extension of the street under its tracks. To second reading.

The Committee on Finance reported ought to pass an order appropriating $1200 for miscellaneous city expenses. To second reading.

The Committee on Finance reported an order appropriating $500 for stoves and double windows for the upper floor of the Willard school.

Councilman Bigelow moved to amend by making the amount $450.

The amendment was accepted and the order passed to be ordained under a suspension of the rules.

The Committee on Finance reported an amendment to the proposed ordinance governing the Sewerage Commission which was that they be paid no salary.

Councilman Pinkham thought matter should be considered before it was passed. He did not think that there were men who would do the work without compensation.

Councilman Bigelow said this was a very serious problem. Much money had got to be spent for engineers' services, upon whom the commissioners would rely in a great measure. We should economize and find public-spirited citizens who would do this work without compensation.

Councilman Lamb thought a better salary than that asked should be paid.

Councilman Rice did not believe in starting with the policy of paying salaries.

Councilman Nickerson believed the city should pay for services rendered. He favored one commissioner with a good salary. It was too much to ask citizens to serve without pay.

Councilman Bryant said no men could be found in Quincy competent to lay out plans, and engineers must be employed. Practically all the work the Commissioners had to do was to see that competent men were employed to carry out work for the city. If one commissioner was paid others must be. He did not think this commission would have to give any more time than the Water Commissioners did. The freer we keep the city from salaries the better government we will get. His experience had

Mrs. John F. Merrill, who is suffering from nervous prostration is in New Jersey for her health.

Another new store is being erected on Copeland street near the corner of Common street, directly over the pond.

W. R. Lofgren is agent for Quincy for a wonderful little invention which is great protection against burglars. It is advertised today.

The Whitman Times says that Miss Kimball of Quincy took charge of the State Street primary school at Hanson at the opening of the winter term.

Nearly $200 was collected at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday in aid of the Home Missionary Society. About $100 was netted by the Steadfast Ten at their sale held in the same church last week.

The tide was usually high this morning and the float of the Quincy Yacht club did considerable damage to the underpinning of the club house. Commodore Pettengill was notified and went down to look after the club's property.

A very interesting article on the subject of water supply will be found in another column. The plan outlined by the writer, we learn, has been submitted to one of the best engineers in New England, and is considered by him as entirely practicable.

Notwithstanding the deep snow two of the Wollaston Trap Club members and two visitors went to the range last Saturday and held a shoot with the following result,—Albert Keating, 15; D. B. Lincoln, 18; E. E. Hoxie, 10; Frederick Merrill, 10.

What shall we buy for Christmas presents is the all absorbing question in the homes of our goodly city. But don't spend time talking about it, just visit the attractive stores of the LEDGER advertisers, and the tempting presents there displayed will soon settle the oft debated question.

Merrymount lodge, A. O. U. W., held an enthusiastic meeting Tuesday evening, at which time one candidate was initiated by the new ritual. The work was witnessed by Deputy W. S. Haliburton and visitors from a number of lodges in this vicinity. After the work there was speeches and a collation.

The Junior Christian Endeavors of the Quincy Point church are planning and rehearsing for an unusual entertainment in the vestry tomorrow evening. The little people are to be responsible for the whole matter, and are working with an enthusiasm which might well be emulated by older people. There will be a program by the children; an exhibition of curiosities and antiquities; and a sale of home made candies and lemonade, etc. There is no doubt but they will entertain.

A Surprise.

One of the most enjoyable and profitable gatherings of Henry Galletly's Sunday-school class of the Free Baptist church, Broadway, was that which took place Wednesday evening, Dec. 5th, at the home of Mrs. B. F. Woodman, 9 Parker st., a most respected and beloved classmate. Mrs. Woodman was very much surprised, but highly gratified, when a troop of 20 members, present and past, led by a former pastor (one beloved by all for his gracious Christian character), J. Herbert Yeoman and wife of Wareham, captured the house. Pastor Yeoman, with words of tender love, spoke of the bond of Christian love and friendship which has so long held the class together and loving words of sympathy and cheer to Mrs. Woodman, so lately bereaved of all her dear ones. Pastor Yeoman offered one of the most touching prayers, "which brought us," as one auditor said, "into the very presence of our father in Heaven." Miss Emma Bennett sang some very fine selections of hymns, and the evening passed all too quickly. Mr. and Mrs. Bateman of Parker st., added much to the enjoyment of the evening with ice cream, cake and coffee.—Somerville Citizen.

Quincy Debating Club.

The question for debate Thursday, Dec. 19, is: Resolved, that immigration into the United States should be further restricted by emigration laws.

The principal disputants will be: For the affirmative, Everett C. Litchfield and Ezekiel Sargent; for the negative, Ernest D. Gourd and E. Frank Southworth.

References on both sides have been placed in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. For the affirmative these are: The Emigration Restriction League publications (very thorough and pointed. The Forum, vol. 8, 428-440; vol. 13, 128-142; and vol. 14, 608-615. North American Review, vol. 156, 1-8.

For the negative: Forum, vol. 8, 685-696: vol. 13, 366-370; vol. 14, 606-607. North American Review, vol. 134, 346-367 and 562-577; vol. 156, 220-227.

In addition to the above there has been placed in the reading room a careful and elaborate brief compiled for the course in debating at Harvard College and covering both sides of the question.

With a subject of such vital importance to our country, and with references ready at hand, it is hoped that even those who are not members of the Debating Club may be interested in studying into the question.

NO DISCRIMINATION.

Granite Cutters' Union Want Clause Eliminated.

New Prices Desired for Post Work and Rock Face Work.

New Arrangement for Pay of the Workmen Asked.

As has been stated in the LEDGER the Granite Cutters' Union have given the manufacturers notice, according to the present agreement, of the changes desired in the present bill of prices to go into effect March 1, 1896.

The first change desired is to eliminate the following article which is known as the discriminating clause:

"It is hereby mutually agreed by and between the Granite Manufacturers' Association and the branches of the Granite Cutters' Union of Quincy, Mass., that no discrimination shall be made between union and non-union men, neither shall members of the branches make any distinction against any of the employes of the members of the Granite Manufacturer's Association."

The other changes desired are:

Prices for Post Work.

No post shall measure less than three superficial feet.

All eight-cut posts to be paid four sides, and top twice; fine, 50 cents per foot.

All ten-cut posts to be paid four sides, and top twice; fine, 55 cents per foot.

Octagon and champered posts add one-third price of plain posts.

Mouldings on posts, 35 cents per cut.

On Rock Face Work.

Bottom bases with rock face sides and washes, pay beds, per superficial foot 25 cents, instead of 20 cents.

Washes on rock face work which drop over three inches, to be paid as per cut one.

Miscellaneous.

Any work not covered by this bill of prices to be cut by the hour.

That eight hours constitute a day's work.

That any workman leaving a yard shall be paid in full, and this article to be enforced by article three of the agreement which gives the workmen a right to stop work if not paid.

They also desire a new article which shall devise means whereby the business of the two associations shall be promptly attended to.

Another Arrest.

Inspector McKay arrested James P. Ballou in Boston Tuesday, while the latter was trying to dispose of some bush hammers. The hammers proved to be part of those stolen from the sheds of Fegan & Ballou Monday night and the arrested man proved to be a brother of the junior member of the above firm. He was brought to Quincy and locked up.

A tired stomach is very much like a sprained ankle. If you suffer from any of the symptoms of dyspepsia, your stomach is tired. It needs a crutch. We must relieve it of all work for a time, or until it is restored to its natural strength. To do this successfully, we must use a food which is already digested outside of the body, and which will aid the digestion of other foods that may be taken with it. Such a product is the Shaker Digestive Cordial.

The Shakers have utilized the digestive principles present in plants for the manufacture of this article, and its success has been truly phenominal. You can try it for the nominal sum of 10 cents, as sample bottles are sold by all druggists at this price.

Councilman Sprague did not think it right to compensate one and not the other. Cheap labor was expensive in the end. He offered an amendment fixing the salary of the chairman at $1000, and of the other members $250 each, but afterward with drew it.

Upon motion of Councilman Sprague the matter was laid on the table.

The Committee on Public Grounds asked further time on public landing at Quincy Point. Granted.

Orders makings transfers to advertising, printing and stationery, to repair of public buildings, fire alarm, school appropriations, and burial places of 1894, were passed.

Councilman Dixon offered an amendment to the ordinance increasing salary of chief engineer of fire department from $400 to $800, and of call men of Hose 1 from $100 to $150. Referred to joint committees on Fire Department and Finance.

Councilman Bigelow offered the customary motion for an entertainment committee on the closing night of the year, but there was objection and it was withdrawn.

An order was introduced authorizing the Water Commissioners to expend all of the $45,000 for extensions and the standpipe on Third Hill for extensions. It was read once and referred to joint committees on Water Supply and Finance.

Water Supply.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

In my last letter I named sources of water supply that can be seen by any of our citizens in a few hours drive and by giving a little thought to the matter. Except incidentally, I have not mentioned the Blue Hill river, a supply for which we have or had legislation to acquire.

According to the report made by Mr. Blake a dam could be made just above the Taunton Pike that would flood an area of 400 acres, and contain 1,900,000,000 gallons. Mr. Blake, if I remember rightly, and there was water-shed enough to supply water to fill it.

I have seen this place and think I am fairly familiar with its physical features. The place is a swamp with a good deal of large wood upon it and very wet. It can be easily drained, the wood cut off, and, by making side ditches, the muck and stumps can be burned out leaving only a very small proportion of the original bulk to be carted away. This process could be extended over a number of years, at slight expense and all be done so the annual expense would be hardly felt.

This lake of 400 acres would be a very beautiful feature in the landscape and would no doubt be so considered by the Park Commission — and possibly the land damage to be paid by Quincy would be nothing. With this lake holding some fifteen hundred million gallons, we should have over two thousand million gallons of water in sight and an area to gather water from large enough to keep us in water for a good many years.

That we should be as well off as if we entered the Metropolitan System, there is no doubt. The cost is to be considered and I estimate as follows:

New reservoir $75,000, Ponkapoag damages 1000 acres at $27 (with Braintree Great pond damages) $27,000, cut from Ponkapoag $18,000, cut from Blue Hill river to Town Brook $5,000, cleaning Blue Hill reservoir bottom $100,000, making dam $35,000, water damages Blue Hill river $50,000, cleaning old reservoir $15,000, pipe from reservoir to pumping station $10,000, a total of $315,000. This supply should give us 8,000,000 gallons a day at least.

Now before spending half a million dollars beyond this amount, or even contemplating it, would it not be well to have this plan or proposition fully investigated, and take the more expensive one only when we must, or when Boston, and all its surrounding cities will be obliged to go to still further sources of supply, such as Memphremagog or, possibly, Champlain.

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

The Classification of Granites of the Country.

Muscovite, Biotite, Hornblende, Epidote, Synite and Others.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

According to the Tenth Census report on stone, the granites quarried throughout the United States may be classed as follows:

Muscovite granite, biotite granite, muscovite-biotite granite, hornblende granite, hornblende-biotite granite, epidote granite, granitel (or granite without any accessory). Lines of distinction between these varieties are by no means sharply drawn, one kind gradually merging into another in many cases.

Muscovite granite, — This variety is always light in color, from the nearly colorless character of the muscovite. Comparatively little is quarried in the United States. A highly important example is that produced at Barre, Vt.

Biotite granite,—The biotite granites are the most wide spread of all the varieties named above. In color they vary from light to very dark, according to the amount of mica present and the color of feldspar. Many of the red granites belong to this class, the red color being due to red feldspar. The granites of this class are, as a rule, tough and hard. Good examples are the granites from Dix Island, Maine, Westerly, R. I., and Richmond, Va.

Muscovite-biotite, granite,—As the name implies, this granite stands between the two already considered. The essential constituents are quartz, orthoclase, muscovite, and biotite. The Concord, N. H., granite is a good example of this variety; similar to it is the stone from quarries at Allenstown, Sunapee, and Rumney.

Hornblende granite,—In addition to the hornblende contained in this granite as the characterizing accessory, black mica is in nearly all cases likewise to be found. Biotite is found as a microscopic constituent in many hornblende granites, and the name "hornblende granite" is, therefore, restricted to those in which no biotite is visible to the naked eye. Granite belonging to this class is quarried at Peabody, Mass., and also at Mount Desert, Me.

Hornblende biotite granite,—Some of the most beautiful of our granites belong to this class, notably so-called black granite from St. George, Me., and some of that quarried at Cape Ann, Massachusetts, and at Sauk Rapids, Minn. The essential constituents are quarts, orthoclase, hornblende, and biotite. These granites are susceptible of fine and lasting polish.

Epidote granite,—The granites of this class in the United states are rare, an example being that quarried at Dedham, Mass. The rock works easily and takes a good polish.

Syenite,—The absence of quartz in a granite, or its presence only to the extent of forming an accessory constituent, determines its classification as a syenite. Fine syenites are known to occur, but they have not been extensively quarried.

Gneiss, — Stratification determines the classification of granite as gneiss. Its cleavage enables it to be quarried in the form of slabs suitable for curbing and similar uses in which slabs are desirable. The stratification is largely determined by the uniformity in the direction of the flat cleavage planes of the mica present in it. The terms "bastard granite" and "stratified granite" are commonly used in reference to gneiss. The only essential difference between granite and gneiss being in the matter of stratification in the latter, there is good reason for the use of the single term "granite" as applied to gneiss.

IMPEACHMENT ASKED.

Ambassador Bayard Is Accused of High Crimes and Misdemeanors.

Proceedings Formally Begun by Congressman Barrett.

Based on Recent Remarks Made Before Audiences of Britishers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11. — Ambassador Bayard's recent utterances formed the target at which Representatives McCall and Barrett fired their first shots in the house yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Barrett threw a bombshell into the house soon after it convened yesterday, by offering a resolution impeaching Thomas F. Bayard, ex-secretary of state and now United States ambassador to the court of St. James, for high crimes and misdemeanors.

Mr. McCall had introduced the resolution of inquiry asking the committee on foreign affairs to look the matter up, as he had announced a month or more ago in Boston that he would do. McCall's resolution read as follows:

Whereas, Thomas F. Bayard, the ambassador of the United States to Great Britain, is reported by the London Times newspaper to have said in a public speech delivered in Boston, Eng., on the 2d day of August, 1895, "The president stood in the midst of a strong, self-confident and oftentimes violent people, men who sought a real man to govern the people of the United States," and

Whereas, said Bayard is further reported by the press of this country to have said, in a public speech delivered in Edinburgh, Scot., on the 7th day of November, 1895, "In my country I have witnessed the insatiable growth of a form of socialism, styled protection, which has done more to corrupt public life, to banish men of independent mind from public councils and to lower the tone of national representation than any other single cause. Protection, now controlling the sovereign power of taxation, has been perverted from its proper functions of creating revenue to support the government into an engine of selfish profit, allied with combinations called trusts. It thus has sapped the popular conscience by giving corrupting largess to special classes, and it throws legislation into the political market, where jobbers and chafferers take the place of statesmen;" and

Whereas, it is none of the functions of an ambassador to insult the country to which he is accredited by the people he is supposed to represent, and it is consistent neither with the character of the office nor with the dignity and independence of the people of the United States that their ambassadors abroad should made violent partisan speeches on questions relating to our domestic policy upon foreign soil; therefore be it

Resolved, That the president be, and he hereby is, requested to inform the house of representatives, if not incompatible with the public interests, what steps, if any, he has taken to ascertain whether said Bayard made said speeches, and if he has ascertained that he did make said speeches, what steps, if any, he has taken to recall or to censure said Bayard.

Barrett's Bomb.

Mr. Barrett's move then created a profound sensation. On a question of privilege he introduced resolutions of impeachment, which were objected to by Mr. Crisp on a point of order. The speaker overruled Crisp, and Barrett proceeded to say:

"The resolutions offered by my colleague reiterate in epitome the charges against the present ambassador of the United States. But there is another statement made by Mr. Bayard, in which he refers to the American people as an unruly and turbulent people, needing the strong hand of a certain man, to wit, Grover Cleveland, to keep them in subjection."

Following is the Barrett resolution:

I do impeach Thomas F. Bayard, United States ambassador to Great Britain, of high crimes and misdemeanors on the following grounds:

Whereas, the following report of a speech delivered before the Edinburg Philosophical institution by Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, ambassador of the United States of America at the court of Great Britain, is published in The London News under date of Nov. 8, 1895.

He then quoted a dispatch containing the report of the speech and comment, and closed as follows:

And, whereas, such reflections on the government policy and people of the United States by an ambassador of the United States in a foreign country and before a foreign audience is manifestly in serious disregard of the proprieties and obligations which should be observed by an official representative of the United States abroad, and calculated to injure our national reputation; therefore be it

Resolved, By the house of Representatives, that the committee on foreign affairs be directed to ascertain whether such statements have been publicly made, and if so, to report to the house such action by impeachment or otherwise as shall be proper in the premises. For the purpose of this inquiry, the committee is authorized to send for persons and papers.

Several congressmen offered arguments pro and con on the subject, and altogether a rather breezy session was the result of Mr. Barrett's resolution.

At 2:45 Barrett began the closing speech of the fight, in which he discussed the aspersion upon his motives which had been made in the debates when McCall's resolutions were denied consideration by unanimous consent. Barrett felt called upon to complete the attention of the house through an impeachment proceeding.

Mr. Cannon's amendment to strike out the words "by impeachment or otherwise" was agreed to, and the resolution as thus amended was adopted without a division. A number of Democrats were observed to vote aye, and but few noes were heard.

The speaker stated that by consent the preamble to the resolution would be considered withdrawn.

Agreements Ignored.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—It is possible that a big open reduction in freight rates between Chicago and the Atlantic seaboard may be made within the next few days. All sorts of cut rates are now in effect. The agreement of the Central Traffic association lines to maintain rates seems to be a dead letter already.

Struck Telephone Pole.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Dec. 11.—A large party was coasting on Barbour's hill last night, when a pair of bobs, in charge of John Webber, with six persons on the sled, collided with a telephone pole. Everyone was badly hurt. Two may die.

Bradley In Office.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 11.—William O. Bradley has been sworn in as governor of Kentucky, and the first Republican administration in the history of the commonwealth has begun.

Hasn't Resigned.

MONTREAL, Dec. 11.—Sir William Van Horne says regarding his rumored resignation of the presidency of the Canadian Pacific railroad that it is false.

BUT ONE BIDDER.

Reorganization Committee Buys the Atchison Road For $60,000,000.

TOPEKA, Dec. 11.—Edward King of New York, acting for the reorganization committee, yesterday bid in the entire system of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, which was sold at public auction here under decree of the United States circuit court on Aug. 25 last. Sixty million dollars was the price paid.

At 2:30 o'clock Special Master in Chancery Johnson quickly, and without any more flourish than if he were about to sell a town lot, offered the property to the highest bidder. "What am I offered?" the auctioneer said.

"I offer $60,000,000," said Edward King, in a low voice.

"Do I hear any more bids?" cried Judge Johnson.

"Once, twice, the last call. The property is sold to Edward King, Charles C. Beaman and Victor Morawetz."

This ended the greatest auction sale ever known, and the crowd dispersed to the Federal building, where Judge Henry C. Caldwell confirmed the sale.

The new charter of the company is already and will be filed in this city with the secretary of state today.

The charter is exactly the same as the old one, except in the matter of the name, and that only difference is in the slight change of the one word "railroad" to "railway," the new name to read "Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway company."

SULTAN YIELDS.

Additional Guardships Will Be Allowed to Pass the Dardanelles.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 11.—The long-drawn-out controversy between the ambassadors of the powers and the sultan over the question of the admission of additional guardships for the protection of the embassies has been settled by the issuance of an irade granting the necessary firmans to permit the guardships to pass the Dardanelles.

The demand was first made upon the sultan on Nov. 19, and scarcely a day has passed since then without its being renewed in a more or less peremptory manner. The ingenuity displayed by the Turkish government in evading a direct answer to the demand, or, when forced to answer, the effective pleadings put forth for delay, had almost brought the mind of Europe to the conviction that the demand would never be complied with. Meantime days and weeks passed by without any action, and the condition of things in Constantinople that brought out the demand has almost passed.

Big Strike Imminent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The Brotherhood of Tailors and contractors of this city and vicinity are again at odds, and strikes may be ordered which will involve all the tailors in the brotherhood, similar to those which existed early last summer, involving about 30,000 people. The fight opened in Brooklyn yesterday, 200 tailors being locked out at the shops of nine contractors. The contractors claim that it is simply a stopping of work on account of the exigencies of trade.

Bribery Charges Denied.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—At the National Federation of Labor convention yesterday a large portion of the report of Secretary McCraith was devoted to the matter of the charges of bribery made against President McBride in connection with the American Railway union strike. These charges were officially denied. The afternoon session of the federation was largely taken up with committee reports.

Lavorano Convicted.

DEDHAM, Mass., Dec. 11.—Cavarno Lavorano of Weymouth was on trial yesterday afternoon, charged with stabbing Frank Russo and his wife Alleno on Sept. 8, 1895. The jury returned a verdict of assault without intent to kill. He will be sentenced later.

A Thousand Out.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. — One thousand stonemasons, all members of the New York Stonemason Protective union, quit work yesterday on 100 buildings in this city. They claim the contractors have not lived up to the agreement.

Razor In His Cell.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—William J. Burns, aged 26, a prisoner at Charlestown, under five years' sentence for larceny, attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor in his cell yesterday. Burns' recovery is doubtful.

Not Forgotten.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.—The 108th anniversary of the birth of Rev. Thomas H. Gallaudet, the benefactor and friend of education of the deaf mutes in America, was celebrated here last night by a banquet. Over 50 persons participated.

food or rest. After 20 hours in custody he was released, the officers being unable to get anything from him that would seem to connect him in any way with the crime.

The second day after the murder came the unexpected event which led to the solution of the mystery. One of the best and most favorably known citizens of Minneapolis is Elder L. M. Stewart, a wealthy man of long residence in the city. He had been an attorney, and was for many years the adviser of all members of the Hayward family.

From him came a letter addressed to the county attorney and written only after long pondering over the relations of client and lawyer. He stated that three days before the murder he had a call from Adry A. Hayward, an older brother of Harry, who told him that Harry and Claus Blixt, engineer of the Ozark, were about to murder Miss Ging. The elder knew that Harry often talked in ways he had no thought of acting, and told Adry he was being fooled.

The funeral came the next day, and in the afternoon Harry Hayward was arrested. Six hours later Adry was also behind the bars, and the next day Blixt, with his wife, were also arrested. Mrs. Blixt, however, was soon at liberty.

On Sunday, Dec. 9, Blixt made a confession, in which he stated that the murder had been committed by Harry, and that he had simply disposed of the body for him. This was clearly false, and he finally confessed that, inspired by Harry Hayward, and for fear that Hayward would kill Mrs. Blixt (that threat being held over him), he had committed the murder. Blixt pleaded guilty and was sent to state prison for life for his share in the crime.

The trial of Harry Hayward was a notable event in criminal jurisprudence, full of sensational incidents, and lasted nearly seven weeks from Jan. 21.

Governor Clough set the execution for June 21, but the filing of the appeal to the supreme court necessitated a postponement. Nov. 20 the supreme court announced its decision, affirming the decision of the lower court. Executive clemency was refused, and the governor fixed the day of the execution for Wednesday, Dec. 11, "between midnight and dawn."

TO MEET AT ST. LOUIS.

Republicans Will Nominate a Candidate For President on June 16.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Republican national convention will be held in St. Louis on June 16 next. That was the decision reached by the national Republican committee assembled yesterday, after spirited balloting, lasting two hours.

The first serious break occurred when David Martin of Pennsylvania led the Pittsburg forces toward St. Louis. On the fourth and last formal ballot, San Francisco's forces broke for the first time—Michigan, Wyoming and Connecticut going to St. Louis. That settled it, and gave St. Louis the convention. The choice was made unanimous on motion of Mr. De Young of San Francisco.

AN UNEXPECTED TURN

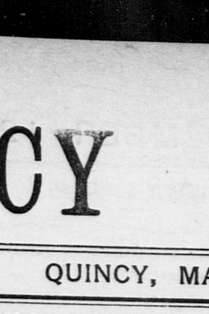

To a Case Already Much Befogged In Mystery and Contradiction.

Barbara Aub Repudiates Her Recent Confession.

Goes Back to First Story Regarding Relations With Langerman.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Barbara Aub, according to a statement made by her attorney, has retracted the confession on the strength of which W. L. S. Langerman was allowed to go free after he had been convicted of criminal assault in the first degree. Says her lawyer, Fred House:

"You can say that Barbara Aub has retracted the confession which she made to Recorder Goff, and she now says that the story she told on the witness stand during the trial of Langerman is true." This statement was made public after an hour's conference with Barbara Aub and her three aunts—Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Bean and Mrs. Kauffman—in the Tombs prison.

BARBARA AUB.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Mitchell came down to the courthouse and held a long conference with Judge Cowing. Later she sent word to Lawyer House that Barbara Aub wanted to see him at once in the Tombs. Mrs. Mitchell then went to the Tombs, where she saw Barbara, and waited for Mr. House. At first Mrs. Mitchell denied that she had stated that Barbara had made a retraction, but later she said that Mr. House would say all that was necessary.

Colonel Townsend, however, said that Mrs. Mitchell had come into court in a state of great excitement, and stated that Barbara had told her that the confession made to Recorder Goff was untrue, and that she had been forced to make it by the people at the Door of Hope mission.

W. L. S. LANGERMAN.

Lawyer House, accompanied by Mrs. Dean, reached the court about 4:30 o'clock, and after a conference with Judge Cowing went at once to the Tombs, where they had a long interview with Barbara.

Mr. House said that he could not say to whom the retraction had been made, nor could he tell how Barbara came to make it. All he could say was "that a retraction has been made. Barbara is in a very excited state of mind, and I cannot get any coherent statement from her. I shall see her later and get a statement from her then."

Recorder Goff was not at his chambers yesterday afternoon, and after Lawyer House had had a conference with Judge Cowing, the judge called a messenger and said: "You must find the recorder at once, wherever he may be, and make this known to him."

Threw Up His Job.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—W. W. Blackmer, president of the National Association of Railway Postal Clerks, whose run is between Chicago and Detroit, has tendered his resignation from the latter position, because of the recent government order directed against the organized efforts of employes to procure legislation. Blackmer will remain with the association and urge legislation.

Two Men Shot.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Two men were seriously shot last night in a restaurant on Third avenue. One of the men is Patrolman M. J. Howard. The other is Charles Lavender, 50 years old. Both men were shot by Charles Blake, who refuses to give his address. The trouble grew out of a quarrel arising from the presence of some women in the restaurant.

Scourge Unabated.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 12.—In this city, between Nov. 30 and Dec. 7, there were 73 cases of cholera and 46 deaths from that disease. In Volhynia, from Nov. 17 to Nov. 23, there were 259 cases of cholera and 94 deaths. In Kiev, during the same period, there were 101 cases of cholera and 84 deaths. In Orel, from Nov. 3 to Nov. 30, there were 16 deaths from cholera.

AN UNENVIABLE REPUTATION.

"Dr." Hammond Has Again Come to Grief at Louisiana's Capitol.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 12.—William F. Hammond, aged about 40 years, who styles himself a physician and a minister of the gospel, was arrested here yesterday. Hammond is charged with having committed almost every crime on the calendar. Hammond's photograph, which adorns almost every rogues' gallery in the country, bears the following inscription on the reverse side: "Rev. Hammond, thief, confidence man, bigamist, adulterer, abortionist and all-round crook."

He was born in Lachuto, Can., and was brought up a farmer. He married on reaching man's estate. His wife soon died, and then his bad career commenced. In 1886 Hammond married Mrs. Brockway, widow of a wealthy physician of Franklin Falls, N. H., and the members of the Free Will Baptist church made him their pastor. He swindled his wife out of $8000 and the people of the town out of several thousands. Later he traveled through Canada, and then suddenly disappeared.

He was next heard of at Eureka, Cal., where he officiated as a minister, married one of his flock, had her life insured and when she died suddenly collected the insurance and started on a tour of the world, visiting Honolulu, New Zealand, Japan and Cape Town, working every section for all it was worth. He married an estimable lady in Melbourne. He then returned to the United States, and on July 20, 1890, his wife died suddenly. He was then practicing medicine. He returned to New Zealand in 1891, where he married again. The doctor once practiced at Bedford, Mass. He claimed he had been a Catholic priest.

Troops Called Out.

TOPEKA, Dec. 12.—The recent revolting grave robberies in this city have aroused the people to the highest pitch of indignation, and at 6 o'clock last night a mob began forming in the streets, the avowed purpose being to burn the Kansas medical college, in which during the past three days the bodies of two well-known women have been found. Both had been stolen from the graves soon after burial. The governor has called out the state militia.

Trusts Must Go.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—In the chamber of deputies yesterday a resolution was adopted inviting the government to seek to punish those who have been engaged in cornering leather. The minister of war said that if it was proved that a leather ring existed in France, the government had power to deal with it. M. Marcel-Habert called attention to the monopoly of wheat, and urged that the law be applied to defeat its objects. M. Cavaignac replied that the government had resolved to do so.

Goodheart Wouldn't Testify.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Judge Grosscup has dismissed the contempt proceedings against Joseph B. Greenhut, ex-president of the Whisky trust. The court had no power to compel A. E. Goodheart and his associates to testify, and the judge was unwilling to rely upon their depositions. Judge Grosscup scored Goodheart for his refusal to appear to testify.

Having Fun in Gotham.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Not satisfied with their victory in Washington, quite a large number of St. Louis citizens arrived here last night, just to show New Yorkers what they are made of and to wake up the Gothamites. They were all in excellent spirits, and elated at their success in securing the big convention for St. Louis next June.

A Political Sensation.

TORONTO, Dec. 12.—The resignation of Clark Wallace as comptroller of customs was sent to the premier yesterday. It is believed to foreshadow an alliance between Dalton McCarthy, E. F. Clark and Clark Wallace, leaders of the Orange body in Toronto, and the possible formation of a third party.

Knows How to Punch.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 12.—The first act of Governor Bradley after he had taken the oath of office was to knock down a pickpocket who had put his hand into Chief Justice Perier's vest pocket. The thief managed to escape with some of the chief justice's money.

A Seven-Rounder.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Dec. 12.—Billy Myer and Tommy Stewart, middleweights, fought seven rounds near here for a purse and gate receipts. Two-ounce gloves were used. The referee gave the fight to Stewart.

Gorzad Is Safe.

TACOMA, Dec. 12.—Ship Gorzad, long overdue from China, arrived here yesterday in a fog. She ran at full speed on Mud flats, but floated off at high tide without damage.

Matthews For President.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 12.—At the meeting of the Democratic state central committee Governor Matthews was formally endorsed by the Democrats of Indiana for president.

Durrant's Doom.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12. — The court yesterday signed Theodore Durrant's death warrant, fixing Friday, Feb. 21, as the date of the execution.

Inmates All Escaped.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 12.—The St. Francis Catholic orphan asylum was burned last night, causing a loss of $40,000. No lives were lost.

A Dangerous Locality.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 12.—The issuing of passports to pilgrims to Palestine has been suspended, owing to the disturbances there.

END YET FAR AWAY.

Reports of Further Atrocities In Asia Minor Continue to Come In.

Game of Diplomacy Wages as Briskly as Ever.

The Guardships Incident Was Only Closed by Russia's Firm Stand.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 12.—News was received from Trebizond yesterday of fresh atrocities. The bishop and five ecclesiastics were burned alive while seeking refuge in a building. Fresh outrages have occurred in other parts of Asia Minor.

A dispatch from Urumiah, Persia, says: "It is now certain that the Hamidieh cavalry have destroyed 200 villages in the province of Van. Fifty thousand homeless people are flocking into the city of Van, and the government is doing nothing to prevent further outrages."

The porte is absolutely deserted by ministers, who live day and night at the palace, where confusion reigns supreme.

Palace officials yesterday arrested and subsequently liberated the chief messenger of the British postoffice, who is an Armenian.

It is reported that the sultan swore on the Koran to respect Said Pasha's life, and gave him a large sum of money down and a pension of £365 a month. The sultan seems to have had a fit of generosity toward those he suspected, and has presented to Kiamil Pasha a rosary worth £2000 and has increased his salary to £5000 yearly. It is the general opinion that Said Pasha has acted foolishly, while others consider that he is playing a deep game.

Diplomatic Sparring.

The two incidents which have constituted the center of sensational interest, namely: The refuge of Kustchuk Said Pasha, ex-grand vizier, in the British embassy, and the refusal of the sultan to grant the firmans for the passage through the Dardanelles of the additional guardships demanded by the powers, are practically relegated to history through their settlement by the return of Said to his own residence and by the final granting of the firmans by the sultan.

How unimportant these incidents were in themselves is indicated by the fact that the tense condition of the public mind is not abated by their closing, and the watchful game of diplomacy is seen to go on much as before. The intimate connection of the peace of Europe with the fate of the Turkish empire is not to be forgotten, nor is it to be lost sight of that this peace is dependent, as it has been for the past 18 years, upon the accord of the great powers as to the methods and limits of the coercion which shall be exercised upon the sick man of Europe.

How great a labor and stress is necessary to the maintenance of this accord has been indicated by the long-drawn-out conduct of the guardships incident, the sultan refusing to concede a single step voluntarily, and leaving the powers to their own resources to patch up their complicated jealousies and conflicts of interests before an agreement could be reached to unite in a demand upon the sultan.

The outrages upon the Armenian Christians seem to be receding into the background, except as they constitute the technical cause upon which the powers base their action at international law for

The Settlement of Larger Questions.

The visit of M. Nelidoff to the sultan on Sunday and his prolonged audience with him seem to have settled in his mind at last that on the question of guardships at least the powers are in accord. It has developed that M. Nelidoff assured the sultan that unless the firmans for the guardships were granted, the powers would present an ultimatum on the subject to the porte. M. Nelidoff then appealed to him on behalf of the czar to obviate the necessity of such a step by granting the firmans. This, from Russia, evidently convinced the sultan that his game of delay was up.

Said's return to his own house was made in the carriage of the British ambassador, accompanied by the chief dragoman of the embassy. On the same evening that he returned, the secret police that had been watching the embassy were withdrawn. Said Pasha wrote Currie a letter of thanks, in which he said that after 43 years in the public service and five in the position of grand vizier, his health was broken, and he was unable again to accept the office of grand vizier. He then mentioned the fact that the sultan had offered him a special palace post, but his health compelled him to decline. He had intended to pass only one night at the British embassy, and then to leave the country with his family. He wrote to the grand vizier expressing his wish to do this, but the sultan had twice sent Tewfik Pasha to assure Said Pasha of the high esteem and his confidence in his fidelity to himself and to the empire, and hoping that he would abandon his intention to leave the country.

Said Pasha persisted in his intention, as he was unwilling to face the intolerable palace intrigues. Despite this fact, the sultan sent to him 13 times, giving him written assurances.

Finally, as Said's request to leave the country was still ungranted, and as he felt bound to attest his appreciation of his sovereign's personal assurances, he returned to his own house, the sultan consenting to grant his wish to be unemployed in an official post and to enjoy complete rest and liberty.

Sir Philip Currie has reiterated the latter desire on behalf of the British government. It is still feared, however, that Said Pasha will suffer from palace intrigues.

Widow Is Dissatisfied.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—The will of the late George W. Gills is to be contested. About a year before his death Gibbs, to avoid a contest, distributed from $800,000 to $1,000,000 of his property by deed among his relatives, his wife receiving the bulk of the property. Mrs. Hastings will contest the will, and try to upset the transfer of the property.

Must Be Little Ones.

"Snow, Beautiful Snow."

Winter Sets in in Good Earnest.

It is a mooted question today who wrote that beautiful poem, but there is no question about the virtue of that Cough Syrup I make, for its good qualities are well known to hundreds of our citizens. I do not warrant it as a cure for consumption. If I could my fortune would be made. But I can say that Hearn's Improved Cough Syrup will cure a cough if taken in time.

THE PETITIONS in favor of Mr. Walter Ewell for Commissioner of Public Works will not be circulated at present, prominent citizens believing it not a wise course to pursue. They have full confidence in the Mayor-elect, and are satisfied that his appointments will be made from a business standpoint rather than from a political one, and that the service will be improved. The LEDGER has been criticised for publishing the news relative to the appointment, but we stated at the time that it was only a rumor, that interested parties had not been interviewed, and there was no attempt to make it appear that an election promise had been made. Boston papers today comment on the probable removals and appointments of Mayor-elect Quincy in the same way.

The announcement of Josiah Quincy's election appears under great, big headlines in the newspapers all over the land. It looks as if Boston was the cynosure of all eyes on Tuesday, with Josiah as the chief star.—Herald.

The Herald should not be deceived. It is not the bean town but the historic city of Quincy of which the country has heard.

SOMERVILLE GAVE the largest No-license majority of the cities this year, while Cambridge, Newton, Malden and Everett follow in the order named. Where will you find more desirable residental cities than these?

New Park Commissioner.

Hon. William B. Rice who has served on the board of Park Commissioners of Quincy has tendered his resignation to Mayor Hodges, which has been accepted, and His Honor has appointed George E. Pfaffmann to succeed Mr. Rice.

Mr. Pfaffmann was one of the recent candidates for the City Council. He is a promising young man, the son of a landscape gardener, and a member of the firm of John Shaw & Co. He has been prominent in base ball and sports, and the appointment will give satisfaction to the lovers of out-door amusements, who naturally turn to the parks and playgrounds of the city.

Monthly Supper.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Memorial Congregational church, held its regular monthly supper and entertainment at the church, last evening.

Although the evening was very windy and cold, quite a number attended and enjoyed the feast, after which the following musical and literary entertainment was given:

Piano solo, Miss Gertrude Hall.
Soprano solo, Miss Mabel Burr.
Recitation, Miss Clyde Robbins.
Exercise, Ten little girls.
Declamation, Mr. Henry Kolb.
Readings from Longfellow, Miss Isabel F. P. Emery.
Piano Solo, Miss Gertrude Hall.

Entertainment at Wollaston.

A sale and entertainment under the auspices of the Young People of the Wollaston Baptist Sunday School was held in the chapel last evening. Despite the severity of the winter there was a good attendance. The proceeds realized went towards the payment of the infant class organ.

The flower table was in charge of Miss Clara Shunk, Miss Lulu Jones and Miss Lena Fenton.

Candy table,—Miss Lillian Beckwith.

Apron table,—Miss Sadie Emery and Miss Grace Pike.

Curtis, chairman of the Board of Health, for carrying swill without a license, and also for driving a swill team through the city without proper covering. He was arraigned in court this morning.

The tellers to collect and count ballots were Mr. Chapman, Mr. Wilder, Miss Curtin Miss Bertha Hayden.

The entertainment was as follows:

Essay, Miss Bemis, '97.
Recitation, Miss Briggs, '97.

The debate was on the subject: "Resolved: That Crime is on the Increase in the United States."

Miss Briggs opened the debate for the affirmative. She referred in no uncertain tone to the evils of the liquor traffic, also to apple stealing, and the stealing of small articles in stores.

Miss Coyle thought that the world was improving. She stated that the city of Quincy was much more free from crime than it used to be.

Miss Butler said that statistics proved that crime was increasing faster than population. Drunkenness, murder, and incendiarism, were declared to be on the increase.

The debate was continued from lack of time.

A Granite Syndicate.

Again from Barre, Vt., comes the information that arrangements are now being made there to form a big stock company for the purchase of all the leading granite quarries in that section. The prime mover in the plan being S. C. White, a well-known capitalist. Others are Mayor E. L. Smith, Treasurer C. N. Field of the Granite Savings Bank, W. A. Boyce, a local lawyer; James Gaseley of Albany, N. Y., and President A. F. Sortwell of the Montpelier and Wells River Railroad.

Options have already been secured on many of the best quarries, but it is understood that the syndicate will not be formed unless some quarry owners take stock in the proposed company.

It is not intended to take the cutting plants, but only the quarrying business. The plan is looked upon with favor by leading granite men. It is estimated that $1,000,000, will be required to carry the deal into effect.—Journal.

Dedham Sentences.

The sentences imposed by Judge Lilly in the superior court at Dedham Wednesday were:

William Shields, larceny from building at Quincy, eight months in house of correction.

Daniel M. Steele of Boston, for breaking and entering the tool house of Thomas J. Burns at Brookline, six months in house of correction.

Everett Sears, stealing a ride at Weymouth, fined $30 (the indictment found against him was for the larceny of a horse from William F. Hathaway.)

Carmino Lavorano, assault with a knife upon Frank Brusso at Weymouth, Sept. 8, eight months in house of correction: for a similiar assault on Allena Brusso, an additional eight months.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. OLDEST MAN DEAD.

He Had Nearly One Hundred Descendants Living.

Mr. Valentine Shirley, the oldest citizen in Quincy, died Wednesday evening of old age in his 92d year.

Mr. Shirley was born in the northern part of Ireland in 1804, and came to this country in 1870. He settled in Pennsylvania where he remained about six years when he came to Quincy, where he has since resided.

In the old country Mr. Shirley followed the trade of a weaver but has followed no steady occupation for some years, although being unusually smart for one of his age, and did many things about the house, as he and his wife kept house up to the time of her death last October.

In 1891 he accidentally broke his leg, which however mended as readily as if he were a young man. Mr. Shirley came from a family of fourteen, and his mother lived to be 103 years of age.

Mr. Shirley married in 1829 the fruit of this union being nine children, six daughters and three sons. Of this family two sons reside in Quincy, one daughter in the old country, one in Kansas and the others in Pennsylvania.

He also had 69 grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren. Mr. Shirley's wife died last October and a queer coincident with these two deaths is that they both died upon the same day of the week and practically at the same hour.

THE GOLDEN CROSS.

Entertainment, Presentation and a Dance Last Night.

An unusually interesting meeting was held Wednesday evening by Granite Commandery, No. 182, of the Golden Cross. Six applications for membership were received and after the business meeting there was an interesting entertainment, consisting of a vocal solo by Mr. A. Livingdale; fancy dancing, Miss Garland Mishler; dumb bell exhibition, Mr. T. Hermanson; reading, Miss Gertrude Walker. Then came an act by the Clinton Kidder minstrel troup, with Miss Eva Mishler as pianist, followed by a banjo solo by Miss Esther Ellis.

At this point Henry Chubbuck, the keeper of records of the Commandery, who was busily employed in the lower hall was sent for, and upon his appearance, Commander A. M. McLeod in a few words presented a purse containing $30.

Mr. Chubbuck, completely surprised, responded, thanking the members for their generous gift and when he returned to his duties he was humming the old tune: "There are Angels Humming Round."

The balance of the entertainment consisted of a duet by Miss Beatrice Walker and Miss Pauline Milne, and an Irish jig by Mr. James Rose.

A collation followed, and a social dance closed the evening's pleasures.

Music was furnished by Mr. Hanson, violin; Mrs. Rhines, piano.

ANOTHER ARREST.

The Tool Thief Who Escaped from Milton Officer Caught.

William Sullivan, the man who escaped from Officer Leary at Milton Monday night was arrested at Braintree Wednesday afternoon by Officer Ferguson.

It was learned that Sullivan was at his home in Braintree and Officers Ferguson, McKay, Cameron, and Murray of Quincy, and Qualey of Braintree went up after him. The house was surrounded and Officer Ferguson entered the house and found Sullivan in one of the upper rooms with the door locked. The officer commanded him to open the door which he did.

Sullivan then rushed to a window to escape but seeing that means cut off by an officer he turned and tried to rush by Officer Ferguson. Tom however put out his arms and Sullivan fell into his warm embrace.

Sullivan was brought to Quincy and locked up and was arraigned in the district court this morning.

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

The Classification of Granites of the Country.

Comment on Report from a Quincy Standpoint.

The closing extract from the government report of the "Stone Industry of 1894" is made today. While the LEDGER has made copious extracts from the report, it feels that full justice has not been done to Quincy or Quincy granite. In the classification of granites the granite of Quincy does not appear as an example of any of the various kinds, yet there is none like it in the country. Again in its uses there is an uncomplimentary allusion.

The extract today concludes the classification of granites:

Mica Schist,—The minerals present in this rock are essentially quartz and mica. It differs from gneiss in its lack of feldspar. This variety is easily quarried, and is well adapted to foundation construction and bridge work, but it is not in general favor for fine superstructures.

Diabase,—This term includes rocks commonly called trap rock and black granite. The essential minerals are augite and triclinic feldspar. Microscopic accessories are magnetite, titanic iron, and frequently apatite and black mica. These rocks are eruptive and occur in dikes. Examples of this variety are the products of quarries at Weehawken, N. J., and other localities in the same State, and in Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Basalt,—This rock differs from diabase in being of finer texture and of more recent origin. In California this rock is extensively employed in the manufacture of paving blocks.

Porphyry,—In this rock the constituent minerals, essentially quartz and orthoclase feldspar, are exceedingly minute, making the rock compact and close grained. They are of eruptive origin and occur in dikes, like trap rocks. They show considerable variation in color, are almost indestructible, and take a fine polish. They are cut with difficulty and their hardness and lack of stratification constitute serious obstacles in quarrying. In this connection the reader is reminded of the interesting rediscovery of the ancient Egyptian quarries of prophyry described in the Report on Mineral Resources for 1893. Steps have been taken toward the reworking of these long abandoned quarries by Messrs. Farmer and Brindley, of London. Quartz-porphyry is found at Fairfield, Pa., and at Stone Mountain, Missouri.

MILTON.

The horse of Dr. Hunting which was left standing on Granite avenue Wednesday afternoon, became frightened and ran away, and before he was captured he smashed the sleigh somewhat and cut a gash in his side which required several stitches.

The annual fair of the Ladies' sewing circle is held this afternoon and evening at Ellsworth hall. In the evening Mother Goose and her family will give a pleasing entertainment.

Dr. Jaques who has practiced at Milton for a number of years has given up his practice on account of his health and is going to Europe.

John Ford of Ford & Barren sails Saturday for the old country to visit his father whom he has not seen for thirteen years.

The young men of East Milton are taking steps to form a club for social purposes.

A Still Alarm.

The chief's call was sounded on the fire alarm circuit shortly before 11 o'clock Wednesday night, which summoned the chief to the central station and the apparatus responded to a still alarm for a chimney fire in the house of Mrs Kingman on Maple place. There was no damage to he house.

STRUCK HEAD ON.

Scotch Coasting Steamer Run Down and Sunk by the Germanic.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 12.—The White Star line steamship Germanic, Captain McKinstry, from Liverpool for Queenstown and New York, collided at the mouth of the river Mersey with the Scotch coasting steamer Cambrae, and was obliged to return to this port badly damaged.

The Germanic drove into the fore part of the Cambrae, and she remained wedged there until 30 passengers of the Cambrae and 28 out of the crew had clambered aboard the Germanic or had been rescued in boats. When the Germanic became disengaged from the Cambrae, that ship foundered. The Germanic then returned to Liverpool, where the passengers were landed and sent to hotels.

Proof of Bad Character.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 12.—Beyond question, Harry Hayward was a degenerate. Such is the belief of one of the specialists who conducted the autopsy. Of the four stigmas named as invariably characterizing degenerates, three have been found, viz.: Marked symmetry of the skull, brain and face, protuberant front teeth and a narrow and sharply arched palate. The fourth one lies in the facial and nasal angles, and will probably be found to exist when the proper calculations have been made from the skull measurements. The brain has been found to weigh 55 ounces, about normal, and the defects in it, if any, are too subtle for either knife or microscope to detect.

Labor Convention's Doings.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—At the Federation of Labor convention yesterday, President McBride announced the committees on an eight-hour work day. A resolution by Samuel Gompers against capital punishment was adopted. A resolution was adopted reaffirming the declaration made Tuesday in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. George E. McNeill of Boston said the delegates to this convention not only represented organized labor, but unorganized labor. The only road to success, he said, "is organization, affiliation and short hours."

British Sarcasm.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Post, in an editorial on the action of the house of representatives at Washington on Ambassador Bayard, says: "The moral is that ambassadors, if called upon to make a speech, should discuss authorship and Shakespeare, especially when a presidential election is in sight." The Daily News says: "We do not desire to say anything very emphatic in Mr. Bayard's praise, for that might make Mr. McCall and Mr. Barrett go for him anew. But we believe him to be the sort of man who will not scare worth a cent."

No Clew to Fiends.

PHILLIPSBURG, N. J., Dec. 12.—The body of the woman found on Marble hill two weeks ago was exhumed yesterday, and was fully identified by relatives as that of Susan Ross of Bellvedere, a wealthy woman, who mysteriously disappeared from her home. It is now known that the woman was robbed of a large sum of money, and was then drugged to death with arsenic, to make it appear that she had committed suicide. It is also thought that she was ravished. There is no hope that the murderers will be arrested.

A Dull Day.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The session of the senate yesterday lasted but one hour, and was mainly devoted to a discussion of Senator Dubois' proposition to amend the rules so as to distribute the appropriation bills among the various committees of the senate. Senator Hill of New York reintroduced the amendments which he proposed to the rules in the last congress during the deadlock on the repeal of the Sherman silver law for cloture and for counting a quorum.

Tryon Loses His Case.

DETROIT, Dec. 12.—In the damage suit of James E. Tryon, secretary of the fire commission, against Mayor Pingree, the jury found "no cause for action." Mayor Pingree had Secretary Tryon, Chief Elliott and Commissioner Goodfellow arrested on a charge of conspiracy, in having refused his honor access to the department records. All three officials brought suit for damages.

Violet Cut Off.

NORFOLK, Dec. 12.—No direct news has been received here from the Violet, with the presidential party aboard. The water in the canal is so shallow that the Violet may not be able to get through on her return, thus compelling the party to return by rail from Elizabeth City, N. C. No apprehension is felt for the safety of the party.

Italians Fought Nobly.

ROME, Dec. 12.—General Baratieri has telegraphed an account of the battle at Ambalagi, in which 700 Italians were killed by the Abyssinian forces. General Baratieri's account shows that only one engagement was fought, the Italians making a heroic defense against the enemy.

Bottlers Will Feel It.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Green glass bottle makers have decided to increase the price of bottles shaped in the manner of those ordinarily used to hold champagne. This affects a large percentage of the trade, as this style of bottles has lately been adopted by many beer brewers and bottlers.

McCoy to Ryan.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—"Kid" McCoy has answered the challenge of Tommy Ryan who wants to fight for the middleweight championship of the world, agreeing to fight for such championship at any weight, time or place, for $1000 a side.

To Urge Federation.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 12.—Premier Whiteway sailed yesterday for Canada. Party leaders in St. John's admit that he intends to visit Ottawa in an unofficial capacity and pave the way for a settlement of the terms of federation.

Cost Leader His Life.

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 12.—In a rush for liberty at the workhouse yesterday, James Howard, a negro, who led the escaping prisoners, was shot dead by Guard Lynch, who has been arrested.

CHRISTMAS BELLS.

Oh, Christmas, merry Christmas!
Is it really come again,
With its memories and greetings,
With its joy and with its pain?

There's a minor in the carol,
And a shadow in the light,
And a spray of cypress twining
With the holly wreath tonight.

And the hush is never broken
By laughter light and low
As we listen in the starlight
To the "bells across the snow."
—Havergal.

A ROMANCE OF XMAS.

No matter where men may be, no matter how far away from home they may go or how long they may stay away, when Christmas comes their minds revert to the loved ones of their childhood—tender memories of a mother, a sister, perhaps a sweetheart, are revived, and a longing seizes them to be back again amid the old familiar scenes.

With each recurrence of the glad season which heralds peace on earth to men of good will, this longing crept in to Richard Jennings' heart, stifling all interest in the fluctuations of wool on 'Change, and making positively distasteful to him all talk about the prospects of next year's cotton crop or the rumored Wall street combine to effect a "corner" in wheat.

Whenever Christmas approached, he began to realize his loneliness, and he regarded with envy the people hurrying along the street carrying bundles of toys and candles and costlier presents to their homes.

Home! That sacred place is not to be violated at such a season by the presents of a stranger, and Richard Jennings' Christmases were spent alone. He was always glad when they were over, and he could again become absorbed in business cares.

For the past ten years he had been a member of the St. Louis Merchants' Exchange, and was rated at $100,000. He had no taste for society, and although he belonged to several of the best clubs in that charming old town, he could not be called a clubman. His tastes, his cravings, were domestic, but they remained unsatisfied. Little was known of his previous history. He was not communicative, and his business acquaintances were not inquisitive.

One evening, just four days before Christmas, Mr. Jennings returned to his handsomely furnished residence and astonished his housekeeper by telling her was "going home for Christmas." She had been in his service for more than five years and believed that all his relatives were dead, as she had never heard him speak of them.

"Here's something for you for Christmas," he said, handing her a $10 bill, "and I hope you'll enjoy yourself. I'm going east."

Sarah, in her rich, honest brogue thanked him.

There was a new light in his face. Sarah, who was shrewd, noticed it. For 17 years this man had been away from home, and during his absence his parents had died, while he was riding wild ponies in Texas or digging gold in Colorado or gambling it away in Kansas City faster than he had gathered it.

As the train sped eastward over the level lands of Illinois and Indiana, through the rich farm lands of Ohio, and then amid the wooded hills and streams of his own native Pennsylvania—fairer than them all—his mind traveled backward from the present Richard Jennings, successful broker and respectable member of the St. Louis Merchants' Exchange, to the dissipated days of his fresh young manhood, when his wild life had separated him forever from one he could never forget.

As the train approached Philadelphia and he looked out of the window at the numerous domes and spires and cupolas, he reflected how time, which had wrought such a difference in the appearance of the city, must have changed the sweet girl of 18, from whom his own misdeeds had sundered him.

They had been sweethearts from childhood. But old Ezra Kent, her father, was a stern man, and when stories got abroad about the dissipated set of which Richard soon became the leader, and when one day he came home from his counting house and found Richard—"Dick" everybody called him then—intoxicated he said it was the last time Eleanor should receive him. She was a dutiful girl. It wounded her life, but she obeyed. The Kents came of stern stuff, and beneath Eleanor's gentle womanliness lay heroic strength.

After that Richard Jennings' intoxicated habits became a public scandal, and when his sister married Will McCray, a promising young lawyer (Eleanor was maid of honor), he disappeared from home.

Now he was returning, a very different man and regretful that he had staid away so long. It was such a short journey from the Mississippi to the Schuylkill he wondered that he had not before summoned enough courage to return. Seventeen years!

For the twentieth time he drew forth a letter and read it with the same absorbed interest as if for the first time:

DEAR DICK—Will met Mr. Coles last week. He had just come from St. Louis and said he met you there. You naughty boy! Why have you never written or come home to see us? We want you to spend Christmas with us. All the children are crazy to see you. There are five now. The baby, a beautiful girl, is 10 months old and has two teeth. The children often talk about Uncle Dick. Eleanor has told them so many Tom Brown at Rugby sort of stories about you when you were at the university. Mr. Kent failed four years ago and died last March. Eleanor and her mother still live in the old house. They are very poor. Eleanor teaches music and sings at St. Bride's. Mrs. Kent looks very old, but she sews beautifully and makes the prettiest things for the baby. Do come and spend Christmas with us. The children are dying to see you and so am I and Will. Ever your loving sister, MARY MCCRAY.

P. S.—The children's names are Mary, Alex—he's named after father, of course—Sam, Dick—after you—and Eleanor, the baby. She's a little angel!

* * * * * *

The street where Richard Jennings' home was, where he was born, and where his married sister still lived, had once been fashionable. You could tell that from the houses—big, broad, roomy, old fashioned brick residences of a bygone day, with quaint colonial doorways, elaborately carved, the lintels in many cases supported by the classic Ionic or Doric columns effected by the builders of a century ago.

But their glory had departed. The spirit of decay had fallen upon them, and the children of those who built them had moved to finer and more modern homes.

But the Jenningses and the Kents were an exception. They had withstood the general exodus and continued to live in the house which had been their family rootfree for nigh a hundred years. They were plain, quiet, conservative people, and not of the "smart" sort, like the gay, fashionable families who had all moved away.

* * * * * *

"Here's Uncle Dick!" shouted the boys as they grabbed his big traveling bag almost before the hackman had time to carry it into the hallway.

Hugs and kisses were exchanged all around, and his sister wept a few sweet memorial tears. He had grown so like his father, she thought. Ah, if mother could see him now—that mother whose patient, loving face was pictured on canvas in the quaint old fashioned frame hanging on the parlor wall.

His nephew, Alex, a handsome lad, led him up to the same room in the old fashioned house which he had occupied when a boy, furnished with the same high backed rush seated chairs, and the low bed, with tall, carved corner posts; the old prints and knicknacks and books. And over the fireplace was a photograph of Eleanor Kent!

He threw himself into a chair, overcome with emotion at the many memories of his younger days that arose before him like ghosts from the past.

In the afternoon he went out with his two eldest nephews, Alex and Sam, to see the shop windows, and when they returned all three had their arms filled with presents. He was very happy. If some of those married fellows in St. Louis could see him now! The sense of loneliness which had haunted him for years was gone, and yet—in a week he would be back again in that quiet house of his in St. Louis, with no other occupant save the faithful Sarah Burns!

* * * * * *

It was Christmas eve. All the lights were burning brightily in the McCray mansion. Uncle Dick and the children—he had never realized before what good companions children were—had been busy all afternoon decorating the huge Christmas tree. Against evening it was a glorious sight to behold. The children had never been so happy. All of them had gotten an unusually large number of presents. Uncle Dick alone had bought three and four each, even the baby. In the big sitting room the presents were displayed on an old mahogany table that reminded you of some wild beast of the forest when you gazed down at the formidable looking claws which served for its feet. But the table could not contain them all, so several chairs were placed on either side of it to hold the overflow exhibition.

As the evening waned Uncle Dick and Papa McCray lit their cigars and went out for a walk. They had been gone but a few minutes when there was a ring at the doorbell, and Eleanor Kent and her aged mother entered, both bringing presents for the children.

Although dressed very plainly, Eleanor never looked handsomer. The 17 years which had passed since her early and only love affair had touched her lightly. She was now 35, but looked much younger.

She was a great favorite with the children, who called her "Aunt Eleanor." They showed her the tree, the presents and then—"Uncle Dick's home," they said, watching her face to see a reflection there of their own delight at the return of one whom she had so often told them about. But only a little nervous smile trembled on her lips and died. And very soon afterward she must return home. She must write the names of her Sunday school scholars in the pretty, cheap books she had bought for them and practice the offertory she was to sing on the morrow, and, and—

But the children would not hear of it. They dragged her to the piano and forced her to play for them as they sang "Jolly Old St. Nicholas." They shouted the rollicking song with such a lusty chorus that old Mrs. Kent was afraid they would awaken the baby, whose wrath when angered was terrible, but Mrs. McCray reassured her and begged Eleanor to sing the offertory she was to sing at St. Bride's, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night." But Eleanor didn't know it without music. Her hands strayed over the keys, making little impromptu chords and cadences and then struck the prelude to Tosti's "Memories," one of those songs that play upon the human heart strings. Many a time when alone she sang it, but it was not a song for Christmas eve; it was too sad.

As Richard Jennings and his brother-in-law re-entered the house, the sound of her rich, sweet voice reached their ears.

"Who is singing?" asked Richard.

"It's Eleanor Kent," was the reply.

Low and clear and sweet the words, molten into music, reached their ears:

There is no note of all your songs of yore
That does not speak to me of you once more.
There is no place we two have ever seen
That does not whisper of the might have been.
There is no path of all that once we knew
That does not hold some memories of you.
Still though they call the wild tears to mine eyes,
I would not yield them for a paradise.

The two men entered the room softly, and Eleanor went on singing, unconscious of their presence:

There is no hand clasp that you ever gave
That does not live, though love be in its grave.

Richard Jennings drew nearer to his old sweetheart, gazing intently at her lovely face. An instant later and he held her in his arms and imprinted a fervent kiss on her blushing cheek.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Content and Happiness."

How is it that men pray their earthly lot
May be "content and happiness?" Dire foes,
Without one common trait which kinship shows,
I hold these two. Contentment comes when sought,
While Happiness, pursued, was never caught.
But sudden storms the heart with mighty throes,
Whence forth mild eyed Content, affrighted, goes
To seek some calmer breast, less danger fraught.

Bold Happiness knows but one rival—Fear,
Who follows ever on his footsteps, sent
By jealous Fate, who calls great joy a crime,
While in far ways, 'mong leaves just turning sere,
With gaze serene and placid, walks Content.
No heart e'er held these two guests at one time.

MURDERED AN INFANT.

Charge Upon Which Rose Dolly Is Held For Trial.

Makes a Confession Implicating Her Mother.

A Pathetic Story of How the Little One Was Disposed Of.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 12.—Rose Dolly was brought before Judge Robinson yesterday on a complaint charging her with the murder of her child. Later her mother was brought in. Both were assigned counsel and the cases were continued.

Rose has made a confession. She says that after she and her mother took the baby from the house in the city where it had been left, they drove to the temporary home in the hope that the child might be received there, but found it could not. They then drove to Pride's Corner, where the horse was stopped and the young woman alighted. In her arms was the infant, only 6 weeks old.

The girl and her burden passed from the sight of the woman in the carriage. Splashing through the snow and low branches and turning aside to avoid trees and clumps of bushes, she apparently became confused, for on this road she made her way nearly back to the main highway and then retraced her steps and followed its windings into the heart of the woods. As she crossed from one road to the other, the baby's hood had fallen off, and with it a handkerchief, which a kind-hearted woman had pinned about the little one's head.

As Rose walked into the woods she took off the little dress, then she wrapped the garment tighter around the baby's head. Then as she wandered along she stepped from the road into what she describes as an open place with no trees. There she knelt down and laid the little baby in a hollow in the ground. Over it she laid pieces of brush, until, as she says, she could not see the body. The brush she took from a heap which she Could Reach as She Knelt.

Having buried the child, the girl stumbled on through the darkness and storm. She lost her way, became frightened and confused, dropped the dress which she had all this time been carrying, and also lost a tassel from the baby's jacket.

She went within a few rods of an old house which stands in the woods, but does not remember having seen it. She does remember and describes, however, a flat rock on which she sank exhausted for a moment. Then she arose and, striking off nearly at right angles to the general direction she had been following, came out in the lane leading to Mr. Pride's house.

Down this lane she hastened, passing young Lawrence on the way, and so regained the highway a quarter of a mile from where she entered the woods. Then she went back to the wagon which her mother had been driving up and down all the time waiting for her daughter, and the two guilty women rode home to Windham. Soon after that Rose went to Boston and got a place to work in Dorchester, where she remained until arrested.

Rose Dolly was brought before Judge Robinson yesterday on a complaint charging her with the murder of her child. Later her mother was brought in. Both were assigned counsel and the cases were continued.

Three deputy sheriffs, with a searching party composed of young men living near Pride's bridge, scoured the woods yesterday after the body of Rose Dolly's baby.

They are acquainted with every corner of the woods, and were guided by directions given by Rose, but they were unsuccessful. They now intend to use a fox hound for the purpose.

Moore's Troubles.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 12.—Dr. J. C. Moore, who on Monday was given notice by his bondsmen that he must procure new bondsmen underpending indictments against him for alleged fraud in connection with the People's Insurance company and the Derryfield Savings bank, having failed to obtain the necessary security, has been given into the custody of Deputy Sheriff Starr. The directors of the Union Publishing company, of which Dr. Moore was formerly treasurer, have asked for an investigation of the company's affairs by an expert.

Suspicion of Poisoning.

FREEPORT, Me., Dec. 12.—Coroner Littlefield of Portland has been called here to investigate the death of the 4-months-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Partridge. It is claimed that the baby's death was caused by some milk which was poisoned by the mother, who is said to be insane. The child's viscera was sent to Professor Robinson of Bowdoin college for examination. An inquest will be held when Professor Robinson's examination is completed.

The Daly Family Tangle.

HARTFORD, Dec. 12.—Papers in a $20,000 slander suit were served last evening on Father Bill Daly. The complainant is Miss Theresa Breen, a young woman named by Mrs. Daly as corespondent in a divorce suit brought on statutory grounds by Mrs. Daly against her husband. Deer Hunter Fatally Shot.

BANGOR, Me., Dec. 12.—Another case of "thought it was a deer" is reported from Glenburn, where William MacDonald was shot yesterday, while hunting, by another hunter, unknown. His death is expected at any moment.

"Too Progressive."

LOWELL, Mass., Dec. 12.—Rev. George F. Kenngott, pastor of the First Congregational church, tendered his resignation last night. No special charges were preferred, and the pastor's support was too strong to invite a council of ministers. His pastorate had been a flourishing one.

MOORE SENT TO JAIL.

Unable to Secure the $15,000 Bonds Required by the Court.

An Old Indictment Now Figures In the Case.

Rumor That Defaulter Morrill Will Testify Against Him.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 13.—Dr. Moore was taken to jail at Manchester after a hearing held here before Judge Wallace yesterday, in default of $15,000 bail. At 3:50 p. m. a hack stopped at the county records building, and from it stepped Sheriff Healey, Deputy Sheriff Starr, Judge Fellows, Jailer Wadsworth and Dr. J. C. Moore.

At 4:15 all parties appeared before Judge Wallace in the courtroom. Judge Fellows, counsel for Dr. Moore, made a statement that the bail furnished for his client on two indictments made two years ago of $5000 each had been withdrawn by the bondsmen, R. G. Sullivan and H. T. Upton of Manchester, and that Dr. Moore appeared in open court because of such surrenders. He further stated that as yet no bond had been secured, but Dr. Moore hoped to secure it in a day or two. About $2500 had been promised.

Judge Wallace ruled that in a third indictment, found two years ago, on which no bail had been required, $5000 additional would be added. Judge Fellows objected to this, and set forth that not having previous knowledge of such requirement, it would be impossible to raise the sum at once; that this indictment was practically the same as the other two, only it jointly named C. F. Morrill and Dr. Moore, while the other two were against Moore individually.

The court said that was not so; the amount named in the third indictment was $12,000 misappropriated, while in the others the sum was $10,000.

Bail Commissioners Named.

By request of Judge Wallace, Sheriff Healey tried to reach County Solicitor Tuttle regarding the indictments, but the latter failing, a recess was ordered by the court. After a long delay the court reassembled, and Judge Fellows asked, as the court would not sit again until Monday, that bail commissioners be named to receive bail if Dr. Moore could secure it. He named J. C. Bickford, clerk of the Manchester police court, and the court suggested the names of Jailer Wadsworth and Judge Heath of Manchester. Mr. Fellows was quite sure of securing bail for Dr. Moore today or tomorrow.

The court said that during recess he had talked with County Solicitor Tuttle over the telephone. As a result of such conversation he would declare the previous bonds given by Messrs. Sullivan and Upton on the body of Joseph C. Moore withdrawn, and that the defendant be remanded into custody. He fixed the bonds on two indictments, alleging misappropriation of funds from a list of institutions named therein, at $5000 each, as before, and on the third indictment, to which Dr. Moore was asked to plead, which he did, "not guilty," he placed additional bonds of $5000, or a total of $15,000. Then Judge Wallace committed the defendant to jail, and named Judge Heath and Clerk Bickford as joint commissioners to receive bail.

Counsel asked that Dr. Moore be allowed to go to his office in charge of the sheriffs, as it would be far better for him to continue his work; thus he would not injure himself and innocent parties would not suffer. Judge Wallace said: "I think I will make no change in the order."

Under custody of the sheriff, Dr. Moore went to the aldermen's room, where commitment papers were prepared, and then the 6:10 train was taken for Manchester, and Dr. Moore placed in jail. He looks bad, and appears unnerved. He hesitated several minutes before entering the hack, and had to be asked to step in by Jailer Wadsworth.

It is rumored that the defaulting cashier of the National Bank of the Commonwealth, Charles F. Morrill, will return to Manchester and turn state's evidence, telling the inside history of the collapse of the Commonwealth and Derryfield banks and the People's Fire Insurance company. There is considerable excitement over the rumors, and if they prove to be true, some sensational developments are likely to be made.

A Question of Politics.

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 13.—A mass meeting in condemnation of the Armenian atrocities was held in the First Baptist church last night. Henry Winn said that England was morally responsible for the outrages. Congressman Barrett stated that the sultan was a bigot of the worst description. He thought that Russia's treatment of the Jews was only a little less harsh than the Armenian outrages. He said the whole question was one of politics between Russia and England, although he thought that Russia was more responsible than any other nation. The congressman said that Mr. Olney was doing all he could to protect Americans in Turkey and to prevent further outbreaks.

Decisive Measures.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Dec. 13.—The board of health has burned an old house on the fashionable ocean drive, together with its contents, in order to stamp out, if possible, the germs of typhoid fever. The house was occupied by John Young and family. The family has suffered from a severe type of typhoid fever for several weeks, Young's wife and two children dying within a few days of each other. The house has been under strict quarantine, and for weeks no one has ventured within a mile of it. Four other children of Young's are now suffering from the disease.

Wrongful Marriage.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 13.—During a hearing in the divorce court yesterday on a petition of James Morrell for a divorce from his wife, a certificate of marriage was introduced to show that Mrs. Morrell had been married to James R. Logan after her marriage to Morrell. Evidence also showed that Logan and Mrs. Morrell had lived together. A decree of divorce was granted to Morrell, and Judge Tillinghast recommended that proceedings be taken against both Logan and Mrs. Morrell.

Ghastly Sacrilege.

NORWICH, Vt., Dec. 13.—This town is seething with indignation over the recent grave robbery. John McDonnell, the student arrested, yesterday waived examination, and was held in $2000 for the grand jury. The recovery of Murdock's body is another sensational development. When found, the clothes were in the coffin, while nearby was the rope with which the body was dragged by the neck from the grave over snowy pastures and stone walls.

Belongs to Republicans.

BOSTON, Dec. 13.—The annual meeting of the Republican Editorial association of Massachusetts was held here yesterday. A resolution was adopted "that we regard it as a definite and common sense proposition that Republican victories should mean something else than retaining Democrats in office," and calling upon the Republican members of the incoming house of representatives to elect a Republican to the clerkship of the house.

Two Men Badly Hurt.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 13.—While responding to a fire alarm last night, a department truck became unmanageable and crashed into a street railway barn. Driver Doyle was thrown and probably fatally hurt. Maurice Foley, employed in the stable, was struck by an extension ladder, and had the flesh torn from his neck so that the membraneous structure was exposed. He is expected to recover.

The Age of Progress.

LOWELL, Mass., Dec. 13.—The Lowell and Suburban Electric Street Railway company ran its first car out of Lowell to Reading, Wakefield, thence by connection to Salem, Lynn, Boston and beyond, yesterday. By the connecting link at Reading, the Merrimack valley, from Nashua, N. H., to its mouth, is brought into communication by electric roads with Boston.

The Cummings Investigation.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 13.—The aldermanic committee appointed to investigate charges preferred against Matthew J. Cummings, overseer of the poor, began the investigation last night. The testimony was favorable to Cummings, but evidence showed that a loose method of conducting the business of the pauper institution existed.

A. P. A.'s Rejoice.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Dec. 13.—Several hundred members of the A. P. A. and their friends held a torchlight parade last night in celebration of the recent victory of the order in the municipal election here. The procession marched a distance of four miles, and was viewed by thousands. The paraders experienced no trouble.

Popular With Young Folks.

LOWELL, Mass., Dec. 13.—The supporters of Rev. George F. Kenngott, who resigned from the pastorate of the First Congregational church, are preparing to form a new church and have Mr. Kenngott for their pastor. Mr. Kenngott will take with him all the younger members of the church.

Totally Wrecked.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., Dec. 13.—Schooner Carrie Easler, of Port Medway, N. S., for Boston with a cargo of pulp, was driven ashore on Sandy Neck yesterday. The crew were saved by a boat from the shore after terrible suffering from the blizzard. The vessel and cargo are a total loss.

Ready For Trial.

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 13.—The torpedo boat Cushing sailed last night for Washington with 1500 pounds of smokeless powder aboard, for trial in the 13-inch naval guns at Indian Head proving grounds. This smokeless powder is the first quantity made in this country.

Was Left Unguarded.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Dec. 13.—The mail pouch for Newport and Springfield, containing over 100 letters, some of them being registered, was stolen last night from a truck where the carrier had put it, while he went to inquire about a train. There is no clew to the robber.

Stockwell's Defender.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 13.—Congressman C. H. Sulloway has reached home, to act as counsel for Fred A. Stockwell of Manchester, charged with murder, whose trial begins on Monday.

A PROTECTIVE TARIFF

Would Lift Us Out of Financial Difficulties, According to Mr. Grow.

Young Senators Argue For an Early Organization.

Assignments of Committee Chairmanships Completed by Republicans.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. — Ex-Speaker Grow (Rep., Pa.) made a long speech in the house yesterday of almost an hour on the portion of the president's message referring to the tariff, in which he compared the old protective tariff laws with the new customs law. He said that the new tariff law had produced a deficiency of $131,000,000, while under protection measures from 1880 to 1893 the revenues had exceeded the expenditures by $1,310,000,000. He attributed the depletion of the gold reserve to the payment of current deficiencies out of the reserve, and maintained that the greenbacks would not menace the reserve if there was sufficient revenue. It being apparent that Secretary Carlisle's report would not be ready this week, the house adjourned over until Monday.

Representative McEwen of New Jersey presented a petition of Alfred S. Franklin of West Hoboken, N. J., asking congress to assist him in obtaining justice and quelling corruption, which he charges exists in government offices. He makes charges of negligence against Mr. Stump, the commissioner of immigration, and other officials of the immigration office on Ellis island; against United States District Attorney Wallace McFarlan, and also charges Novello, Ewer & Co. of New York with violating the alien contract labor law.

The proceedings of the senate were more varied than interesting. They covered the entire range of legislation from the introduction of the petitions, bills, etc., to the passage of bills, including two formal addresses. A bill extending the Chicago port of entry so as to cover the state of Illinois received the final endorsement of the senate. Having already passed the house, the bill probably will be the first bill of the Fifty-fourth congress to become a law.

Almost an hour of the session was devoted to listening to a speech by Senator Peffer in advocacy of his bill curtailing the expenses incurred in congressional funerals, and providing that a sergeant-at-arms shall take the place of the committees now sent out by the two houses as escorts to their homes of the remains of the deceased members.

Senate Chairmanships.

Members of the Republican caucus committee of the senate have been engaged in conferences with other members of the senate in an effort to assure themselves that the assignments of committee chairmanships which they have made will prove satisfactory when the list shall be presented to the caucus.

The committee has practically completed this branch of its work, and the members feel, after conferring with their colleagues, the allotments they have made will be acceptable to the Republican senators. The committee has had difficulty in finding a suitable and acceptable chairmanship for Senator Shoup, but have now solved the problem by assigning him to the committee on education and labor, of which Senator Kyle (Pop.) is chairman. This arrangement will permit the arrangement heretofore made, placing Senator Gallinger at the head of the pensions committee. It is quite definitely settled that Senator Platt shall head the committee on patents and Senator Burrows on revision of the laws.

The committee will devote the rest of the week to the consideration of the make-up of bodies of the committees, and hope now to be able to report to the full caucus on Monday. Considerable work in this line has already been accomplished, and it may be stated that the full majority representation in three or four principal committees has been decided upon. This places Senators Davis and Thurston on judiciary, Cameron and Lodge on foreign relations, Platt and Wolcott on finance.

The younger element of the Republican senators are now pressing upon their colleagues the importance of organization of the senate before the Christmas holidays for the effect which, they argue, the prompt action will have upon the country. They begun their crusade yesterday, and are of the opinion that the caucus committee are sufficiently convinced of the soundness of the argument to hasten matters as much as possible. Some of the older senators are inclined to think that this plan would involve unseeming haste and thus antagonize them.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

WHO IS the oldest resident of Quincy? The LEDGER would be pleased to hear from all over 89.

IT HAS just been discovered that a package of 42 votes in one of the Brockton wards was not counted by the election officers, but the time for petitions for recounts has passed. If the total vote for any office had been compared with the total vote of the ward this never could have happened.

Historical Family.

At the December meeting of the Massachusetts Historical society, Thursday, Dr. William Everett referred to the recent election of C. F. Adams, 2d, as Mayor of Quincy, and rapidly traced the relations of the Adams family to Braintree and Quincy, stating that the newly elected mayor was of the eighth generation, in a direct line, who had been connected with the management of town affairs, or who had been elected to office in part by the votes of their fellow-townsmen.

The president, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, presented about 50 original letters from John Quincy Adams while minister to Russia, to his brother, T. B. Adams, and read some curious and interesting extracts, giving glimpses of the state of things in Europe at that time, and expressing his opinions on men and things in his usual sharp cut and emphatic manner.—Boston Advertiser.

THE MINSTRELS

Greeted With a Crowded House At Hancock Hall.

Twenty-Five of Our Popular Young Men in the Circle.

George F. Field's Ditty the Hit of the Evening—Many Encores

"They say the Quincy Minstrels
Are the hottest things in town.
Don't you care—Don't you care
And when the boys start a thing
They do it good and brown.
Don't you care—Don't you care."

Again have the Quincy Club minstrels scored a grand success. Hancock hall was uncomfortably crowded Thursday evening at the second annual show, which was replete with catchy songs and fun.

Mr. Joseph R. Fuller was interlocutor and seemed to be perfectly at home. There were six end men gaudily arrayed in enormous yellow ties. Yes, they had on something else, but it was not in it with those ties. But dark shirts, duck pants with belts, etc., were a good make up for their parts. Of course they were genuine colored individuals as were also the members of the circle who appeared in full dress suits.

Bones,—Samuel Weston, A. G. Dolliver and George F. Field.

Tambos,—Daniel Haley, Fred E. Jones and Alfred R Haskell.

Circle, — Henry Edwards, George W. Glover, Herbert Emery, Herbert Wilkins, W. H. Hersey, W. I. Chubbuck, Edward Martin, A. E. Sibley, A W. Loud, Joseph N. Page, Harvey A. Field, James Milne, Walter M Packard, George W. Holden, John J. Daley, Edward Miller, Justin Emery, A F. Ferguson, W. S. Osborne.

The opening chorus was given with a snap which captured the house, and in part first the circle gave a variety of pleasing numbers, and were there every time on the choruses which accompanied the solos.

Mr. H. W. French was down for the first solo but he was detained out of town on business, and No. 3, "Mary of Argyle" by S. Nekon, was given with good effect by Mr. A. F. Ferguson.

Mr. Fred E. Jones was the first to respond to an encore. His "Dark Brown Lou" by F. Wilbur Hill, being a decided hit.

"Star of the Desert" by Bon-heur was well rendered by Mr. W. H. Hersey, and Sam Weston's original songs took so well that he was twice recalled.

Messrs. Ferguson, Osborne, Hersey and Jones appeared in a quartette accompanied by the phantom band, and the number was one of the best of the evening.

To Mr. George F. Field and Mr. W. S. Osborne belong the credit for the greatest hit; to the former as author and soloist, and to the latter as the composer of the music. "If Anybody Should Ask You," was the title, and it was fully impressed upon the audience. Mr. Field responded to at least a half dozen encores, with verses on the Sultan of Turkey, the State election, our want of school buildings, the Harvard boys, the city election, and our streets.

Dan Haley's "Laughing Song" took well and he responded to two encores. It would not sound well to say that Mr. Haley is all mouth, but its size did surprise and amuse all.

Each number was interspersed with jokes by the end men, many of them being very good, but as the show is to be repeated it would not do to give them away.

Master Warren H. Mitchell, sometimes known as "Little Pete" opened part second with a sweet song "When Mother Puts the Little Ones to Bed," which was a very pleasing feature, and he responded to the encore. He appeared in costume.

Mr. Haley appeared in a pleasing song and dance specialty, and Mr. Weston in musical specialities.

A humorous sketch by Messrs. Haley, Weston and Jones was the closing number, and it must be seen tonight to be enjoyed fully.

Mr. Warren S. Anderson, Mr. James L. Edwards, Mr. William H. Whitney, Mr. Warren Edwards and Mr. Arthur W. Ryder were the ushers, while the committee on entertainment were Messrs. W. S. Osborne, W. S. Anderson, J. Q. Cudworth, J. L. Edwards and J. R. Fuller. Loud's orchestra furnished music, and the show was under the direction of Prof. Frank Wrigley.

MASSACRES AND PILLAGE

Of Daily Occurrence Despite the Promises of the Sultan.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 13. — For days past Turks and Kurds have been pouring into the city from the devastated regions of Asia Minor. Their primary object is the disposal of the loot which they have obtained during the massacres. They are also hopeful of a richer harvest in the event of the sultan permitting a rising at Stamboul.

Their stories, coupled with the display of plunder, have inflamed the lowest classes of Moslems with an aching desire to attack the bazaars. They are ready to seize upon the slightest provocation for an attack. It is unwholesomely significant of the conjunction of this state of affairs that the government is seizing and deporting daily numbers of Armenians of the poorest but most robust class.

The news from the interior increases in horror with every mail. In places within a small distance massacre and pillage are still of daily occurrence, and everywhere destitute Armenians are flocking into the large towns, where there is no means of feeding.

No news has been received yet from Zeitoun, and none is expected until all the Zeitounils have been killed. The district swarms with bashi-bazouks, and every road and bridle path is guarded with troops.

A spontaneous movement is on foot to consider a general scheme of reform, especially for Macedonia, with a view to preventing further diplomatic pressure.

The ambassadors are now devoting themselves to a general table of the massacres and other matters from the consular reports.

Reform Badly Needed.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13.—There has perhaps never been an occasion in this city when the prevalence of vice, immorality and crime has been so prominently brought before the public as at yesterday's session of the senate investigating committee. Evidence was given indicating that houses of ill-fame, "speak easies," policy shops, etc., flourish in the police districts in the slums and under the very eyes of the patrolmen, with apparently but little interruption. Various clergymen gave damaging testimony, and Eugene Lyon, a private detective, told of an investigation he made as to the number of houses of ill-fame he had found in 13 police districts. They amounted to 699.

Is Barbara Crazy?

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The remarkable case of Barbara Aub is in a greater state of confusion than at any other time since she made the confession which exonerated Walter Langerman after his conviction of criminal assault. "I have absolutely no recollection," the girl says, "of having made any confession. The story I told upon the witness stand during the trial of Walter L. S. Langerman is true." A female prisoner, who for several days occupied the same room with Barbara Aub, said yesterday that she had watched Barbara closely and had come to the conclusion that her mentality was unbalanced.

Battled With Storms.

HALIFAX, Dec. 13.—The overdue Scotsman arrived last evening. She left Liverpool Nov. 30, and encountered a succession of westerly gales, some of them developing into genuine hurricanes. Captain Maddox said it was the worst experience he had ever had. For eight days in succession the weather was so bad he was unable to take a sight, and some days the steamer could not make steering way.

Negroes' Champions.

DETROIT, Dec. 13.—The national conference of Afro-Americans, called for the purpose of discussing matters relating to the welfare of the race, began here yesterday. The following were elected: President, D. A. Straker, Detroit; vice president, R. T. Greener, New York; secretary, Rev. J. M. Henderson, Detroit; treasurer, Rev. J. S. Woods, Peoria, Ills. John Brown was eulogized by several speakers.

A Little Fine.

WACO, Tex., Dec. 13.—The trial of what is known as the Standard Oil trust indictments came to an end yesterday. E. T. WOMEN ARE CARELESS.

They Over-Estimate Their Physical Strength. Advice to Young Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women are very apt to over-estimate their strength and overtax it.

When they are feeling particularly well, they sometimes take chances which in the long run cause them much pain and trouble. This is due largely to their not fully realizing how delicate their sensitive organism is.

The girl who has just become a woman can hardly be expected to act wisely, everything is so new to her. She, however, should be told; and every woman should realize that to be well her "monthly periods" should be regular. Wet feet, or a cold from exposure, may suppress or render irregular and fearfully painful the menses, and perhaps sow the seed for future ill health.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will ever be the unfailing remedy in such cases as well as all the peculiar ailments of women. Millions of women live to prove this. Mrs. M. L. Verrill tells plainly what it has done for her:—

"I will write you a few lines to tell you what my troubles were before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It was the same old story,—my back and lower part of my abdomen and painful menstruation. Of course it was female weakness. The doctors (I have tried five different ones) called it chronic inflammation of the womb.

"I had leucorrhœa for over eight years, ulcers on the neck of the womb, terrible headaches and backaches. Your medicine completely cured me." — MRS. M. L. VERRILL, 228 Newell Ave., Pawtucket, R.I.

New-Comers Reception.

The annual reception to new-comers was held at the Wollaston Congregational church on Thursday evening. It is superfluous to say that it was eminently successful. Cordiality and bonhomie were its salient points from the beginning to the end. The vestry was decorated with taste, potted plants and banquet lamps being disposed of in effective way. The entertainment which followed the reception to Rev. and Mrs. Robinson, was very good. The music was by Miss Mary Virginia Hastings and the double quartette of the church. Mr. John R. Anderson read with spirit a selection from one of Ian MacClarean's works. After the entertainment sherbert and cake was served.

Two Still Alarms,

The chief's call of three blows was sounded on the fire alarm circuit at 5 35 Thursday night, which called Chief Williams and Hose 1, to a bush fire near the location of the old street car house at Norfolk Downs. No damage was done but as a high wind was blowing it was thought best to have it extinguished.

This morning at 7 20 Chief Williams received a telephone call for the hose carriage at Atlantic. The Chief and Hose 1, responded but on their arrival at Atlantic no trace of a fire could be found, neither could anyone be found who sent in the call.

Young Men's Christian Association.

"Marching Orders" will be the subject for the boys' meeting at 9.30 Saturday.

The Bible class will be omitted Monday evening to enable all members to attend the intervisitation of the committees on religious work, in the fifth district, at Rockland that evening. The programme will be an exceptional one, and all interested in the spiritual work should endeavor to attend.

TODAY'S COURT

James P. Ballou of West Quincy, who was arrested in Boston, Tuesday, while trying to dispose of stolen bush hammers was arraigned upon three counts as follows: For larceny of five bush hammers, from the sheds of Fagon & Ballou; for breaking and entering and larceny from the sheds of T. F. Mannix and the larceny of four bush hammers; and breaking and entering and the larceny of three bush hammers from O'Brien & O'Heron at East Milton. The court found probable cause to believe Ballou guilty and held him in $800 for the superior court.

Patrick McAloon was arraigned for drunkenness and disturbing the peace at Milton and fined $5 on each.

AUSTRIAN CHRISTMAS CUSTOMS.

Candles Lighted For the Christ Child—Superstitions of the People.

In Austria they are particularly thoughtful of the bringer of the gifts and joy. The people place lighted candles in their windows, that the Christ child, in passing through the city or village or along the country road shall not stumble and fall.

A belief in the special presence of evil spirits during Christmastide and in their efforts to interfere with and lessen the joys of the season prevails throughout Europe.

The bugbear "Ruprecht," under different names and in numerous varying disguises and in strange antics, plays a conspicuous part among the Germans and surrounding peoples. In Tyrol the terrible "Klanbacf" accompanies St. Nicholas and is continually hovering about his path ready to kidnap naughty children.

In Austria this monster is very terrible in appearance, going about with clanking chains and hideous devil's mask. He is frequently heard at night as he flies through the air and his rattling chains are giving notice of his presence.

In many places there is the belief that wolves roam the earth on the night before Christmas and create great havoc in destroying vines and other property, and even human beings. This belief has made an excuse for a means of mischievous frolic. Men and boys frequently disguise themselves as wolves and go about frightening the people.—New York Herald.

The White Christ of Norway.

Norwegian children look for their Christmas gifts through the White Christ, who, gliding through frosted pine forests, upon Christmas eve, pays his mysterious visit, and is, to all intents and purposes, their realization of a St. Nicholas. Upon Christmas night the boys, wearing white surplices and paper caps, enter the room where guests are assembled. One holds a paper lantern in the form of a star, the interior being lit by a piece of candle fixed on the wooden bar, upon which the star revolves. Another carries a square frame with panels of glass, within which a lighted candle or two reveals two objects, one being a doll dressed as the Madonna. This figure sits beside the other object, a cradle containing a baby doll. Through the bottom of the frame runs a little appliance which imparts a rocking motion to the cradle. The two boys bearing the star and cradle take position at the end of the room, their companions on either side. Then the star revolves, the cradle rocks gently to and fro, and a carol is sung. This is the Christmas mystery of the Star of Bethlehem and the Christ cradle.—New York World.

Land of Thor and Odin.

Scandinavia is truly the land of the Yule log, of Christmas stories and legends of Thor and Odin. Then is the time for skating, sledging, dancing and a general frolic. It is customary for every member of the family to take a bath on the afternoon preceding Christmas, and ofttimes it is the only thorough bath that is received during the year. When the eve comes, the Bible is read in nearly every household and family service is held. In many villages candles are left burning in the windows all night to give light to Kristine, who brings the gifts. It is also the custom to set a cake of meal out in the snow as a Christmas offering. The birds of the air are thought of, and a sheaf of wheat is placed on a pole in front of each house to provide them with food.—Kansas City Times.

Wassailing the Trees.

An entirely honored custom practiced at Christmas time was one entitled "wassailing the trees." This was usually the prelude to drinking enormous quantities of spiced wine, ale, brandy, mixed with toast and fruit. A pail filled with cider, in which a cake had been immersed, was fastened to an apple tree, the ceremony being accompanied by much dancing and incantation. This procedure was calculated to materially increase the fruit bearing powers of the orchard. The merrymakers retired singing:

Our toast, it is white; our ale, it is brown;
Wassail, wassail, all over town.
Our bowl, it is made of a maple tree.
We be good fellows all; I drink to thee.

—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Old Time Christmas Dishes.

In olden times the plum porridge was partaken of at the beginning of the dinner, occupying the soup course, and the mince or shred pies were ever popular. In shape they are often slightly oval as well as round, and our grandmothers tell us this oval shape was to resemble and remind us of Christ's cradle. In England it is still a very popular and enjoyable custom to offer a mince pie to every caller, for every pie eaten under a different roof represents a happy month of the coming year. When the 12 have become un fait accompli, then one hears, "I've eaten my 12, so kindly excuse me."—Exchange.

Christmas Investments.

Christmas does indeed cost money, but no money is ever better invested, when the Christmas investment is made judiciously. Christmas investments are repaid in bonds of love and stocks of pleasure, which yield a heavy interest in unalloyed happiness. And no man can get anything better for his money than that.—Savannah News.

Christmas Is Not Cold.

Cold Christmas? No!
Our Christmas is not cold,
Although the north winds blow
And pile the drifting snow
And the beech trees on the freezing wold
Rock sadly to and fro.
Our Christmas bears a warm, true heart,
His face is red with glee,
And he jests and laughs,
And he sings and quaffs.
Cold Christmas? No!
He is warm and bright,
And he brings delight
To the hearts of both high and low.
—Charles Mackay.

Castle Square Theatre.

The week of "Fra Diavolo" at the Castle Square Theatre has exceeded all expectations in point of artistic success, added to this has been the not unimportant factor of increased box office receipts, with its invariable accompaniment of crowded houses. Mr. Persse has made a great impression as the dashing robber, while Messrs Wolf and Wooley and Murray have added to their number of friends by their characterizations. Much interest is felt in the approaching production of "Rip Van Winkle" the first performance of which takes place on Monday evening next Dec. 16. For weeks past Manager Rose has been literally deluged with letters asking that Planquett's charming opera might be heard here and the advance sale is already formidable in size. All the members of the Castle Square Opera Company will be happily cast. Stage Manager Edison and Scenic Artist Frank King are preparing surprises without number for the spectator's eye, and Stage Director Jaxon has many new things in the way of stage business which he is working earnestly to develop. Monday evening, Dec. 16, should be a great night at the Castle Square.

The Churches Patriotic.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

An item is going the rounds of the press telling of the very recent insertion of the hymn "America" in the Hymnal of the Protestant Episcopal church, and calling upon the "other sects" to follow that example of patriotism. Now no Protestant Episcopalian originated the item, or he would have omitted the word "other;" and certainly no Evangelical churchman wrote it, because the hymnals of all Evangelical churches have included the soul-stirring "My country! 'tis of thee," for many years past. The implied criticism upon them is therefore unjust.

A TRULY GREAT MAN.

Death of Allen G. Thurman, a Man Whose Enemies Were Few.

Ohio Loses One of Her Foremost Citizens.

Many Throughout the Country Will Mourn For the "Old Roman."

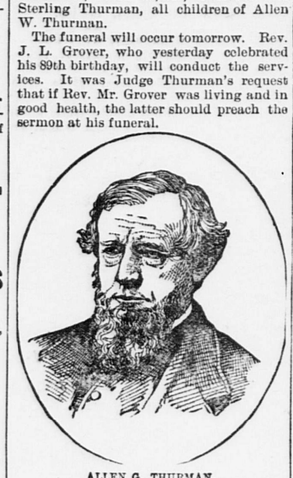

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 13.—Allen Granberry Thurman, generally referred to as the "Old Roman," died at his residence here at 1:30 yesterday afternoon.

Judge Thurman died in his beloved library, which looks toward the setting sun. Shortly after his fall several weeks ago Judge Thurman's bed was moved from the adjoining bedroom to his library, and he remained there. Judge Thurman had lived with his son, Allen, since the death of his wife several years ago, and being unable to leave the house, he occupied apartments in the second story of the residence, where he spent the last days of his life in a remarkably pleasant and agreeable manner.

The beginning of Judge Thurman's fatal sickness dates from Nov. 7 last, when he fell heavily while walking across the library floor. A few days after the fall Judge Thurman's life was despaired of, but he rallied from the shock, and at times apparently seemed to have regained his old-time vigor. Nov. 13, Judge Thurman was 82 years old, and on that date several of his old friends called on him and had a pleasant chat. On that occasion he seemed unusually cheerful and bright. Since the accident he had his good days and his bad ones.

At the death scene he seemed to be free from all distress. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Thurman and the following named grandchildren: Lee, Katharine, Allen G., Jr.; Daniel C. and Sterling Thurman, all children of Allen W. Thurman.

The funeral will occur tomorrow. Rev. J. L. Grover, who yesterday celebrated his 89th birthday, will conduct the services. It was Judge Thurman's request that if Rev. Mr. Grover was living and in good health, the latter should preach the sermon at his funeral.

ALLEN G. THURMAN.

Allen Granbery Thurman was born on Nov. 13, 1813, in Lynchburg, Va., of good descent on both sides. His mother was a half-sister of William Allen, who became governor of Ohio. His paternal grandfather, who was a Baptist minister, was a slaveholder by inheritance, but became conscientiously opposed to slavery, and resolved to free his negroes. He therefore removed to Ohio with them and his family, numbering three generations, when Allen G. Thurman was 6 years old.

A settlement was made in Chillicothe, where the boy's father at first taught school, and then engaged in woolen manufacture. The lad obtained his education at Chillicothe academy, where he was especially proficient in mathematics, and was graduated with high honors at the age of 17. After his graduation, his health, which had been delicate, was permanently invigorated by exercise in field sports, by his riding about the country as an assistant of the county tax assessor, and by outdoor work as a member of land surveying parties.

Then he studied law in the office of his uncle, William Allen, and Judge Swayne of Columbus. During his period of study in the state capital he read law, chiefly at night, as in the daytime he was acting as the private secretary of Governor Lucas, and the duties of the position included much work which would now be assigned to a number of clerks. In 1835 he was admitted to the bar, and began practice in Chillicothe as the partner of his uncle, who, becoming engrossed in politics, soon left the care of his law business entirely to the young man.

Mr. Thurman applied himself with great industry to his profession, in which he attained distinction. On account of his devotion to his legal work he several times declined requests to become a candidate for the legislature, although he had always taken interest in public affairs. In 1839 he made a visit to Washington, where his uncle was then a senator from Ohio. There he passed six weeks, and was introduced by Senator Allen to many prominent men.

An Earnest Worker.

Returning to his law practice in Ohio, he did not revisit Washington until 1842, when he went there to appear in a case before the United States supreme court. Three years afterward, while he was absent from his congressional district on professional business, its Democratic convention nominated him for congress without his knowledge. Mr. Thurman was persuaded to accept the candidacy, and was elected after a personal canvass of the whole district. In the Twenty-ninth congress he served on the judiciary committee, and delivered some able speeches on important questions.

At the end of his term he declined a renomination, and resumed the practice of his profession. In 1851 he was elected, upon the Democratic ticket, a judge of the supreme court of Ohio, and from 1854 till 1856 he was chief justice of that court. His services as a jurist largely enhanced his reputation with the bar and with the people of the state generally, but he declined a re-election, as the meager salary of the judgeship was insufficient. Returning to the bar, he found business pouring in upon him from all sides, and by his professional labors he acquired a competence.

In 1867 he received the unanimous nomination of the Democratic state convention for governor of Ohio, but was defeated by Rutherford B. Hayes. He had, however, cut down the Republican majority of 43,000 the year before to less than 8000, and the legislature elected was Democratic.

In 1868 Mr. Thurman was chosen United States senator from Ohio, succeeding Benjamin F. Wade, and he was re-elected in 1874. During his 12 years in the senate he served on a number of the most important committees, and was recognized as one of the ablest leaders of the Democratic party. Much public attention was attracted by a number of his speeches in debate.

In 1874 he differed from the dominant sentiment of his party in the west on the currency question, and voted against passing the inflation bill over President Grant's veto. Under party pressure, however, he eventually modified his position on this subject, and voted against the resumption act of 1876, and was appointed by President Garfield to the international monetary conference.

ALLEN W. THURMAN.

For a number of years he was frequently spoken of as a possible candidate for the presidency. In the conventions of 1880 and 1884 his name was formally presented on behalf of Ohio. On account of his unblemished character for personal integrity, he had always had the respect of his political opponents, and he had long possessed exceptional popularity among large numbers of the Democratic party, particularly in the western states.

His special followers admiringly termed him "the old Roman," and the trifling fact that he had always retained the old-fashioned bandanna as a part of his personal equipment caused them to adopt that handkerchief as their badge of allegiance. He was the Democratic candidate for vice president in 1888.

Since his retirement from the senate, Mr. Thurman had taken but little active part in political affairs. He continued to practice law, appearing in court in some important cases, but intimated that he had no desire to return to public life. As leading counsel in the prosecution of the members of his own party who were guilty of the Columbus election frauds in 1886 he incurred the displeasure of a faction which sympathized with the defendants, but gained the praise of good citizens throughout the country.

Judge Thurman's domestic life was singularly happy. His son Allen fulfilled the father's fondest hopes, and in later years his family lived in a residence joining that of his father, so that the two families were as one. Judge Thurman and his wife remained lovers through all their days of wedlock.

Of Judge Thurman's children, Allen married Miss Webb of Baltimore, and their children were the life of the double family residence. One daughter of the judge is the wife of ex-Governor McCormick of Arizona, and they live at Jamaica, L. I. The younger daughter married Lieutenant W. S. Cowles of the navy, but was divorced from him and married Thomas S. Gifford, a native of Spain, of English parents.

Anti-Socialist.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The socialists received a serious setback at yesterday's session of the convention of the American Federation of Labor, and Pomeroy of Chicago, whom they have been planning to humiliate, was the active agent in their defeat. His enemy, the socialistic representative from a seceding faction of the Chicago Trades and Labor assembly, known as the Socialistic Labor council, was denied a hearing on the floor of the federation, and Pomeroy's proposition to recognize the Chicago labor movement was adopted.

Held Back.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Lord Salisbury's answer to Secretary Olney on the Venezuelan question will not be made public until the return of President Cleveland. It appears that Mr. Cleveland was aware of the nature of the answer before he left. This, however, was not the formal submission of Great Britain's answer.

Flaw In Complaint.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Judge Horton dismissed the bill filed by Louis A. Levin, in which he asked that a receiver be appointed for the Chicago Gas company. The court held that the bill could not be made the basis of an action, because the Fidelity company had not been made a defendant.

A Warning.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The postmaster general has issued fraud orders against "The American Home Journal," "The Home Journal" "The Fireside" of Bridgewater, Conn., and "The Home Journal" of Bridgeport, Conn., for using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 15.
Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—What is true friendship?—Prov. xxvii, 9, 10, 17, 19.

God has made us social beings. We have not been created to live individual, isolated lives, but have been created bound together by many sacred ties, our common humanity, our common fatherhood in God and our common destiny in Jesus Christ. We have our common nature, for "As in water face answereth to face, so the heart of man to man." There is a tie that binds us all together regardless of race, color, nationality or position in life, and the attachments that result from this sociable side of our natures under certain circumstances is called friendship.

First.—True friendship is a pleasurable friendship. It is one in which we find much pleasure and delight. There are much joy and sweetness in true friendship. It doubles our joys to share them with our friends, and it decreases our troubles to have them shared with one another. "A sorrow shared is but half a sorrow." But the pleasure and sweetness lie not simply in the cordial intercourse and sociability that result from true friendship, but, most of all, in the "hearty counsel," the faithful advice that comes to us from true friends. There is nothing sweeter in life than to have a true friend to whom we can go in the hour of trouble and be sincerely advised. "Ointment and perfume rejoice the heart; so doth the sweetness of a man's friend by hearty counsel."

Second.—True friendship is faithful. Faithfulness is undoubtedly the greatest element of friendship. Too much friendship is fickle. It is friendship for what we have or what we are rather than for ourselves, and when a severe test comes it proves false to us. True friendship is never false. It never deserts us. It never forsakes us. It is truer often even than that of those who are bound to us by natural ties of life. "Better is a neighbor that is near than a brother that is far off." We should prove true to the severest tests of friendship. "Thine own friend and thy father's friend forsake not."

Third.—True friendship is beneficial. "Iron sharpeneth iron. So a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend." If one piece of iron be rubbed against another, the result of the friction is the imparting a finer polish and a keener edge. So friendship should be a whetstone to give keenness to the edge of our energy, instead of being, as it often is, the stepping stone to the worst falls.

We should be careful in choosing friends, for whom we admit into our friendship we admit into the formation of our character. The highest ideal of true friendship is reached in Christian friendships. To have friends we must be friends.

Bible Readings.—Deut. xiii, 6-8; Ps. xxxv, 11-14; Ruth i, 16-18; I Sam. xviii, 1; II Sam. i, 26; Prov. xvii, 17; xviii, 24; xxii, 24, 25; xxvii, 6; Math. xi, 18, 19; Luke xi, 5-10; John xv, 13-15; Rom. xii, 1, 2; I John ii, 15; III John xiv.

Tune Up to the Bible.

We must be tuned up to the book. The average newspaper is keyed on a level with the average daily life. We need no preparation to read it. But we cannot lay down a newspaper and enter immediately into the Bible, for the reason that the Bible is written in a higher key, and our heart chords are not strung taut enough. The Bible never unstrings itself for us. We must key up to the Bible. There is but one way to do it. Find a quiet place and shut yourself in. Keep still until every worldly thought takes wings. Keep still until the heart is calm and the brain is cool and you can hear a pin drop. Now ask God to put your heart in tune.—Young Men's Era.

Not Knowing How.

Go to, ye rich men, and learn how a rich man ought to live. When Jesus said to the rich young man, "Go and sell all thou hast and give to the poor," he had simply found a man who did not know how to be rich.—Phillips Brooks.

Serving God.

As the Holy Spirit revealed Christ unto Simon and Anna, so He will reveal new glories in Christ unto us if we are found where they two were—just, devout, waiting, serving God.—Presbyterian.

The Great Need.

The one great need of humanity is spiritual life. What we usually call life is mere existence, a surface consciousness, not real life. To live we must become conscious of good.—Universalist.

Business and Blessedness.

If we make religion our business, God will make it our blessedness.—H. G. J. Adams.

Golden Rule Waifs.

"Pittsburg, 1901!" is the latest addition to "Washington, '96!" and "Frisco, '97!" 'Rah for the Smoky City!

Readers of "The Manxman" will be interested in the news that there is a flourishing Christian Endeavor society on the isle of Man.

"Prepared programmes are desirable," said a speaker at a recent English Christian Endeavor convention, "but prepared hearts and minds are better still."

"I cannot do it!" Who thought you could? What is needed is for you to let God do it through you!

Constant remembrance of Christ and forgetfulness of self are two characteristics of the ideal Christian Endeavorer.

The report of the gun or of a committee does not always mean execution, but no report always means no execution.

The in-formation committee will be found to be a formation committee as well, organizing all sorts of new and useful plans.

BONDSMEN ARE SLOW.

No Great Anxiety to Furnish Large Amounts For Dr. Moore.

Appears to Be Confident of Ultimate Acquittal.

Change In Public Sentiment Has Induced Cashier Morrill to Return.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 14.—Dr. J. C. Moore was obliged to pass another night in Hillsboro county jail. His counsel, J. W. Fellows, and his nephew, A. C. Moore, spent yesterday in scouring the city for new bondsmen, and met with some success. Several persons indicated a willingness to assist the doctor to the extent of qualifying in $1000 each as bondsmen, but not enough were obtained to make up the necessary $15,000. Hence the unwelcome intelligence was conveyed to the doctor that he would be obliged to remain in Jailer Wadsworth's charge another 24 hours at least.

Several influential political and business friends of Dr. Moore in other sections of the state have been communicated with, and the chances are somewhat brighter that today he may secure the much-prized bondsmen.

Dr. Moore has not been incarcerated in a cell at the jail, but is given a room in Jailer Wadsworth's own pleasant quarters, and at night he sleeps in a cot in the workroom. His hope of ultimate success is as yet undaunted, and he talk confidently of acquittal.

The reports of the early return of Charles F. Morrill, the defaulting cashier, to turn state's evidence, are now said to be practically confirmed. It is said Mrs. Morrill has had with Dr. Moore of late, and that she has several times threatened the doctor that if he did not take measures to make restitution to her husband, remove the stain upon his reputation and arrange matters so that Mr. Morrill could return, she would herself bring him back here to face the music.

Of late Mr. Morrill has not been in the best of health, the climate of South America not agreeing with him, and he has a strong desire to return at the earliest possible time. In fact it is rumored that he is already on his way home, and that Mrs. Morrill is preparing to go to New York to meet him upon his arrival at that place.

Dr. Moore's recent troubles have precipitated a crisis, and it is said that a cablegram was sent to Mr. Morrill several days ago, telling him that public sentiment had changed regarding him, and that he could now return with safety, so far as any danger of prosecution is concerned. Moreover, it is stated that he has sent word that he would return, giving the exact date when he would sail.

A Sensational Scene.

BOSTON, Dec. 14.—A scene of an unusually sensational character was enacted yesterday in the hearing room of the police commissioners. General Martin, chairman of the board, accused the board's lawyer, F. R. Bangs, of insulting a witness on the stand. After expressing his mind to his associates of the board, Messrs. Clark and Curtis in no uncertain manner, he positively refused to sit further on the case, and left the room, his countenance expressing his hearty disapproval of the attorney's plan of examining a witness. He seemingly had the idea that it was a case of putting a man on the rack, and he would not countenance it. Having assumed that view of the affair, his departure was necessarily, it is thought, a proper and dignified step.

Morton Their Candidate.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 14.—The executive committee of the Southern New England Republican College league, an organization embracing 8000 college students in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, met here yesterday and voted to send 30 delegates to the mock convention of college Republicans of the country at Chicago, April 30 next. The league also voted to support Governor Levi P. Morton of New York for president, and passed a lengthy resolution urging all college Republicans to support him.

Defendant Must Settle.

AUGUSTA, Me., Dec. 14.—The law court yesterday rendered a decision in the famous case of Dilloway et al., stock brokers of Boston, against George A. Alden of Waterville. The suit was brought to recover on a note for $12,586, given in 1893 for certain deals in stock. The decision says that, inasmuch as the brokers held certain amounts of the stocks dealt in, and did finally turn over the balance of said stock to defendant, the transaction was not a wager, but a legitimate trade, and the defendant must settle.

Boys Must Foot the Bills.

BOSTON, Dec. 14.—Every male member of Boston university class of '96 has been summoned to appear in court to answer a civil suit brought by Henrietta McDonald, proprietor of a printing establishment, to recover a bill for printing. The financial failure of The Hub, the college publication, and an unsettled printing bill of $119, resulted in the suit. Because they were refused editorial representation, the girl seniors declined to assist in publishing the book, and escape liability.

Trying to Prove an Alibi.

HARTFORD, Dec. 14.—Counsel for the defense in the Herrick murder trial is developing the fact that one line of the defense will be an alibi; that Herrick was at home at the time Julia Egan asserts he met her and received the baby from her. Herrick's son, Louis B. Herrick, William Winn, a neighbor, and John D. Humphrey have testified to that effect, although the exact time has not been definitely brought out.

And Still No Trace.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 14.—Although the thermometer has stood at zero, three deputy sheriffs and a small searching party again scoured the woods yesterday after the body of Rose Dolly's baby, taking dogs with them, but found no trace of it.

Cut Off From Mainland.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Dec. 14.—The northeast gale continues. The steamer for the mainland has not left her dock for three days, and the island people are anxious to learn the news of the outside world.

There is a great deal of interest in Medford, Mass., in the selling of the ice on Wright's pond by the water commissioners to one of their number.

LIBBIE KNAPP'S DEATH

Will Pass Into History as a Mystery Beyond Solution.

Sensational Trial of Mrs. Howell Is Ended.

Jury Declare That She Is Not Guilty of the Crime of Poisoning.

WELLSBORO, Pa., Dec. 14.—Mrs. Charlotte Howell was acquitted of the murder of Miss Libbie Knapp. The trial has been one of the most sensational in the history of crime in this commonwealth.

The verdict of the jury was greeted with uproarious applause in the courtroom. The Messrs. Dutton of New York, her brothers, and sister and a few other friends clustered about Mrs. Howell as she rose from her chair a free woman.

For the first time in four months she ate her supper outside of the jail walls last night. Major Merrick, one of her counsel, took her and her family to his home for tea.

Jerome B. Miles occupied the entire session yesterday in a forcible presentation of the commonwealth's side of the case. He was followed by Judge Mitchell, who consumed nearly 2½ hours in his charge to the jury. This was considered by members of the bar a fair and impartial statement of the case. The case was given to the jury at 5 o'clock, and exactly an hour later they had reached their verdict.

The Howell case was one of the strangest in the criminal annals of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Howell, who is the wife of Chauncey Howell of Tioga, is a member of a well-known New York family, and her two brothers, Dutton by name, are among the wealthiest merchants of that city. She was estranged from them from the time of her marriage until the charge of murder was preferred against her, when they came to her assistance.

The Mysterious Letters.

The Howells and Knapps were neighbors, and a warm intimacy existed between Mrs. Howell and Libbie, who was 19 years old. Libbie had a love affair, which ended in a parting, and thereafter she began to receive letters, which would be found tied to the doorknobs, thrust in a broken window pane or thrown in the doorway. Most of these, it was alleged, were found by Mrs. Howell. Last May Libbie was taken suddenly sick, and Mrs. Howell took her to her own house to attend her. On May 17 she died, and subsequently evidence of poisoning was found. Mrs. Howell was soon afterward arrested. The letters, which were both obscene and threatening in character, were all printed in Roman letters with a lead pencil.

It was the commonwealth's purpose to prove that the prisoner had poisoned the girl because of jealousy. The trial began three weeks ago, and on the fourth day Mrs. Howell was put on the stand in her own behalf. She created a sensation by declaring that she had been offered money and promised acquittal if she would make a confession. This proposition was alleged to have been made by detectives before the formal charge was made against her. It was denied by those implicated. One of the witnesses for the prosecution was William Rightmire, the discarded lover of Libbie Knapp, upon whom counsel for the defense attempted to fasten suspicion.

The medical testimony proved that the girl had been killed by arsenic, but it was all along the impression that no motive for committing the crime had been fixed on Mrs. Howell. It was also shown that others besides herself had found the letters, and there was much testimony of an inferential character directed toward Rightmire as the author. There was nothing adduced to show that the relations of the two women had ever been anything but warm and friendly.

There is general satisfaction over the result of the trial, but the case remains shrouded in mystery.

Further Fighting In Cuba.

HABANA, Dec. 14.—A dispatch from Santa Clara says that the troops commanded by General Oliver have fought and routed the insurgent forces commanded by Maximo Gomez and Antonio Maceo at Manacas. The dispatch also says that the insurgents have entered the town of Siguansa, not far from the battlefield, and that the column of troops commanded by General Oliver and two other columns are in pursuit of the insurgents. No further details of the fighting were given.

Quay Has His Way.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—At the meeting of the executive committee of the Republican state committee it was agreed that Senator Quay's reform plank should be submitted to the state committee, endorsed by the state convention and passed through the legislature, and shall also be demanded of the national convention. As a result of the conference it is said that Senator Cameron will probably head the list of delegates-at-large and be chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation.

Cornerstone In Position.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 14.—The cornerstone of the Museum of the Institute of Arts and Sciences was laid today with imposing ceremony. A. Augustus Healy presided. Rev. Charles R. Baker offered the opening prayer, and Rev. Dr. Richard S. Storrs, first vice president of the institute, delivered the address. Rev. John W. Chadwick read a poem. Mayor Schieren placed the stone in position. President Seth Low and St. Clair McKelway delivered brief addresses.

Doctors Summoned to Court.

TOPEKA, Dec. 14.—County Attorney Safford yesterday began criminal proceedings against three of the prominent physicians connected with the Kansas medical college, Drs. Menney, McGee and C. S. McClintock. Warrants were served on them, charging them with receiving three stolen bodies. A petition has been started for the calling of a grand jury to investigate the grave robberies.

Blue Hill Predictions.

During the coming week the coldest days will probably be the 14th to 16th and the warmest the 18th to 20th. After the 16th the week will probably average warmer than the past week. The greatest probability of rain or snow is on the morning of the 14th and on the 17th and 20th.—Norfolk County Gazette.

☞ The frontispiece of The Bostonian for December is an admirable portrait of the late Rev. Dr. Samuel Francis Smith, while Christmas itself is commemorated by a charming story, "Adeste Fideles," illustrative of "good will toward men," and carrying with it the moral of "bread cast upon the waters." The author is George Rent, and his pleasing effort is very happily illustrated with pictures specially drawn to accompany it.

HOW MANY NEXT YEAR

A New Apportionment of Representative Districts.

Quincy May be Alone With Two Representatives.

Norfolk County Has More Than Held Its Own.

The Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics of Labor has today issued the final count showing the population and number of legal voters in each city and town, and it is upon the number of voters that a new apportionment of Representative districts will be made next year.

The population of Quincy is 20,712, and the number of legal voters 4,325, divided as follows:

	Population.	Voters.
Ward One,	3,562	803
Ward Two,	2,741	658
Ward Three,	4,696	834
Ward Four,	4,964	874
Ward Five,	2,669	646
Ward Six,	2,080	510

There are in the State 560,802 legal voters, and 31,565 are in Norfolk county, so that this county will be entitled to about one-eighteenth of the House, whatever the membership.

The present number of representatives is 240. If the number remains the same, Norfolk county will be entitled to 13½, or practically 13 without Cohasset, which has been with Plymouth county towns for many years.

If the basis of representation should remain as now—1844—Norfolk county would be entitled to 18, in a total of 304.

With the same number of members, the basis will be one for every 2337 voters. Quincy has 4325 voters, practically enough for two Representatives, lacking but 339 voters. Hyde Park has 2772 voters, but 335 over enough for one Representative, and would probably prefer to be a district by itself. This would even up matters.

Any increase in number of members in the House would certainly give Quincy two Representatives.

The number of legal voters in 1885 when the last apportionment was made, and in 1895 as given by the census returns today, is given by towns grouped in districts below:

	1895	1885
DISTRICT ONE.
Dedham,	1,702	1,437
Norwood,	1,133	747
DISTRICT TWO.
Brookline,	3,243	1,820
DISTRICT THREE.
Hyde Park,	2,772	1,824
DISTRICT FOUR.
Milton,	1,171	792
Canton,	1,096	980
DISTRICT FIVE.
Quincy,	4,325	2,673
Weymouth,	3,039	2,930
DISTRICT SIX.
Braintree,	1,331	1,008
Holbrook,	645	649
DISTRICT SEVEN.
Avon,	469	—
Randolph,	1,123	1,074
Sharon,	423	338
Stoughton,	1,333	1,376
Walpole,	715	586
DISTRICT EIGHT.
Bellingham,	323	241
Foxboro,	858	703
Franklin,	1,184	906
Medway,	818	746
Norfolk,	193	178
Wrentham,	700	661
DISTRICT NINE.
Dover,	169	165
Medfield,	447	381
Millis,	231	167
Needham,	763	603
Wellesley,	694	551
WITH PLYMOUTH.
Cohasset,	665	556
	31,565	24,086

In 1885 Weymouth had the largest number of legal voters, leading Quincy 257, and it received the best of the apportionment, but now Quincy leads Weymouth about 1300, and Brookline is second. Holbrook is the only town to show a loss, if Stoughton which was divided is excepted.

If Quincy goes it alone, Braintree will probably be in a district with Weymouth and entitled to two, and Holbrook in the district with Randolph and Avon, entitled to one. Stoughton, Sharon and Walpole may make a district entitled to one. Milton and Canton will remain together. The other six will be divided among towns which now have five.

Christmas Magazines.

The Table Talk for December has a menu for every day in the month, the one for Christmas dinner being most appetizing and at the same time, plain and substantial. The Christmas entertainment is worthy of trial we are sure, as this monthly article always suggests the latest in this line, and so planned and described as to insure success. Christmas Day itself, is pleasantly treated by Mrs. Burton Kingsland.

THE EXTENSION.

Will it Pay to Put Brook Street Under R. R.

Will Make the Newport Avenue Grade Steeper.

Squantum and Farrington Streets About as Near for Teamsters.

Before the Brook street extension order is put upon its final passage by the Council it should receive a thorough investigation from the members of that body. It is an order requiring the expenditure of a large sum of money, variously estimated at from $10,000 to $15,000. Because the Wollaston councilmen are all in favor of its passage is no valid reason why the city should loosen its purse strings and authorize its construction. There is a limit to a city's pocket book, just as there is to an individuals. If it was absolutely necessary that this street be extended and the prosperity of that thriving ward depended upon it, well and good; then by all means the city should take the necessary steps to co-operate with the railroad and so do it. But the actual facts do not warrant this being done.

The only highway which leads to Wollaston is not Beale street. Without exaggeration four-fifths of the Boston and Wollaston traffic is carried on, (after leaving Hancock street) over Squantum and Farrington streets. Both of these streets are without any grade whatever and lead into the village, the distance from Hancock street to the Wollaston depot via Squantum and Farrington streets being 5,600 feet; and the distance from the corner of Hancock and Squantum streets to the depot, via the proposed Brook street extension is 5,400, a saving of only 200 feet in the distance travelled, both grades being equal.

It is claimed by the gentleman who are advocating the extension that it will be of great benefit to the Boston and some local traffic as it will do away with the heavy Beale street grade. This argument is fallacious. Supposing that this order is passed what will be the result of this change to Brook street and the intersecting highway, Newport avenue? The consolidated tracks at the end of Brook street are 30x5 feet above the city base (city report, 1889), and Brook street at the intersection of Newport avenue is 22 feet above the city base. A highway passing under a railroad to be of any practical benefit, generally has a clear of 15 feet. To obtain this, Brook street and Newport avenue must be depressed something like seven feet. It can be easily figured out that the very steep grade (28 feet) between Brook and Beale streets, upon which street all of the stores and the depot are located, will be increased seven or eight feet, making it impossible except for lightly loaded wagons and carriages.

At the same time the steep hill upon which Wollaston's stores abut is so startingly increased, Brook street will have to be depressed a like number of feet. It is invariably the policy of cities and towns to do away with steep grades so far as possible, but in this case the Wollaston Councilmen have asked, unwittingly perhaps, to have what is already a very steep grade increased by seven feet within a space of 300 feet, making a total grade of 35 feet within the said distance, not allowing for the raising of the Beale street bridge by the railroad of something like two feet, when it is rebuilt, which will necessitate the grading of Beale street up to it. This attempting to do away with the grade upon a lightly travelled thoroughfare and adding it to one over which nearly all of the traffic of the place is carried on is decidedly funny.

It is claimed by the petitioners that the Consolidated is to raise its tracks opposite Brook street. Allowing that they will be raised a couple of feet, then the Beale street bridge will have to be raised a like number of feet, if not more, as it is one of the lowest bridges upon the line. Raising the bridge means also the raising of the Beale street grade west of the tracks to meet it and the consequent increase of the Newport avenue grade opposite the stores.

If the Council is desirous of assisting Wollaston by abolishing a grade why not cooperate with the Consolidated officials and when the Beale street bridge is rebuilt and widened, in the spring, take and grade Beale street up from Hancock street to the bridge and raise Newport avenue from Elmwood avenue to Beale street. It can be done for one half of the amount of money which it is proposed to spend upon the Brook street extension, give just as much satisfaction to the travelling public, and materially assist in keeping the tax rate down.

THE MINSTRELS.

The Second Night a Greater Success Than the First.

Again last evening there was a large attendance at the minstrel show of the Quincy club at Hancock hall. There were the jokes of the first evening with many more and the programme went off with a dash. Again Mr. French was unable to be present but Fred E. Jones sang his song—"Lindy" and it was one of the features of the evening.

Dan Haley told us the quickest way to get rich was to ride a mule—because one was better off.

The gravest joke was that of Bro. Field, who told of a new sign Undertake Hall was to put out. It was a bucket labelled: "You kick the bucket, we'll do the rest."

Quincy was a dead town because the bodies were here while the spirits had departed.

Bro. Dolliver told one at the expense of his father who had an eye for everything not plumb. How he objected to passing the old South church in Boston, and our new central fire station, and finally after nearly completing a good dinner at the Greenleaf, he nearly turned the house upside down when the waiter brought in the pudding, because it was not plum.

One told us that the church was an insurance against fire in the next world; and there were many other very wise sayings.

Quincy Debating Club.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

It was with a great deal of pleasure that I read in the paper a few days ago that a debating club was being organized by the young men in our city. The value and influence of such an organization is not easily estimated, for its influence and good work will be manifested in many ways. In the first place such an organization brings good fellowship to all its members. It influences every member whether he is to take part in any special debate or not, to study the question for discussion in all its bearings. It prompts him to look up authorities in relation to the subject and through this course his own ideas will be brought out and his mind is made more active to grasp other subjects. It forces upon every member the ambition to be able to hold his own in discussing with others any question, and to receive in good faith and good humor arguments against his own ideas, and to be ready at all times to grasp the weakness of his opponent's statements. It teaches him the great importance of self-control in addressing any audience, and by degrees there will come that confidence in himself which will make him a useful member of any community in whatever spheres of work he may be called to, and will benefit him in whatever line of business he may engage in.

So in my opinion the debating club will serve as follows:

It will bring good fellowship.

It will inspire a careful study of many important questions.

It will teach self-control.

It will awaken ambition to hold one's own in discussions.

It will broaden one's own ideas in listening to others.

It will induce better citizenship.

Wishing the club every success,

Yours truly,

H. O. FAIRBANKS.

The bride was beautiful in a gown of white lansdown and carried a large bunch of bride roses. The ushers were Mr. Guy Clifford, Mr. Stanley Coffin, Mr. Forrest Berry and Mr. John Scott all of Dorchester.

A reception followed the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Harlow were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman the bride's parents. Over one hundred and fifty were present to congratulate the happy couple.

The wedding taking place near Christmas the house was a bower of evergreen. Cook of Boston catered.

After an extended bridal journey Mr. and Mrs. Harlow will be at home after January 1st, at 20 Park street, Wakefield.

Those attending from Quincy were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Tuckerman, Mrs. J. Q. A. Wild and Miss Emily C. Wild.

Mr. Tuckerman and family have been summer residents of Houghs Neck for many years and at one time lived at Wollaston so they have many friends in this city.

We extend our congratulations to the newly wedded couple and wish them many years of happy married life.

—The inventor of a bicycle suit that will enable a woman to look as graceful standing on her head, or reclining in the middle of the road, as when dressed for an evening entertainment, is sure not only of fame and fortune but of the undying love of every woman cyclist.—Pawtucket Chronicle.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

A Significant Departure.

With the departure of another year when a review is made of the condition of affairs, it is only right that some thought be given to the physical body which enables everyone to battle with life's problem and figure for themselves the profit or loss on the trial balance sheet. Though the bank account may be large and each one's material gain be great, it would not be surprising if it suddenly dawns upon many that good health has been greatly impoverished by the low condition of the blood. It is in this state that the lactic acid in the vital fluid attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly the joints, making known the local manifestations of rheumatism. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla the great blood purifier, a postive and permanent cure for rheumatism.

☞Boston has had no sleighing this week while Quincy and Braintree girls have had lots of sleigh rides. There are other things in which we have the advantage of Boston. One is GUY'S Coliseum where we can buy a solid oak table for 49 cents, children's horses and sleds in abundance and everything to furnish a house from attic to cellar. Go and see Mr. Guy. lpo

"Pimples broke out on my face. I began taking Hood's Pills and I am much stronger and am able to sleep well, and the pimples have also disappeared." Miss Anna Truth, 102 Copeland street, West Quincy, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills.

☞Taylor's Anti-Headache Powders are just as harmless as water. Yet, look how powerful water is in putting out fire. Our powders cure Headache and Neuralgia in the same manner exactly. It is safe to say that these powders will cure all cases, because they never failed yet. Why not buy Taylor's and be sure about it? Get them of Leonard J. Pastor, Ph. G., 27 School street.

PUBLIC IN IGNORANCE.

Butchery by Turks Far Greater Than Has Been Reported.

Policy of Starving Armenians Into Submission.

Sultan's Chief Henchmen Are Placed in Unenviable Positions.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—At the meeting of the ambassadors a few days ago the reports received from Armenia at the different embassies were compared and thoroughly discussed, with the view of enabling the different representatives to compel full reports on the subject for the use of their government.

It is believed that if the result of this conference is published it will show an unparalleled state of affairs. The misery and distress in Armenia are said to be more severe than the most vivid reports have made out, and the number of people massacred is said to be greater than anybody here believes.

Letters received here yesterday from Aleppo say there are serious fears there of a massacre of the Christians unless the powers intervene promptly to prevent it.

News was also received yesterday from Zeitoun saying that the Turkish troops from Marash are surrounding the Armenians in order to cut off their lines of communication and prevent them from obtaining re-enforcements, provisions and the supplies of arms and ammunition which are understood to have been forwarded to them from many parts of Asiatic Turkey.

When the town of Zeitoun is completely surrounded it is believed that the Armenians will soon be starved into submission, although their friends say they have provisions enough stored in the town to last them until spring, and that the Turks will have to pass the winter in the snow around Zeitoun, a not very attractive prospect.

Fresh placards have been posted in different public places proclaiming the policy and demands of the Ottoman Progress union. The title of the union outlines the idea of the people with whom the documents originated. The police promptly tore them down and are hunting for the people who posted them on the walls.

Palace Troubles.

Izzet Bey, the first chamberlain of the sultan and the great favorite recently of his majesty, has been replaced by Hadjiali Bey and Emitt Bey at the palace, but the last named bey has been arrested in consequence of the charges brought against him by Said Pasha, the ex-grand vizier.

Izzet Pasha recently presented the sultan with a long report upon the deplorable situation of the country, but the sultan refused to read it, whereupon Izzet Pasha resigned, but the sultan refused to accept his resignation. Izzet has tendered his resignation four times since then, but each time the sultan refused to accept it. Izzet, however, persists in resigning.

The Young Turks warmly blame Said Pasha for leaving the British embassy, and hope that he will insist upon his announced intention of going abroad. On the other hand, the Old Turks blame him for taking refuge in the embassy. The result is that Said Pasha's prestige in the eyes of the Turks is said to have been considerably shaken, and it is believed that his political career has terminated.

At the meeting of the ambassadors a few days ago the reports received from Armenia at the different embassies were compared and thoroughly discussed, with the view of enabling the different representatives to compel full reports on the subject for the use of their government.

Samples of Turkish Brutality.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Daily News publishes a statement on oath made in London by an Armenian named Aslanian, who was sent to New York by the Anglo-Armenian association, yesterday. Aslanian says that he lived in America formerly, and that he left New York in the beginning of September to rejoin his wife. On his arrival at Constantinople he was thrown into prison, although he had a regular passport. While there, which was during the recent disturbances, he witnessed a horrible scene, hundreds of Armenians being brought into the prison and deliberately killed.

Aslanian said further that the prisoners were wounded with rifle butts and bayonets by the soldiers, under the orders of the officers. This continued for 48 hours. He believes that 300 people were killed and 500 wounded in that time. The women and relatives, who were weeping and imploring at the gates for permission to see their husbands and son, were roughly repulsed by the soldiers.

On the following day Aslanian was put in irons and was catechised regarding his supposed associates who had come from America for revolutionary purposes. Upon pleading ignorance of this, he was tortured with a truncheon beating upon the shoulders, thighs and legs, causing agony. This was repeated on 11 different occasions. He was placed in solitary confinement for a fortnight, and other prisoners were similarly treated. When the delegates from the embassies came to inspect the prison they displayed the marks of their beating. "But," Aslanian continued, "fearing vengeance, I said they were due to rheumatism, and begged for my release. Four days later I was liberated."

Red Cross to the Rescue.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The American Red Cross society has decided to accept the duty of distributing the relief funds for the Armenian sufferers, and has issued the following statement: "Owing to the unanimous and urgent appeals from the friends of humanity, representing all of the people of this country, the American National Red Cross society has decided that it must accept the sacred trust of endeavoring to relieve the starving Armenians in Asia Minor. According to conservative estimates there are 350,000 utterly destitute people in that country, who will have to be assisted six or eight months (until the next harvest). Fully realizing the difficulties and hardships to be met, the Red Cross society will start for Turkey as soon as sufficient funds are placed at its disposal, or guaranteed to insure success. Funds may be sent to Miss Clara Barton, president and treasurer of the American National Red Cross society at Washington. Authorized agents to receive funds and materials will be published in a few days. The Red Cross society also suggests that goods, grain and other material be sent by chartered steamer."

WITH SIMPLE CEREMONIES

The Body of Judge Thurman Is Laid Beside That of His Wife.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 14.—The funeral of Judge Thurman this morning was free from any display. The services at the residence were simple and necessarily brief on account of the extreme age of Rev. J. L. Grover, who conducted them. Only the more intimate friends of the family were admitted to the residence during the services, which occurred at 10 o'clock, the people being given an opportunity to view the remains from 10:30 to 1:30.

The casket is covered with black broadcloth and has extension handles. On the top is a silver plate, bearing the inscription:

ALLEN GRANBERRY THURMAN.
Born, Nov. 13, 1813.
Died, Dec. 12, 1895.

At 1:30 the remains were taken to Greenlawn cemetery, where they were placed in a vaulted grave beside those of his wife. Dr. E. J. Rexford, a Universalist minister, conducted the services at the cemetery. The grandsons of the deceased jurist were the pallbearers.

The board of trade met last night and decided to have a public memorial service at the board of trade auditorium on Dec. 20. Judge Thurman was the first honorary member of the board of trade. Last night the Jackson club also met and adopted the following memorial:

In the death of Allen G. Thurman the republic has lost one of her greatest statesmen, and Ohio one of the most distinguished of her sons; the cause of the plain, common people, their ablest champion, and Democracy her chiefest apostle. From its organization, the Jackson club has delighted to do homage to his high character as its honorary president, and now lay its final tribute with a proud sorrow upon the bier of him concerning whom it can be written: He was an honest man; he was the friend of liberty; he was the defender of the right; he was a patriot.

Youngsters' Plans Thwarted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The proposition of the "young bloods" to push the reorganization of the senate through prior to the Christmas holidays has met with opposition from the older Republican senators, who recall that they resisted ante-Christmas reorganization of the senate when the Democrats last gained control, and should the Democrats show a disposition to resist hasty reorganization, the matter will probably go over until after the holidays. The committee's report will be presented and adopted before an attempt is made to elect the senate officers.

Cubans' Hopes Raised.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The state department has received notice that the 21 Cubans on trial in Nassau on the charge of conducting a filibustering expedition from this country were acquitted after a trial lasting only 10 minutes. This is the same party arrested at Wilmington, Del., and acquitted after an exciting trial. Word of the acquittal was received also by Secretary Quesada of the Cuban revolutionary committee, which has established headquarters here. This news, together with the action of the Federation of Labor endorsing the Cuban cause, and the reports of General Gomez's successes, made the day a notable one in Cuban circles.

Succumbed to Operation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—John A. Goldsmith, the well-known handler and driver of famous trotting horses, died at the Presbyterian hospital last night. Last April a serious operation was performed, from the effects of which Mr. Goldsmith rallied, and left the hospital in apparently his former health. On the same day he was married to a Miss Bertha Moore of this city, and returned to Washingtonville, where he purchased a stock farm. His last appearance in public was at the Goshen Driving park in September. Goldsmith was born about 37 years ago in Washingtonville.

"Citizenship a Farce."

DETROIT, Dec. 14.—An address to the country has been adopted by the conference of the colored men held here. It says that the status of the colored race in the United States bears a closer analogy to that of denizens than to the rights of native born citizenship, and that in at least three states of the Union citizenship is a farce, which in default of absolute protection, should be exchanged for some paternal form of government. A plan of permanent organization was presented and finally adopted. It is to be called the National Federation of Colored Men.

—A very imposing bronze equestrian statue of General Grant is being made in Chicopee. With pedestal, it will stand 3 feet high, and the body of the horse is 10 feet long. Gen. The cost of the statue will be about $30,000.

MOORE IS LOCKED UP.

Denied Privileges of Jailer's Rooms For the First Time.

Indictment Against Lane May Be Asked For.

Now Reported That Cashier Morrill Will Not Return to Manchester.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Dec. 16.—Dr. J. C. Moore has not secured bail, and consequently passed Sunday in jail. It is now stated that the over issue of the stock of the Union Publishing company, of which the doctor is treasurer, is far in excess of $8900, the first figures given out.

For the first time since his incarceration, Dr. Moore was locked up yesterday. During his detention the noted prisoner has been extended every courtesy by Jailer Wadsworth, and has had the run of the jailer's office and private rooms, but yesterday, as Wadsworth had to come up to the city, Moore was obliged to be locked up, like any of the other prisoners.

Lane's Case.

It is rumored that District Attorney Branch will ask for an indictment against Cashier D. Warren Lane, before the next United States grand jury. The charges will be "making false returns to the national comptroller."

A gentleman who states that he "has a letter in his inside pocket" from Charles F. Morrill, who is presumed to be a clerk in a bank in Buenos Ayres, states that Morrill will never come back to Manchester, or, at least, he will not come back to take part in any case that may refer to the local bank troubles of two years ago. The gentleman in question states that Morrill writes that he will not come back and that any statement to the contrary is unfounded.

Husband Held on Suspicion.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 16.—John O'Neil was arrested yesterday afternoon after an investigation into the cause of his wife's death. Mrs. O'Neil's husband claimed he came home Saturday night and found her dying. His young son states that his father sent him on an errand, and on his return he found his father bending over his mother, who was lying on a lounge and calling for assistance. There was evidence that a struggle had taken place. It is claimed O'Neil has had trouble with his wife lately, owing to her drinking habits.

Death Sentence Pronounced.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—Angus D. Gilbert, the murderer of Alice M. Sterling, on April 10, was on Saturday sentenced to die as a legal punishment for his crime. The date of the execution was fixed as Feb. 21, 1896. Judge Dunbar pronounced the words authorizing the forfeit of the prisoner's life. Gilbert was to all appearances but little moved. He was calm and undisturbed from the moment he was brought into court to that of his retirement.

Massachusetts Day.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—Massachusetts day was observed by the Christian Endeavor societies of the state yesterday. A special program had been arranged by the state officers and sent out, and it provided for reports from all departments of the work and an offering for the expenses of the state union. Each state officer had a particular appeal to make, either for renewed Christian consecration or special effort in temperance, juvenile and missionary work.

How an Italian Tried to Save Himself.

RUTLAND, Vt., Dec. 16.—Dominick Vignola, an Italian bricklayer, employed at the house of correction, raised a check from $5 to $95, and attempted to cash it at the Boston clothing house, but F. C. Sturtevant, the manager, sent for the chief of police. During the interview with the chief the Italian induced the officer to let him look at the paper, and while the chief's back was turned he swallowed the check, hoping in that way to save himself.

No Creed or Sect.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—In the "Church of the Higher Life" yesterday, Helen Van Anderson was ordained to the ministry. She had never studied for the ministry, and the church "stands for no creed or sect whatever." Rev. Minot J. Savage preached the sermon and the ordination service was performed by Rev. Florence E. Kellock, Rev. Mr. Savage and Rev. Antoinette Blackwell, while the latter extended the right hand of fellowship.

Through Thin Ice.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 16.—While Mashapaug pond was covered with skaters yesterday afternoon, the ice gave way, and a young man named McCrillis and his two sisters were thrown into the water. McCrillis seized the two girls, and supported them by holding them about the waist, while he treaded water toward thick ice. Matthew Brennan, employed in the icehouses, went into the water and lifted out the three persons.

Started by Cigar Butt.

SALEM, Mass., Dec. 16.—The large three-story brick building on Washington street, containing the postoffice, the City club and a large number of legal firms, was badly damaged by fire, which broke out in the entry of the second floor early this morning. The fire spread rapidly, and gutted the second and third floors. The loss is estimated at $15,000. A cigar butt is supposed to have caused the fire.

WANTS LABOR'S AID.

How Charlotte Smith Proposes to Deal With the Social Evil Problem.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Charlotte Smith well known in Boston as president of the Woman's Rescue league, is to address the American Federation of Labor convention. She wishes the workingman to cooperate with her league in securing legislation to regulate the social evil. Mrs. Smith proposes to submit bills in the legislatures of New York and Massachusetts which will place disorderly houses under police regulations. She would have these places in every city confined to one district, that district to be as far as possible from schools, from tenements and from all institutions where influence for good might be diminished by their presence. Mrs. Smith said that many of the places in the vicinity of the Bowery were tame when contrasted with the wicked places of Boston.

As Viewed by Depew.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Chauncey M. Depew said many interesting things at his home yesterday on the subject of personal liberty. He laid down three fundamental propositions: First—European people have won their personal liberty by a slow and painful struggle. Second—Personal liberty means the right to go one's own way unmolested. Third—Woman has the right to be wherever a man has the right to be. Upon these three statements Dr. Depew proceeded to attack the idea of personal liberty as it exists in the minds of New York police and magistrates.

Secret Is Out.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—In 1886 a book appeared from the press of a New York firm entitled "Uncle Daniel's Story of Tom Anderson and Twenty Great Battles." It was published anonymously by "An Officer of the Union Army." Many prominent public men were covertly attacked in its pages, their names being paraphrased. Some of them, conspicuously Senator Voorhees of Indiana, published interviews in self-defense. All efforts to identify the author proved fruitless. It is now asserted that Logan wrote the book

Jumped Overboard.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—An unknown man jumped from the deck of the East Boston ferry boat Winthrop last night. The boat was brought to a standstill, but the man swam away from the boat toward the channel. Several life preservers were thrown at him, but he refused to catch them, and before a boat could reach him he sank.

Welcome News to Mariners.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—The gale which has paralyzed shipping on the New England coast for the past five days has subsided, but the water continues very rough. Many vessels which have been tied up in the harbor sailed, and a number of overdue vessels reached port.

President Gompers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Samuel Gompers was elected president of the American Federation of Labor by a majority of 18 votes over John McBride, his only opponent. The socialists voted for McBride.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Council tonight.

A beautiful day Sunday.

There are no cases of diphtheria in the city, says the Board of Health.

Weymouth officers report an unusual number of tramps applying for lodgings at the station.

Sleighing has gone for this time but skating holds good and the young people are making the best of it.

The Misses Bassett held a very pleasant whist party at their home on Walker street, Atlantic, on Saturday evening last.

A public dump has been established at Wollaston by the Board of Health. It is on land of A. L. Baker at the foot of Arlington street.

In 24 hours Mr. Wales reports a number of lists received for Christmas prizes, one of over 800 names. Do you think people read LEDGER "ad's."

A food fair will be held by the ladies of the Universalist church early in January, which promises to eclipse all past efforts to coax over the nickles.

Many of the water pipes in different houses in Atlantic were frozen last week, and considerable damage was done. Miss Emery of Billings street had a copper range tank burst by freezing.

D. D. Lincoln and Frederick Merrill braved the elements and had a shoot at the Wollaston Trap club's grounds on Saturday afternoon. Lincoln was high man with 17 birds and Merrill second with two.

Mr. T. A. Whicher informs the LEDGER that it is nowise certain that their shoe manufactory in Quincy will not reopen. Personally he is not in favor of going to Whitman. Business he reports to be in the worst condition for forty years.

A magnificent program is out for the concert at Quincy Point on Wednesday evening. The dramatic reader, Miss Jean Bergland, has no superior in her art, while Mrs. Herbert Drake and Mr. Kilby need no recommendation in Quincy. Miss Annie Goldthwaite, the contralto, is a Boston soloist. A better concert program has seldom been presented in Quincy.

Albert Hopkins of West Quincy filed up Saturday night and came to the Centre. He entered the police station and requested that some old cases, that had been disposed of, be put off until next year. He was told to go home and save himself trouble. He went out and was later seen by Officer Barry in front of Johnson's auction rooms. The officer told him to go home but instead of doing so Hopkins showed fight, when the officer decided to arrest him. Hopkins got hold of Officer Barry's legs and threw in, but he ran up against the wrong man and he was locked up.

Death of Mrs. Bernard O'Neil.

Mrs. Bernard O'Neil of Common street died Saturday night from typhoid-pneumonia in her 33d year. Mrs. O'Neil has been in a critical state for the past two weeks, but her family and friends had hoped that she might rally. She was well-known in Quincy and respected and beloved by all who had the pleasure of an intimate acquaintance. She leaves a husband and four children, the youngest a babe of four weeks. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Sullivan of Main street, and two brothers and four sisters mourn her loss. The funeral will be held from St. Mary's church, West Quincy, Tuesday morning, at 9 o'clock.

Another Break.

The office and carving shop of McGrath Bros., at South Quincy, were entered by burglars Sunday night but thus far nothing has been missed. Entrance to the office was had by forcing the catch on the rear window, and to the carving shop by pulling the staple in the door. The boxes in the carving shop were opened, but as noted above nothing has been missed and it is thought the parties were frightened away.

$1,000 Fire At Milton.

Chute's carpenter's shop, which is situated on Godfrey's lumber wharf, Milton, was badly damaged by fire Saturday night. When discovered, it looked as though a serious conflagration was certain, but prompt work of the department presented a spread of the fire and confined it to the carpenter's shop. The loss, including two horses which were burnt will amount to $1000. The cause is said to have been spontaneous combustion.

☞ Taylor's Anti-Headache Powders are just as harmless as water. Yet, look how powerful water is in putting out fire. Our powders cure Headache and Neuralgia in the same manner exactly. It is safe to say that these powders will cure all cases, because they never failed yet. Why not buy Taylor's and be sure about it? Get them of Leonard J. Pastor, Ph. G., 27 School street.

SHOCKING DEATH.

A Night Brakeman Killed at the Squantum Street Bridge.

Charles E. Campbell, a brakeman on the night inward freight, which passes through Quincy shortly after 10 o'clock, met with a shocking and horrible death Saturday night at the Squantum street bridge.

The unfortunate man had been riding in the buggy but after passing Wollaston he climbed to the top of the cars and was moving toward the forward end of the train when he struck the bridge. The force of the blow took the top of his head off and knocked him between the cars, and from appearances nearly the whole train must have passed over him, as he was literally cut to pieces.

The train sped on its way toward Boston, the crew all unconscious of the fate which had overtaken one of their number, and it was not until Boston was reached that he was missed. A train was then sent over the road looking for him and when the Squantum street bridge was reached a most horrible sight met the eyes of the searchers.

Undertaker Hall was notified and the remains were gathered up and removed to his rooms.

Campbell was apparently about 40 years of age. But little is known of him, for he has been on this road but a short time. It is said he belonged in Bangor, Me., and was formerly employed as an engineer on the Maine Central. The body was sent to Boston this morning.

THE NORFOLK DEFEATED.

The Wollaston Club Score Over One Hundred Points More.

The Wollaston Bowling club is now happy. Last Saturday evening it defeated the Norfolk Cycle club 2,239 to 2,134 on the Duck's Nest alleys. A short time ago the Wollaston club was a guest of the Cycle club and got whipped, but it has now returned the compliment with interest. E. S. Taylor of the Wollaston put up the highest single score, 174, and McClintock of the same team the highest total, 491. The score:

The continued case of Adelaide F. Hunt for assault was called, and she was defaulted.

The Second Lecture.

The second and last lecture for the benefit of the Adams and John Hancock schools will be given in the High School hall on Wednesday evening of this week. All who attended Mr. Leon H. Vincent's first lecture received a literary treat and it is expected that a much larger audience will listen to him on Wednesday evening when he will speak on "Emerson." The money cleared from these lectures is to be equally divided between the two schools and used for beautifying the different rooms. This is certainly a worthy object and we hope that many tickets may be sold to help along the good cause.

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND.

The Death of a Man Who will be Greatly Missed.

George L. Gill, Treasurer of Savings Bank, Passes Away.

Was Prominent in Town Affairs Financial Matters and Societies.

About ten o'clock this morning the city was shocked to learn of the death of Mr. George L. Gill, the venerable and much respected Treasurer of the Quincy Saving bank. Although Mr. Gill has been seriously ill since Nov. 20, his demise was unexpected. Dr. Gordon reports him to have been remarkably bright on Saturday, and he received callers Sunday. The early morning report was encouraging, and at the time of his death only his faithful wife of 49 years was in the house. Catarrhal intestinal indigestion had been his disease, but heart failure is ascribed as the cause of his death.

How true of Mr. Gill is the saying, "everybody's friend." He listened patiently to all their trouble and perplexities, and in probate matter particularly he was the friend of the widow and orphans. He was generous and kind, and on private business matters his counsel was highly prized.

For 34 years he was Town Clerk, and one of the regrets at the change from town to city was his declination to accept an appointment as City Clerk. The records of Quincy during his long term of office will bear the closest scrutiny, and he was always kind and obliging.

Mr. Gill was born in Hingham, Dec. 20, 1823, and in addition to the public schools, attended the Derby Academy in that town. He was a classmate of Horace B. Spear, and it is somewhat remarkable their close business connection since. George L. Gill removed with his parents to Quincy in 1838 and has since been a resident.

In business he was until 1866 a bookseller and binder, and later in more general trade in the building now occupied by the Savings Bank. In 1868 he entered the National Granite Bank as an assistant to the cashier, Mr. Horace B. Spear. At this time the Savings Bank was under the same management. When the two institutions separated in 1871, Mr. Gill became treasurer of the Savings Bank which was removed to its present location. During the war from 1861 to 1866, he was postmaster of Quincy.

Mr. Gill was first elected Town Clerk in 1850, serving six years. In 1860 he was again chosen to the office and held it continuously until Feb 4, 1889, when city officers took the place of town officers. He served one term in 1855 on the School Committee, four school buildings being dedicated at the time. It was during his service that the board established the precedent of employing High School graduates as teachers. Ex officio he has been a member of the Board of Registrars of Voters, and a member of the Managers of Mount Wollaston Cemetery; from 1874 to 1895; also secretary of the Woodward Fund for many years, being a member of board from 1869 to 1894.

He was a representative to the General Court in 1857, defeating John Quincy Adams at the election of 1856. Since 1859 he has been a Justice of the Peace, and since 1885 a Notary Public.

He was a director of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company. Years ago he was prominent in the First church and Sunday School, and his interest and connection with the Society continued to his death, being one of the most constant in attendance. At the restoration of the charter of Rural Lodge of Masons he was one of the four new members initiated, and has maintained his connection since, holding the offices of secretary and trustee for many years. He was a member of the original Mount Wollaston Lodge of Odd Fellows, passing through the chairs; and at the restoration of the charter in 1884 he became treasurer, which office he filled until 1888. He was also a member of Howard Council, Royal Arcanum of Boston.

Mr. Gill was married in Quincy, Oct. 11, 1846, to Lucretia Ann Burrell, who survives him. They had three children; all of whom have passed away. An only brother of the deceased, Mr. Edwin H. Gill, resides in South Boston, where he is in business.

A Bright Life Gone.

Early Sunday morning death entered one of Quincy's pleasantest homes and removed a loving wife and mother. Mr. Charles F. Pettengill and daughter have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their great loss. Mrs. Pettengill has been missed in social circles where she was always a favorite, for nearly two years. Her sickness has been a lingering one, which she bore patiently and with Christian fortitude. She was born on the Cape about 48 years ago, and for nearly twenty years has lived in this city, building about five years ago a pretty house on Canal street.

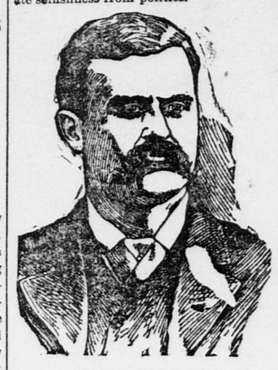

The funeral on Tuesday will be private.

"PATRIOTS OF AMERICA"

Organized by "Coin" Harvey With Himself as the Chief Apostle.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—W. H. Harvey, the apostle of free silver, who is better known as "Coin," yesterday launched his new political party. According to the prospectus, which Mr. Harvey gave out, it is to be an oath-bound secret organization, with the title of "Patriots of America." Its especial mission is to advance the cause of free silver, as well as to eliminate selfishness from politics.

WILLIAM H. HARVEY.

The national officers are: W. H. Harvey, first national patriot; Charles H. McClure, national recorder, and James F. Adams, national treasurer. Mr. Harvey was first elected head of the order, and he then appointed Messrs. Adams and McClure, and the organization was declared complete.

Friends of Freedom.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—For the last 10 months a movement has been under way in the lodges of the Clan-na-Gaels in this and other large cities to organize among the best Irishmen military companies. In this city alone there is a well-drilled and equipped regiment of 500 men, and companies and regiments are in process of formation in Brooklyn, Boston, Chicago and other large cities. It is said that the whole movement is a scheme to prepare a well-trained and armed body of men to be used when there is an opportunity to free Ireland. This scheme is denied by the leaders of the movement, who declare that the men are drilled for the purpose of furnishing the United States government with trained soldiers in case of an emergency.

Cutting Down Expenses.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The diplomatic representation of Nicaragua to the United States has been discontinued for the first time in many years, and as a measure of economy no legation will be maintained at Washington. This action is a matter of surprise to officials here, owing to the importance of some of the questions, notably the canal, in which the United States and Nicaragua are mutually interested. Dr. Guzman has presented his letters of recall to the state department and entered upon the practice of medicine here.

Concert In Name Only.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The Daily News, commenting upon the announcement that Lord Salisbury has declined at present in the public interest to receive a deputation in behalf of the Armenians, says: This must mean that the European concert exists only in name, and that the powers are not prepared to co-operate in the deposition of the sultan or in enforcing European control. Russia is the power most closely interested, and she can count upon the support of France. If this be so, the situation is more serious than ever.

Sticking to Murphy.

TECUMSEH, Neb., Dec. 16.—The Catholic congregation of this county yesterday adopted resolutions declaring their intention to support Father Murphy in his fight with Bishop Bonicum. The priest sent here by the bishop when he excommunicated Father Murphy held services in a hall yesterday, but was unable to secure any worshippers, notwithstanding the bishop's proclamation of excommunication includes any Catholics who may aid Murphy in holding services.

Steamers In Collision.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 16.—The American liner Indiana, Captain Boggs, from Philadelphia, Dec. 2, was turning into the stream last evening in order to land her passengers, when she collided with the British steamer Zamora, which was anchored in midstream. As a result of the collision the Indiana showed a big rent in her port side, just at the collision bulkhead, through which the water rushed quickly and in a great torrent.

Fighting Coppinger.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The American Protective association is engaged in vigorous warfare against the confirmation of the nomination of General J. J. Coppinger to be brigadier general. The petitions charge that General Coppinger's promotion is made over the heads of a score of skillful, brave and gallant officers, and assert that he has become an American citizen only within the past three years.

After Sixteen Years.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 16.—W. L. Babbitt of this city, whose father was a Chicago lumber merchant and who divorced his wife and kidnapped the son 25 years ago, has just been rewarded after a search of 16 years for his mother by finding her at Cuyahoga Falls, O. The mother is said to be a relative of ex-Postmaster General Bissell.

Against a Pardon.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—The Municipal league, the leading reform organization of this city, has forwarded to Governor Hastings a petition protesting against the movement to secure a pardon for ex-City Treasurer John Bardsley, who in 1891 was sentenced to 15 years for the embezzlement of public moneys.

Populists' Call.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Dec. 16.—The national executive committee of the People's party have issued a call for a meeting of the national committee at St. Louis, Jan. 17, 1896, to fix the time and place for holding a national convention and transact other business.

Trust Property Turned Over.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—All the property of the Distilling and Cattle Feeding company has been turned over to the American Spirits Manufacturing company of deed of date of Nov. 10 for a consideration of $10 in fee simple.

Ideal Gifts for Christmas.

Christmas to many means discontent. Hours and days are spent in thinking of "What's best for Christmas?" It's better by far to give something useful, something that will not only delight and add to Christmas happiness, but something that is enjoyed for its continuous usefulness, thereby bringing constant pleasant remembrances of the thoughtful giver.

Here's a List of Suggestions.

First of all, they'll brand you as a generous giver. Second of all, they're attractive, sensible and built for service. Last of all, they're not expensive in price when you buy them here.

There's reason, satisfaction and comfort in such gifts as these:

Farmer Stebbins as Santa Claus.

By WILL CARLETON.

[Copyright, 1895, by American Press Association.]

We went to Pegtown visiting, my good old wife an' me,
An' thought that we would bathe ourselves in Chris'mas joy an' glee;
For Sarah Ann, a buxom dame, an' daughter, too, of mine,
Resides there with her older half an' children eight or nine;
An' so we gathered gifts enough to make 'em all content
An' took the train an' landed there the very day we went.

The children warmly greeted us an' crowded round my chair,
With four a-perchin' on my knees an' young uns still to spare;
An' asked about my spectacles, an' how I growed my wig,
An' if my papa bought my teeth before I got so big,
An' how my whiskers come to bleach an' other questions prone
To make a mortal realize that younger days have flown;

An' if I ever looked it up how fur I was around,
An' when I run if it would shake the whole adjacent ground,
An' if the your-correct-weight box didn't think I was a lot,
An' if I wouldn't have to put two pennies in the slot,
With other questions well designed to give a hint to me
That I was not a first class sylph so far as they could see.

An' when I told 'em fairy tales they wouldn't believe a word
An' said the Sin'bad sailor things could never have occurred;
An' all the pleasant little lies that used to cheer my youth
They set upon without delay as destitute of truth.
An' when of Christmas mysteries in solemn tones I spake,
They laughed an' said that Santa Claus was all "a bloomin' fake."

So Christmas eve I slyly told my daughter Sarah Ann:
"I'll show the tots a little sight to laugh at if they can.
You rake the fireplace clear o' fire, not tellin' them the cause,
An' I'll come down the chimney way dressed up as Santa Claus.
It isn't very fur to climb—the weather's pretty mild,
An' I would do three times as much to interest a child."

I went an' clad in hairy garb, with whiskers long an' white
An' other things to paralyze the inexperienced sight,
An' had some sleighbells bright an' new a-hangin' on my arms
An' pockets full o' Christmas things to add unto my charms,
An' with the strongest ladder rope that I could find in town
I entered in the chimney top an' clambered slowly down.

My goodness sakes! Who ever heard of such ur timely luck?
The chimney narrowed all to once, an' suddenly I stuck
An' hung there like a roastin' hen a-waitin' to be brown,
For spite of all my effortin' I couldn't get up or down.
An' then the chil'ren heard the noise an' run distressin' fleet
An' looked an' yelled: "It's Gran'pa Steb. We know him by his feet".

An' then their mother had to tell what I had tried to do,
Whereat their little fancies sprung the subject to pursue.
They asked me if I'd traveled far, if chimneys injured coats,
An' where my span of reindeers was, an' if they'd like some oats,
An' told me, with a childish greed for Christmas gathered pelf,
If I would throw the presents down, I needn't come myself;

An' there I hung for quite awhile, with fury in my heart,
Until they brought a mason in, who took the bricks apart;
An' though they made the children stop, an' sent 'em off to bed,
I knowed what they was thinkin' of an' what they prob'ly said,
An' when the mornin' did appear an' breakfast time occurred,
They set around the table there forbid to say a word;

A-sufferin' so to laugh at me, afraid that I'd be gruff,
An' longin' for their presents, too—I knowed it well enough.
An' then a tear come in my eye, an' like a fond old dunce
I went an' dug the presents out an' give 'em all to once.
An' then I says, "If Santa Claus is what you call 'a fake,'
These pr'tty things he brought fur you is real an' no mistake."

An' then they up an' danced around an' kissed me, one by one,
An' hugged me harder than the blamed old chimney just had done,
An' with a thousand looks of love incumbered me with thanks
An' made me like 'em more an' more in spite of all their pranks.
An' one, the prettiest of the whole, who always took my part,
She smiles an' says: "It's Gran'pa Steb. We know him by his heart!"

THE CITY PLUMS.

From Fifty to One Hundred to be Distributed.

Only About Twenty-five However With a Salary.

Not a Great Many Changes But There Will be Some.

Now that it has been definitely settled that Mr. Charles Francis Adams, 2d, will be the next Mayor, the subject that is uppermost in the minds of the politicians, as well as of the citizens in general, is, who will receive the plums in the gift of His Honor.

The Mayor has many offices to fill, some of which have a salary attached and many that have no salary, yet there is no lack of material in either case.

The biggest plum is that of Commissioner of Public Works which pays a salary of $2,000. There is much speculation as to who will receive the call to this office and there is a rumor that the next Commissioner will be some citizen of Ward One whose name has as yet not been publicly mentioned.

A list of the offices to be filled by Mayor Adams, and the salary attached, will not be out of place at this time and is therefore appended:

Commissioner of Public Works, $2,000.
City Treasurer, $1,200.
City Clerk, $1,200.
Collector of Taxes, $600 and five per cent. of all poll taxes collected before Jan. 1
City Solicitor, $700
Chief of Police, $1,000.
Chief Engineer of Fire department, $400.
Overseer of the Poor, $400; and expenses visiting poor out of the city.
City Physician, $300.
Inspector of Milk, $150.
Inspector of Animals, $300.
Principal Assessor, $600.
Six Assistant Assessors, $350 each.
Three members Board of Health $150 each.
Sealer of Weights and Measures, $15.
One Registrar of votes, $100.
Inspector of plumbing, $3 per building.
One member of the Water Board.
Three Park Commissioners.
One member Sewage Commission.
Six trustees of Thomas Crane Public Library.
Six managers of Public Burial Places.
Six managers of Adams Academy.
Special police, constables to serve civil process, weighers of coal, measurers of wood and bark, measurers of grain, fence viewers, field drivers, undertakers and pound keeper.

LESS THAN $500.

Quincy's Annual Assessment for Cost of Parks and Boulevards.

The LEDGER learns from reliable sources that Quincy's annual assessments to the State for the Metropolitan parks will be but $417.93, and but $35.46 for Metropolitan boulevards.

It will be remembered that the loans for the former aggregate $2 300,000, and for the latter $500,000, and Quincy's assessments seem insignificant. The assessment for maintenance is to be added to the above, but the total annual cost to the city will not be over $800. This together with the fact that $65,611.32 have been spent for labor at the Blue Hills reservation in two years, and that over one-half of this has been received by Quincy residents, should cause no regrets that the reservations were established.

The LEDGER claims a little credit for the smallness of the assessment by pointing out the facts that the city was to lose many acres of taxable property, etc., but Quincy is indebted most to City Solicitor Blackmur for his able presentation of the case at the hearings.

HOOD'S PILLS Cure LIVER ILLS

IN THE CHURCHES.

The work of the choir under the management of Mr. Marcus Wight added much to the morning service at the Quincy Point church.

The children's social and entertainment at the Washington Street church, Thursday reflected much credit on the little people of the Junior C. E., as well as on the superintendent and her assistants.

"What is True Friendship," was the theme at the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Centre Congregational church.

At the Calvary church, Rev. C. A Parker preacher Sunday from Matt. 9:2: "Son, be of good cheer, thy sins be forgiven thee." This sick man came seeking healing for his body, he returned with his soul healed. Jesus first healed the man's heart of sin, then came the softening influence that every redeemed soul receives. Jesus meets all men at that point where they most need His help. Heavenly healing, the nature of pardon; pardon a remission of punishment, restoration to divine favor the heart of God's love. The difference between the pardon of God and the law of nature: if you break the law of nature you must suffer; the law of the gospel, you are pardoned through Jesus Christ. We need courage to be able to fight the battles of life.

Courage wins cheerfulness, is the effect of pardon, and during times of adversity and trial it is unequaled to bear up. Also in death we realize the greatest of God's gifts is pardon, the darkness of the tomb has no fear for the redeemed soul. Some day our Saviour will call to us as He did to Lazarus, "Come forth."

There will be a special meeting of the Reaper Circle, King's Daughters, on Wednesday evening. It is desired that all who can, will be present.

Rev. Edward Norton preached to a large congregation at the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, yesterday morning. In the evening, Rev. N. H. Whittlesey of New Haven, Conn., secretary of the National Council, Ministerial Relief Committee, spoke on the duty to pension agee ministers and also families of ministers who had been left in a destitute condition. A collection was taken up for the purpose of assisting in the work. The attendance was very large at the Sunday School, and active preparations are being made for Christmas.

The various Wollaston churches are making preparations for their annual Christmas festival.

Rev. E. N. Hardy's subject on Sunday was "Christ and the Treasury," and his sermon was on giving, urging contributions from all for church work. Generosity makes Christians.

A praise service now precedes the morning service at the Centre Congregational church every Sunday at 10 o'clock in the pastor's study.

A large congregation was present on Sunday morning to hear Rev. Mr. Gurney of the Wollaston Baptist society preach on "Waiting and Hoping." Mr. Gurney's text was taken from Psalm 39-7. Mrs. Herbert Drake of Quincy sang in the place of Mrs F. A. Page in the quartette and was listened to with much pleasure.

The Wollaston Baptist neighborhood meeting will be held on Tuesday evening at Mr. J. B. Emery's on Lincoln avenue.

Mrs. Josiah Sparrow of Wollaston entertains the Foreign Missionary Society at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

Both the morning and vesper services at the First church, Sunday, were well attended. Rev. Ellery C. Butler, the pastor, occupied the pulpit and spoke in his usual interesting and instructive manner. The singing under the direction of Mr. James F. Harlow was of the usual high order. Mr. Harlow is arranging a special Christmas programme for next Sunday.

Wonderful are the cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla and yet it is only because Hood's Sarsaparilla, the one true blood purifier, makes pure, rich, healthy blood.

Hood's Pills for the liver and bowels act easily, yet promptly and efficiently.

THREE THOUSAND OUT.

Beginning of What Promises to Be a Strike of Big Proportions.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The members of the Clothing Contractors' Mutual and Protective association have repudiated the contracts entered into by them with the members of the United Garment Workers of America in this city last July, and a big strike, involving 16,000 tailors in this city and Brooklyn, Brownsville and Newark, is precipitated.

The contractors are under bonds in $300 each to live up to the terms of the agreement for one year, made during the last conflict between themselves and the organized tailors, to whom the contractors had to yield and grant their demands at the closing of the struggle, which terminated three months ago.

Yesterday being the first week day work day in the Hebrew weekly calendar, the tailors, though anticipating a repetition of the old trouble, found notices posted up in most all the shops stating that the "bosses" had agreed to abolish the weekly system granted under the provisions of the new contract, and that the men would be paid in the future under the piece work system.

The "bosses" further notified the tailors that they would not, in the future, as they had been doing in the past, permit the walking delegates of the United Garment Workers to enter their shops, and would, at the same time, dispense with the services of timekeepers, whose duty it was to call out the dinner hour. This greatly incensed the tailors, who quit work yesterday morning in 100 shops, employing 3000 workers.

The contractors held a meeting yesterday and decided not to permit organized labor men to run their establishments. They contend they have a right to hire and discharge whom they please and manage their business without the interference of the walking delegates of the Brotherhood of Tailors.

The executive committee of the United Garment Workers met last night, and it is more than probable that over 16,000 tailors, pants makers, knee-pant makers, cutters, finishers and basters will desert the shops.

Ready For Work.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—President Cleveland returned to Washington yesterday afternoon from his hunting trip in the waters of North Carolina. He looked the picture of health and vigor. Barring the inclement weather, which for several days interfered with the sport, there were no special incidents in the trip.

Armenian Women and Girls Wander About In the Snow.

Further Pillaging of Villages Without Opposition.

Outraged Armenians Now Reduced to a State of Utter Despair.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 16.—The British vice consul at Van describes the condition of the Armenians there as being too appalling for words. Thousands of women and girls are wandering through the snow-piled streets without shelter or food, and barefooted, their ravishers having only left them a chemise and some of them only a clout to cover their nakedness.

An eye-witness of the barbarity of the massacre at Kaisarien on Nov. 30 says that men and women were literally hacked to pieces to the number of several hundred. Some of the Turks say that a thousand were killed. Saturday afternoon several thousand fierce fellows came from the villages in the vicinity. Many women were abducted. The troops could have squelched the business if they had desired to do so. The Armenians of Kaisarien were always quiet and law-abiding. All this information is in the hands of the ambassadors, with names and dates.

The Zeitoun tragedy is approaching an end. At the Semanlik, Saturday, the sultan's secretary informed Europeans that the Zeitounites committed a horrible outrage; that they had descended en masse from the hills, had burned the Moslem village of Marli and had killed every inhabitant.

This is a foul lie, invented by Izzet Bey, the clever Arabic scoundrel who now rules the sultan and the empire. He maintains his power by pandering to the sultan's thirst for Armenian blood. Everybody is aware that Zeitoun was surrounded by troops and bashi-bazouks, and that such a sortie was impossible. The object of the falsehood is to alienate sympathy from the Armenians. This means that the doom of the Zeitounites is sealed. The sultan means to seize an excuse to order their extermination.

Much Relief Is Felt

among the friends of American missionaries over the news that has just been received by United States Minister Terrell from Aintab, Bitlis, Kharput, Marsovan, Kaisarien and Talass, and which contains assurances that the missionaries at those points are safe.

They are under the protection of Turkish troops, in accordance with the peremptory demand upon the porte by Minister Terrtil. The report to Mr. Terrell from these points, although they give the comforting assurances that no harm has thus far come to the missionaries, state that serious danger still exists, and convey the impression that the fear of further outbreaks is by no means past. Word has also been received that the Americans in Hadjin are safe.

The French guardship Faucon has arrived here in accordance with the permission granted by the sultan upon the demand of the powers, and has joined the English gunboat Dryad, the Italian war vessel Archimed and the Austrian gunboat Sebenico, which arrived during the week.

The secondary effects of the outrages perpetrated upon Armenians in the months past are seen in the advices now being received from Anatolia, which dwell upon the terrible distress existing everywhere. A thousand fugitives have taken refuge in Black sea ports, where they remain in a deplorable condition.

Raids Continue.

The Kurds continue to pillage the Armenian villages without opposition from the helpless inhabitants or from the authorities. During the last three weeks 160 villages have been sacked and 70 men killed. The villages of Seria, Hazler, Bohazkeesen, Hadji Kisha and the Armenian district of Haizalsor have been laid waste. The village of Iamasquird has been raided four times in one week.

The authorities make no attempt whatever to put a stop to the Kurdish raids or to punish the perpetrators of them. It is feared that the inhabitants of numbers of villages who have fled through fear of threatened outrage and have taken refuge at inaccessible points in the mountains will perish during the severe weather of the winter, which is now coming on. The Armenians are in a state of utter despair over their situation.

News is daily received here of thousands of Armenians who are offered the choice between Islam and death. At Marash, an Armenian, who was ordained an Anglican clergyman, refused the choice, and was killed by slow torture. At Kharput, two Protestant preachers and a Syrian priest were murdered for the same cause. At Achuma, 52 persons died as martyrs to their religion. At Ouzoon, a large number of Armenians were captured and led to a neighboring Turkish village, where they were ordered to change their faith. Fifty of them rushed into the Euphrates and were drowned, the Turks shooting them while they were in the water. At Hoh, 85 were killed.

Wholesale Slaughter Was Contemplated.

Although the immediate cause of the recent widespread panic here was the quarrel between two Armenians, it now appears that a wholesale attack upon all the Armenians in the city, looking to their extermination, was really projected on that day. The attack was to commence at 11 o'clock in the morning, but the plan was frustrated by the state of alarm and excitement created by the petty quarrel between the two Armenians, which served as a warning to the other Armenians in the city, and caused them to take refuge in their houses.

Several conflicts between Armenians and Mussulmans are known to have taken place Saturday evening in various parts of the city, but great secrecy is maintained on the subject by the authorities, and no details are obtainable.

The massacres of Armenians in Kaisarien and Talass lasted for three days. All kinds of excesses were perpetrated upon the inhabitants, many women and girls being outraged by the gens d'armes as well as the Kurds.

It has previously been alleged that the Kurds alone were responsible for this specie of outrages, being beyond the control of the authorities. The scenes which are daily enacted are too horrible to allow of description. The survivors of these massacres are compelled to either adopt Islam or be killed.

The ambassadors of the powers here are finding that it is useless to address communications to the porte on this subject.

Further Slaughter Probable.

ROME, Dec. 16.—The Capitale states that an army of 100,000 Abyssinians is advancing rapidly in two columns on Adowa and Asmara. The Italians who occupy those points will remain on the defensive, and will endeavor to temporize with their antagonists until re-enforcements arrive for their relief. All the inhabitants of Adowa are arming themselves for an attack. Adowa is the capital of Tigre, in Abyssinia, and is a city of about 10,000 inhabitants.

Morton Wants It.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The Morning Advertiser says that Levi P. Morton is an avowed candidate for the presidency. A leader who saw the governor at Ellerslie came back with a conviction that Mr. Morton does not propose to toss away the honor offered him at the last Saratoga convention, and that while he does not propose to personally exert himself, he will be pleased to have the New York delegation stand firmly for his nomination at St. Louis.

TRUSTING WOMEN.

THEIR CONFIDENCE OFTEN LEADS TO SUFFERING.

An Ohio Woman's Experience, as Here Related, is Interesting to Every American Woman.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

It is a very sad fact that the more a woman trusts to the skill of her physician in treating her female complaints, the longer she is apt to suffer.

Lydia E. Pinkham fully realized this fact when she commenced that exhaustive study that has enabled the women of the world to help themselves. She discovered the source of female complaints, and produced the Vegetable Compound, which is their absolute cure.

When such testimony as the following is given, the woman who thinks should act quickly, and no longer permit herself to trust to incompetent doctors. The Vegetable Compound is sold by all druggists, and every woman should have it.

"The doctors had told me that unless I went to the hospital and had an operation performed I could not live. I had falling, enlargement, and ulceration of the womb.

"I was in constant misery all the time; my back ached; I was always tired. It was impossible for me to walk far or stand long at a time. I was surely a wreck. I decided that I would give your Compound and Sanative Wash a trial.

"I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and used two packages of Sanative Wash, and I am now almost well. I am stouter and healthier than I have ever been in my life. My friends and neighbors and the doctors are surprised at my rapid improvement. I have told them all what I have been taking."—MRS. ANNETTA BICKMEIER, Bellaire, Belmont Co., O.

UNDER THE OLD RULES

House Can Accomplish Nothing In Legislation This Week.

Contested Elections May Furnish Excitement.

Many Topics Likely to Be Brought Forward In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—This is the last week in the house before the recess for the Christmas holidays, and practically the only thing that will be accomplished will be the appointment of committees, which Speaker Reed will announce on Friday or Saturday, when the recess is taken.

As a preliminary to the appointment of the committees, however, the proceedings will probably be enlivened by a couple of days of active skirmishing. The house is operating under the rules of the Fifty-first congress. In that congress the membership of the leading committees, like ways and means, appropriations, judiciary, etc., was 15 members.

Owing to the increase in the membership of the house, as a result of the 11th census, and the admission of the four northwestern territories in 1890, the membership of these committees was increased in the Fifty-second congress to 17. It will be necessary, therefore, to bring in amendments to the rules under which the house is now operating to increase the membership of these committees to 17.

Although the general debate on the rules will not come until the rules committee makes its report after the holidays, still it is not unlikely that the proposition to increase the membership of the committee referred to will precipitate general debate. Certainly, if it does not, another resolution which will be offered tomorrow will. This will be in the shape of a resolution to divide the committees on elections.

There are 29 contested seats in the present house, an unprecedented number. Experience has shown that the consideration of election cases are long, tedious affairs, and it has repeatedly happened, as in the last congress, that the end of the second session and final adjournment are reached with some cases still pending. The house leaders, therefore, considered it wise to divide the committee this year in order to facilitate the consideration of the cases. The Democrats charge that this plan is to be pursued that Democrats may be more promptly ousted from their seats, and the debate will doubtless develop considerable partisan rancor.

In case the correspondence over the Venezuelan boundary line is not sent to congress tomorrow, a resolution calling for it may be passed. It is not improbable also that the reports of Secretary Carlisle, which were submitted today, may be brought before the house by some parliamentary device and made the subject of an exciting debate.

Senate Forecast.

Speeches are promised in the senate during the week on various topics now before that body. Senator Hill probably will talk on the Monroe doctrine, Senator White on the senate rules and Senator Stewart on his resolution regarding the effect of the rate of exchange on agriculture and manufactures between gold standard and silver standard countries.

There is also a probability of some speeches on Senator Peffer's bill regarding senatorial funerals. This is the only bill of general importance which has been reported from the committee. It is possible that the reorganization question may come up during the latter part of the week, but the best opinion is that the reorganization will not be perfected before the holidays. The adjournment for Christmas is expected to take place on Friday.

Ten Days of Torment.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 16.—Steamer Lord Erne arrived here yesterday, having on board James Brooks, second mate of the ship Belle O'Brien of Thomaston, Me., which foundered off the west coast of Ireland during November. Brooks is in a serious condition, as the result of exposure in an open boat, without food or water, from Nov. 20, when, with two companions, he took the long boat and abandoned the O'Brien, until Nov. 30, when he was picked up by the Lord Erne. One of his companions, Cronin, maddened by his sufferings, jumped over from the long boat, and was drowned. The other, Peterson, became delirious, and died a day or two after being taken on board the Lord Erne.

But One Will.

KIEL, Dec. 16.—Emperor William arrived here yesterday, and paid a visit to the dockyard and to the Seamen's home. At the latter place he made an address and administered the oath to the naval recruits. He exhorted them to remain good Christians, to be loyal to their emperor and fatherland and to keep the oath sacred which bound them to submit to one will in order to preserve what their forefathers created.

Under Sixty-Six Indictments.

MEMPHIS, Dec. 16.—Thirty-one more indictments have been returned against A. K. Ward by the grand jury, making a total of 66, and charging embezzlements amounting to $160,000. In the chancery court Ward refused to give his testimony in the civil suits now pending against him, and stated that the threat of contempt of court and going to jail had no terrors for him, for he was already in jail.

Fighting Talk.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Dec. 16.—According to Thomas Newell, who was elected delegate to congress from Alaska last summer, Vice President Stevenson has expressed himself as being of the opinion that there are no grounds for arbitration of the disputed boundary line between Canada and Alaska, and if England thought otherwise she would have to fight for her rights.

The World's Pool Champion.

SYRACUSE, Dec. 16.—William H. Clearwater of Ravenna, O., won the world's championship at pool playing here by defeating Jerome Keough. If Keough had won, the tournament would have resulted in a tie between Keough, Clearwater and De Oro, the chances then being in favor of the latter winning.

All Met Instant Death.

KNOXVILLE, Dec. 16.—At Big Stone Gap, Va., five men were working on a cut and had stopped for dinner, seating themselves under a ledge of rock projecting from an embankment. Suddenly a large bowlder broke loose and came down upon them, causing instant death of all.

BOXES OF EXPLOSIVES

Timely Warning From an Unknown Stranger

Prevented the Instruments of Death From Reaching Their Destination.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17. — An attempt was made yesterday to murder Philip D. Armour, the cattle king, worth $50,000,000, and George M. Pullman, the palace car magnate, worth $25,000,000 or more. The suspicions of a postal collector were aroused, however, and the packages intended for the victims were delivered to Postmaster Hessing.

Two packages were received at postal station L, of which William Hanlon is superintendent, directed to P. D. Armour and George M. Pullman, respectively, and the packages were finally turned over to Postoffice Inspector Stewart for inspection. They proved to be infernal machines, which, had they reached their destination and been opened without suspicion by the men for whom they were intended, would have probably blown them into eternity.

G. M. PULLMAN.

The packages were taken up by Collector Kirkwood of station L. One of them he found on the mail box at Wabash avenue and Fourteenth street and the other at Wabash avenue and Twenty-first street. The second machine was laid on the box just as Kirkwood approached it to make his collection. He saw a man of rough appearance lay a package on the box and walk away. When he reached the mail box he found the package to be similar to the one he had picked up at Fourteenth street, and addressed in the same handwriting. Each package weighed about 24 ounces, and the poorly scrawled addresses were alone enough to attract the attention of the carrier.

The postal authorities were already on the lookout for suspicious packages for Mr. Armour, as a stranger had notified attaches of his office that an infernal machine was on its way to Mr. Armour through the mail. He claimed to have overheard an exposure of the conspiracy from two men talking in an alley. The employes of Mr. Armour did not place much reliance in the story, but informed the postal officials of what they had been told.

P. D. ARMOUR.

A similar visit was paid Mr. Pullman Sunday night, presumably by the same person who took the trouble to inform Mr. Armour's people. Mr. Pullman had already retired, and did not see the visitor, who appeared very much worried and anxious to see the millionaire in person. He delivered his message, however, without seeing Mr. Pullman, and left a card with his business address. This Mr. Pullman declined to make public, as it might lead to the exposure of a valuable clew. The man who gave the warning is said to have been a metal polisher named Owens, but this has not as yet been entirely confirmed.

Mr. Pullman made an effort yesterday afternoon to locate the owner of the card, but in this he was unsuccessful. He dispatched a confidential man to the place of business specified on the card, but was told that the person of the name it showed was absent, being an outside man, and seldom at the headquarters of the firm. Mr. Armour is now on his way to Jacksonville, Fla., having left the city on Sunday.

Like Dynamite.

The dangerous character of the packages has been established without a doubt. A trial test of their contents was made, and this proved that the packages contained an explosive in force akin to dynamite. The packages were about eight inches long with three-inch ends. They were wooden boxed, each containing a drawer. Matches were so arranged inside as to be ignited by the friction with sandpaper, which was glued to the box above the drawer, when the latter was pulled out. The boxes were well provided with the explosive, but in the bottom was placed a piece of lead pipe several inches long.

The arrest of Albert Reaser was made on the strength of the statements made by Collector Kirkwood, who said that the man whom he saw place the package on the box resembled a man whom he had seen arrested last summer for throwing stones at Mr. Pullman's windows. He was under the impression that the men were one and the same, and Reaser, who was the stone-thrower, was at once brought in. He denies in the strongest manner that he sent the packages through the mails.

The packages are described by one of the postoffice attaches who saw them when brought in by Hanlon as rectangular in shape, about 6in. long, 2in. deep and 2in. wide. They were wrapped with a light brown paper and addressed in a rough hand with a pencil. On the margin was written "contens wire." The street addresses were likewise misspelled.

S. A. Owens, the man who informed Messrs. Armour and Pullman Sunday night that the infernal machines would be mailed to them, is detained in Postal Inspector Stewart's office on the supposition that he sent the bombs.

The theory expressed by Inspector Stewart is that Owens conceived the idea of sending the bombs, and notified the recipients in advance of the mailing of the packages in the hope of obtaining a good reward.

Albert Reaser was taken to Bridewell yesterday to work out a fine of $60, imposed for lounging around Millionaire Marshall Field's home on Prairie avenue, near the Pullman and Armour residences. Reaser had been found several times in the same locality previous to his arrest last Saturday and on his person were letters addressed in his own handwriting to Marshall Field and George M. Pullman, asking for employment. He was formerly an inmate of the Dunning insane asylum, from whence he escaped Nov. 15.

P. D. Armour was not in his office yesterday afternoon. His private secretary, W. J. Quinn, was there, however, and talked for the millionaire. He said that on Sunday night an unknown man entered the office and informed C. W. Comes, the manager, that a plot was on foot to destroy Mr. Armour. An infernal machine, he asserted, had been mailed to him, and he warned Mr. Armour's representatives to have the matter looked into. "We did not put much reliance in the man's words," said Quinn, "but in order to be on the safe side turned the matter over to the postal authorities and let it end there. We have no further interest in the matter."

Still Lower.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The treasury yesterday lost $3,200,000 in gold for export, which leaves the true amount of the gold reserve $72,804,766.

STOCKWELL WAS COOL

Pleaded Not Guilty of Murder at Beginning of His Trial.

But One City Bred Man on the Jury.

Everything Is Now In Readiness to Proceed With the Case.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 17.—The drawing of the jury in the Stockwell murder trial took up yesterday afternoon. The prisoner was brought to this city by Jailer Wadsworth and Sheriff Healy in the morning, but it was nearly noon before the court was opened. Stockwell seemed indifferent as to the outcome of the trial, and bowed and smiled to his friends, and even chatted with those near him in a pleasant manner, as if he was but a spectator, instead of a man being tried for his life.

When his name was called, he arose and faced the clerk without a tremor. Every eye in the courtroom was fixed upon him, but if he knew it he showed no sign. The clerk called for his plea, and Stockwell answered steadily: "Not guilty." As he took his seat he smiled at the reporters.

The work of calling the roll of jurymen was immediately begun, and this took up the time until the noon adjournment.

Promptly at 2 o'clock Chief Justice Doe addressed the jurors. He alluded to the fact that possibly they had formed opinions either in favor of or against the respondent, and then read the law regarding the action of the jurors. The work of selecting the panel was then begun. It was 5 o'clock before the list was completed, and

These Are the Men Chosen:

Selwin Martin, Goffstown; Edward Breed, Weare; Charles E. McKean, Peterboro; John Dodge, New Boston; John G. Vose, Bedford; Frank Brooks, Greenfield; Noah D. Wright, Amherst; Albert H. Hill, Nashua; John T. Dow, Weare; William H. Kendall, Mt. Vernon; Joseph C. Chapman, Windsor, and John M. Collins, Peterboro.

The most conspicuous feature about the jury, aside from the fact that all appear to be honest and able men, is that only one of them is a city bred man, all the others being from the farming districts or the small towns in the country.

The jury were immediately sworn by Clerk Luce, and the court appointed William H. Kendall as foreman. Chief Justice Doe then briefly addressed them, admonishing them that if in passing from their lodgings to the court they should hear the case discussed, they should not listen, and should forget at once whatever they chanced to hear. The jurymen not drawn were dismissed.

Thirteen Hundred Fighters.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Colonel Roger F. Scannell, who is prominently identified with many Irish organizations, says, in relation to the Irish-American army: "In this district there are several companies of the Irish-American army, aggregating 1300 men. The leaders are military men, nearly all of whom are veterans. The bulk of the organization are mostly young men, who are enthusiastic and ready to do all in their power to aid their native land."

Papers Falsely Filed.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Ex-Representative Albert E. Lynch of Cambridge was sentenced to six months in jail yesterday by Judge Forsaith for filing falsely certified nomination papers with the secretary of the commonwealth. The nomination papers set forth in the complaint purport to have been sworn to before John Sullivan, justice of the peace. Witnesses testified that they signed the papers without taking any oath.

Sensational Charges.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 17.—At the annual meeting of the Law and Order league last night, the executive committee laid the blame of the non-enforcement of the prohibitory law upon the police commissioners and police. Speakers charged that officers were in league with the lawbreakers, some officers having liquor left for them on the doorsteps, and they urged the dismissal of the whole force.

Where Is Mrs. Valois?

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 17.—Two letters have been received within the last few days by lawyers interested in the Roessler case, and the authorities at Scituate believe that Mrs. Clara Valois is still in the state. The town council of Scituate yesterday instructed Coroner Wood to continue his search for Mrs. Valois. The letters received both stated that Roessler committed suicide.

An Interesting Contest.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—The petition to compel the sinking fund commissioners of Lowell to invest $408,000, now on deposit in the Lowell Trust company, was brought before the supreme court yesterday. The attorney general appears as the petitioner, and the legal fight precipitated promises to be short, but brisk, as the decision will affect every sinking fund commissioner in the state.

Nearly 500,000 In Boston.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—The corrected census returns show the population of the leading Massachusetts cities to be as follows: Boston, 496,920; Worcester, 98,767; Fall River, 89,203; Lowell, 84,367; Cambridge, 81,643; Lynn, 62,354; New Bedford, 55,251; Somerville, 52,200; Lawrence, 52,164; Springfield, 51,522; Holyoke, 40,322; Salem, 34,473; Brockton, 33,165.

Woman Dead and Husband Arrested.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Annie Hansen was burned to death at her home in a tenement house in South Boston last night. The fire was caused by the upsetting of a lamp. Mrs. Hansen and her husband had been drinking, and it is not known whether the lamp was upset during a quarrel or by the woman herself. Hansen was placed under arrest.

—The rumor is current in Washington society circles that Mrs. Dimmock, the attractive niece of Mrs. Harrison, whose presence at the White House added so much to the social charm of President Harrison's administration, will soon be married to the ex-President.

COUNCILMAN BRYANT in his argument before the Council in favor of the Brook street extension order, laid great stress on the assertion that the proposed extension was principally for the benefit of the large number of pedestrians from the Park and Downs who are compelled to cross the tracks. If that is the case it would seem as if a passage way for pedestrians would fill the bill and avoid changing the grade of Newport avenue, to which such strenuous objection has been made. Although not wishing to enter into a controversy about the large number of people who come from the Park and Downs to Wollaston via Woodbine street and "the steps" it is our impression that Beale and Beach streets have always been the natural and most direct thoroughfares between those sections and Wollaston. If our premises are correct the proposed extension would be of but little use to the Park and Downs people. Although the order has passed it is not final, as it is questionable whether the Mayor can enter into an agreement until an appropriation is made.

COUNCILMAN BRYANT tried the President's chair in the Council chamber Monday night. He came nearer filling it than many of its former occupants.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Quarryman Meets With Instant Death This Morning.

James Ryan of Packard's lane, a quarryman in the employ of the Craig & Richards Granite Co., was instantly killed at their quarry at West Quincy this morning.

He was at work at the top of the quarry when his feet got caught in some ropes and he was thrown into the quarry, falling a distance of forty feet. He struck on the top of his head crushing it in, and killing him almost instantly.

The ambulance was called and he was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms. The unfortunate man was about 46 years of age and leaves a widow and several children.

Mrs. Hunt Again Arrested.

Mrs. Adelaide Hunt, who created quite a sensation last week by abducting her 8 year old daughter from the Quincy school, and who has succeeded in eluding all efforts to find her, was located in Whitman Monday. Some few weeks ago Mrs. Hunt was arrested for assault on her husband, and when the case was heard she promised to keep away from the children, and with this understanding the case was continued. Mrs. Hunt failed to comply with the order of the court and last week took her daughter away from the school and disappeared.

When the case was called Monday Mrs. Hunt was not present and a default warrant was issued, and this morning officer McKay armed with the warrant visited Whitman and brought her to Quincy.

Norfolk County Cases.

In the superior court in Dedham, Monday before Judge Lilly, in the case of Henry A. Nash, charged with assault and battery on William D. Summers in Weymouth Nov. 12 last, the second jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

In the case of James D. Taber, charged with assault and battery on John Coffee in North Weymouth, Aug. 11, 1895, the jury returned a verdict of "guilty."

Charles H. Gilligan, assault and battery on his sister, Mrs. Bridget M. Murphy, in Weymouth, Sept. 12, 1895, was sentenced to three years in the house of correction.—Herald.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

But Little Discussion at Meeting Last Evening.

A Large Amount of Business Was However Transacted

Brook Street Extension Order Passed Also a State Highway Order.

At the opening of the Council meeting Monday evening President Bass announced the death of George L. Gill for many years prominent in town and city affairs.

Councilman Adams moved a committee of three on resolutions.

Councilman Bigelow in seconding the motion spoke of an intimate acquaintance with the deceased from boyhood. Mr. Gill was a kind Christian gentleman if ever one lived. He hoped the Council would attend the funeral in a body.

The motion was passed unanimously on a rising vote and the President appointed Councilmen Adams, Bigelow and Spear.

Councilman Johnson was the only absentee from the meeting.

City Auditor Hall reported the appropriation for election expenses exhausted, and communication was referred to Committee on Finance.

A communication was received from the Park Commissioners recommending the acceptance of Liberty square as a public park. Referred.

Applications for common victualler, inn keeper and billiard licenses were received and referred.

Councilman Dixon presented petitions for electric lights on Liberty street extension and Brooks avenue, which were referred to the next Council.

The special committee to perambulate the Quincy and Randolph boundry line reported. Accepted.

Reports.

The committee reported that the order requesting the Mayor to enter into an arrangement with the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R, for the extension of Brook street under the tracks, ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the order took its second reading, when Councilman Bryant moved a suspension of the rules.

Councilman Bigelow thought there was undue haste in the closing days of this Council, and moved to refer to the next Council.

It was declared carried but doubted, and pending verification.

Councilman Bryant and Sprague spoke in favor of the order, and it was voted not to refer.

The vote on passing the order was 16 to 4 as follows.

YEAS,—Adams, Barker, Bryant, Dixon, Grindell, Hayden, Lamb, Nickerson, O'Brien, Parker, Pinkham, Rinn, Russell, Shackley, Spear and Sprague—16.

NAYS, — Bigelow, Geary, Phillips and Sidelinger.

Two reports granting State aid were adopted, and several licenses were granted. There was, however, an unfavorable report on a batch of applications for licenses as common victuallers, which was accepted.

The Committee on Public Grounds reported reference to the executive department of the matter relating to a public landing in Ward Two. Accepted.

The Committee on Fire Department and Ordinances reported that the order making the pay of the Assistant Engineers of the Fire Department uniform at $100 ought to pass, and the vote on roll call was 19 to 1, viz:

YEAS, — Adams, Barker, Bigelow, Bryant, Dixon, Geary, Grindell, Hayden, Lamb, Nickerson, O'Brien, Parker, Phillips, Pinkham, Rinn, Russell, Shackley, Spear and Sprague—19.

NAY,—Sidelinger.

The joint committee on Finance and Water Supply, reported that the order authorizing the expenditure of the balance of the water appropriation of $45,000 ought to pass. Read twice and referred to Committee on Ordinances.

The joint committee on Fire Department and Finance reported amendments to the order relative to pay of firemen which were adopted, and under a suspenion of the rules the order was passed 19 to 1, viz:

YEAS,— Adams, Barker, Bigelow, Bryant, Dixon, Geary, Grindell, Hayden, Johnson, Lamb, Nickerson, O'Brien, Parker, Phillips, Pinkham, Rinn, Russell, Shackley, Spear and Sprague—19.

NAY,—Sidelinger

The ordinance as amended increases the pay of the Chief Engineer from $400 to $600, and of the call men of the central station from $100 to $125.

New Orders.

Councilman Bryant offered an order, that the Mayor be requested to have the Commissioner of Public Works compel the several companies who had not complied with the ordinance requiring that polls be painted a uniform color to do so, and that he report the names of the companies and the estimated number of polls not painted. Adopted.

Councilman Bryant also offered an order requesting the Mayor to petition the Massachusetts Highway commission to lay out Washington street at a uniform width under the acts.

Councilman Bryant stated that the commission lay out these streets and that the city pays a portion of the expense and that after being laid out the State maintained them. Washington street was a much travelled thoroughfare and if we get in line now we will connect with the State road laid out from Hingham and in time may get Hancock street built to the Neponset bridge. The order was adopted.

Councilman Bryant offered an order requesting the Mayor to have the Commissioner require the New England Telephone Co. to remove all poles on the westerly side of Hancock street as agreed with the Committee on Streets, and if not removed inside of fifteen days the Commissioner is authorized to remove them and collect the expense for so doing from the company. METROPOLITAN COUNTY.

The Greater Boston Scheme Under Another Name.

The Boston Journal publishes several interviews with Mayors of suburban cities as to the scheme for a Metropolitan county.

Mayor Hodges has been interviewed and he says:

"When the commission held a public meeting in this city some time ago, I believe I went on record as opposing the Greater Boston scheme, and I do not know as I want to change my opinion now. This Metropolitan County is, I take it, another name for Greater Boston, and while I would not be in favor of having every city and town within 10 miles of Boston drawn into the plan, yet I am not prepared to say that I would not vote to have Quincy join. With such a plan as contemplated, in operation, many places of historical interest would lose their identity, and sentiment in such matters goes a great way sometimes."

Good Templar Notes.

The last meeting of Merry Mount lodge was replete with interest both from a social and business point of view. On this occasion the members were honored with the presence of large delegations of visitors from Milton, Brockton and Allston. Shortly after the opening exercise an exemplification of the initiatory ritualistic work was performed, two candidates being initiated, namely Mrs. Lawton and Miss Leman. This work brought forth many expressions of approval from the visitors.

At the close of the business portion of the meeting, the Good of the Order committee furnished an unusually pleasing entertainment, — "A Bundle Party." Each recipient of a bundle responded with a song, recitation or speech, and the entertainment thus given was pleasing and instructive.

The entertainment and social committees are making active preparation for a reunion of members, past and present, to be held the night after Christmas and also for a grand temperance meeting in the early part of January.

Christmas Pictures.

The Christmas number of the Boston Sunday Journal, to be printed December 22, will be a notable issue, containing, as it will, signed articles and stories, relating to Christmas, by Justin McCarthy, M. P., Frank R. Stockton, John Habberton, Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, Robert J. Burdette, Grace H. Dodge, Dr. Thomas Dunn English, Eugene V. Debs, Mrs. Admiral Dahlgren, Dr. Thomas Gallaudet, "Oliver Optic," Harry C. Miner, M. C., and Gen. Neal Dow. There will also be handsome pictures in the half tone photographic process, exclusive to the Journal, and giving practically genuine photographs to readers instead of the customary newspaper cuts.

—A movement is on foot to procure from Congress the necessary appropriations for the deepening of the channels at Boston, so as to admit vessels of the largest class. A depth of 30 feet is necessary, while at present only from 23 to 27 feet at mean low water are available. Boston is now one of our most important shipping ports and enjoys a great and growing commerce. There should be no delay in granting the most liberal appropriations for a work at once so necessary and advantageous to the whole country.—Scientific American.

—Dr. Lamson Allen, of Worcester, read an address at the Congregational ministers' meeting in Worcester last week, upon "The minister in the sick room from a physician's standpoint," and said in his advice to ministers in the sick room is to use common sense; don't make long calls; be cheerful, hopeful, when possible; be careful what information you carry as well as what information you take out, and be very careful what you say about the attending physician. A very sensible way of putting the matter.

Mr. George W. Jones says he is a firm believer in advertising and the harder the times the more advertising should be done. He says some merchants complain to him of the hard times and the little business they are doing but he is not troubled that way, his stock sells so rapidly that he has to make almost daily trips to Boston to keep up with the demand. He says he thinks he has the largest and handsomest stock of his line of goods, and advertises that the public may know it and get good value for their money.

The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon. At 1 30 o'clock there will be prayers at his late residence, which will be private, and at 2.30 public services will be held at the First church. The city officials, City Council and organizations will attend in bodies, and business will be generally suspended.

At the grave the burial services of the Masons and Odd Fellows will probably be rendered, although that has not been definitely settled as yet.

MEANING OF CHRISTMAS.

On That Day There Was Born a Saviour, Who Is Christ the Lord.

Long, long ago, so far back that it cannot be definitely traced, the latter days of December were set apart for the festivities pertaining to pagan worship. Perhaps its earliest observance began with the celebration of the winter solstice and of festivities held in honor of Saturn and Bacchus. Today Christmas is celebrated throughout the world not for its pagan ancestry, but for its meaning as the Christian festival of the nativity.

The keynote of Christmas joy is "Peace on earth, good will to men." The first Christmas day that ever dawned brought rejoicing in its wake. On that day there was born in Bethlehem, Judæa, a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord. For those weary with sin, for those oppressed with sorrows, for the troubled in mind, for the weak and helpless he came. But not to these alone. To the joyful and happy ones, to those rich in this world's goods, to the successful and prosperous he came. To the whole world he appeared. None was forgotten by him. And now to the outcast and to the weary one, to the rich man and to the joyful child he says the words, "Learn of me."

If you suffer, Christ pities you.
If you be lonely, he is with you.
If you repent of sin, he will keep you in safety.
If you have great possessions, he says unto you, "Give to the poor."

On Christmas day at least "let all wrath and clamor and evil speaking be done away" and let every one sing, with the heart, "Glory to God in the highest."—New York Mercury.

Old Time Christmas In Dixie.

When Remus, Saul and Cæsar, with Dinah, Phillis and Chloe, made the circuit of the quarters at Christmastide they were regaled with various succulent viands—chine and spareribs, sausage and crackling, savory souvenirs of the fine art of hog killing, besides coon and corn pone, possum fat and hominy, all consecrated to their comfort and cheer, with lusty drafts of cider. Gingerbread and boiled chestnuts were dispensed to the dusky company, and there were much cracking of walnuts and roasting of apples. Then the cabin floor was cleared for the dance—jig and breakdown, pigeon wing and juba, the latter a characteristic survival of the aboriginal barbarism, delivered with vigorous shouts and cries and shuffling of feet to a rhythmic accompaniment of handclapping and patting of knees, in melodious deference to the jigging of a fiddle by the light of flaming pine knots.

Juba up and juba down,
Juba all around de town.
Sift de meal and gimme de husk,
Rake de cake and gimme de crus',
Fry de pork and gimme de skin,
Ax me when I'm comin ag'in.
Juba! Hi, juba!

Juba in and juba out,
Juba, juba all about.
Dinah, stir de possum fat;
Can't you hear de juba pat?
Juba!

What Not to Do on Christmas.

In north Germany you must not spin during the 12 nights of Christmas, lest you should walk after your death, nor after sunset on Saturday, for then mice will eat your work. Speaking of eating, if you want to have money and luck all the year round, you must not fail to eat herrings on New Year's day, nor, if you wish to be lucky, must you rock an empty cradle, or spill salt wantonly, or cross knives, or point at the stars.

If you leave a dirty cloth on the table overnight, you will make the angels weep; if you point upward to the rainbow, you will make the angels' feet bleed, and if you talk of cabbages while looking at the moon you will hurt the feelings of the man in it, who was a cabbage stealer in his salad days.—All the Year Round.

The Ideal Christmas.

The ideal Christmas is found not in the land of flowers, but in the snow-bound, rugged country of the north. Without, keen, frosty air, long stretches of hills and meadows covered with snow, ponds and lakes incrusted with ice; within, roaring fires of hickory wood, halls ringing with the shouts of children and tables heaped high with the good things of life—these are the conditions which seem essential to the complete enjoyment of the great feast day of the church.—New York Herald.

Puritans Did Not Like Christmas.

During the reformation the Puritans, fancying that all festivities connected with Christmas were only "popish abominations," attempted to abolish altogether the observance of the festival. Happily this anniversary survived all narrow minded persecutions, and rose into purer, permanent life.—New York Journal.

A Useful Christmas Present.

If you want to make a useful Christmas present buy a ton of coal for some poor family.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Give of Your Abundance.

Give, give! Give of your abundance; give a morsel even from your scanty store.—Indianapolis News.

Christmas Charity.

Christmas snows are on the moor,
Sing, sweet Robin!
And the Christmas star burns gold,
Sweet Robin, sing!
Hungry birds are at the door.
Sing, sweet Robin!
All their feathers puffed with cold,
Sweet Robin, sing!

There's a babe sleeps in the stall,
Sing, sweet Robin!
With the grass for blanket warm,
Sweet Robin, sing!
Him the beasts have given their all,
Sing, sweet Robin!
Sheltering him from winter storm,
Sweet Robin, sing!

Ope the door and call them in,
Sing, sweet Robin!
Newborn babe and starving birds,
Sweet Robin, sing!
And all children cold and thin,
Sing, sweet Robin!
To the best our house affords,
Sweet Robin, sing!

GRAND OPERA SIGHTS

A SWEEPING VIEW OF WEALTH AND FASHION IN NEW YORK.

Singers and Not Music Draw the Big Houses—The Brilliant World Picked to Tatters—Fads of the Season—In the Corridor.

[Special Correspondence.]

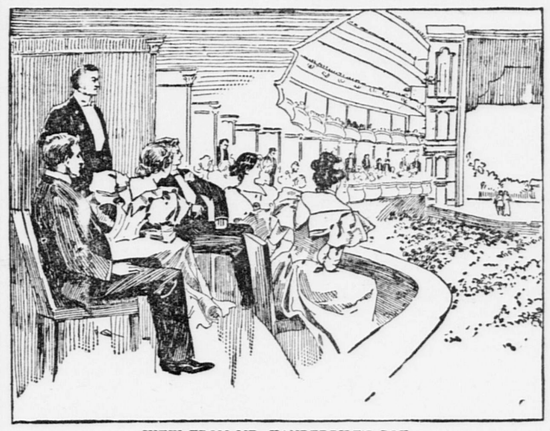

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—If you want to view at one sweep the wealth, beauty and fashion of New York, young and old, set forth in bravest array, take a red letter night at the opera. What is a red letter night? Well, a night when Calve sings, or Jean de Reszke, or, this season, Frances Saville, who sings the roles usually filled by Eames or Melba and looks as pretty as a picture. The singers, not the music, draw the big representative houses.

A stranger who wants to see the panorama unrolled in its full gorgeousness and make correct notes has but to choose the name of a favorite star, think nothing about the music, stick a powerful lorgnette in his pocket, acquaint himself with the plan of the house from the diagram printed on the programme, pay $1.50 for general admission, which gives him the whole house for a promenade, keep directly open for reference the page of the programme which names the occupants of the boxes, and he can please himself.

Alack, very often he is by no means pleased. He is hugely disappointed. The paltry bit of physical attraction which in New York society is made do duty for a "positive beauty" takes away his breath. Max Nordau never lived in New York. If he had when he wrote "Conventional Lies," he would surely have stated that of all huge inventions for the deception of man in polite society the "lie" which converts barely passable women into beauties is the very worst.

What Counts For Beauty.

The stranger in New York does not know how slight a thing in the gilded frame of the smart set counts for ravishing beauty, and that ugliness in the case of fashionable women in simply an impolite myth. A woman with no physical trait to stand criticism but a fairly shaped nose will be "the beautiful Mrs. So-and-so. Ever see such a nose?" It is the same with a hand, foot or a few good front teeth. An item of passable decency will lift a woman anything short of determinedly ugly into the niche of beauty, but that is when she can afford to have any niche she covets lined with gold.

And so you will see the stranger who has read pictorial accounts of the beautiful Miss So-and-so, now the beautiful Mrs. Somebody Else, and whose absorbing doings have been chronicled from the days when she ate with a spoon, drop programme and opera glass and his jaw at the same time when he sets eye on the real article. And sometimes when they are provincial strangers and talk out loud, as they constantly do, it is amusing to hear them. Nobody, however, feels half so much amused as the intimate friends of the beauties themselves. They sometimes join in the disappointed discussion, if in the first case they have not been discovered picking flaws themselves—a thing which the smart male sex on a big night at the opera is very prone to travel round the house and do, for if you really want to hear this brilliant world picked to tatters in truest, raciest fashion you must look to themselves. Follow the gentlemen who steal away from the boxes between the acts, and you'll get more information than you'd dare to look for.

Unkind Criticism.

"That figure," remarks a youth whose sister is engrossed with the lady in question, "is as much a piece of workmanship as the tiara on her head. Why, my dear fellows, the same woman makes dresses for my sister as for that woman. Dresses high; throat like the Princess of Wales'. Necessity, my boy. She's a skeleton built over, as you don't see."

This will be the woman whose divine figure is the talk of the town. False teeth, dyed hair, padded hollows, paint complexions and other items of interest are given away in generous confidence in the lobbies and corridors. You've only to keep your ears open on a night like this, when every one is excited and bent on the other one's analysis, and you'll hear not only the disillusionary tale, but the way it was all found out and everything else about it. New York's smart men seem to think that when their own eyes are doubly open focusing their women friends through a lorgnette everybody else's ears are shut except the individual they are addressing. And, oh, what an exchange of confidence is here! There are some pretty women this season nevertheless—about 2 per cent of what are published.

The young debutante Miss Belle Neilson, niece of Freddie Gebhard, is a sweet faced brunette, who has no rival stronger than her own young, vivacious, clever, brunette mother, Mrs. Fred Neilson. The daughter is a gentle, tranquil replica of the mother, who retains all her old magnetic fascination and is indeed more piquant than ever this season. Mrs. Neilson has the Irish strain in her, with its exterior French grace, and the flashing eyes, the slight, erect figure, the small expressive hand which she uses so deftly, make a striking picture. As she sat in her box on the first night of the season, gowned in effective black, and garlanded literally with diamonds, every one wondered why Mrs. Neilson had not married again. "And she is so bright and clever," they said; "fifty times prettier than the daughter." Mrs. Neilson has just returned after a year's absence.

Then there is Miss Kitty Duer, with the family genius in her face aside from her fair regular features. Few women have the same union of brilliant beauty and literary talent as her cousin, Caroline Duer, of whom Mrs. Paran Stevens used to say that the gods had given her every gift of person, mind and heart, but the world had grudged her money. Miss Kitty's face has in it much of the meaning as well as beauty of her cousin's.

Young Mrs. Jack Astor, gowned and jeweled like a princess, high bred, gently proud, above all things simple in manner and bearing, is one of the few talked of beauties who never disappoint. The face keeps the soft, sensitive look which most of these women lose early. The best of them grow hard and immobile. They cultivate a stony air of unsusceptibility, believing it good form.

Gratitude is brief. After a social bondage of years' standing to welcome the smart world at every smart function, which she still continues, Mrs. William Astor gets some of the hardest comments afloat in the opera house. "Ought to give up youthful airs," "Should dress high," "Should never sit beside that daughter-in-law," "Horribly glum face; should learn a smile or two," were the graceless things that the lady's kindly treated gilded youth said in a high pitched voice between the acts of "Romeo and Juliet" on the opening night.

The Smart Bachelor Set.

The orchestra is more dressy this season, and there are few bonnets. The boxes are so crowded that box people are permanently here. It is the pleasantest part of the house, and from it you can watch the starting point of every big round of applause up in the opera box, formerly vandeville, on the second tier. There the smart set of society bachelors sit, an army in black and white, and when you see the popular habitue, Captain Warren Beach, enter with a huge wreath or nosegay you may watch for the recipient, for he or she is going to be the star of the evening.

Applause is scarce this season. So are flowers. Prima donnas are not petted as formerly, but instead there are more corsage bouquets held pinned to their owners' breasts. This is the mode.

The orchestra corridor is the greatest meeting ground on the continent for brilliant men and women in the world of arts and letters. Here they seek their friends. They are not labeled, as are the box occupants, but if you want to take notes on a fascinating human panorama get to accompany you some refined New York bohemian, and he will name to you those live men and women as they pass. You will find almost unexceptionably, after we exclude the monocled snobs, that every individual has a history, a literary, artistic, musical or friend to art history, a history of brain, sympathy and irresistible fascination, and if your tastes lie in this rather than in the gilded snob direction there is no carpeted promenade in the United States of America which will furnish you with the same combination of opportunities.

For if within you there be feeling and true, intelligent enthusiasm you will find everybody wrought up to that sensitive emotional pitch where people are apt rapidly to find each other out and strike acquaintance on one common current cause. EMILY M. AYLWARD.

The Swallow.

In Sweden there is a superstition that the swallow circled around the cross at the crucifixion and by its cries cheered the dying hours of Christ. According to this story, the bird was named svale, or swallow, a Scandinavian word signifying "cheer up," this being its cry when it was encouraging the dying man upon the cross.

No Government Can Run Itself.

God has never endowed any statesman or philosopher, nor any body of them, with wisdom enough to frame a system of government that everybody could go off and leave. To pay taxes and to submit to the laws are far short of the whole duty of the citizen.—Harrison in Ladies' Home Journal.

Cold Weather

There are seven million pores in the ordinary sized man, which act as sewers in cleansing the system of impurities. When they become clogged, perspiration ceases or is less than normal in quantity. Cold weather restricts the amount of perspiration, and in nature's struggle to free the system of waste matter the Kidneys become overworked. Buker's Kidney Pills counteract the effects of overwork, prevent disease, and cure the Backache incidental to Kidney troubles. When the back aches, try the pills. Druggists sell them for 50 cents. A book about Backache and Kidney troubles for the asking.

REVENUE NOT NEEDED,

Carlisle Advises Congress to Work on More Economical Lines.

Gold Basis Would Solve the Money Problem.

An Estimated Deficiency of $17,000,000 For the Current Fiscal Year.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The annual report of the secretary of the treasury was sent to congress yesterday. It was a long and important document, the salient points of which follow:

The revenues of the government from all sources during the last fiscal year amounted to $390,373,203. The expenditures during the same period aggregated $435,178,426, leaving a deficit for the year of $42,805,223. As compared with the fiscal year 1894, the receipts for 1895 increased $17,570,705, although there was a decrease of $11,329,981 in the ordinary expenditures, which is largely accounted for by a reduction of $11,134,055 on sugar bounties. The revenues for the current fiscal year are estimated, upon the basis of existing laws, at $431,907,407, and the expenditures at $448,907,407, which will leave a deficit of $17,000,000.

"The cash balance in the treasury on Dec. 1, 1895," he says, "was $177,406,386, being $78,072,420 in excess of the actual gold reserve on that day, and $77,406,386 in excess of any sum that it would be necessary to use for replenishing that fund in case the secretary should at any time be able to exchange currency for gold. There is therefore no reason to doubt the ability of the government to discharge all its current obligations during the present fiscal year, and have a large cash balance at its close, without imposing additional taxation in any form upon the people; but I adhere to the opinion, heretofore expressed, that the secretary of the treasury ought always to have authority to issue and sell, or use in the payment of expenses, short-time bonds bearing a low rate of interest, to supply casual deficiencies in the revenue."

In that part of the report which refers to the financial problem, Secretary Carlisle says in effect that the present situation is not due to a lack of revenue but to inherent defects in our currency system—the laws compelling the reissue of our greenbacks and silver certificates. The only solution of the question is the retirement of the greenbacks by exchanging them for low-interest, long-time gold bonds—in fact, going upon a gold basis.

To take the place of the cancelled notes he would extend the present national banking system along the lines suggested by the president in his message. He states specifically that the country is not in need of more revenue if congress is economical.

It was the lack of confidence in our monetary system, he says, that produced the recent panic and reduced the revenue of the government. He expects a deficit of $17,000,000 in the current fiscal year, but says there will be a surplus of $7,000,000 in 1897.

The Bond Issues.

The three bond issues were made necessary by a continuous drain on the gold reserve. The keynote of the whole report is summarized in the document itself as follows:

No surplus revenue, however large, could extricate us from our present difficulties or give assurance of safety in the future, unless it should be required to be paid in gold under a system which would exempt the government from the obligation to furnish the gold when demanded to be used in making the payments, and it is scarcely necessary to suggest that such a system is impossible as long as the United States and treasury notes are kept in circulation and are redeemable in gold by the government itself on presentation.

Owing to the peculiar character of our currency, the ability of the treasury to hoard United States and treasury notes is limited to a certain amount—which cannot be definitely determined in advance—and if it should, after that amount has been reached, refuse to pay out these notes in making payments, the immediate result would be that nearly all payments to the government would be made in silver certificates, which it is bound to take but can compel no one else to take.

There would be a stream of these non-legal tender certificates constantly flowing into the treasury, and it would receive scarcely any more United States notes or treasury notes as parts of the surplus revenue, but would soon be compelled to pay out those already accumulated or pay gold or break down in its operations at the sub-treasuries.

The Senate Chairmen.

The Republican caucus committee of the senate completed its work of assigning the majority membership of the senate committees yesterday. The assignment of chairmanships is as follows:

Agriculture, Proctor; appropriations, Allison; audit contingent expenses, Jones of Nevada; census, Chandler; civil service, Pritchard; claims, Teller; coast defenses, Squire; commerce, Frye; District of Columbia, McMillan; education and labor, Shoup; enrolled bills, Sewell; examination of branches civil service, Peffer; finance, Morrill; fisheries, Perkins; foreign relations, Sherman; immigration, Lodge; improvement Mississippi river, Nelson; Indian affairs, Pettigrew; Indian depredations, Wilson; interstate commerce, Cullom; irrigation, Warren; judiciary, Hoar; library, Hansbrough; manufactures, Wetmore; military affairs, Hawley; mines and mining, Stewart; naval affairs, Cameron; organization executive departments, Butler; Pacific railroads, Gear; patents, Platt; pensions, Gallinger; postoffices, Wolcott; printing, Hale; privileges and elections, Mitchell of Oregon; public buildings, Quay; public lands, Dubois; railroads, Clarke; relations with Canada, Carter; revision of laws, Burrows; rules, Aldrich; territories, Davis; transportation routes to seaboard, McBride; university of the United States, Kyle; international exposition, Thurston; to investigate the geological survey, Elkins; national banks, Mantle; forest reservations, Allen; trespassers upon Indian lands, Baker.

This disposes of the chairmanships of all but 11 committees. The committees undisposed of are known as the minority committees. The Republicans now control them, and they will fall to the Democrats under the new organization. The caucus committee has made provision for the Populist senators as the Democrats did in the last congress, and have given each of them a chairmanship, giving each the same position held under the Democrats, except Senator Kyle, who is promoted from the chairmanship of the committee on education and labor to that of the University of the United States.

The Gold "Combine."

The senate was in session about two hours yesterday, half that time being given to Mr. Stewart of Nevada in a vigorous assault on the gold "combine."

In one respect the senator presented a new phase of the subject with which his name has been so much identified in senate speeches. He urged that the great depreciation of silver gave to the cheap labor of Asia a tremendous advantage in competing with the domestic products of the American market. Japan in particular, he said, was profiting by this difference of 50 per cent between our money and that of Japan, and Japanese merchants were today under-selling our home producers in many lines of goods.

An echo of Comptroller Bowler's suspension of the sugar bounty payments was heard in the resolution of Mr. Caffery of Louisiana, calling on the treasury department for the reasons for the suspension.

Postmaster General Wilson's recent order forbidding postal employes from urging postal legislation also came in for attention, Mr. Peffer offering a comprehensive resolution of inquiry as to the order. Another resolution, by Mr. Gallinger, calls for information as to the number of aliens in various governmental branches.

Senator Dubois introduced a bill to make the Indians subject to the game laws of the several states. This bill is designed to prevent any such trouble as occurred with the Bannocks at Jackson's Hole last summer.

Among the more important bills introduced in the senate were the following: By Mr. Hawley, providing for the organization of a reserve militia; by Mr. Frye, a joint resolution for an amendment to the constitution acknowledging God in that instrument; by Mr. Henry of Connecticut, amending the tobacco schedule of the tariff act by increasing the rates.

Flynn's Little Bomb.

The proceedings in the house were enlivened yesterday by Mr. Flynn, the delegate from Oklahoma, who offered the following resolution:

Whereas, by act of congress approved March 2, 1895, an agreement between the Wichita and affiliated bands of Indians in Oklahoma and United States commissioners was duly ratified and provision made for the allotment of lands therein to Wichita Indians and providing for the opening of the surplus lands after allotment to homestead settlement; and

Whereas, the secretary of the interior has wholly failed to appoint agents to allot said lands as provided in said act; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the secretary of the interior is hereby directed, if not incompatible with the public interest, to report to the house:

First—The reasons and causes operating, if any, to delay the appointing of allotting agents and the allotment of said lands.

Second—Whether any of his connections or relations by blood or marriage are acting as attorneys for said Indians or any party or parties interested in delaying the opening of the reservation to settlement.

The Democrats were not disposed to raise any objection to this resolution of inquiry, but Mr. Flynn, after consent for its consideration had been secured, began an attack on the secretary of the interior, which called forth a vehement protest from Mr. Cooper (Fla.), who maintained that Mr. Flynn's language toward the secretary was undignified and disrespectful. This incited Mr. Flynn to renewed attack. At the conclusion of his speech, however, he called for the previous question, thus shutting off the possibility of a further defense of the secretary of the interior.

The house agreed to take up today the proposition to increase the membership of the principal committees on elections, in order to facilitate the disposition of the contested election cases. This promises lively debate.

In Close Quarters.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The World says: The withdrawal yesterday of $3,150,000 in gold for shipment today leaves the treasury reserve at $72,804,706. President Cleveland, seeing that a bond issue must come, has been in personal consultation with members of the syndicate which advised and managed the last issue. The details of a plan for the issue were partially agreed upon, and it is understood that the president will order the issue as soon as the reserve strikes the $60,000,000 mark. The issue will be for at least $70,000,000, possibly $100,000,000. It is the general feeling that today's shipment will be the last for some time, but it is thought that the president's mark of $60,000,000 will be reached in the first fortnight of the new year, when the bond issue may be expected.

For a Fight to a Finish.

HOUSTON, Dec. 17.—Articles of agreement were yesterday signed on board a tug outside Galveston harbor for a finish fight between Bob Fitzsimmons and Peter Maher. They will battle with 5-ounce gloves, Marquis of Queensberry rules, to decide the heavyweight championship of the world, a purse of $10,000 and championship belt. Dan Stuart agrees to deposit $3000 with Richard K. Fox, as temporary stakeholder, on Dec. 25, the remaining $7000 to be deposited on Feb. 9, 1896, with a final stakeholder to be selected by mutual agreement. Fitzsimmons and Maher agree to deposit with Fox $1000 each to guarantee appearance in the ring Feb. 14, the date agreed upon for the fight.

It Wasn't a Bomb.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—An analysis of the alleged bomb which was found on the doorsteps of Minister de Lome's residence showed the contents to be entirely harmless, consisting of three small pieces of zinc taken from an electric battery, a mixture of chloride of ammonium and powdered coal. Minister de Lome intends if possible to discover the perpetrator of the joke. No clew has yet been obtained.

Anxious For Statehood.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Governor West of Utah yesterday escorted to the White House and presented to the president Messrs Letcher and Sherman, the commissioners appointed to deliver to him a certified copy of the constitution adopted by the new state and a statement of the vote by which the constitution was adopted. The constitution was a gold-bound volume, encased in morocco.

One of the Old-Timers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The bureau of Indian affairs was notified yesterday of the death of Eskiminzin, one of the most noted chiefs of the Apaches at the San Carlos reservation, Arizona. He was regarded as a daring leader of the Apaches in their attacks on the whites many years ago.

Still Out.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The strike of the steamfitters and helpers of the Enterprise and the Progress associations to enforce the signing of an agreement containing rules for the government of the shops is still on. The prospect of an early settlement is decidedly poor.

Nebraska Bank Fails.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The comptroller of the currency yesterday received notice of the suspension of the German National bank of Lincoln, Neb. The bank had a capital of $100,000. Bank Examiner Whitmore was placed in charge.

BIG STRIKE INAUGURATED.

Employes of Philadelphia Traction Company Tie Up the Road.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—At 4 o'clock this morning the street car lines of this city were tied up in a general strike. The conductors and motormen are waging war for an increase of wages, shorter hours and the privilege of belonging to the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes.

Dissatisfaction has been growing for a long time, but reached a high pitch immediately after the recent consolidation of all the local lines into one company—the Union Traction. The action was precipitated by the numerous discharges from the company's service of men belonging to the Amalgamated association. Many conferences have been sought by the various committees representing the railway men, but all have been rejected by President Welsh and the company's board of directors.

The demands of the men in details are these:

First—That 10 consecutive hours shall constitute a day's work, for which the sum of $2 shall be paid.

Second—That all cars shall be vestibuled for the protection of motormen.

Third—That sweepers, snow plows and trippers shall be considered as special work, and shall be subject to increased pay.

Fourth—That no employes shall be discharged for belonging to the amalgamated or any other organization, except for just cause. That all men discharged by reason of their affiliation with said organization shall be immediately reinstated.

Von Gontard-Busch.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—The most notable event of its kind socially that has ever taken place in this city was the marriage last evening of Miss Clara Busch, daughter of Adolphus Busch, the brewer, and Paul Von Gontard of Germany. The beauty of the bride, the wealth of her father, the station of the groom and the magnificence of the wedding arrangements makes it one to be remembered. Rev. Dr. Snyder, pastor of the Church of the Messiah, performed the ceremony. Adolphus Busch gave away his daughter, and the ceremony, which was according to the ritual of the Unitarian church, was short. The bride and groom exchanged rings, according to the old German custom.

Late Report of a Massacre.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The Daily News publishes a dispatch from Constantinople which says: I have received a letter from a European resident, dated Nov. 23, giving the first details of the Aintab massacre. The writer says: "It is difficult to get figures, as we are always under a guard when we go to the towns, but 200 seems a low figure for the killed, and some say that it was 1000, while 400 were wounded. All the Christian shops and 250 houses were pillaged and many were burned. About 1000 Armenians who took refuge in the khans and mosques at the beginning of the panic are still kept prisoners there, for what purpose can only be surmised."

Their capture was effected by means of a "stool pigeon."

She left the former place 27 days ago, and since then nothing has been seen or heard of her.

MONROE DOCTRINE

Must Be Respected In the Venezuelan Case.

CLEVELAND'S MESSAGE

Deals With the Subject In Unmistakable Terms.

Brought Out Unparalleled Outbursts of Enthusiasm at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The message of President Cleveland to congress transmitting the correspondence between Secretary Olney and Lord Salisbury, relative to the Venezuelan boundary dispute, created a sensation in Washington.

Although the nature of Secretary Olney's vigorous communication and of Lord Salisbury's answer had already been foretold in dispatches from Washington and London, there was still a great popular craving to learn just how the president would deal with Lord Salisbury's refusal to submit the matter to arbitration, and the message was listened to with intense interest in congress, and was read with avidity on the streets. No where was a voice lifted in dissent from the doctrine so firmly laid down by the president, but, on the contrary, there was an outburst of patriotic feeling that must have been very gratifying to the chief executive.

In the dignified United States senate, a body that rarely exhibits emotion on any occasion, there was witnessed the unparalleled spectacle of hand clapping and applause, which was the spontaneous expression of the approval of almost every senator, without regard to party. On the streets the message was discussed, and old veterans of the late war talked exultantly of what they were prepared again to undertake at the call of their country. In the great hall of the pension building the employes gathered, and sang with gusto the "Star Spangled Banner" and "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

At the White House messages poured in from every quarter of the country, congratulating the president upon his message. They came from men of all parties and station.

The matter, of course, was of the greatest interest in diplomatic circles, and the general impression on a sober second consideration of the notes was that the matter has not yet reached a stage where war is imminent, and that the hint of Great Britain's purpose to reopen negotiations with Venezuela looking to a settlement of the dispute between themselves perhaps may be regarded as an indication as to how the whole matter will end.

Minister Andrade of Venezuela secured a copy of the message early in the day, and cabled, by way of Cuba and Hayti, to his government. The time of transmission is eight hours, and it is felt that its receipt in Caracas will be the sign for an enthusiastic demonstration.

Mr. Andrade's satisfaction was almost beyond the power of expression. "The message is superb," said he, with much enthusiasm. "It is even a surprise to me in its vigor, in the nobility of the sentiments expressed and in the masterly exposition of the Monroe doctrine. There can be no doubt or misconstruction of its meaning. In my country it cannot but arouse the keenest appreciation on the part of the government and the people for its powerful expression of friendship from a strong country in behalf of a comparatively weak one."

At the British embassy, Sir Julian Pauncefote and his official corps shared in the general interest in the question. It was stated that the foreign offices made public at noon yesterday the Salisbury answer, simultaneous with its publication here But as the president's message to congress has not gone through diplomatic channels, it was not a part of the matter given to the British public by the foreign office yesterday.

Beyond the Salisbury letters, the embassy has received no communication on the Venezuelan subject, so that the case rests on the correspondence submitted yesterday.

Following is the complete text of The President's Message.

To the Congress—In my annual message addressed to the congress on the 3d inst. I called attention to the pending boundary controversy between Great Britain and the republic of Venezuela, and recited the substance of a representation made by this government to her Britannic majesty's government suggesting reasons why such dispute should be submitted to arbitration for settlement, and inquiring whether it would be so submitted. The answer of the British government, which was then awaited, has since been received.

Such reply is embodied in two communications addressed by the British prime minister to Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador at this capital. One of these communications is devoted exclusively to observations upon the Monroe doctrine, and claims that in the present instance a new and strange extension and development of this doctrine is insisted on by the United States; that the reasons justifying an appeal to the doctrine enunciated by President Monroe are generally inapplicable "to the state of things in which we live at the present day," and especially inapplicable to a controversy involving the boundary line between Great Britain and Venezuela.

Without attempting extended argument in reply to these positions it may not be amiss to suggest that the doctrine upon which we stand is strong and sound, because its enforce-

MYSTERY UNVEILED.

Young Nichols' Disappearance Explained by a Letter From Mid-Ocean.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 18.—The mysterious disappearance of George Nichols has been cleared up by a letter received here by his father. Young Nichols was a traveling agent for a Boston firm. Last June, while in New Bedford, Nichols joined a party that boarded a tug which had been engaged to tow a whaling vessel out of the harbor. The party went on board the whaler and had a merry time, and when the tug was cast off, Nichols was overlooked, as he was asleep somewhere in the vessel. He was carried to sea, and had to work his passage, which is not yet finished. The whaler is bound around the Horn, and is due to touch at some port in Chili next spring. The letter was brought by a vessel which spoke the whaler in mid-ocean.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 18.—The presence of Bank Examiner Heard and others in the United States court here yesterday started a rumor that an attempt is to be made to indict Cashier Lane of the Merchants' Savings bank of Manchester. Verification will come only when the grand jury reports.

Wisdom and Enonomy.

BOSTON, Dec. 18.—The Massachusetts Biennial Election association has issued an appeal to voters in behalf of the adoption of biennial elections, on the ground that they are economical, and that such a change would be wise and beneficial.

Thinks It a Joke.

Damaging Evidence.

GOT BEYOND CONTROL.

Angry Mob Played Havoc With Street Cars In Philadelphia.

Police Were Unable to Prevent Onslaughts.

Militia Likely to Be Called Upon to Preserve the Peace.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—This city is all but at the mercy of a mob. Not a street car on the Union Traction company is running, and that company controls every line in the city, with the exception of two comparatively short cross-town lines.

The police were absolutely unable to control the mob violence. From early morning until dusk, as each branch line made desperate efforts to start, howling mobs surrounded each car, stoned and hooted the motorman and conductor, smashed the windows, cut the trolley ropes and wreaked all possible destruction. Then the attempt was abandoned. The strikers took little if any part in the work of destruction.

Five hundred extra policemen were sworn in by Mayor Warwick last night, and these, with the regular force of 2100, will make an attempt to quell the rioters. They have orders from Mayor Warwick to carry their batons unsheathed. Should this fail, the governor will be appealed to to order out the militia. The city's executive declared in unmistakable terms that the strike is no longer a contest between a railway company and its employes, but a battle between the city and violence, and the city will win, if it takes the United States army.

The situation is the gravest the city has ever been called upon to encounter. The staff officers of the National Guard of Pennsylvania are in their armories, uniformed and armed in case of need.

A General Bombardment.

The fiercest riot of the day occurred at Sixth and Vine streets about noon. The mob reached almost to Market street, two blocks below. It entrenched itself along the sidewalks and bombarded every car which attempted to run the gauntlet. Superintendent Linden, with a great force of police, finally succeeded in dispersing the crowds after 16 arrests had been made. At Sixth and Market streets veritable pandemonium broke loose as the first two cars reached that point.

In an instant every glass was smashed, and a fusilade of dinner kettles, fire buckets and bricks poured from the upper floors of the business blocks on either side. Conductors and motormen fled for their lives.

Later in the day another violent scene was witnessed at Eighth and Market streets. A West Philadelphia car made its appearance. Motorman, conductor and the few passengers were ordered to leave, and after the fender had been ripped from its attachments and the general work of destruction perpetrated, the car was upset at the intersection of the two lines of track. This blockade was not raised for two hours. In one of these riots Policeman A. Keppler was seriously injured by a shower of stones. Other injuries to citizens and officers are reported from different sections.

Women Are Interested.

Women are playing a prominent part in the strike. One of the warmest adherents of the strikers is a Mrs. Howard, who has done much toward organizing the men and winning over new recruits. The Women's Health Protective association adopted resolutions of sympathy for the men.

At Second and Berk streets a crowd of men surrounded a car. The motorman and conductor refused to abandon their positions, and were thrown to the street. The car was turned upside down and both streets were blocked.

At Cumberland and Amber streets about 100 women plugged the switches and blocked the cars on Cumberland street. Conductors tried to reopen the switches, but were driven away by the women. Scores of men have been arrested for cutting trolley ropes. Strike leaders mounted on horseback are at several of the big depots urging men at work to join the strikers.

The mayor yesterday afternoon issued a proclamation, calling upon all good citizens to assist the authorities in preserving order, and to that end begging them not to collect in crowds on the public highways. "Violence will be met with force and peace will be preserved at all hazards," he says.

The strike itself remains unchanged. The Traction leaders refuse to listen to any suggestion from the other side, and, indeed, no effort is being made in that direction. The strikers are firm, and determined to fight it to the bitter end. Three mass meetings were held last night in various parts of the city.

The entire road covers about 500 miles, and over 6000 men are employed. About 5000 of these are out. There are all sorts of rumors. One is that electricians of the company will join the ranks of the malcontents. Another is that armies of railway workers are bound for this city from Brooklyn, Baltimore, Indianapolis and other points, either to assist or take the places of the strikers.

THE PRESIDENT'S message is well received throughout the country. The American people are a unit for the doctrine of Munroe. The press and the political parties seem to be united on this important question, and commend President Cleveland's message.

OWING TO the poor cars used by the Brockton street railway on their Quincy line which are equipped with the old T. H. motors, the cars were unable to make time and as the Brockton company could not be prevailed upon to furnish better cars on this line, the company controlling the Braintree line has declined to continue to run its cars through to Brockton and it is now necessary to change at Holbrook. When spring opens some satisfactory arrangement will be made to run cars through.

The Munroe Doctrine.

The Boston Daily Advertiser in commenting on President Cleveland's message yesterday, says:

"It is a good message. The word good does not require any qualifying word. The message is good. From first word to last word it is good. It is brave, without bluster; it is firm, without ferocity. It is temperate in tone, discreet in language, logical in reasoning, truthful in statement, pacific in purpose. It is American in sentiment, and at the same time humanitarian in principle. It is timely. It goes just far enough, and stops at precisely the right point. It contains no threats, merely announcements. It lays down no new propositions, simply sets forth in the President's English, which is likewise (in this instance) the Queen's English, the ancient and unalterable Munroe doctrine, which the American people will give up when they offer to sell Plymouth Rock at auction—not before."

The Boston Journal says:

New England cheers for the President and Americanism.

John Quincy Adams himself couldn't have said it better.

For perhaps the first time in his political experience President Cleveland is now realizing what it means to have a united country behind him.

At the Duck's Nest.

Team B put up a good fight on the Duck's Nest Alleys Tuesday evening with Team D of the Wollaston Bowling club and defeated it—1815 to 1634. Casey started in single handed to do up the opposition team but after rolling a frame Briggs and McClintock came in and kept things in motion. McClintock put up the highest single and total strings,—184 and 509. The result:

THE NEW QUARTERS.

A Description of Rooms to be Occupied by District Court.

As has been previously stated the district court will occupy its new quarters in the Adams building early next week.

The new rooms while somewhat smaller than the present quarters are much more convenient and inviting, to those whose business calls them there, than the present quarters in the Faxon building, and once in the new quarters the many familiar faces now daily seen in the spectators' seats will be missed, as it is understood that owing to the smallness of the new rooms only those who have business with the court will be admitted.

The new rooms are those recently occupied by the probate court, and they have been undergoing the necessary alterations. The brick partition which separated rooms 11 and 12 has been removed making one room. This is lighted by eight large windows on the east side and will also be supplied by three chandeliers.

The judge's bench is located at the southerly end. At the right of this bench is the witness stand. The clerk's desk, which is also enclosed in a railing, is directly in front, and in front of that is another enclosure containing tables for the use of members of the bar only.

On the easterly side of the room near the clerk's desk is the prisoners dock adjoining which is the desk of the probation officer.

On the westerly side of the room between the two entrances are the tables for the reporters and police officers and the only objection to this is that the reporters will have to sit with their backs toward the room.

The balance of the space in the room is occupied by settees for the witnesses.

Entrance for the court and officers will be by rooom 11 while the others will enter by room 12.

Directly in the rear of the judge's bench is the clerk's room with an entrance from the main court room and also an entrance from the corridor by room 24.

Room 13 which is the room recently used as the Democratic headquarters is being fitted up as a judge's private room, which will also be used to hear juvenile cases, as well by the Probate court.

The interior furnishings are of ash and the walls are tinted.

Two Days' Sale.

The annual Christmas sale of the Ladies' Aid society and King's Daughters, connected with the Presbyterian church, opened Tuesday evening. The vestry was gaily trimmed with red, white and blue bunting, and the six tables were arranged on the sides of the room.

Confectionery Table,—Miss Bessie McMillan, Miss Jennie McDonald, Miss Maggie Chisholm, Miss Maggie McKay.

Apron Table,—Mrs. George Bowman, Mrs. R. Phillips, Mrs. M. McFadden.

Refreshments,—Mrs. R. W. Peach, Mrs. D. Chalmers, Mrs. D. C. Cantley, Mrs. Jane Elliot, Miss Jennie Arthur.

Market Stand.—John Leavitt.

Among the firms who contributed articles for the sale were: W. H. Doble Co., L. M. Pratt & Co., Foster Bros., C. B. Tilton, H. L. Kincaide & Co., Boston Branch, Granite Clothing Co., D. E. Wadsworth & Co., Gordon's Five Cent store, Johnson Bros., Sanborn & Damon, George Prout & Son, Frank Brewer, S. B. Guston, John McLoud, Dr. J. A. Gordon, Dr. N. S. Hunting, George A. Mayo, T. L. Williams, F. W. Preicy, Joseph Crane & Son, Gilchrists & Co. The sale will be continued tonight.

Laid at Rest.

The beautiful flowers of which the late Mrs. Charles F. Pettengill was so fond were in profusion Tuesday, at her funeral. Although announced as private many relatives, friends and neighbors were present. Rev. E. N. Hardy opened the services, and Rev. Edward Norton offered a touching prayer. The casket was not opened. The interment was in the family lot at Mount Wollaston.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas Foy was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

John McKay of Milton was arraigned for the larceny of $19 from the person of Thomas Devine and was held in $300 for the superior court.

METROPOLITAN COUNTY.

A Proposition to Include Boston and the Suburban Cities.

The Greater Boston Commission has in print its volumous report and from what can be learned it proposes to include the City of Boston and all the towns within a radius of 10 miles into one county, and if passed by the Legislature will be submitted to the people at a special election.

But little of the plan proposed is known as yet but the general outline seems to be a county council which will control the police, sewerage, water, fire, street lighting, etc.

The LEDGER gave Mayor Hodges, view of the project in its issue of Tuesday and his views are shared by many other citizens.

Several well known citizens were seen by a representative of the LEDGER and while each expressed their opinion in a general way they did not care to be quoted as for or against the scheme until they knew exactly what was proposed.

One citizen said if honest men were selected to carry on the business of the county it would doubtless be less expensive than now, but like others seen, he wound up by saying that he could tell better after seeing the report.

A Boston paper has the following:

The Greater Boston commission will make its report to the legislature on Jan. 1. The Metropolitan district commission is composed of William B. Rice, Osborne Howes and William Powers Wilson. It is recommended in the report that a new county, to be known as the Metropolitan County, be instituted, which shall include all the cities and towns in the metropolitan dsitrict. This will take in the whole of Suffolk county and parts of Norfolk, Essex and Middlesex counties. Annexation to Boston is not recommended in any sense of the word. Each town and city in the new county will retain its own municipal government as before.

The idea is, however, to have the sewerage, water, parks and other systems now controlled by commissioners appointed by the governor placed in the hands of the new Metropolitan county officers. A county council, similar to that in use in London, is not recommended. The report will contain descriptions of the London county council and other county councils, but no particular idea is suggested as the best for adoption here. The city of London in itself has only about 50,000 inhabitants. It is the great business centre of the metropolis.

It is said that the plan, if the report is favorably received and its recommendations acted upon by the legislature, is to be submitted to the people at a special election to be held May 15th, 1896, for their approval before it becomes a law.

A meeting of the Metropolitan district commission was held at its office, 40 Water street, Monday afternoon, but no business of importance was transacted. The commissioners decline to give out any information regarding their report until it is completed and in the hands of the legislature. "We are working on the county idea," said Chairman William B Rice of the commission, "but that is all we can tell you about it now. In a few weeks the whole report will be before the people."

Merit wins, and Merit has not only placed Hood's Sarsaparilla at the head of all medicines but has practically given it, as a blood purifier, possession of the whole field.

CHRISTMAS IN QUINCY

Would be dull indeed, were it not for the time-honored custom of giving presents. It is a part of our civilization, and no matter how hard the times, we must make presents.

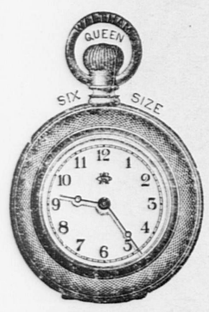

Parents make presents to their little ones, the children to their parents, friend to friend, and lovers to each other. Each present given seals a convenant of continued love and friendship.

There is no place better than a Jewelry store to find presents suitable for everyone, and there is no Jewelry store in this County where you can find so good a selection as at Williams' Jewelry Store in West Quincy.

We have taken particular pains this year, considering the prevailing hard times, to get goods at prices that come within the limits of your pocketbooks. Below we enumerate a few of the articles we have in stock.

Quincy Debating Club.

On Thursday evening the Debating club holds its third regular meeting. Question: Resolved, That immigration into the United States should be further restricted by law. E. C. Litchfield and E. Gourd are the principal disputants on the affirmative: E. F. Southworth and E. Sargent in the negative. This question, always of the greatest interest, is particularly well worth debating now as a bill has just been introduced into the Senate and the House to exclude from admission "All persons between fourteen and sixty years of age who cannot both read and write the English language or some other language. The meeting is open to the public.

Bold Robbery.

A most audacious robbery was perpetrated in Brookline last night. While the family of Mr. Caleb Chase of Beacon street, of the firm of Chase & Sanborn, were at dinner, the house was entered through a second story window in the rear, and diamonds and jewelry valued a $3,500 were stolen from the rooms on the second and third floors.

A ladder had been left standing against the house by workmen who were making repairs, and it was by this means that the thieves gained entrance.

A Board of Trade.

Articles of incorporation have been drawn up and it looks as if Quincy was really to have a Board of Trade. The purposes are laudable as stated, "the uniting of the energies and influence of the citizens of Quincy for more effectual protection, and promotion of the public welfare of the city of Quincy, and in the development of all legitimate enterprises which would tend to increase its prosperity."

City Treasurer Burgin is circulating the papers which are being signed by the business and influential citizens.

Advertised Letters.

At Wollaston postoffice, Monday Dec. 16 1895:

Mrs T. C. Baker, Miss Maggie De Cost, Margarette Hermanson, Mrs. Geo. M. Littlefield, Mrs. M. M. Walsh.

The management of the Boston and Albany railroad has appropriated two million dollars to do away with ten grade crossings in Newton, where twenty men guard the tracks night and day. Thus the good work of abolishing these dangerous crossings is fast being accomplished.

—The fame of Boston's mayor-elect continues to spread. The Memphis Appeal calls him the solar system of the Massachusetts Democracy.

—The population of Dukes County is but 4,238; Nantucket, 3,016. Neither of them as large as the town of Braintree. The population of Norfolk County is 134,819.

—Ten below zero at Concord, N. H., yesterday morning.

ALMOST ASPHYXIATED.

The Family of A. W. Fay Had a Narrow Escape from Death.

The family of A. W. Fay the Wollaston undertaker had a narrow escape from death by suffocation by coal gas Tuesday night.

It was in the vicinity of 11 o'clock when Officer George A. McKay in passing the house saw Mr. Fay at the window gasping for breath.

The officer went to Mr. Fay's assistance and gaining an entrance into the building found Mrs. Fay and the children nearly unconscious from the effects of the gas, the rooms being full of the death dealing vapor.

After considerable hard work the family were brought back to consciousness and this morning were reported as having recovered from the effects of the gas.

The trouble was caused by gas escaping from the furnace in the basement the damper of which had been closed by Mr. Fay previous to retiring.

By the timely assistance of Officer McKay the entire family were probably saved from death by suffocation.

SABBATH PROTECTION.

Dr. Kneeland, to Speak Upon New England Sabbath Protective League.

A rally of all the forces of Quincy on the side of the better observance of the Lord's day is called for Monday evening, Dec. 30, at the Centre Congregational church. The General Secretary of the New England Sabbath Protective league, Rev. M. D. Kneeland, D. D., will give the address. The initiative was taken by the Christian Endeavor Union, but all other young people's societies, and the churches of which they are parts, will be asked to lend a hand. Prominent citizens will be enlisted, and all pastors will be requested also to take part. Friends of the Sabbath are asked to remember the date, Dec. 30, at 7 30 P. M., and to avoid as far as possible conflicting meetings and other engagements. Further information will be given soon.

General Court.

The Legislature of 1896 will meet one week from next Wednesday,—the house in the extension and the senate in the old building. The latter structure has been made ready for legislative business, above the basement story, and the council chamber and representatives' hall will be used for committee hearings, in addition to the apartments hitherto regularly devoted to that purpose.

The safety of the building has been enhanced by transferring the water-tank—weighing when full ten tons—from the cupola to the engine room in the basement, and the old elevators will be run with the water pressure from below instead of from above. The intention of reaching the senate by the projected new elevator in the connecting building has been abandoned. The only connection between the Bulfinch building and the extension will be upon the third floor of the latter and the senate floor of the former. This connection will be by the permanent corridors on the east and west sides of the new structure, in place of the central temporary bridge heretofore used.

There will be probably a Republican caucus to nominate a new clerk of the House and some other business, which will be held in the old representatives' chamber.

Trustees' Meeting.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Quincy Savings Bank held Tuesday evening the president was authorized to attend to the duties of treasurer until Mr. Gill's successor is elected. It was also voted to attend the funeral in a body and a committee consisting of Edwin W. Marsh, Charles H. Porter and Charles F. Adams, 2d, was appointed to draft resolutions.

We all know that any tired muscle can be restored by rest. Your stomach is a muscle. Dyspepsia is its manner of saying "I am tired Give me rest." To rest the stomach you must do its work outside of the body.

This is the Shaker's method of curing indigestion, and its success is best attested by the fact that these people are practically free from what is, without doubt, the most prevalent of all diseases. The Shaker Digestive Cordial not only contains digested food which is promptly absorbed without taxing the tired digestive organs, but it is likewise an aid to the digestion of other foods in the stomach. A 10 cent trial bottle will convince you of its merit, and these you can obtain through all druggists.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.

—Onondaga county, N. Y., is probably the only country in the United States where the raising of teasel is given any attention. It is claimed nowhere else in this country is the peculiar soil to be found that developes teasal to prefection. Good years the Onondaga county crop has reached 40,000,000, pounds, The woolen factories pay from ten to twenty-five cents a pound for teasel.

Biliousness

Is caused by torpidity of the liver. This prevents the digestion of food, which ferments and decomposes in the stomach and causes distress, dizziness, headache, insomnia, nervousness. Hood's Pills invigorate the liver, cure biliousness, constipation, jaundice, sick headache, etc. 25c; all druggists.

NO SECRET

IN THIS WOMAN'S CASE.

Mrs. Campbell Wishes Her Letter Published so that the Truth May Be Known.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Of the thousands of letters received from women all over the world by Mrs. Pinkham, not one is given to the public unless by the wish of the writer. Thus absolute confidence is established between Mrs. Pinkham and her army of patients; and she freely solicits a letter from any woman rich or poor, who is in ill health or ailing.

In the case of Mary E. Campbell, of Albion, Noble Co., Ind., her suffering was so severe, her relief so suddenly realized, and her gratitude so great, that she wishes the circumstances published, in the hope that others may be benefited thereby. She says:—

"My physician told me I had dropsy and falling of the womb. My stomach and bowels were so bloated I could not get a full breath. My face and hands were bloated badly. I had that dreadful bearing-down pain, backache, palpitation of the heart, and nervousness.

"One of my physicians told me I had something growing in my stomach; and the medicine that I took gave me relief only for a short time. I thought I must die. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it worked like a charm. After taking the first bottle I could walk across the street, now I am well. I advise all my friends to take it."

MONROE DOCTRINE.

ment is important to our peace and safety as a nation, and is essential to the integrity of our free institutions and the tranquil maintenance of our distinctive form of government. It was intended to apply to every stage of our national life, and cannot become obsolete while our republic endures. If the balance of power is justly a cause for jealous anxiety among governments of the Old World, and a subject for absolute non-interference, none the less is an observance of the Monroe doctrine of vital concern to our people and their government.

Assuming, therefore, that we may properly insist upon this doctrine without regard to the "state of things in which we live," or any changed conditions here or elsewhere, it is not apparent why its application may not be invoked in the "present controversy." If a European power, by an extension of its boundaries, takes possession of the territory of one of our neighboring republics against its will and in derogation of its rights, it is difficult to see why to that extent such European power does not thereby attempt to extend its system of government to that portion of this continent which is thus taken. This is the precise action which President Monroe declared to be "dangerous to our peace and safety," and it can make no difference whether the European system is extended by an advance of frontier or otherwise.

It is also suggested in the British reply that we should not seek to apply the Monroe doctrine to the pending dispute, because it does not embody any principle of international law which is "founded on the general consent of nations," and that "no statesman, however eminent, and no nation, however powerful, are competent to insert into the code of international law a novel principle which was never recognized before, and which has not since been accepted by the government of any other country."

Practically the principle for which we contend has peculiar, if not exclusive, relation to the United States. It may not have been admitted in so many words to the code of international law, but since in international councils every nation is entitled to the rights belonging to it, it the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine is something we may justly claim, it has its place in the code of international law as certainly and as surely as if it were specifically mentioned, and when the United States is a suitor before the high tribunal that administers international law the question to be determined is whether or not we present claims which the justice of that code of law can find to be right and valid. The Monroe doctrine finds its recognition in the principles of international law, which are based upon the theory that every nation shall have its rights protected and its just claims enforced.

Of course this government is entirely confident that under the sanction of this doctrine we have clear rights and undoubted claims. Nor is this ignored in the British reply. The prime minister, while not admitting that the Monroe doctrine is applicable to present conditions, states: "In declaring that the United States would resist any such enterprise if it was contemplated, President Monroe adopted a policy which received the entire sympathy of the English government of that date." He further declares: "Though the language of President Monroe is directed to the attainment of objects which most Englishmen would agree to be salutary, it is impossible to admit that they have been inscribed by any adequate authority in the code of international law." Again he says: "They (her majesty's government) fully concur with the view which President Monroe apparently entertained, that any disturbance of the existing territorial distribution in that hemisphere by any fresh acquisitions on the part of any European state would be a highly inexpedient change."

In the belief that the doctrine for which we contend was clear and definite, that it was founded upon substantial considerations and involved our safety and welfare, that it was fully applicable to our present conditions and to the state of the world's progress, and that it was directly related to the pending controversy, and without any conviction as to the final merits of the dispute, but anxious to learn in a satisfactory and conclusive manner whether Great Britain sought under a claim of boundary to extend her possessions on this continent without right, or whether she merely sought possession of territory fairly included within her lines of ownership, this government proposed to the government of Great Britain a resort to arbitration as the proper means of settling the question, to the end that a vexatious boundary dispute between the two contestants might be determined and our exact standing and relation in respect to the controversy

Might Be Made Clear.

This proposition has been declined by the British government, upon grounds which in the circumstances seem to me to be far from satisfactory. It is deeply disappointing that such an appeal, actuated by the most friendly feelings toward both nations directly concerned, addressed to the sense of justice and to the magnanimity of one of the great powers of the world, and touching its relations to one comparatively weak and small, should have produced no better results.

The course to be pursued by this government in view of the present condition does not appear to admit of serious doubt. Having labored faithfully for many years to induce Great Britain to submit this dispute to impartial arbitration, and having been now finally apprised of her refusal to do so, nothing remains but to accept the situation, to recognize its plain requirements and deal with it accordingly. Great Britain's present proposition has never thus far been regarded as admissible by Venezuela, though any adjustment of the boundary which that country may deem for her advantage, and may enter into her own free will, cannot of course be objected to by the United States.

Assuming, however, that the attitude of Venezuela will remain unchanged, the dispute has reached such a stage as to make it now incumbent upon the United States to take measures to determine with sufficient certainty for its justification what is the true divisional line between the republic of Venezuela and British Guiana. The inquiry to that end should, of course, be conducted carefully and judiciously, and due weight should be given to all available evidence, records and facts in support of the claims of both parties.

In order that such an examination should be prosecuted in a thorough and satisfactory manner, I suggest that the congress make an adequate appropriation for the expenses of a commission, to be appointed by the executive, who shall make the necessary investigation and report upon the matter with the least possible delay.

When such report is made and accepted it will, in my opinion, be the duty of the United States to resist by every means in its power, as a willful aggression upon its rights and interests, the appropriation by Great Britain of any lands or the exercise of governmental jurisdiction over any territory which, after investigation, we have determined of right belong to Venezuela.

In making these recommendations I am fully alive to the responsibility incurred, and keenly realize all the consequences that may follow.

I am, nevertheless, firm in my conviction that while it is a grievous thing to contemplate the two great English speaking people of the world as being otherwise than friendly competitors in the onward march of civilization, and strenuous and worthy rivals in all the arts of peace, there is no calamity which a great nation can invite which equals that which follows a supine submission to wrong and injustice, and the consequent loss of national self-respect and honor beneath which is shielded and defended a people's safety and greatness. GROVER CLEVELAND.

Executive Mansion, Dec. 17, 1895.

Strongly Endorsed.

Democrats are unanimous in their expressions of approval of the president's message, and those Republicans who speak for publication have few words of dissent.

Senator Lodge (Rep.)—This is the most serious and important message which has been submitted by any president to congress in many years. I heartily approve of its spirit, its conclusions and the general position taken. It is to be hoped that the president's message will make the English people understand that this to us is a vital question; that we are wholly content to leave it to arbitration; but that if arbitration is declined we shall resist this aggression to the utmost, and that, although we do not seek war, we do not fear it.

Senator Hoar (Rep.)—It is less turgid than most of the papers which have emanated from the president, and sounds very much as if it had been written by someone else. I should want an opportunity to read both the message and accompanying documents carefully before expressing an opinion on the soundness of the position taken.

Senator Frye (Rep.)—I am delighted with the message. It has a genuine American tone, and is patriotic throughout. It verifies my sentiments exactly.

Senator Brice (Dem.)—We have arrived at a time when the president is not only heartily supported by his own party, but is thoroughly in accord and enthusiastically supported by the Republicans. I shall have to revise the alleged statement regarding my proposed action at the meeting of the national Democratic committee and extend it so as to say that there will be no necessity of holding a Republican convention nor an election either.

Senator Davis (Rep.) says: I think the president has risen to an opportunity such as has not been presented to any president in many years. In language of great dignity, power and accuracy he has stated the Monroe doctrine as understood by the American people for 70 years.

Senator Platt (Rep.)—I concur heartily in all the president says in the message. In a matter of this kind, affecting the national interests and the national honor, there ought to be no division of party, and I think there will be none in this instance.

Senator Voorhees (Dem.)—It was splendid, splendid. I violated the rules of the senate the first time in my life by clapping my hands when the message was read. I endorse every word of it, and so will the American people.

Senator Hawley (Rep.)—It is a good and strong document, but it may be subject to the criticism in some quarters that it is too plainly put; but whether the question is as diplomatically stated as it might be is one for the diplomatists.

Senator Gorman (Dem.)—It is a warlike document; a very vigorous statement. Of course much depends upon what the commission which we are to send to Venezuela shall report.

Senator Chandler (Rep.)—It is a broad and courageous paper, and expounds a doctrine for which the United States will fight if necessary.

Senator Teller (Rep.)—The concluding words have an American ring.

Representative Walker (Rep.)—The position in which the United States government finds itself in the Venezuelan dispute is exceedingly serious. The president's suggestion as to the position of the United States will meet with the approval of the people.

Representative McCall (Rep.)—The message is a spirited and noble document, and should receive the united support of both parties.

Viewed With Disfavor Abroad.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—All of this morning's papers devote more or less of their editorial space to a discussion of President Cleveland's message on the Venezuelan question and to the merits of that question itself.

The Times says: It is impossible to disguise the gravity of the difficulties that have arisen between Great Britain and the United States. President Cleveland's message, and its reception on both sides of the senate, give additional importance to the dispatches between Washington and London. The details of the boundary dispute are insignificant in comparison with the far-reaching claims advanced in Mr. Olney's dispatches, and emphasized in President Cleveland's message. Convinced as we are that a rupture between the two English speaking communities would be a calamity not only to themselves, but to the civilized world, we are nevertheless driven to the conclusion that the concessions this country are so imperiously summoned to make are such as no self-respecting nation, least of all one ruling an empire that has its roots in every quarter of the globe, could possibly submit to. The United States themselves would never for a moment dream of yielding to this kind of dictation. We are of the same blood, and shall be not less careful of our national honor. The Times then argues that the Monroe doctrine has never been recognized as international law, and it quotes Lord Salisbury's admission that any disturbance of the existing territorial distribution in the Western hemisphere by any European state would be highly inexpedient.

The Daily Graphic says: The epitaph of the Monroe doctrine has been written in the Venezuelan correspondence. President Cleveland's message only serves to illustrate another of the inherent absurdities of the modern interpretation of the Monroe doctrine. President Cleveland does not propose to instruct Mr. Bayard to demand his passports, nor does he contemplate an invasion of Canada or an expedition to Demerara. He is struck by the awkward fact that he first ascertain what there is to fight about.

The Chronicle says: The message will be read here with blank astonishment. Can these be serious words addressed to us by the descendants of the little shipload of English folks who sailed in the Mayflower? There is but one answer. If the enlarged application of the Monroe doctrine is to be enforced, America must become responsible for the foreign policy of all the petty and impetuous little states on the two continents of America.

The Daily Telegraph contends that America has no concern in the Venezuelan dispute. The editorial goes on to say: By what right does the Washington government demand the arbitration of this matter when the very theory which guides their interference has absolutely nothing to do with the points in dispute? What nation has ever agreed to the Monroe doctrine? How often has the Washington government itself ventured to advance it?

The Daily News says: It is a remarkable document, though its consequences are not likely to be serious. Neither Secretary Olney nor President Cleveland seems to realize that the Monroe doctrine cannot be quoted as authoritative in negotiations with a foreign power. The definition of Monroeism is a matter for Americans themselves. It binds nobody else.

The Standard says: This extraordinary document will receive from English publicists more dispassionate treatment than the decidedly provocative nature of its contents renders altogether easy. The position President Cleveland assumes is preposterous. There can be but one answer. We decline to humiliate ourselves.

END NEAR AT HAND.

Spanish Troops Unable to Check Advance of Cuban Insurgents.

Gravity of the Situation Realized by Campos.

His Defeat In Mantanzas Would Mean Freedom For the Cubans.

HABANA, Dec. 18.—The "repulses" and announcements of the heavy losses the insurgents are said to have incurred have not prevented them from pushing steadily onward, and so the Spanish forces must be in retreat or defeated beyond concentration.

The insurgents have crossed the military lines between the city of Santa Clara and Cienfuegos, and their advance guards are now in sight of Las Lajas, well to the westward of Santa Clara, showing that the Spaniards have been utterly unable to check their progress since they crossed the frontier of Santa Clara from Puerto Principe at Iguara.

As the latest news came from the front, the guerrilla forces of the Spaniards were engaged with the vanguard of the Cubans, and the troops commanded by Colonel Valle were known to be engaged with the insurgents near Hormiguero. However, the most serious news for the Spaniards was the dispatch announcing the insurgents to be in sight of Las Lajas, showing the combined armies of Maceo and Gomez to be making for the province of Habana. Near Matanzas, a decisive battle must be fought, or else the Spaniards must retreat upon Habana itself.

General Campos, recognizing the gravity of the situation, has left Cienfugoes for Matanzas, to take command of the Spanish troops that will attempt to bar the way of the Cubans. If Campos is defeated in Matanzas, the insurgent cause will, it would seem, be triumphant.

Only about 10 days have elapsed since the announcement was made of the defeat of Colonel Segura at Iguara by Maceo and Gomez, but the Cubans have since then crossed four-fifths of the province of Santa Clara, and they have done this in the face of the 40,000 picked troops said to have been distributed over that territory.

It was at Santa Clara that De Campos made his headquarters, and it was from there he proposed to direct the operations which were to hurl the enemy back in confusion. Later he changed his headquarters to Clefuegos, southwest of Santa Clara; now he is off for Matanzas, four days hard traveling for the insurgents from Santa Clara.

If the insurgents are defeated, and ordinary fair generalship is adopted by the Spaniards, the forces of Gomez and Maceo will be caught from their rear on one of the narrowest parts of the island by all the Spanish troops they have successfully evaded or defeated in their march westward. The next two weeks, consequently, should settle matters one way or the other.

Ringleader Weakened.

MATTEAWAN, N. Y., Dec. 18.—Another conspiracy, looking to a delivery of convicts at the asylum for criminal insane, has been frustrated by the confession of the ringleader, Pat McGuire. A keeper named John Brown acted as "go-between" for the convicts who were in the plot and parties in New York. Brown was arraigned before Justice Hoysradt yesterday, and was held for the grand jury. McGuire realizing that he might have to commit murder in the endeavor to escape, confessed the plot to Superintendent Allison.

No Party Politics.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—At the American Federation of Labor meeting the following sub-resolution was carried by a vote of 149 to 158: "That this convention declares that no party politics—whether Democratic, Republican, Socialistic, Populistic or any other organization—should have any place in the Federation of Labor." A resolution endorsing the struggles of the Cuban patriots for liberty was adopted. Copies will be forwarded to President Cleveland and Secretary of State Olney. The convention adjourned sine die.

Is Owen the Author?

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—The coils are tightening around S. A. Owen, who it is said mailed the infernal machines to Messrs. Pullman and Armour, and notified them in advance, in the hope of obtaining a reward. He is believed to be the same man who for 10 months has been sending threatening letters to Messrs. P. D. Armour demanding $2000. The identification of the writer of the letters with the man who mailed the infernal machines is based on the similarity of the writing.

Likely to Be Settled With Peace and Honor

Unless Venezuelans Themselves Become Too Excited Over the Matter.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The greater portion of the time of the Republican senatorial caucus yesterday was devoted to the Venezuelan question as presented by the president's message. This matter was brought up in connection with a renewal by Senator Lodge of his suggestion that the senate should not, in view of the critical state of affairs, adjourn for the holidays until the committees should be completely equipped for action in case the necessity should arise.

A large number of speeches were made, after which it was announced, as the sentiment of the caucus, that there should be no adjournment until the committees should be perfected. Senator Mitchell is chairman of the caucus committee authorized to present this view to the Democratic senators and impress upon them the necessity for speedy action in making their committee assignments.

Among those who made speeches were Senators Lodge, Teller, Chandler, Platt and Frye. All the speakers spoke of the situation as grave. Senator Lodge dwelt upon the special necessity for having the foreign relations committee in full working order. Senator Teller said the view that the problem which the message presented was too serious for hasty action in any way, and intimated that an adjournment until after the holidays would do no great harm.

The opinion was very general, however, that congress should be fully prepared for, and should make its own investigation. It was suggested that England might accept the president's utterances as an ultimatum, and proceed immediately to push her troops into Venezuela, and it was asked what the United States would do in that event, in case the question should be still tied up in the hands of a commission.

There was some reference to the bill passed in the house appropriating money for the proposed commission, and the opinion was expressed that the bill should go to the committee for amendment. It was also stated that it was the understanding that Senator Morgan would move its reference. Some of the senators expressed the view that the time when the committee should report should be defined. The caucus also instructed Senator Mitchell to inform the Democrats that they would be granted full representation on the enlarged committees, as heretofore on all committees.

The caucus did not adjourn to any given time. After the adjournment, Mr. Mitchell had a conference with Senator Morgan. Mr. Gorman promised to lay the matter before the Democratic committee, and said that the action of the Republican caucus in conceding full representation to the minority would tend to simplify the work of the committee, and thus hasten the final adjustment.

Olney's Bold Stand.

It is proper to note the fact that while up to the beginning of last spring the United States never had gone further in the Venezuelan matter than to tender our good offices, at that point, Mr. Olney, for the first time, initiated a new and important phase of the controversy by boldly taking the ground that Great Britain's course was in violation of the Monroe doctrine.

Although there is nowhere a suggestion of any abatement of our claims—and indeed it is generally recognized that by announcing his determination to hold Great Britain outside of the boundary to be defined by our own commission, the president has left no avenue for retreat—it is still confidently believed here that the difficulty can and will be settled peaceably and with honor to all parties concerned. This belief is based upon the expectation that Great Britain, as Lord Salisbury has indicated in his last note, will re-establish diplomatic relations with Venezuela.

As the revolution in that country has been quelled, and the internal peace Lord Salisbury demanded as a resumption of Venezuelan negotiations are restored, he will treat the subject, it is believed, and as he promises in his note, in a more compliant spirit than the British government has exhibited heretofore in the negotiations, and thus speedily reach an arrangement satisfactory to Great Britain and Venezuela, and so, as a natural result, be acceptable to the United States. In this way Great Britain would avoid any concession of the right of a third party to interpose, and likewise escape the admission of the acceptability or applicability of the Monroe doctrine.

There probably will be ample time for Great Britain to carry out this program during the long interval that must elapse between the authorization and appointment of our boundary commission and the presentation of its report. It is entirely probable that Great Britain will abstain from presenting any evidence in support of her title to the commission, for by so doing she would admit our right to interpose, which is the vital point in the controversy, so that the commission's report is likely to fall subject to the same criticism that Lord Salisbury applied to Secretary Olney's statement, namely, that it is ex parte and based entirely on The Venezuelan Records.

One source of present danger which gives some apprehension to the element that looks for a peaceful solution of the problem lies with the Venezuelans themselves, as it is feared that, carried away by the enthusiasm of President Cleveland's message, and Secretary Olney's note of July last, they may be led to attack the British outposts on the Yuruan without awaiting the findings of the United States commissioners as to the real boundary line, or may reject reasonable British overtures for a peaceable settlement of the boundary dispute.

Lord Salisbury's responses to Secretary Olney's arguments are not regarded in official circles in Washington as being weighty or logically strong. The parallel he seeks to draw between the Alaskan boundary question and the Venezuelan boundary controversy utterly fails, it is said, when viewed in the light of the definition of the Alaskan boundary given in the Russian treaty of cession.

As for his objection to the injection of the Monroe doctrine into international law, and the making of new international law by the United States, it is recalled that international law, as Speaker Reed once remarked of parliamentary law, "is not an exact science;" that it is made and amended from time to time by nations able to support their views, and that the United States has as sound a right to apply this doctrine to American affairs as had some of the European powers by combination to regulate affairs in Europe and force their views upon Oriental nations.

It is improbable that Secretary Olney will make a further response to Lord Salisbury's notes at this time, beyond a mere formal acknowledgment of their receipt, and the president probably will await the action of congress upon his suggestion looking to a commission before proceeding further with the negotiations.

Deeply In Earnest.

Yesterday's session of the house did not last an hour, but it sufficed for the passage of a bill authorizing the president to appoint a commission to investigate the Venezuelan boundary, and appropriating $100,000 for the expenses of the commission. The bill, which carries into effect the recommendations of the president's message, was prepared by Mr. Hitt (Rep., Ills.), and met the approval of Speaker Reed.

Although several Republican leaders expressed themselves in conversation as favoring the reference of the message to the committee on foreign affairs for a report, Mr. Boutelle of Maine was the only one who voiced that view on the floor. Speeches for the bill were made by Mr. Hitt and Mr. Crisp, and attempted by other members who could not secure recognition, as there was no vote against it, and considerable applause was given to the patriotic references to the speeches. The house decided to have its holiday recess extended from Friday, Dec. 20 to Friday, Jan. 3, a vacation of two weeks.

There will be but one session before the holidays, that on Friday next, when Speaker Reed will probably defy superstition and announce the house committees.

The senate shared the general sentiment of belligerency prevalent, and from the outset of the session the measures proposed breathed a spirit of patriotism and of preparation for any emergency that might arise concerning Venezuela.

The first bill introduced was that of Mr. Chandler of New Hampshire, providing an appropriation of $100,000,000 for a heavy increase in the national armament. This was quickly followed by propositions authorizing the secretary of war to purchase a late device of heavy battery and for a report on the feasibility of equipping for service the old ship Constitution. Mr. Hill of New York added to the suggestions of defense by asking immediate consideration for a bill making ex-Confederates eligible to service in the army and navy.

The first investigation of the session was started by the passage of Mr. Call's long-pending resolution for an inquiry into alleged corporate influences operating in the election of United States senators and representatives.

As a further expression on the subject of British encroachments, the senate agreed to a resolution introduced by Mr. Davis, calling on the president for information as to British and Canadian occupation—military or civil—of any part of the United States territory of Alaska.

IN VENEZUELA.

Everybody Crazed With Excitement Over the Recent Developments.

CARACAS, Dec. 19.—The news of the Cleveland message, uncompromisingly upholding Venezuela and the Monroe doctrine, created the wildest joy and enthusiasm in this capital. It has produced new confidence in the future of the country and acts like magic on business activity and enterprise.

The Venezuelan foreign office declares that it will sustain the dignity and sovereignty of the republic by force if necessary. One hundred and fifty thousand soldiers can be put into the field. The government declines to speak officially in regard to the Yuruan incident, but your correspondent is assured that it will refuse to concede the indemnity of $60,000 recently demanded by Great Britain.

It is reported English warships are on their way hither. The arrival of the American naval squadron is anxiously awaited. President Crespo said that he deemed it unwise to say anything for publication until he could himself send a message to the Venezuelan congress. It is probable that an extra session of that body will now be called.

The Venezuelan press calls upon the people to show their patriotism on this great occasion and their gratitude to the noble republic of the north, which has proved in supreme crisis its stanch adherence to the principles laid down by its most advanced statesmen in the early years of its history. The press also urges upon the people the duty of preparing at once for war with all their energy.

Special editions were issued by the newspapers in the evening, reiterating the expression of the popular feeling of gratitude that there was at last to be a union of political sentiment between North and South America productive of beneficent results. They also declare their confidence in the outcome of the commission which President Cleveland proposes to send to examine into the merits of the dispute with Great Britain. The prestige of the United States, they add, is now unique in the political world.

Englishmen resident in Caracas betray their uneasiness, but express the hope that there will be a peaceful solution of the difficulty.

Caracas is crazy with patriotic enthusiasm. The populace show that they are deeply moved to gratitude toward their Fizzle and Effervesce.

People of old Norfolk and Plymouth counties almost swear by ex-Gov. Long, and his opinions on the Venezuela affair will be of interest. In an interview, of the Boston Advertiser, he says:

"I am frank to say that I have little sympathy with what I regard as a distortion of the Monroe doctrine. That was a principle adapted to a very different time, when our country was comparatively small and weak. But even then what it contemplated was resistance only to such engorgement of American territory by a foreign power as would endanger our own safety and interest. It is absurd to say that it meant resort to arms on our part, because of some petty dispute between a South American republic and a European power with reference to a boundary line.

"It is, in my judgment, bad statesmanship and bad policy for President Cleveland to even intimate the idea of war with all its terror and cost in such a case. As I read his message, it seemed to me the very extravagance of cheek for him to lay down that because Great Britan declines to arbitrate at his request on a question of the boundary between its own territory and that of Venezuela, three or four thousand miles from here, the United States should force her to do so by threat, and if necessary, by act of war.

"I should be hearty for the most vigorous assertion of American rights in any cause where they are really assailed, but I have little patience with what I understand to be the present outcry for violence and arms in a case of no account to us. It looks like a bid for popular applause instead of statesmanlike guidance of popular sentiment in the ways of peace, prosperity and humanity.

"I am inclined to think that President Cleveland has shrewdly provided a way out by suggesting a commission, through which the whole bubble can fizzle and effervesce."

A meeting of the Quincy Shoe company was held Wednesday evening at the office of the Quincy & Boston street railway. R. F. Claflin, president of the company, presided.

The treasurer reported that $11,600 of the $15,000 wanted had been subscribed. It was decided not to commence the manufacture until the market was in a better condition. By-laws were adopted but will be amended at the next meeting which will be held Saturday evening, Dec. 28, so that the board of directors shall consist of five or seven instead of three.

The officers of the new company were: R. F. Claflin president, Herbert T. Drake clerk, and Fred E. Drake treasurer.

THE FUNERAL TODAY.

A Large Number Paying Fina Tribute to George L Gill.

It is a day of mourning in Quincy for the loss of Mr. George L. Gill, but by some oversight the flag is not at half mast on City Hall. When the LEDGER went to press all the business houses in City Square were closed, and the Savings bank has been closed all day.

At 1 30 there were prayers at the house by Rev. Ellery C. Butler which were followed by public services at the First church at 2 30. These services to include reading of scriptures, prayer and brief address on the life and character of Mr. Gill by the pastor, Rev. Ellery C. Butler. Also singing by the Apollo quartette.

The Masonic and Odd Fellows' burial services will be performed, the later being conducted by Rev. Mr. Butler, the chaplain of Rural lodge.

The City officials, City Council, Masons, Odd Fellows and other organizations are present in a body, and the funeral will be among the largest ever held in the city.

Among the many floral offerings is a beautiful design from the Quincy Saving bank representing a book with the word "Finis" on the last page.

The body will be taken to Mt. Wollaston cemetery and placed in the receiving tomb and will be taken to Hingham Friday for interment.

Friday's LEDGER will have a detailed report of the services.

THE BENEFIT CONCERT.

A Goodly Sum Netted for Mr. Harvey J. Smith Last Night.

A worthy object, a good entertainment, and an appreciative audience, were the features of the benefit at Hancock hall, Wednesday evening, for Mr. Harvey J. Smith, an employe of the street railway.

The street railway boys were out in full force and officiated as ushers while Officer Ferguson collected the pasteboards at the door.

The programme was a lengthy one and included many local artists who have appeared before, as well as two artists who made their first public appearance on this occasion, Miss Lulu Brackett, soprano soloist, and Mr. G. S. Waterhouse, baritone soloist. When Mr. Waterhouse made his appearance he was greeted with an ovation and was obliged to respond to an encore.

Others to appear were Mr. James P. Clare who gave a mystifying ledgerdemain performance; Mr. Munroe Perry, in a "burlesque lecture on "Sound;" Mr. Walter Hersey, in a pleasing baritone solo; Miss Beatrice Porterfield, in her ever pleasing readings; Miss Esther Ellis, in a banjo solo; Mr. Walter Loud in a master violin solo; and Mr. George Brackett in a mandolin solo. The Adams Male quartette also added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

Mr. James Rose and his pupil executed a difficult sword dance, which was very pleasing.

The humorous side of the entertainment there was Mr. Eddie Van Dono, the comical clown juggler and hat manipulator; Mr. Frank Bassick, in a German sketch, Mr. John Phelan, in an Irish character song, and Messrs. E. Donovan, J. Walsh, J. Ross and R. J. Gray, in a farce entitled "Siamese Twins."

The orchestra also gave several pleasing selections and Mr. Herbert Fay Nye officiated as accompanist. Taken as a whole it was a pleasing entertainment and will net a good sum for the worthy object for which it was held.

Q. H. S. D. S,

President Coe took the chair at the meeting held on Wednesday at High school. Miss Rothwell, secretary, presented her report. Under unfinished business the debate on Crime in the United States was concluded.

Miss Emery declared that most crimes were caused by the liquor traffic, and that the liquor traffic was on the wane. She stated that reporters are to blame for the large amount of space given to the details of crime.

Miss Cummings maintained that the liquor traffic was on the increase. She stated that the world was growing worse and worse. The Armenian massacres were referred to.

Miss Feeley stated that crime was not increasing so fast as population. She regarded education as a great check on crime.

Miss Costello declared that detectives are more efficient than ever before. She said that Turkish atrocities had nothing to do with crime in the United States.

Miss Burns said that murder, robbery, and incendiarism were on the increase. She referred to the adulteration of food and to confidence games.

Miss Hayes '97 offered her report as critic.

The entertainment was as follows:

1. Recitation, Miss Johnson, '97.
2. Music, solo, Miss Roche, '96. Accompanist, Miss Chapman, '97. This selection was given with spirit and feeling and was received with applause.

Some discussion about the constitution of the society followed the entertainment.

A new debate was begun:

"Resolved, That Quincy Ought to be Annexed to Boston."

Miss Garrity opened the debate for the affirmative.

The debate was postponed for lack of time.

Munsey's Christmas Number.

It has always been claimed, and rightly too, that merit must be found in everything offered to the public, to win. The fact that the enormous edition of 600,000 copies of the Christmas Munsey was entirely exhausted December 6, three weeks in advance of that joyful holiday, stamps it as the magazine par excellence of the day and gives it first place in the hearts of the people—a position honestly won on its merits.

While this special Christmas number surpasses anything heretofore produced in the magazine line, it is only a trifle better than the regular issue, for the beautiful illustrations that appear each month are the best that money can buy, and the excellent reading matter is so prepared that it may please the many rather than the few. "So much for so little money,"—ten cents a copy—is the popular expression, and you hear it everywhere.

There are thousands of people who are missing every month a rich treat in not purchasing this magazine, and we feel sure should they see their first copy, they would not be content until they possessed it.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE GREAT TOBACCO WAR.

Many of our readers know of the war existing between the manufacturers of plug chewing tobacco, but few, perhaps, are familiar with the cause.

For years some manufacturers have been making enormous profits by giving consumers a small piece of plug for ten cents. Recently a very large manufacturer, seeing that the time had come for better things, has placed a new brand, called Battle Ax, on the market, which gives the consumer a very large piece of most excellent quality for the same price. This has raised a great storm among those who are hurt by it, but it gives joy to those who use the goods. In Battle Ax they get a greater quantity for their money, while the quality is equal to the finest of other brands. This has naturally had the effect of greatly decreasing the business of those who have held to the old way, and it has materially curtailed their enormous profits. On the other hand Battle Ax now taxes the resources of three large factories, which by running night and day, are still unable to make the goods fast enough to satisfy the enthusiastic demand.

The people want a good thing and the most of it that they can get for the price. The manufacturers who do the best by them will get their trade. Their rivals naturally do not like it. They raise a mighty howl, but the Ax will cut them down.

sister republic Pictures of President Monroe are displayed everywhere, and the statue of Washington has been decorated with American flags and floral wreaths.

A grand mass meeting was held in the public plaza, at which ringing speeches were made. The American minister was afterward serenaded by the military bands. A grand ball in celebration of the event which now so absorbs the thoughts of Venezuelans will be held Jan. 1.

The minister of foreign affairs called formally at the American legation yesterday, and expressed to Minister Hazelton the thanks of President Crespo.

Dr. Prieti is about to depart on an important diplomatic mission to Europe.

The revolution is over.

As Viewed Abroad.

LIMA, Dec. 19.—President Cleveland's special message of the British Guiana-Venezuela boundary dispute has been the one subject of conversation among all those interested in public affairs, and it is regarded as a most important diplomatic document. The Monroe doctrine is a subject of vital importance and interest to every South American republic, and the clear definition of it and the announcement of the lines of the adherence to it by the United States government are welcomed by all classes of intelligent people. The public, as far as can be gathered from the expressions collected, do not expect that war will result, but think that England will yield to the firm stand of the United States. Words of admiration are heard on all sides for the course of the United States in coming to the relief of a weak sister republic.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The Chronicle contends that Lord Salisbury has not drawn a cast-iron line, and has offered to accept arbitration. After all, says The Chronicle, the dispute is very small and is between friendly nations, and we decline to believe that it is a closed book between them.

The Post says: If the utterances of Secretary Olney and President Cleveland mean anything, they would justify the recall of Sir Julian Pauncefote. The language of Secretary Olney's document would expose us to a demand to retire, not only from Canada and Jamaica, but from Australia, India and Cape Colony. It is difficult to suppose that such a paper could be framed unless for the purpose of degrading England. It is not to be supposed that the position of England, held for 600 years against the world, will be yielded to America without a struggle.

The Graphic says: Whether it is a bugaboo or sober earnest, it has brought us within a measurable distance of war. It is now a question of the national honor, on which the government of the queen cannot budge an inch. Yesterday we could treat it as an exhibition of personal wrong-headedness. Today the situation is altered. We trust that prudent counsels may yet prevail, but the decision now rests entirely with America. We dare not recede without shame.

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—The Boersen Courier betrays a mischievous joy, and warns England that she is at last brought into serious trouble. It says that England is no longer in a position to convince small states of the legality of her claims by bombarding frigates. The Frankfurter Zeitung says that England is the aggressive party, and is wrong to refuse arbitration, but that nobody will wonder at her refusal to accept President Cleveland's proposed American commission.

VIENNA, Dec. 19.—The impression here is one of sheer amazement that President Cleveland should be disposed to rush headlong with a light heart into a conflict with Great Britain. If the Washington government imagines from the talk of England's isolation that America will get Europe's sympathy, it is wofully mistaken.

PARIS, Dec. 19.—The message for the most part was received here in a spirit of utter stupefaction. It is not merely that Europe has an obvious solidarity of interest in rejecting, with disdain, the extended view of the Monroe doctrine, but even more because the pretension shares so little with reason and ordinary sense that it appears ridiculous.

A Discouraging Report.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 19.—The mail steamer from the northern coast arrived here yesterday afternoon and reported frightful ravages by the recent gales. The schooner Victory and her crew of 22 have been lost. Four other vessels are missing. Much damage has also been done on the west coast.

Another Dividend.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Comptroller Eckels has declared an additional dividend of 2 per cent in favor of the creditors of the failed Maverick National bank of Boston. This makes a total of 89 per cent divided in favor of the creditors of the bank.

For Robbing Graves.

TOPEKA, Dec. 19.—The police last night caused the arrest of the man who is believed to be guilty of body snatching that recently came so near provoking the people to mob violence. The prisoner is M. E. Lowe, recently a city scavenger.

Too Foggy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The official trial trip of the United States battleship Texas, which was to have taken place yesterday, has been postponed. The vessel was in readiness for her test, but owing to the dense fog which prevailed the trial board decided on an adjournment.

Decision in the Fayerweather Will Case.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—The general term of the supreme court has affirmed the decision of Judge Truax in the Fayerweather will case in favor of the five plaintiff colleges, and against the executors of D. B. Fayerweather, the costs to be paid out of the estate.

Cheering News.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 19. — The American commission to investigate the massacres have arrived at Cheng-Tu, and were received by the highest officials with great honor. Their mission will probably be successful.

Veteran in Nation's Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Captain Bassett, the venerable doorkeeper of the senate, died yesterday afternoon.

THE STABBING CASE.

The Injured Man Testifies in Quincy Court Today.

A hearing on the case of Paul Grandinger the German who stabbed Officer Frank X. Fruth at West Quincy on the night of Nov. 29, while resisting arrest, was held in the District Court this morning.

Officer Fruth who has been confined to the house since the night of the assault was the principal witness. He testified that on the night in question, John Shatzel came for him to go to his house, as he expected trouble and he wanted witness to stop it. After he had been there a short time Grandinger came in and had a glass of wine. Grandinger then said to Shatzel, I brought your wife back again and you ought to get a keg of beer out for that. Shatzel replied, "I don't want her any more and you had better keep her." Someone then came in and made a remark about someone breaking and carrying out furniture in the elder Shatzel's house. We went over and found the wife howling and making a fuss. A wordy war then ensued and Grandinger was ordered out. He came back in a few moments, and in the fuss that ensued Shatzel said Grandinger had bit his finger. Grandinger then started for his home and I ran after him, and told him I was going to arrest him for having bit Shatzel's finger. He said he would not go and drew a knife. I told him I would use a billy if he did not go. I struck him and tried to knock the knife out of his hand when he stabbed me. After that he started toward his house and I toward mine. I went as far as West street where I met two fellows who helped me home.

Dr. T. J. Dion testified as the wound, which he said was a cut about one and one-half inches in length on the surface. The knife went in between the eighth and ninth ribs and penetrated the plural cavity and the lower lobe of the left lung, which caused a hemorrhage. He considered the man in a dangerous condition so much so that he called in another physician.

A number of other witnesses were examined but the testimony did not vary from that given by Fruth.

The defence offered no evidence at the hearing. Mr. Blackmur, counsel for the prisoner, asked that the bail be reduced as the injured man was out of danger. The court granted the request, and held Grandinger in $800 for the superior court.

THE THIRD CHARGE.

One of the Stover Children Takes Watch from Workman's Vest.

The Stover children of South Quincy are making quite a reputation for themselves at thieving, and something should be done to check them or they will bring up behind the bars.

It is only a short time ago that they stole $2 from the money drawer at Mrs. Kincaide's store at South Quincy, and only last Saturday night that another child of the family stole some money at the store of D. E. Wadsworth & Co.

The last exploit was enacted Wednesday, when Benjamin Stover entered Mitten's blacksmith shop on Granite street and went into the office ostensibly for a drink of water. In the office was the vest of A. McLaughlin, one of the workmen, in which was a gold watch which young Stover took and went out.

The watch was missed a few minutes later, and the matter reported to Officer Ferguson, with a description of the boy. The officer recognized it as Stover and inside of an hour he had apprehended the boy and returned the watch to the owner who refused to prosecute the boy.

As stated above something should be done with these children before some more serious act is committed.

A Pleasing Concert.

The concert program last evening in the Quincy Point lecture and entertainment course was a genuine success. Miss Jean Bergland, the reader, verified in each of her numbers, the remarkable reputation she has been winning all over New England as an unusually strong and entertaining reader. Mrs. Herbert Drake's vocal talent is so keenly appreciated in Quincy that we need only say that she was up to her usual standard, and her appreciative rendition of her selections was enthusiastically received. Only good things can be said of the solo work of Mr. Kilby whose rich baritone voice we have never heard to so good advantage. Encores and general expressions of satisfaction were the order of the evening. Mr. Herbert Hayden presided at the organ and acted as pianist for the evening with his customary acceptability.

Quincy Debating Club.

It is hoped that all will take notice that the debate on the immigration question is in the Y. M. C. A. rooms tonight and begins at 7.30 o'clock. Please be on hand promptly. The meeting is open to the public.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas McWilliam was fined $5 for drunkenness at Braintree.

There was a good attendance at the concert in the Congregational church Wednesday evening by the well known Shipp Family bell ringers which was held under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. The programme given was a very pleasing one, and consisted of selections on the chime bells, rdadings, and banjo and zither solos and duets. Every number received an encore and the concert was a very enjoyable one.

—Burglars entered the shoe store of A. B. Bugbee at Holbrook Tuesday night and took $400 worth of goods.

A Successful Sale.

The basement of the Presbyterian church, on Water street, was fairly thronged on Tuesday evening and Wednesday night there was another large attendance. On every side people were saying that the ladies of the church had not held so prosperous a sale for years. After nine o'clock Mr. Alex. Clark, chairman of the Board of Trustees, who had been a very active assistant, auctioned off some remaining articles very successfully. It is not known yet how much will be cleared, but all concerned are fully satisfied. Among the contributing firms not mentioned were L. G. Murray, Orin D. Chick, A. Clark & Co., and John Nicholson.

Cold Weather

There are seven million pores in the ordinary sized man, which act as sewers in cleansing the system of impurities. When they become clogged, perspiration ceases or is less than normal in quantity. Cold weather restricts the amount of perspiration, and in nature's struggle to free the system of waste matter the Kidneys become overworked. Buker's Kidney Pills counteract the effects of overwork, prevent disease, and cure the Backache incidental to Kidney troubles. When the back aches, try the pills. Druggists sell them for 50 cents. A book about Backache and Kidney troubles for the asking.

THE SAWYER MURDER.

Maine Mystery of Long Standing Promises to Be Unravelled.

Thompson Brothers Placed Under Arrest.

Charged With Having Committed a Murder In May, 1894.

SKOWHEGAN, Me., Dec. 19.—James Albert Thompson was arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff A. L. McFadden on a warrant charging him with the murder of J. A. Sawyer, an elderly farmer of Monmouth, about May 19, 1894. The arrest of Edward Thompson of Monmouth, his brother, was also made at a late hour last night.

The murder of Sawyer had been a mystery. J. A. Thompson was arrested on Monday at Edward Morris' camp, 10 miles from the Forks, by Deputy Sheriff Ham of Bingham. The charge was larceny, and on being brought here was held for further examination on this charge.

Previously he had been carefully cross-examined at the Forks hotel, during which he gave information believed to be a clew in the murder case. By reason of that information County Attorney Heselton of Kennebec was consulted, who caused warrants to be issued for the arrest of the Thompsons on the more serious charges.

James A. Thompson was brought for trial on the larceny charge before Justice Priest. He was discharged, and immediately rearrested, as stated, upon the warrant for murder. He will be taken to Augusta today.

Committed In May, 1894.

The Sawyer murder is supposed to have been committed Saturday, May 19, 1894, although the body of the murdered man was not found until the following Monday, early in the afternoon. Ethan Little, who had been building a sheep fence for Mr. Sawyer on the farm some distance away, went to notify the old gentleman that the work was completed. There being no response to his knocking, he entered the house, finding it deserted. The barn was securely locked on the outside.

Mr. Little, being suspicious of Mr. Sawyer's absence, notified the neighbors, who soon after searched the premises. The house was found in a condition indicating that its contents had been thoroughly ransacked. In the barn the old man's body was found lying face downward and partially buried by hay in a passageway near some deserted stalls.

The coroner rendered an opinion that Mr. Sawyer had been shot, a 32-caliber ball having entered his head directly beneath the nose, and had lodged at the base of the brain, causing instant death. At the inquest, which was held that evening, the jury returned the usual verdict of death "at the hands of party or parties unknown."

Rewards were offered by the town and by the heirs, which attracted a host of detectives, who labored for weeks without being able to offer any solution of the mystery. It was with a great deal of difficulty that a motive for the crime was established, but all the evidence pointed indubitably to that of robbery.

Careful investigation brought out several details, which had been overlooked by the detectives, that served to point toward Thompson as the murderer. The Lewiston Sun continued the investigation long after other had allowed the affair to drop as being one of the many unsolved mysteries of the northern pines, and secured circumstantial evidence which led the authorities to arrest the two Thompsons.

STOCKWELL CONVICTED.

Thirty Years' Imprisonment For Murder In the Second Degree.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 19.—The Stockwell murder trial was resumed yesterday before Judge Doe, and contrary to expectation the state concluded their case in the fore noon. At the afternoon session Stockwell pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree, and the state accepted it.

Fred A. Stockwell was then sentenced to 30 years in state prison by Chief Justice Doe.

The murder for which Stockwell was sentenced was committed in the police station at Manchester about 10 o'clock on the evening of May 1, 1893. Stockwell, evidently under the influence of liquor, called at the station to talk over the incidents of his recent discharge from the force. He had previously made threats against members of the force, chiefly against Captain Hildreth and Sergeant McAllister, whom he held responsible for his dismissal. Soon McAllister came in. The two had a few words, and Stockwell drew his revolver, and almost before McAllister could move had emptied its contents into him. McAllister died almost immediately. Stockwell has never expressed one word of regret for the deed, but has frequently said: "I am glad of it. I've done what I said I would."

Wages Too High.

BOSTON, Dec. 19.—The shoe manufacturers of Marlboro held a meeting in this city yesterday and considered every phase of the situation in that city. All present acknowledged that wages were too high, and that if the interest of the city was to be considered, a reduction must take place. It was finally agreed that where the rate of wages could not be satisfactorily adjusted between the manufacturers and employes the services of the state board of arbitration should be enlisted.

Evidence of Crime.

HARTFORD, Dec. 19.—Henry Holland, a schoolboy, found the body of John Dwyer of Buckland lying near an old toolhouse on Hartford avenue. There was a deep gash in the head. Across the street was a pool of blood and a bloody trail, indicating that Dwyer got the cut on the other side of the road and crawled to the house, where he died. The authorities believe a murder has been committed.

Lost In Fitchburg.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Dec. 19.—Mrs. Clark, 80 years old, came from Townsend to do some Christmas shopping with her daughter. They went into a store, and the old lady was left seated near the door. When the daughter returned for her aged mother, she could not be found. The police were notified, but the officers could find no trace of her. Mrs. Clark had considerable money with her.

An Explanation.

NEW HAVEN, Dec. 19.—The members of the state cattle commission are stirred up over an allegation made by Governor Coffin at the state board of agriculture meeting that a herd of cattle near Hartford had been appraised by the commission at $400, after having been offered at private sale for $175. They assert that the statement of the governor was due to misinformation, and that the herd was not offered for $175 alone, but for another herd and $175 boot money. It is stated that Dr. Finch of Enfield was responsible for the story, and that he was laboring under a mistake.

O'Neil's Refuge.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 19.—It is reported on the best of authority that John H. O'Neil, the absconding treasurer of the American Hand Sewed Shoe company of this city, is now located in a small town in England, and that he is of the opinion that he cannot be extradited on the charge of defalcation.

Herrick Acquitted.

HARTFORD, Dec. 19.—The jury yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Frank J. Herrick, and he was discharged. Herrick was tried for the murder of Julia Egan's infant, of which he was the alleged father, by drowning it at New Britain June 8.

STILL TALKING WAR.

Venezuelan Commission and Warship Money Before the Senate.

The Course Pursued by the United States

Assures to It the Moral and Physical Support of Southern Countries.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The spirit of Americanism still brooded over the senate yesterday, but although every senator who spoke upon the subject of the crisis in the Great Britain and Venezuelan boundary dispute endorsed the position of the president, they expressed the opinion that war would not result.

Still the gravity of the situation was not underestimated. The "war talk" of the last few days attracted to the galleries large crowds, who followed the debate with intense interest. The immediate business before the senate was the house bill appropriating $100,000 to defray the expenses of the commission recommended by the president. There were some differences of opinion as to what disposition should be made of it, the general opinion being that it should go to the committee on foreign relations.

The debate, however, had no practical result, as Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.) objected to the second reading of the bill. As the bill could not be referred until it had passed the parliamentary stage, further progress was impossible, while Mr. Allen remained obdurate. Mr. Allen based his objection on the ground of his opposition to precipitate action.

Senator Hale introduced a bill for the increase of the navy. The bill provides for the construction of 25 torpedo boats at a cost of $175,000 each, and of six sea-going coastline battleships, designed to carry the heaviest armor and most powerful ordnance upon a displacement of 11,000 tons, to cost, exclusive of armament, $4,000,000 each.

Excitement Subsiding.

The excitement over Venezuelan matters subsided greatly yesterday, the result being attributable very largely to the facts that the house was not in session, and that the senate was disposed to avoid precipitate action, as was evidenced by the course when the house Venezuelan commission bill was received.

Among Secretary Olney's callers yesterday were Ministers Andrade of Venezuela, Mendonca of Brazil and Romero of Mexico, representing three of the first republics of South and Central America. While the calls were enveloped in the secrecy usually prevailing at diplomatic functions, it is generally believed that the ministers took occasion to thank the secretary of state for his vigorous assertion of the Monroe doctrine in its broadest sense. That the diplomatic officials feel very strongly in that way is beyond question.

For some time there has been serious apprehension in the southern republics that when a crisis arrived the United States would not regard it expedient to vigorously enforce the Monroe doctrine. This feeling was increased at the time of the British occupation of Corinto, and by the issuance soon thereafter of a semi-official pamphlet showing the narrow limitations of the Monroe doctrine.

Under these circumstances the effect of the declaration of the president and the state department has been awaited with the deepest interest by the republics to the south of the United States. The message has met their most hopeful expectations, and the president's utterances and Mr. Olney's elaborate exposition are accepted as a general enunciation of policy, applicable alike to all the countries of the Western hemisphere.

Republics Cemented.

The suggestion is made with much directness in diplomatic circles that the course of the United States assures to it the moral and physical support of all the southern and central republics. In the aggregate this allied strength of the Western republics, with the United States as its head, would constitute a new and formidable factor in international affairs.

It is not suggested among diplomatists that such an alliance will take the formal shape of a treaty, but it is urged that the feeling of union existing constitutes a compact quite as effective as a formal understanding. In this connection, the fact was mentioned by a diplomat that the alliances of the Old World—notably the triple alliance—was not a formal treaty made public to the world.

Senator Morgan, at present chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, had an interview with Secretary Olney yesterday on the subject of the Venezuelan issue, and the secretary also talked with Senator Lodge and Senator Mills on the same matter, although he was obliged, in order to do so, to suspend his rule against granting interviews to any one, not a member of the diplomatic corps on Thursdays. He was also for a short time closeted with Mr. McAdoo, the acting secretary of the navy, who was called upon to furnish information on some special subject.

Now Is the Time.

Although none of the Central and South American diplomats will consent to be quoted regarding their call on Secretary Olney, it is known that they, as a rule, have cabled their governments that the present seems an opportune time for invoking the Monroe doctrine as a means of support against European pressure, several of them being involved in disputes with European nations at this time.

A statement is made by one of them that several important resolutions will follow, because of the vigorous construction of the Monroe doctrine. First, it is said, will be the official adherence of the southern republics, making the declaration practically unanimous from the countries of the Western hemisphere. It is pointed out that Lord Salisbury insisted that the Monroe doctrine was not recognized as international law, but this, it is said, will be answered by a showing that all the republics of North and South America accept it as the law governing them.

The project of another conference of American republics, in line with the pan-American conference, but with a view to political alliance rather than commercial reciprocity, is being discussed also. There have been a number of these conferences, largely devoted to academic discussion, but the strong assertion of the Monroe doctrine would give a practical aspect to such a meeting.

How far these hopes and purposes of the southern countries were communicated to Mr. Olney yesterday is not known, but he was doubtless made aware of the strong prevailing feeling, and the intention to give it official expression as soon as word could be received from the general governments represented. Among the South and Central American diplomats themselves the feeling is almost unanimous that there should be a speedy cementing of all the republics of the Western World.

Admiral Bunce, commanding the North Atlantic squadron, came up to Washington from his flagship New York in Hampton Roads yesterday, and had a consultation with Acting Secretary McAdoo respecting the movements of his squadron. He was to have sailed Saturday for the West Indies, but he will defer his departure until he confers with Secretary Herbert when he returns to Washington next Sunday.

The feeling is growing in naval circles that the cruise will be abandoned, for it is now regarded as highly imprudent to send away from the country the only substantial defense of the Atlantic seaboard. There is also a suggestion that it would be prudent to recall the Mediterranean squadron, comprising three of our finest cruisers, which would be left hopelessly "bottled up" in the event that matters took a bad turn.

What Salisbury May Do.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach made an address last night at a Conservative banquet in Bristol which contained an important suggestion of the probable next step to be taken by the British government in the Venezuelan controversy, namely, the issuance of a statement by Lord Salisbury, which, Sir Michael intimated, might put a new face on affairs.

The chancellor warned his hearers against exaggerating the gravity of the Venezuelan trouble. Some persons, he went on, however, to say, talked of the impossibility of war between the United States and Great Britain because of the ties of kinship between the two nations. Nothing was impossible, he asserted, which had already occurred, and if kinsmen unfortunately differed sometimes, they became very bitter enemies.

But there was reassurance, he said, in the fact that he did not believe that the people on the other side of the Atlantic desired war.

He thought that when the true statement which Lord Salisbury had ably prepared in dispatches was published, the result would be happy, honorable and peaceful to both sides.

There was, he said, a special security for the peace of the two English-speaking nations, because both were reared under free institutions and were accustomed to read and think for themselves, and not to follow blindly the judgment of their rulers.

In their past history, when disputes had arisen, decisions had been come to and popular outcry evoked upon imperfect information, which, when fuller information was available, had entirely passed away. He was confident that if the true statement of Great Britain's case as revealed in Lord Salisbury dispatches was laid before the people here and in America, the result would be happy, peaceful and honorable to both parties.

Freedom Almost Gained.

HABANA, Dec. 20.—It is beginning to be openly admitted here, even in official quarters, that the position of the Spanish cause is becoming exceedingly precarious. It is learned that the principal bands of Gomez, Maceo, Pancho, Carillo and of Jose And and Maria Aguirre, the last two Americans, have formed a junction. In the Remedios district, Vidal's band are reported to be uniformed and to have outfits equal to the troops. The doubt and alarm caused by the state of affairs are plainly discernible in Habana, and signs are manifest that the prestige of the recent insurgent successes has greatly increased their power.

Further Delay.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Once more the official trial of the battleship Texas has had to be postponed, this time after she had very successfully accomplished three-fourths of the task allotted to her. The cause of the postponement was attributable to structural defects. The trouble was in the engine and firerooms. Large quantities of cold water were being used to keep the journals cool. The water falls into cisterns in the fireroom, where the bilge pumps are used to carry it away. The pumps were totally inadequate for this.

Red Cross Laborers.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The party that will go to Armenia to distribute supplies under the auspices of the Red Cross society will be made up as follows: Miss Clara Barton, George M. Pullman, Stephen Barton, Dr. Hubble, Dr. and Mrs. Gardener, Dr. Egan and Ernest Mason. The executive officers will be chosen from missionaries already on the field. It is possible that the health of Stephen Barton will not permit him to go with the party.

Brothers All.

LOUISVILLE, Dec. 20.—Last night saw the windup of the Grand Army encampment of 1895, when the Louisville committee made its final report, and southern hosts and northern guests greeted one another at the banquet table at the Pendennis club. A large number of prominent members of the Grand Army assisted yesterday in the presentation of encampment flags to each of the public schools.

The flag on the Coddington school house was at half mast Thursday in respect to Mr. George L. Gill.

If there is one thing more than another in which John O. Holden's has a choice variety, it is in finger rings.

Mr. Franklin Curtis is the only one living who has been Town Clerk of Quincy, and he is also the oldest Mason of Rural lodge.

A delegation of Maple lodge, K. & L. of H., will visit Unity lodge of Boston, tonight, for a social game of whist.

Hospital Ten, King's Daughters, have a Japanese tea this afternoon in the First church chapel followed by an entertainment in the evening. All in aid of the hospital.

Rev. Carlton P. Mills, late of the church of the Ascension, Boston, has accepted a call from St. Chrysostom's church, Wollaston, and takes up his work in this parish at once.

Mr. C. A. Spear, the clerk of the City Council, and City Treasurer Burgin, have been suggested for the position of treasurer of the Quincy Savings Bank. Either gentleman would be a good choice.

There are big attractions at Gordon's five-cent store. They have just received another large importation of souvenir crockery which is very attractive, beside a store full of useful and fancy articles for the children.

In many of the school rooms of the city this afternoon there are impromptu Christmas exercises. These include Christmas stories by the teachers, speaking, singing, marching, and in some cases Christmas trees or boxes.

Rev. Edwin N. Hardy delivered "The Address to the People" on Wednesday at the installation of Rev. Nicholas Vander Pyl, as pastor of the Congregational church at Holliston. Mr. Hardy was formerly pastor of the Holliston church.

Rev. J. A. Belanger, well remembered as a former resident of Wollaston, was installed as pastor of the Congregational church in Brookline, N. H., in connection with the three days' celebration of the "Centennial" of the church, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 17.

Only two days more to fill out those lists for ice cream prizes. Mr. Wales reports large lists in preparation and from indications it will take about 1000 for the small prizes, as the thinking caps of a great many have been put on. The lists must be in by 12 M., Monday, Dec. 23.

Rural lodge of Masons and Mount Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellow turned out in very large numbers at the funeral. In addition to those in line, there were many in the ranks of the other organization, or among the city officials and mourners, so that each lodge probably turned out over one hundred members. The streets were too muddy for good marching.

Wednesday evening the second degree staff of John Hancock lodge worked the degree on six candidates, there being two from Crescent lodge of East Weymouth, three from Mt. Wollaston lodge of Quincy and one of the home lodge! There were about seventy-five present. A collation was served in the banquet hall, during which the Adams Male Quartette entertained the company with several selections.

At the meeting of the Daughters of Rebekah of Wollaston on Monday evening, two candidates were initiated. Sixty-eight members of the order were present; among them were:—Grand Master Estey, Past Grand Master Ruggles, Grand Marshal Sargent, Past Grand Marshal Boynton, and Grand Instructor York. The work was performed in a highly creditable manner, after which a collation was served.

LIKENED TO CHRIST.

The Funeral of Our Friend, George L. Gill.

Beautiful Eulogies by Rev. E. C. Butler and Rev. D. M. Wilson.

Masonic and Odd Fellows Services Held in the Church.

"So his life has flowed
From its mysterious urn a sacred stream
In whose calm depth the beautiful and pure
Alone are mirror'd, which though shapes of ill
May hover round its surface, glides in light
And takes no shadow from them."

—Talfourd.

All that was mortal of George L. Gill was laid at rest Thursday afternoon with imposing ceremonies. It was a beautiful day, but a sad occasion that called out so many of those who had known, loved and honored Mr. Gill in life to pay their last respects to him who had so suddenly been taken away.

The historic old First church has witnessed many such occasions as this, yet it is doubtful if there was ever quite such a gathering as that present Thursday.

Here were the relatives, the fraternities with which he had been affiliated for years, the men with whom he was connected in business life, the city government past and present, the old town officials, local business men and last but not least the women who had often sought advice of him, who lay silently before her, and who had so often been kindly received, cheered and comforted by his words.

While the societies and friends were gathering at the church, prayers were being held at the late residence of the deceased by Rev. Ellery C. Butler.

At 2 50 while the organ pealed forth a soft prelude the body encased in a black broadcloth casket was borne down the centre aisle and placed in front of the altar, the pastor meanwhile chanting "I am the resurrection and the life."

The services were of a simple nature consisting of scripture reading by Rev. Daniel M. Wilson, brief but feeling addresses by Rev. Ellery C. Butler and Rev. Daniel M. Wilson and prayer by Rev. Mr. Butler, while the Apollo quartette rendered these beautiful selections,—"Gathering Home," "Lead Kindly Light" and "'Twill not be long."

Rev. E. C. Butler's

Eulogy was unique and a worthy tribute which only a stenographic report can do justice. He said: After the sands of life are sifted there remain certain fundamental truths which tell whether he is a man after the image of God or not. Time alone tells this. There are those who win the plaudits of their fellow men, as a child is pleased with a new toy, and generations as they come and go say, behold what a great man is this; how golden their precepts. Years come with their eternal test and sift away. At last when he goes there are none so poor but pay him reverence. They may be mistaken for awhile. They may judge him for a few years, but after years that man's character stands or does not stand on the fundamental principle. How many there are who have been tried by that tribunal from which there is no appeal.

There are those other lives of which the world sees little and hears less. They are softness and gentleness. So quiet are they that they seem to place no obstruction in the path, but at the time of need they are there. Such a life has just been lived in our midst, and all that remains of him lies before us crowned with flowers and also with sweet memories of those who loved him well. These give truth a power. Such a life, quiet and retiring has been passed day by day in the vanished years in this old town by the deceased. There are many hearts here fluttering with emotion today. They pronounce his eulogy, and I speak what they cannot say. There are times when speech is silver and silence is golden. Perhaps this is one of them. I have been his minister for a short time and I cannot refrain from speaking words of respect, admiration and love. Here was one who won respect. He lived for others. His life was a tabernacle upon which burned the light of heaven, reminding us some of the Master. A true friend, and a good brother; hail and farewell for a little time until into our dark lives a bright life shines, and a mission speaks to us, come. Then he will greet us in the old blessed way and we shall be home at last.

Rev. D. M. Wilson.

After another selection by the quartette, Rev. D. M. Wilson, the predecessor of Rev. E. C. Butler and for many years pastor of the deceased, spoke feelingly. The passing away of our dear friend has been so swift and sudden that we seem to believe him with us now. He was one who had endeared himself to us all. I owe much to him personally. Always in his seat in the gallery, his pleasant nod of recognition and his presence was an inspiration to me. I knew of the many kindly things he was doing. What knowledge he had was at the the disposal of every one. George L. Gill—how kindly and courteous, finely filling the public stations to which he was called. He will long be with us as a support, and to inspire us to live for the best and wisest. His was a life of integrity. He fulfilled the duties of man. A loyal friend, a comfort and a stay. How he helped burdened souls. No ill word was on his tongue. The true husband; true and faithful son. Generous, faithful, courteous; of rare good judgment. We can take his life as an example.

At the conclusion of these services the Masonic burial service was performed by Worshipful Master Joseph L. Whiton and Chaplain Rev. Ellery C. Butler.

Then followed the Odd Fellows' burial service which was performed by Noble Grand Walter Good, and Chaplain Archibald McLeod.

An opportunity was then afforded those who desired to take a last look at the deceased, after which the remains were escorted to Mt. Wollaston cemetery by the Masons and Odd Fellows, the following acting as bearers: Hon. Charles H. Porter, J. Q. A. Field, Tobias H. Burke, E. W. Henry Bass, Dr. J. A. Gordon, Edward A. Spear, William S. Williams and Franklin Jacobs.

QUINCY DEBATING CLUB.

The Immigration Question Discussed Pro and Con Last Night.

The following subject was debated by the Quincy Debating club Thursday evening. "Resolved, that immigration into the United States should be further restricted by law."

President E. S. Litchfield opened the debate for the affirmative. He said that immigration had reached such a magnitude that something must be done. If immigration is for good, we want to encourage them to come to our shores, if it was for bad we want to stop it. The majority of the imigration is from the undesirable classes and unskilled labor. In the early part of the century the immigration was of the better class, but now we find it has changed materially. Forty three per cent. of the crime in the United States is by native while 56 per cent. is by the foreign element. On the other side there are agents who aid as far as possible criminal persons to come to this country. This element furnishes the larger per cent. of the occupants of our jails and almshouses. They decrease wages and lower the social standing. The effect was also bad for politics as they could be easily handled.

E. F. Southworth for the negative, criticised the remarks of Mr. Litchfield. It would be a good thing to make this country perfect, but no way has been offered to carry it out. He then traced the question from the beginning of the century up to the present time. He also traced the laws regarding immigration. The law today, if enforced, prevents any but good honest men from coming to this country. The tests proposed by the Immigration League, viz. The educational, and head tax, he classed as unfair. They expect these persons to have our high standard. It would be an expensive experiment. We do not want such a law. We want them to learn the English language. The head tax of $100 is a hard one. If a man with a family raised enough to come here, when he got here he would be a pauper and would have to be sent back. History has shown us that the menial work has been done by this class. In closing he asked: Who is to do this work? Is such a law as proposed American and constitutional? Is it a Christian-like spirit.

Delcevare King, replying in the affirmative, said there was a sufficient supply of this kind of labor on hand and we had no further need of more. It was American and constitutional to exclude men who will not become good citizens, and it was most certainly Christian-like. The world looks to America as the highest in moral and religious standing. It may be true that this would be ruin for them in the South and West but they would not go there. He thought the present restriction laws very slight. The immigration can be restricted by the laws proposed. As it is now it is easier for a man to get into America than elsewhere.

E. Sargent, for the negative, replied, and said we have more land than we can occupy. What would have been the result if this country had been composed of Americans alone? If it had been so we might have had slavery now. The laws we have today should be more rigidly enforced.

The debate was then thrown open and was taken part in by Stacy Southworth, Henry H. Faxon, Alex Craig, Harold Faxon, J. M. Nowland, C. W. Tucker, Earl Pinkham and C. F. Merrick.

A vote was taken on the question which resulted in favor of the affirmative by a vote of 16 to 8.

Nerves and Blood

Are inseparably connected. The former depend simply, solely, solidly upon the latter. If it is pure they are properly fed and there is no "nervousness." If it is impure they are fed on refuse, therefore cannot be strong and healthy, and the horrors of nervous prostration result. The only sensible way to cure is: Feed the nerves on pure blood. Make pure rich, red blood and keep it pure, by taking

WITHOUT CONSCIENCE.

Hayward's Greed For Gain Prompted Him to Take Five Lives.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 20.—The ante-mortem statement of Harry Hayward, the full text of which makes 30,000 words, is in many respects a most remarkable document. It was made under the most formal conditions, and with solemn assertions on the murderer's part that he was telling the truth.

The full text, published today, gives for the first time the name of one of the victims and other important details which have heretofore been omitted in the abstracts that have been printed. Not only does Hayward claim to have murdered during his brief career no less than five different persons, but in describing the various tragedies in which he figured he shows an utter absence of human feeling and a pleasure in his achievements that mark him as an unusual type of criminal. The language used in describing his criminal adventures is in the same careless, flippant style that characterized his testimony on the stand.

The first murder was that of Carrie Mass, near Pasadena, Cal.

Money, he said, was his first object in life, girls the second and travel the third. There was a girl in Minneapolis with whom he was going, who had $2000 a year. He planned to kill her, but did not, because there was no way he could get her money.

Once when tending bar in Long Branch he had killed a consumptive man who came there and who had money. The consumptive had money and wanted to die. The name, Harry refused to tell, on the ground that he had an accomplice who might get into trouble now. The murder was by shooting, too, and the body was thrown into the river.

Then there was a Chinaman killed in a gambling quarrel, and the brother of the Mexican girl at El Paso Del Norte, and, lastly, Miss Ging.

The stories of Blixt and Adry on the stand were practically correct, and Harry exonerated Adry from all criminal connection with any of his schemes. Blixt, he said, was surely hypnotized and was not responsible. He felt sure that the man should not have been given but two or three years in prison, instead of a life sentence. In closing his statement Hayward said:

"I have told the truth, so help me God—if there is a God. If there is, he certainly won't blame me, as I have honestly followed the dictates of my conscience. Don't say that I'm sorry, for I am not. I have made my bed, and will lie in it without kicking. I have had my fun, and will pay for it."

Cars Are Running.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.—There is a marked improvement in the situation of affairs here. The omnipresence of policemen, mounted and on on foot, is effectual in subjugating the mobs. There were few outbreaks yesterday, and these were mainly in the outlying districts. They were subdued with little difficulty, although a number of arrests were made. A total of close to 200 cars ran over the tracks of several branches during the day without serious molestation. With nightfall, the liquor saloons again observed Mayor Warwick's order to close, and every car was withdrawn from the streets. This resulted in a restoration of quiet.

Two Score Lives Lost.

RALEIGH, Dec. 20.—There was an explosion of gas in the Cumnock bituminous coal mine in Chatham county yesterday. Up to 11 o'clock last night but 24 of the 65 men who went down in the shaft to work have returned. The other 45 are supposed to be dead, but the names of some of them are unknown. So much afterdamp has been in the shaft all day that no efforts have been made to get the bodies to the top.

Steamer Spree Stranded.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—The German steamship Spree, Captain Willgerod, from New York, Dec. 10, for Bremen, stranded on Warden ledge, a dangerous pile of rocks, two miles west of Yarmouth, on the northwest coast of the Isle of Wight. The steamer was in charge of a pilot when she struck. Tugs landed her passengers and mails, and it is likely that a portion of her cargo will have to be moved.

Pillsbury's Third.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 20.—The chess tournament was continued here yesterday. Pillsbury (white) beat Tschigorin in a queen's gambit, declined, after 55 moves. Lasker (black) beat Steinitz in a queen's gambit, declined, after 40 moves. The scores to date are as follows: Pillsbury won 3, lost 1; Lasker won 3, lost 1; Steinitz won 1, lost 3; Tschigorin won 1, lost 3.

Marine Mishaps.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 20.—Damaged vessels continue to arrive here, and they report encountering hurricane weather. Schooner Beta had two men washed overboard, and her sails, rigging and bulwarks were swept away. Barkentine Aureola had her headgear carried away. Schooner Goldfinch, with a crew of 14 people, is supposed to be lost.

In McKinley's Favor.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 20.—The Republican state central committee held a stormy meeting yesterday. It was a pitched battle between the Warmouth faction, favoring McKinley, and the Kellogg faction supporting Reed. Warmouth and McKinley captured the organization, and fixed the state nominating convention for Jan. 29.

Out of Prison.

ALBANY, Dec. 20.—The court of appeals yesterday handed down a decision in the case of Erastus Wiman, charged by R. G. Dun & Co. with forgery. The court sustained the opinion of the general term of the supreme court reversing the judgment of conviction and sentence of 5½ years, and Wiman is a free man.

Took Baby With Her.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 20.—Mrs. C. A. Grossman, wife of a prominent hardware merchant, committed suicide by jumping into a cistern back of their house. She carried with her a 3-year-old child. A note was left telling where the bodies could be found. No cause can be conceived for the act.

Unfit For Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—The cruiser Charleston is lying temporarily disabled at Nagasaki. Both pistons of the engine are broken, and the ship for several weeks will be powerless to move.

Twelve Killed, Sixty Injured.

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 20.—A portion of the barracks here collapsed yesterday. Twelve soldiers who were in the building at the time were killed, and 60 were injured.

BROCKTON, Mass., Dec. 20.—At a special meeting of the aldermanic board last night the last note in the protracted police investigation by the present board of aldermen was sounded, when a set of new rules governing the police department was submitted to the board and laid on the table till the full board is present to act.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 22. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The good tidings of Christianity.—Isa. lii, 7-15. (A Christmas meeting.)

Every recurring Christmas season is but a commemoration of the good tidings of Christianity. Our minds instinctively go back to the morning of our Saviour's birth and to the announcement of heaven to the world that a Saviour had been born. Good tidings indeed, and beautifully illustrated in the prophecy of Isaiah that God would deliver Zion from its third captivity. Let us notice:

1. The messengers of the good tidings. "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of Him that bringeth good tidings." The prophet here refers to the messengers who were to bring the message of deliverance to Jerusalem, but they typify those who announce the good tidings of the world's deliverance from sin, through a Saviour, Jesus Christ. These messengers were, first, the angels who announced the advent of the newborn Saviour, and then the apostles, who went out from Jerusalem to all the country countries to tell the story of the Saviour's birth, the angels' song and the redeeming cross. How gladly and joyfully they were received. Today all disciples of Christ should be messengers of the good tidings. We should rejoice to tell to others the story of our Saviour's birth and of his redeeming cross. Good news should never be locked up in our own breasts. We should tell it to others that they may rejoice with us and also share with us in its benefits.

2. The message contained in the good tidings. The prophets' description of the good tidings coming to Jerusalem will apply. 1. They were "good tidings of good that publisheth peace." Peace was contained in the message announcing the birth of Christ, for the angels sang of "peace to men." And what a peace it is. Peace between man and man; peace between man and God; peace among nations; individual peace; peace of conscience; peace in the inward soul of man, rest from the burdens of sorrow and sin, because one has been born who is able to give us rest. 2. They were good tidings of salvation. "Unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord." "Thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins." Salvation is the joyous Christmas message of Christianity, salvation from ourselves, salvation from guilt, salvation from all evil within and without, salvation for time and for eternity.

Let us rejoice in the good tidings of our religion and take delight in being messengers to carry these good tidings to others.

Bible Readings.—Isa. vii, 14; ix, 6; xi, 1-10; Nah. i, 15; Math. i, 18-25; iv, 23; xxviii, 18-20; Luke i, 26-33; ii, 1-20; Rom. i, 1-5; x, 12-15; I Cor. i, 17, 18; II Cor. iv, 3-6; viii, 9; Gal. ii, 2; Col. iii, 1-4; I Thess. i, 2-6; Rev. xiv, 6.

Duty and Success.

The thoroughly successful man is he whose labor is of real value to the community, who has formed the habit of doing what is before him unhesitatingly and manfully, quite independently of whether he likes it or not. He has chosen his work and takes it just as it comes. If it chance to be agreeable, so much the better; if not, his energies do not swerve. His question is not "How much shall I enjoy doing this piece of work, or carrying out this new plan in my business?" but "Is this work necessary?" "Is this plan wise?" No question of like or dislike comes in to interfere.—Lutheran.

Not Mercenary.

The slur that ministers are mercenary is shallow and ignorant. The men who make it betray their skepticism of human nature, not their knowledge of the facts. It is as it should be. There is no class of men who care so little for money as ministers of the gospel. And while they must have enough to support their households, they show by their unselfish desire for usefulness and the way that they spend their surplus that they are living primarily for the things that enrich character and add to its resources, and not for the gratifications that move the masses of mankind.—Watchman.

Deeper Vitality.

Only a deeper vitality, a richer filling of our spirits with the Spirit of God, an assurance of the possible divineness of the human life by an experience of how richly it may be filled with divinity—only this can make us be to our brethren, and make them be to us, all that God designed.—Phillips Brooks.

The Sun and the Shade.

It is easier to maintain what shall look like faith and dependence in the sun than in the shade, but real faith and dependence are better tested and better grown in the shade than in the sun.—Mrs. Gilbert Ann Taylor.

Endeavor Jottings.

The newly formed Christian Endeavor society at Apia, Samoa, holds temperance meetings once a week.

An excellent social committee aim is amiability.

Be satisfied in your prayer meeting talks to drive in the nail. Let the conscience clinch it.

Remember in your society work that a good follower is as rare and as useful as a good leader.

In Australia the use of flags and badges in Christian Endeavor conventions is almost entirely unknown. Our brethren in the antipodes miss one source of enthusiasm.

A good prayer meeting, like a pin, is pointed at the entering in, is long enough to bring everything together and comes to a good head.

Rev. J. F. Cowan, D. D., has been elected to represent Pennsylvania as a vice president of the World's Christian Endeavor union.

Thurman's Will.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 20.—The will of the late Senator Thurman shows he was worth from $160,000 to $170,000. The will, drawn Oct. 29, 1879, remains unchanged, with the exception of a codicil transferring his law library from a relative, since deceased, to a grandson, Albert L. Thurman. There are no public bequests.

Samoan Queen Dead.

APIA, Nov. 30.—Miss Margaret Young, queen of the Manua group, is dead. She came to the throne as the direct descendant of the royal line on the side of her mother, who married Arthur Young, a trader. The queen was 23 years old and reigned four years.

—It is very evident that Congress will have to take early movement upon the immigration subject. Out of a total of 258,536 immigrants received in this country last year 22,142 were illiterate; 21 per cent. of the total immigration of those over 16 years of age were unable to read or write their own language; 36 per cent. had no occupation whatever. During this session Congress will be asked to pass a law excluding all persons between 14 and 60 years of age, who cannot both read and write the English or some other language. This is a wise and judicious step and it should be taken at once.

Our Nation Ready to Face War if Necessary.

SENATE TAKES ACTION

By Passing Bill Providing For Venezuelan Commission.

President Urges Congress Not to Adjourn Before Considering Finances.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Yesterday was a day of excitement and surprises in Washington. Events moved with rapidity, and when the sun went down public men in all branches of the service were nervous and worn out from the tension.

Reports came of a panic in securities throughout the country, and here in Washington affairs moved at the rapid pace of a kaleidoscope. The house Venezuelan commission bill was amended in material respects by the senate foreign relations committee, and then, by a sudden change in sentiment in the senate, was passed unanimously just as it came from the house; then an adjournment resolution from today over the holidays was passed by the senate, only to be followed by an urgent message from the president, strongly advising prompt action for the reform of the currency system and the maintenance of public credit.

Through the Senate.

The senate, by unanimous vote and without the formality of a rollcall, yesterday passed the bill, already adopted by the house of representatives, empowering the president to appoint a commission to determine the Venezuelan-British Guiana boundary.

This action was the culmination of a debate adding a memorable page to congressional history. It was a day of notable speeches by notable men. The subject of war between the United States and Great Britain was the prevailing theme, which found expression in the patriotic sentiments as regarding appeals for preparation and defense, in graphic portrayals of the horrors of war, and at times in definite warnings to the people across the water.

By a singular coincidence, the session, which was to be marked by such vigorous debate and action, was opened by an invocation of classical beauty from the blind chaplain of the senate, breathing the spirit of good will between the two prominent English-speaking nations. This was speedily followed by the adoption of Mr. Allen's somewhat ironical resolution calling on the finance committee to investigate the needs of the unlimited coinage of silver.

At all times during the four hours of discussion the galleries were besieged by an eager crowd, whose patriotic impulses found frequent expression in applause, which the presiding officer sought vainly to suppress.

The most notable utterances of the day were those of Senators Sherman, Teller, Mills, Lodge, Platt, Turpie, Chandler, White, Caffrey, Call and Stewart, representing the three shades of political sentiment, and yet in the main uniform in urging the support of the president; vigorous assertion of the Monroe doctrine, and, if need be, any action essential to Maintain the National Dignity.

There were strong expressions also against the panic in American stocks and securities, which were said the London commercial houses were seeking to bring about. Throughout the debate there was an undercurrent of feeling that while the country would not shrink from war, if it must come, yet that such a calamity was not imminent.

Shortly before 4 o'clock Mr. Morgan unexpectedly withdrew the amendments to the bill, leaving it in its original form. There was no demand for a rollcall, as the sentiments of the senate were clearly a unit. The bill was passed without a dissenting vote. This completed the legislative enactment of the measure, which, with the signature of the president, has the full force and effect of a law.

The passage of the bill was not, however, the only exciting event of the day, for at 4:30 o'clock the president's message urging the gravity of the financial situation and calling on congress not to adjourn for the holidays until relief was afforded was presented to the senate. Its reading was followed with close attention, but the senators, absorbed with the stirring events of the debate, were ready to adjourn without immediate consideration of the message.

At the other end of the avenue the president and his cabinet received prompt advices of the course of events here and on the public exchanges. The cabinet held two sessions, something without precedent in recent years. Secretary Herbert, who returned from New York in the afternoon, attended the second meeting. All of the remaining members of the cabinet were present except Secretaries Lamont and Smith, who are out of the city. The financial situation was the principal topic of consideration, and the result of the meeting was revealed in the message sent to the senate late in the afternoon, the body being kept in session by request from the White House for its reception. Following is the text of the message:

To the Congress—In my last annual message the evils of our present financial system were plainly pointed out, and the causes and means of the depletion of government gold were explained. It was therein stated that after all the efforts that had been made by the executive branch of the government to protect our gold reserve by the issuance of bonds amounting to more than $162,000,000, such reserve then amounted to but little more than $79,000,000; that about $16,000,000 had been withdrawn from such reserve during the month next previous to the date of that message, and that quite large withdrawals for shipment in the immediate future were predicted.

The contingency then feared has reached us and the withdrawals of gold since the communication referred to, and others that appear inevitable, threaten such a depletion in our government gold reserve as brings us face to face with the necessity of further action for its protection. This condition is intensified by the prevalence in certain quarters of sudden and unusual apprehension and timidity in business circles.

We are in the midst of another season of perplexity, caused by our dangerous and fatuous financial operations. These may be expected to recur with certainty as long as there is no amendment in our financial system. If in this particular instance our predicament is at all influenced by a recent insistence upon the position we should occupy in our relation to certain questions concerning our foreign policy, this furnishes a signal and impressive warning that even the patriotic sentiment of our people is not an adequate substitute for a sound financial policy.

Of course there can be no doubt in any thoughtful mind as to the complete solvency of our nation, nor can there be any just apprehension that the American people will be satisfied with less than an honest payment of our public obligations in the recognized money of the world. We should not overlook the fact, however, that aroused fear is unreasoning and must be taken into account in all efforts to avert public loss and the sacrifice of our people's interests.

The real and sensible cure for our recurring troubles can only be effected by a complete change in our financial scheme. Pending that, the executive branch of the government will not relax its efforts nor abandon its determination to use every means within its reach to maintain before the world American credit, nor will there be any hesitation in exhibiting its confidence in the resources of our country and the constant patriotism of our people.

In view, however, of the peculiar situation now confronting us, I have ventured to herein express the earnest hope that the congress, in default of the inauguration of a better system of finance, will not take a recess from its labors before it has by legislative enactment or declaration done something not only to remind those apprehensive among our people that the resources of this government, and a scrupulous regard for honest dealing, afford a sure guarantee of unquestioned safety and soundness, but to reassure the world that with those factors and the patriotism of our citizens the ability and determination of our nation to meet in any circumstances every obligation it incurs do not admit of question.

I ask at the hands of the congress such prompt aid as it alone has the power to give to prevent in a time of fear and apprehension any sacrifice of the people's interests and the public funds or the impairment of our public credit in an effort by executive action to relieve the dangers of the present emergency.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Executive Mansion, Dec. 20, 1895.

Some Signs of Dissatisfaction.

The message was not favorably received in the senate. The immediate adjournment, upon the motion of Senator Cockrell, one of the Democratic leaders, immediately after the conclusion of the reading of the message, was taken on the Republican side as a disposition not to consider the message seriously. Mr. Cockrell declined to define his motion or to discuss the question of the propriety of the suggestion. Senator Gorman, replying to a question, said that he did not want to criticise the president.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, when interviewed, simply remarked that he thought the senate would sit today. Senator Allison thought there would be a recess, notwithstanding the message, as the senate had already passed a resolution to that effect before the message was received. Senator Hawley said it appeared to him as if the president was in a Bull Run panic, and Senators Teller and Cullom agreed that it looked as if the president was trying to offset the effect of his Venezuelan message, and that it was beginning to look as if the president had concluded from the favorable manner in which the Venezuelan message had been received that congress would follow any suggestion that he might make.

That the administration has not moved precipitately in the Venezuelan affair is evidenced by the fact, which has now become known, that Secretary Olney's famous letter defining the Monroe doctrine was considered for fully two months before being dispatched to Ambassador Bayard for delivery to Lord Salisbury.

Moreover, it is a fact that the president's message, while perhaps hastily reduced to exact form, really was the subject of deep deliberation for almost six months, for there is good reason to believe that the adverse response of Lord Salisbury to Secretary Olney's note was expected by the president.

It is noted that the president's message is a distinct advance in our attitude upon the letter of the secretary, for whereas the latter was confined to a declaration of a doctrine, the former proposed action that went far beyond that point. It was this reason without doubt that caused the message to be most carefully considered for many months.

The diplomatic corps here appear to have fallen under a misapprehension as to the purpose of the message, which may account for the attitude of some of the European newspapers which have received inspiration for their editorial articles from their foreign officers, for it is learned that the diplomats in Washington have in many cases, and certainly in the cases of the representatives of European powers, informed their governments that President Cleveland's message was dictated purely by motives of political expediency, and was not intended to have any permanent result.

It may be that the unanimity of support accorded to the president by congress, irrespective of party affiliations, has induced some of those observers of American institutions to qualify their first advices to their home governments.

Dull Day In the House.

The session of the house yesterday was purely a perfunctory affair. The speaker was ready to announce the committees and the house was ready to adjourn for the holiday recess, but the fact that the senate had not yet acted on the bill for the appointment of the Venezuelan commission forced the house, after waiting an hour and a half for the senate to act, to adjourn until today. The only business transacted was the passage of a bill for changing the terms of United States courts in Iowa, and the presentation of a notice of contest against Representative Jones of Virginia on the ground of fraud.

TODAY'S COURT.

Alfred O'Neil was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy and placed on probation for a month.

John Hayes of Milton was arraigned for threatening assault on Robert Darik. Case continued until Monday.

Margaret Kelley was arraigned for using indecent language at Quincy. Margaret came out from Boston on one of the early trains and when Quincy was reached she entertained people at the depot with language that was anything but elegant. As she would not stop her abusive language Officer Barry linked his arm in hers and they meandered down Depot avenue to the station. The court said Margaret had probably been taking a little too much and that $5 would do this time.

Arthur T. Nichols of Quincy was arraigned for drunkenness. Case continued one week.

William Devine and Benjamin Manley swill team drivers were arraigned for violating the rules of the Board of Health at Quincy and were fined $5 each.

Charles V. Sloan and Bert Hollis were arraigned for felonious assault on Lena Sloan, a 12 year old child, and were held in $1000 each until next Friday.

Several continued cases were called and again continued.

Quincy Burglar Pardoned.

A despatch in an evening paper says: T. J. Hayes, who was sentenced Sept. 29 last to two years in the House of Correction by the Norfolk County court, was Thursday pardoned by the governor and council on the ground of innocence. Hayes was accused of breaking and entering.

Hayes was one of the three men who it was alleged entered the house of Mrs. Chamberlain on Adams street, Quincy, and stole a quantity of jewelry, etc. The break was reported to the police and a few days later Hayes, Davis and Gibbons were arrested in Boston for the crime. At the time of the arrest Hayes was pawning some of the articles. When the case was heard in the court in this city Hayes claimed that he was innocent and attempted to prove an alibi, and the woman who kept the house where he boarded testified in his behalf. Hayes was the only one of the three men represented by counsel, but Judge Humphrey found probable cause to believe him guilty and held him for the grand jury who also adjudged him guilty and imposed a sentence of two years. Hayes has a brother who was a Boston politician and at the time of the trial every possible effort was made to get him clear without avail.

Estimable Wollaston Lady Dead.

Mrs. Olive M., wife of Mr. Israel Waterhouse of Wollaston passed away early this morning of pneumonia. Mrs. Waterhouse's death was very sudden. She had been suffering from a severe cold the first part of the week. On Wednesday it had turned to pleurisy. It then rapidly developed into pneumonia and by Friday it was seen that there were but slight chances of her recovery. This morning shortly after midnight, respiration became more and more difficult and at about two o'clock the end came.

Mrs. Waterhouse was born at Dayton, Me., in 1833. She has been a resident of Wollaston, living in a beautiful place on Prospect avenue, since 1872. She has travelled extensively in this country and Europe with Mr. Waterhouse the past few years.

Mrs. Waterhouse was an exceedingly lovable woman, one whose gentle ways and dignified bearing won hosts of friends.

A son, Mr. Frank P. Waterhouse of Waterhouse, Shannon & Monroe of Boston, and husband survive her.

SOLID BUSINESS MEN

Celebrate a Famous Commercial Event With Banquet and Speeches.

The American Newspaper of the Present Time

Discussed In an Able Manner by General Taylor of the Boston Globe.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—American commerce celebrated the centennial of its liberty last night by a banquet at Delmonico's. Last night was chosen for the banquet, because it marked the 109th anniversary of the full approval by the president and senate of the treaty negotiated with Great Britain by John Jay, then chief justice of the young republic of the United States. The feast also inaugurated the annual observance of Dec. 19 as "Commercial day" by all organized commercial bodies of the country.

Many men of world-wide reputation were there, and the six long tables seated more than 300 guests. Chauncey M. Depew presided, and with him on either side of the table of honor sat Mayor Strong, Secretary Oliver Herbert, William Jay, a direct descendent of the statesman who secured the Jay treaty; General Russell A. Alger, General Horace Porter, Bishop Potter, Charles H. Cramp, Don M. Dickinson, William P. Frye, Clement A. Griscom, Charles A. Dana, Andrew H. Greene, William H. Webb, James T. Kilbreth, collector of the port of New York; Henry E. Hyde and Charles H. Taylor.

The other tables were presided over by John A. McCall, S. D. Babcock, Daniel Appleton, S. L. Woodford, Frederick P. Olcott and Henry W. Cannon.

The banquet was given under the auspices of the editors and contributors of the recently completed history entitled "One Hundred Years of American Commerce," of which Mr. Depew is the editor and to which 100 of the most eminent men in the country have contributed each a chapter.

There was an hour's reception in the parlors below the banquet hall from 7 to 8 o'clock, and the topic of conversation was chiefly on the Venezuelan question.

The Banquet.

Bishop Potter opened the banquet with a short prayer. It was an hour later when Dr. Depew rapped for quiet and opened the toast list. He said that he had received telegrams from Tacoma, on the Pacific coast, and from Seattle, saying that they were celebrating "Commercial day." Mr. Depew continued:

"The victory of the war of 1812 was this: That the deck of an American vessel was the indisputable territory of the United States, inviolable by any country. That was the Monroe doctrine of 1812. Since that time we have had plenty of arbitration, scarcely noticed, because not sensational. I trust that the principles of arbitration begun in the Jay treaty, under which we have had only four years of war, will continue to be the rule and guiding star and principle of the country during the year 1896."

GENERAL CHARLES H. TAYLOR.

Mr. Depew then introduced Senator Frye who spoke on "Our Merchant Marine." "The American Business Man," by General Horace Porter, came next, and following this was "American Commerce," by Hon. Don M. Dickinson, in a speech bristling with interesting statistics. General Charles H. Taylor of the Boston Globe responded to the toast, "The American Newspaper." General Taylor spoke in part as follows:

General Taylor's Address.

A New Englander well may respond to this toast, since the first great journalist of America, Benjamin Franklin, was born and baptized in Boston, while New England has given to New York three illustrious journalists of later times—Dana, Greeley and Bryant.

Furthermore, the journalism of this country was born in Boston. The first man who conceived the idea of starting a newspaper, Richard Pierce by name, was really a genius. Boston also enjoyed the distinction of giving birth to the first regular newspaper in America, the Boston News-Letter, which was established in 1704 by the postmaster of the town. I am not going to weary you with a detailed history of journalism. I shall simply speak to you briefly on the three eras into which I divide that history.

The first era included that period of our history from James Campbell's News-Letter down to the revolution. In that period the newspapers were small affairs, and were usually published by postmasters or printers. There was a rigid censorship of the press which stifled opinion upon public questions and prevented the growth and progress of newspapers.

The second era followed the revolution. A free press reared its head then, and the opportunities it offered to politicians and political parties were eagerly seized. From that time until the Sun and Herald were started here in New York in the early 30s the press, as a whole, was largely indebted to politicians and political parties for its support and what limited development it recorded.

It has grown greater and broader in every direction since that period. It has vindicated and illustrated its name. It is more educational, though less dogmatic. It is broader than ever, because it has become too vast a concern to be the mere instrument of any single personality or small clique, however powerful. It has become a property instead of a plaything.

It is devoted to the public welfare, and is more clearly representative of the people, because it is too great to live upon the favor of a few, as it once did. It is more independent and fairer in politics, because to attain the first rank it must have the respect of all parties. No mere organ of any party is a leader among the newspapers of any city today.

The press is more scrupulous and conservative than ever before, because an immense capital is always at stake. It is more influential than ever, because its opinions carry the weight of business sagacity and success as well as of intellectual acumen.

This is the centennial year of that free American commerce which gave birth to the newspaper, as we understand the term, yet this is not by any means the centennial of the newspaper. We shall have to await another 50 years for that occasion. At the time of independence there were only 35 journals in all the United States—today we have nearly half of the 50,000 newspapers published in the world.

The British public is fed largely on parliamentary debates and long editorials. The conductors there do not try to make the general newspaper which interests every member of the family. The parliamentary debater in England has very little competition in his newspaper, and is widely read.

The American newspaper is made on different lines, to interest not only men, but women and young people, and gives in one day an immense variety, to match which you would have to make a collection of English publications of various kinds.

The size of newspapers seems to trouble a great many people. Speaking in a business sense, the Sunday paper in particular is the one bargain at which people kick because they get too much for their money.

It is not intended that every reader shall devote his time to reading the entire contents of a Sunday paper any more than he should begin with the bill of fare in a popular hotel and eat every dish thereupon enumerated. There is a convenient table of contents, and he is expected to select that which he will enjoy the most and devote his time to it.

The modern newspaper takes off the roof of the whole world, and lets all mankind look in. It has become with commerce the great lever of the world. Where it fulfills its highest mission, it carries just as little sorrow or trouble among the people as is possible, and it endeavors to scatter rays of sunshine and feelings of hope in the homes of the toiling millions to encourage them and their families in the great battle of life.

Journalists have a much greater responsibility than other professional or business men. I fully believe that they appreciate it. They reach their ideal as nearly as they can. I believe firmly that the journalists of this country are just as loyal and patriotic citizens, just as true men, just as anxious to build up their communities, and just as eager to uplift and broaden and improve the people, as are the same number of men in any other profession or any other line of business in these United States.

An Interesting Ceremony.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The delivery to Mgr. Satolli of the zuchetto (a small red skullcap) and the consistorial letter informing him of his elevation to the cardinalate, which are preliminary to the conferring upon him of the beretta, took place at the Catholic legation here last evening. The duty was performed by the Marquise Sacrapanti, the pope's messenger. Marquise Sacrapanti, in full uniform, explained his mission in a few words, and handed the consistorial letter to Mgr. Sbarrati, who, opening it, read the brief official announcement that on Nov. 29 the pope had created the delegate a cardinal. Mgr. Satolli, in reply, delivered some extemporaneous remarks, addressing them to the noble guard. All the proceedings were in Latin. In his reply, the new cardinal thanked the marquise for the office he had performed.

MEANING OF CHRISTMAS.

On That Day There Was Born a Saviour, Who Is Christ the Lord.

Long, long ago, so far back that it cannot be definitely traced, the latter days of December were set apart for the festivities pertaining to pagan worship. Perhaps its earliest observance began with the celebration of the winter solstice and of festivities held in honor of Saturn and Bacchus. Today Christmas is celebrated throughout the world not for its pagan ancestry, but for its meaning as the Christian festival of the nativity.

The keynote of Christmas joy is "Peace on earth, good will to men." The first Christmas day that ever dawned brought rejoicing in its wake. On that day there was born in Bethlehem, Judæa, a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord. For those weary with sin, for those oppressed with sorrows, for the troubled in mind, for the weak and helpless he came. But not to these alone. To the joyful and happy ones, to those rich in this world's goods, to the successful and prosperous he came. To the whole world he appeared. None was forgotten by him. And now to the outcast and to the weary one, to the rich man and to the joyful child he says the words, "Learn of me."

If you suffer, Christ pities you.
If you be lonely, he is with you.
If you repent of sin, he will keep you in safety.
If you have great possessions, he says unto you, "Give to the poor."

On Christmas day at least "let all wrath and clamor and evil speaking be done away" and let every one sing, with the heart, "Glory to God in the highest."—New York Mercury.

Old Time Christmas In Dixie.

When Remus, Saul and Cæsar, with Dinah, Phillis and Chloe, made the circuit of the quarters at Christmastide they were regaled with various succulent viands—chine and spareribs, sausage and crackling, savory souvenirs of the fine art of hog killing, besides coon and corn pone, possum fat and hominy, all consecrated to their comfort and cheer, with lusty drafts of cider. Gingerbread and boiled chestnuts were dispensed to the dusky company, and there were much cracking of walnuts and roasting of apples. Then the cabin floor was cleared for the dance—jig and breakdown, pigeon wing and juba, the latter a characteristic survival of the aboriginal barbarism, delivered with vigorous shouts and cries and shuffling of feet to a rhythmic accompaniment of handclapping and patting of knees, in melodious deference to the jigging of a fiddle by the light of flaming pine knots.

Juba up and juba down,
Juba all around de town.
Sift de meal and gimme de husk,
Rake de cake and gimme de crus',
Fry de pork and gimme de skin,
Ax me when I'm comin ag'in.
Juba! Hi, juba!

Juba in and juba out,
Juba, juba all about.
Dinah, stir de possum fat;
Can't you hear de juba pat?
Juba!

What Not to Do on Christmas.

In north Germany you must not spin during the 12 nights of Christmas, lest you should walk after your death, nor after sunset on Saturday, for then mice will eat your work. Speaking of eating, if you want to have money and luck all the year round, you must not fail to eat herrings on New Year's day, nor, if you wish to be lucky, must you rock an empty cradle, or spill salt wantonly, or cross knives, or point at the stars.

If you leave a dirty cloth on the table overnight, you will make the angels weep; if you point upward to the rainbow, you will make the angels' feet bleed, and if you talk of cabbages while looking at the moon you will hurt the feelings of the man in it, who was a cabbage stealer in his salad days.—All the Year Round.

The Ideal Christmas.

The ideal Christmas is found not in the land of flowers, but in the snow-bound, rugged country of the north. Without, keen, frosty air, long stretches of hills and meadows covered with snow, ponds and lakes incrusted with ice; within, roaring fires of hickory wood, halls ringing with the shouts of children and tables heaped high with the good things of life—these are the conditions which seem essential to the complete enjoyment of the great feast day of the church.—New York Herald.

Puritans Did Not Like Christmas.

During the reformation the Puritans, fancying that all festivities connected with Christmas were only "popish abominations," attempted to abolish altogether the observance of the festival. Happily this anniversary survived all narrow minded persecutions, and rose into purer, permanent life.—New York Journal.

A Useful Christmas Present.

Give of Your Abundance.

Give, give! Give of your abundance; give a morsel even from your scanty store.—Indianapolis News.

Christmas Charity.

Christmas snows are on the moor,
Sing, sweet Robin!
And the Christmas star burns gold,
Sweet Robin, sing!
Hungry birds are at the door.
Sing, sweet Robin!
All their feathers puffed with cold,
Sweet Robin, sing!

There's a babe sleeps in the stall,
Sing, sweet Robin!
With the grass for blanket warm,
Sweet Robin, sing!
Him the beasts have given their all,
Sing, sweet Robin!
Sheltering him from winter storm,
Sweet Robin, sing!

Ope the door and call them in,
Sing, sweet Robin!
Newborn babe and starving birds,
Sweet Robin, sing!
And all children cold and thin,
Sing, sweet Robin!
To the best our house affords,
Sweet Robin, sing!

ALL SOLD DRY GOODS.

Famous Men Who Once Stood Behind the Counters.

[Special Correspondence.]

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—Eben Jordan, who has just died a millionaire after many years of enjoyment of well earned wealth, started in life as a farmer's boy and went from that into the dry goods business, beginning at the bottom. At the time of his death he was one of the leading examples of great Americans who have made their mark in the business world through the medium of dry goods. The list of great men who have started in life selling dry goods over the counter would fill a great big book.

One of these men is governor of a great state and a presidential possibility. Levi P. Morton began life as a clerk in a country store, and he sold dry goods in Boston when he was a young man.

Another one time dry goods clerk is now a great editor—the greatest editor, if the votes of the newspaper men of the United States were taken on the subject, I will venture to say. Charles A. Dana was clerk in a Buffalo dry goods store when he was a youth and struggling for an education.

Another editor who was clerk in a country store is Henry C. Bowen of the New York Independent. He was a clerk in his father's country store at Dudley, Mass., before he got into his head the idea of being a journalist. Massachusetts has furnished a great share of the successful dry goods men of the country.

Henry B. Claflin, who died in New York in 1885, was a clerk in the country store of his father at Milford, Mass., and succeeded his father in business there. He saw an opening in New York and went there to build up a dry goods trade worth millions.

Cornelius N. Bliss, the noted New York business man and politician, is a native of Fall River, Mass., and after working in the store of his stepfather at New Orleans for a time he entered a Boston dry goods house as a clerk. He became a partner, opened a branch in New York and made his millions in the dry goods trade.

Justin S. Morrill of the nearby state of Vermont is not an example of wealth accumulated in the dry goods trade, though he made a comfortable fortune for himself keeping a general store at the place where he was born, Strafford, Vt.

John Wanamaker is another dry goods dealer who has gone into political life, though he has never held an elective office. He was President Harrison's postmaster general, and he has been one of the liberal contributors to campaign funds for many years.

David Dows, the noted commission merchant, who died a millionaire, began his career as a boy in an Albany dry goods store at $100 a year, and he had to open the store each morning and dress the show window. He got a raise the second year to $150 and the year following to $250. Most of his money was made in railroads and banking. Another millionaire who started in dry goods and grew rich in railroad enterprises is C. P. Huntington. He kept a store in California in the gold days, as did a great many other people who went to the coast in 1849. Senator Perkins of California was one of these, and Mark Hopkins was another.

L. Z. Leiter of Washington and New York started in business as a porter, or something equally as humble, in a Chicago store. He retired from the dry goods business a few years ago with several millions, which he has been spending in society ever since.

A. T. Stewart of New York had a better start than Mr. Jordan. He inherited $3,000 from his father in Ireland, with which he opened his store on Broadway. His business for the three years preceding his death aggregated, I believe, about $205,000,000. He paid $250 rent for his first store and slept there. Mr. Jordan's first rent was $200 a year.

S. B. Chittenden, who died in New York a millionaire, began life as a clerk in a country store at New Haven. He is remembered chiefly for the $125,000 library building he presented to Yale.

George S. Coe, who was the founder of the clearing house in New York, worked in a country store for four years and sold dry goods over the counter. When he went into banking, it was as clerk, porter and messenger. He made $1,000,000 in banking.

Don Alonzo Cushman, one of the well known Cushman family of New York, went to the city when he was 18 years old with $17 in his pocket. He had sold dry goods in a country store at Coopers-town before that.

William E. Dodge, the millionaire New Yorker who used to give more than $200,000 a year to charity during his life time, began as a boy of all work in a dry goods store in New York city and worked for others till he was 22 years old, when he started a store of his own. Another noted philanthropist who became wealthy in the dry goods trade was Samuel Appleton of this city, who died a good many years ago. Bronson Alcott, the noted philosopher, was a dry goods merchant once.

H. M. Flagler, the Standard Oil millionaire, was clerk in a country store in Orleans county, N. Y., when he was 14 years old, and he has measured many a yard of dry goods.

Norvin Green, who was president of the Western Union Telegraph company at the time of his death, kept a country store before he went flatboating on the Mississippi.

But the list of the storekeepers who have succeeded in life, as I have said, would fill a great big book. At the head of the list stands Abraham Lincoln, though the record shows that he was a pretty poor storekeeper. The country store was a stepping stone in his career, though. It brought him in contact with people and gave him that sympathy with humanity which developed his wonderful character.

Cold Weather

There are seven million pores in the ordinary sized man, which act as sewers in cleansing the system of impurities. When they become clogged, perspiration ceases or is less than normal in quantity. Cold weather restricts the amount of perspiration, and in nature's struggle to free the system of waste matter the Kidneys become overworked. Buker's Kidney Pills counteract the effects of overwork, prevent disease, and cure the Backache incidental to Kidney troubles. When the back aches, try the pills. Druggists sell them for 50 cents. Christmas Story.

An Episode of the Jollity Theatre Stock Company.

[Copyright, 1894, by James L. Ford.]

Three weeks before the holidays, and the outlook for a merry Christmas was a gloomy one, at least so far as the members of the stock company of the Jollity theater were concerned. Salary day had come and gone, and as yet the ghost had shown no disposition to walk, and it was because of the nonappearance of that most welcome specter of stageland that the rumor had started and was rapidly gaining ground that Messrs. Hustle and Hardup, proprietors and managers of the Jollity theater, were "in a hole again."

The piece which occupied the boards had proved a flat failure, and receipts at the box office had fallen in consequence to a plane never before reached in the history of the house. Moreover, no new play had as yet been put in rehearsal, and an atmosphere of unmistakable gloom and apprehension pervaded the region behind the footlights and weighed heavily on the spirits of every one there, from Pearl Livingstone, the talented emotional actress who played the leading female parts, down to little Kitty Sullivan, who was only 7 years old and was in the depths of despair because for fully three weeks she had been out of the bill. In short, every member of the company was in a condition of mingled uncertainty and curiosity in regard to the future of the playhouse and the projects of its managers, who as yet had given no sign of their intentions and had, in fact, been invisible to the members of their artistic staff ever since the last day on which salaries became due.

On this particular night, which happened to be one of storm and rain, two or three of the principal actors had gathered together for a serious talk about the situation, when Tom, the programme boy, appeared suddenly before them in an almost breathless condition and exclaimed: "Mr. Freelance is back from Chicago. He's in the office with Mr. Hustle. They've got both doors locked."

"Mr. Freelance!" cried Miss Livingstone, her face lighting up with joy, precisely as it does in her scene in the second act where her lover comes back from India, or rather as it did light up in that scene before the business became so bad. "Are you sure it was Mr. Freelance, Tommy?"

"Sure!" rejoined Tom, with emphasis. "I seen him meself when he come in."

"Then, Tom, you be sure and see him when he comes out and tell him that I am particularly anxious to see him back here as soon as the curtain goes down on the second act. Here's a quarter for you, Tom, and you'd better keep it as a curiosity, for it's getting to be a very rare sort of bird in the Jollity theater preserves."

"Thank you, mum," said Tom as he pocketed the coin, with a grin.

"I fancy I see a gleam of light on the distant horizon," remarked the venerable Mr. Borders in a tone similar to that which he assumes in the great melodrama called "The Ocean Blue," in the scene in which he is discovered sitting on a raft in midocean on the lookout for a passing sail. "In the meantime," he added, "I think we had better wait and hear what Billy has to say before we take any further action in the matter."

Up to that moment they had taken no action whatever, but the phrase sounded well, and so Mr. Borders employed it.

Now, Mr. William Freelance, called by his intimates Billy, was and is today one of the best known figures in the theatrical affairs of the town, and, as every member of the stock company knew, he had on more than one previous occasion come to the rescue of his old friends, Messrs. Hustle and Hardup, and that, too, when they were in even more deplorable financial straits than they were at the present moment.

It was his reputation as a mascot fully as much as his remarkable talents which caused the whole avant scene to brighten up at the news of his presence in the theater, for playfolk are notoriously superstitious and have an unbounded and childlike faith in the efficacy of a mascot as well as in the destructive qualities of a "jonah."

Just as the curtain fell on the second act Mr. Freelance appeared behind the scenes and received the rapturous greetings of the company. Then Miss Livingstone took him by the arm, detached him from the little group which surrounded him, led him gently but firmly into her dressing room, placed him on her zinc trunk, and standing before him with folded arms said, "Billy, what's going to happen?"

"My dear," replied Mr. Freelance persuasively, "everything is all right, and I just left Hustle for five minutes to come back here and tell you so. We are going to put on a new piece, and there's a part in it that's simply great—out of sight, in fact. We are not quite sure who'll be cast for the part because it's a very heavy emotional one, and if we put a woman in it who didn't know how to read lines she would go all to pieces and the bottom would drop out of the whole play. I thought I'd speak to you about it because Hardup has caught a new 'angel' and said something to me about Kitty Bracebridge"—

"If that wolf puts her foot in this theater"— began Miss Livingstone, but Mr. Freelance interrupted her by placing his hand over her mouth and saying: "Wait for me after the curtain goes down, Pearl, and I'll talk to you about it. Shadrach's waiting in the office, and I've got to give him a 'jolly' so as to get the costumes out of him, but I'll be back here after the last act."

In spite of the storm outside and the dispiriting atmosphere within the performance given that night by the Jollity stock company was a notably brilliant one, for the news had spread that there was to be a speedy change of bill, and hope was once more in every member's breast. Mr. Freelance invited Miss Livingstone out to supper just as she was on the point of declaring that she would not go on again unless she received every cent of the back salary that was due her, and before they left the restaurant she had meekly agreed to study the great emotional role which had been intended for Miss Bracebridge and to say nothing more about back salary.

The next morning, in accordance with a call posted in the stage entrance, the company assembled to hear the new play read by the gifted Mr. Freelance, and such was that gentleman's elocutionary power that when he laid the manuscript aside expressions that ranged from mere satisfaction to rapturous enthusiasm were heard on every hand, and there was scarcely an actor or actress present that did not feel confident of a personal success in the new production.

The reading over, Mr. Freelance took Miss Livingstone, Mr. Borders and one or two other rebellious spirits aside, and, as he expressed it in a subsequent interview with Mr. Hustle, "stiffened their backbones" with the assurance that everything was all right and that the piece was to be done on Christmas eve in order that they might have a really merry Christmas on the prospects of its success. After that, he assured them, their back salaries would pour in upon them in a perfect avalanche.

As Mr. Freelance was leaving the theater he felt some one tugging at his coat, and on looking down saw little Kitty Sullivan standing beside him and saying, in earnest tones, and with a sad, wistful face, "Billy, isn't there any part for me in the new piece?"

The child called him by his first name because she had always heard him spoken to in that way by other members of the company, and Billy rather encouraged her in the idea because it sounded funny to him to hear himself addressed in such familiar terms by an infant of her size.

Kitty was a veritable child of the avant scene, and had been an actress from her very earliest infancy. She was now about 7 years of age, and was just beginning to comprehend the difference between the real things of life, such as houses, trees and streets, and the painted imitations of stageland. And yet it was only two years and a half ago that she beheld the ocean for the first time, and it is related of her that on that occasion she stood with Billy's hand tightly clasped in hers, watching the waves as they broke upon the beach, and finally turned to her companion and said in her serious way, "Billy, how do they work 'em?"

And now she was here beside her old friend, with her small, pathetic face upturned, and inquiring earnestly if there were a role for her in "The Giant's Causeway."

"See here, Kitty," exclaimed Mr. Freelance, touched by the child's grief, "I'll tell you what I'll do for you, and what's more, I wouldn't do it for any one else in the company. Are you listening?"

"Yes," said Kitty, turning her head around.

"Well, I'll write in a part specially for you, and that's something that an author like Sardou or myself rarely does for any one except a Bernhardt or a Duse. Now, run along and be here to morrow at 11 for rehearsal."

The child darted away, wiping the last tear from her cheek as she ran, and Barney said approvingly, "That's the best deed you'll ever do in your life, Mr. Freelance, and, mark my words, the child'll bring good luck to the house."

How Billy succeeded in persuading the economical Hardup that the piece would prove a failure unless a child were introduced into it and how he contrived to write the part in for her that very night are matters that had best be left to conjecture, but the very next day Kitty received the typewritten copy of her lines, and rehearsals of "The Giant's Causeway" were carried forward under Mr. Freelance's direction with the energy and spirit that mark all of that gentleman's undertakings.

The opening night, Dec. 24, found the house well filled with an audience which made a favorable impression on the venerable Mr. Borders as he looked out through the peephole in the curtain, while behind the footlights feverish excitement and anticipation prevailed.

As for Kitty, she had become so wrought up over her role—the longest one she had ever been intrusted with—that she seemed in danger of losing her balance and forgetting every one of the lines that she had, by diligent study, crammed into her small head. She was standing in the first entrance, with her hand clasped in that of Mr. Freelance, when her cue came, and as she walked out on the stage, the ideal of childish loveliness, a murmur of delight ran through every part of the crowded house.

'They're going to foreclose the mortgage on the old mill tomorrow night, and if that child lives I am a beggar," said the polished, cigarette smoking villain, and then a youngster in the parquet set up a pitiful howl of despair, which was followed by a general ripple of merriment that might have proved fatal to the piece had not Kitty gone on with her lines with the coolness and gravity of the born and experienced artist, which she was displaying there by a presence of mind which won for her, on her exit, the first real applause of the evening.

Kitty Sullivan was, as the eminent dramatic critic had observed, an old hand at the business, despite the fact that she was but 7 years of age, for she had been born and brought up on the stage and was as much at home in the presence of a great audience as an ordinary child is before a nursery. As the piece went on she realized that she was making a hit—a far greater one than she had ever made before—and, young as she was, she was enough of an artist to appreciate the importance of keeping a restraint on herself and not overdoing her role.

She was looking forward to a certain scene in the last act—a scene which she had rehearsed with much delight, and in which she firmly expected to make a great impression. Billy, who had been waiting with some anxiety for the same scene, came down and took a seat in a proscenium box, and as the child stood in the wings waiting for her cue she saw him smiling encouragement to her. The scene represented a barren, wave washed rock near the coast of Ireland, and on this rock was standing the virtuous heroine, just where she had been left by the villain. The lights grew dim, the moon arose from beyond the scene, and the Philadelphia quartet, stationed behind the scenes, warbled plaintive Irish melodies.

"Must I die here alone?" moaned the heroine as the tide rose higher and higher about the rock on which she stood and heavy clouds began to gather above her head. And just at this moment, a rowboat, propelled by childish arms, came swiftly around the rocky point at the left of the stage, and Kitty Sullivan, throwing aside the oars, stood up in the boat with her foot on the prow and exclaimed in a clear, infantile treble, "I have come to save you for the sake of old Ireland!"

Commonplace as it was, with its old, well worn melodramatic effects of soft music and moonlight, nevertheless the situation had taken a strong hold on the audience, and the sudden appearance of the sweet faced child, who had charmed every one during the earlier portions of the play, sent a distinct thrill through the entire house, and then came such an outburst of spontaneous applause as had not been heard in the Jollity theater for many a year.

Even Billy Freelance felt a touch of a magnetic current with which the atmosphere was charged, and might have been heard to remark half audibly, "The kid's knocked 'em good this time, sure, for a thing's got to be good if it gets me."

And as the audience dispersed that night it seemed to Mr. Freelance, as he stood alert and watchful in the lobby, that there was but one name on every tongue, and that Kitty's sweet face and infantile art had made their way into the very heart of an always fickle public.

"You were right about her, Billy," said Hardup.

"I told you the young one would bring us good luck," said old Barney at the stage door.

"The idea of making such a fuss over a 7-year-old brat! That shows what art is coming to in this country!" exclaimed Miss Livingstone as she swept through the drafty passage, leaving an odor of sealskin, tuberoses and sachet powder behind her.

The members of the stock company had their Christmas dinner in the wardrobe room between the matinee and the evening performance, Messrs. Hustle and Hardup footing the bill and Mr. Freelance presiding, with Miss Pearl Livingstone on his right hand and the venerable Mr. Borders on his left. And it is a matter of record that no toast offered that evening was drunk with heartier applause than was the one proposed by Mr. Freelance to Kitty Sullivan, "the mascot of the Jollity theater and the founder of this feast."

Tom to Sue and Sue to Tom.

"Can you guess, my sweetheart," queried Tom of Sue,
"Can you fathom by love's art what I'll buy for you?"
Pretty Susan bowed her head, made a pretty frown,
Then in accents sweet she said, opening eyes of brown:
"Why, certainly not. But I'm dying to have Christmas eve come so that I can find out. I know it will be something frightfully expensive—something that will cost lots more than you can afford. You men are so reckless with your money!"
Poor Tom next day ran in debt for a diamond pin,
And he hasn't paid up yet, for he's "shy of tin."

And he says that if he ever asks Sue such a question again it will be after he has arranged in advance for a year's board in the nearest insane asylum.

By the way, Sue gave Tom a piece of neckwear that cost 75 cents.

Castle Square Theatre.

Rip Van Winkle at the Castle Square theatre has proved a surprise to press and public. When the opera was first announced there were not a few who hinted at failure, but the opening on Monday evening, Dec. 16, dispelled all doubt and loud were the praises heaped on the artists in their respective roles and the management for their liberality in the matter of production. It is safe to say that none of the Castle Square productions have displayed the wealth of detail, the magnificent costuming and the striking pictures that are to be seen in Rip Van Winkle. Mr. Wolff surprised the vast audience by giving a wonderfully lifelike performance of Rip, the Village Vagabond, and one cannot soon forget the final of Act 2d., where Rip falls asleep surrounded by Hendrick Hudson and his ghostly crew. Messrs. Perssee, Murray and Read came in for a good share of favor and the two children were delightful in their naturalness. The management have decided to prolong the stay of Rip Van Winkle a week longer than was originally proposed, therefore the opera will be seen at the Castle Square all of this and next week.

The N. E. O. P. Elect.

At a regular meeting of Quincy Lodge No. 261, New England Order of Protection, held at Wilson's hall, last evening, the following officers were elected:

Junior Past Warden,—Laura E. Holt.
Warden,—Dr. Charles W. Garey.
Vice Warden,—Ernest C. Marshall.
Secretary,—Isaac M. Holt.
Financial Secretary,—Wesley Walsh.
Treasurer,—Thompson B. Crane.
Chaplain,—Mary A. H. Crane.
Guide,—Isabel A. Souther.
Guardian,—Leonard C. Hewson.
Sentinel,—Herbert S. Wessell.
Trustee for three years, — Dr. H. C. Hallowell.

This lodge is holding very interesting meetings, and new members are rapidly coming in. Five members were added, and six applications received at this meeting. A public meeting will be held in the interest of the order, sometime in January.

Keith's New Theatre.

While the management at Keith's New Theatre has acquired a wide celebrity for the uniform excellence of the entertainments given week after week, yet Mr. Keith and General Manager Albee would not feel altogether satisfied if they did not furnish their patrons during a holiday week with something extra, either in the shape of a lengthened programme or some special attraction of more than ordinary interest. Next week they will do both. The elephant actors are to remain, and they will appear every afternoon at 4 o'clock and in the evening at 10. The variety bill is one which cannot help being satisfactory, inasmuch that it is made up of the best novelties which money can hire: The Versatile trio, John and Nellie McCarthy, Press Eldridge, the Bale troupe of English bicyclists, Marlo and Dunham, the Zalva Trio, and a dozen other features of equal interest, and all of the highest class.

Burglars at Atlantic

Early Thursday morning a house on Madison street was entered by burglars. Entrance was gained between three and four o'clock, and doors were left open. The contents of closets and drawers were strewn about, but as far as can be ascertained nothing of value was stolen. This was probably the work of boys well acquainted with the surroundings, as small footprints were noticed leading from the house.

—Weymouth seems to be a good town for tramps. Thirty-five was put up at the almshouse last Sunday night.

VERY EASY TO COPY.

YET IT IS EXTREMELY QUAINT AND PICTURESQUE.

A Handsome Evening or Reception Gown. White Taffeta Dress For a Young Girl. New Fans—A Stylish Wrap and How to Make It.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—I have not seen a quainter or more picturesque dress this season than one intended for evening and grand reception. The gown was of blue and gray striped Dresden silk, the gray stripes having dainty little flowers of pink and green. The skirt was in a demitrain in the back and opened in front over a petticoat of white satin very richly brocaded in silver in an enormous design. There was a sort of stomacher front of the same brocade and around the waist there was a bias roll of the striped silk, and this was brought down to a sharp point. The sleeves consisted of one very full puff of the striped silk, with big fluffy bows of white tulle at the elbows. The stomacher was square across the front, making a pompadour neck. Around the back of the neck there was a wide double box plaiting of white satin, covered loosely with tulle, and two puffs extended down the sides of the stomacher, reaching from the collar to the point in front, and these were made of the tulle.

One white taffeta dress for a young girl had a plaited fold of moss green crape down each side of the front breadth, brought into a width of about four inches. On that one on the right was set one of these bows 12 inches from the bottom, and the left one had the bow placed above the knee. The waist was blouse effect, with a white satin wrinkled belt, and at the back was another big bow. The sleeves were low puffs. Around the neck there was a simulated yoke, made of lace and a twisted puff of white satin and green crape, above which there was a puffing of tulle reaching to the lace that defined the square but high neck. This gown is intended specially for a very young lady.

Among the oddities are the new fans. The most of them are quite small and more for looks than real use. Some of them are square and made of fine crape of different colors, and these either edged with lace applique or delicately hand painted. White lace fans, with fine ivory or silver filigree sticks, are very beautiful. Some are made of exquisite point, with medallions left without pattern. The lace is then laid over some delicately colored satin, and that hand painted. Black lace of various qualities is stretched over white crape to close are often of a very unequal shape, one end being quite long and the middle hollowed in, while the other end is about two-thirds the length of the first.

The richest and most elegant "all over" wrap I have seen this season is a long cloak made of close woven black English cheviot. The back is cut in four pieces—two center and two side pieces—and it is cut so full that the back falls in deep folds to the sides. The front folds over in shawl style and is caught up in broken folds at the waist line. There is an immense shawl collar of gray fox. The sleeves are "flowing" with a border of the fur around them. The muff should match. This garment is very easy to reproduce. It requires 4¾ yards of 52 inch cheviot and 9 yards of farmer's satin for lining aside from any interlining deemed necessary, and which may easily be old. The majority of women have an idea that they cannot do anything with fur, and they pay all sorts of prices to furriers. Fox and raccoon skins can be purchased really very cheaply. It would require three raccoon skins to trim this garment. A pattern can be cut or purchased and laid on the back of the pelt and marked out with chalk. A sharp knife—never scissors—can easily cut it, and seams should be sewed over and over, slightly wet and pressed flat. A stiff interlining should be tacked down, and the silk or satin lining sewed to the edge of the skin by turning the edges in and running it twice around. Such a garment made up sells for from $75 to $100, when a clever needlewoman can make it for at the most $30, and it will last for several seasons and always be a joy and comfort.

CHRISTADELPHIAN CHURCH — Christadelphian Bible lecture at 7 P. M. Subject: "Abraham's Seed."

WE MAY not have to fight with England but it may be well that our president knows how to use a gun.

☞ Do you expect to be obliged to fight with England? If so it is your duty to be prepared and one of the first things for a family man to do is to look about and see if his home is supplied with the necessary comforts before leaving. If you do not go just think how much happier you would be if you go to Guy's Coliseum and get what you need. 1po

—The Whitman Co-operative Bank which has recently completed its sixth year has loans on real estate of $73,100 and loans on shares of $2,175. This is a good showing and the bank commissioners pay the bank a high compliment. It has never paid less than 6 per cent. premiums and most of the time 6½ per cent.

SHED AND QUARRY.

The Mild Weather This Week More Favorable to Quarrying.

Many of the manufacturers are booking orders for spring work and the prospect of a busy season is fairly good.

George Stead of New Jersey was in town recently and placed several orders for monumental work.

McDonnell & Sons have the contract for a $20,000 granite mausoleum for western parties.

Fagan & Ballou have recently erected a new derrick at their quarry.

Malnati Bros. are erecting a new derrick.

An agency for the Vinal Haven, Me., granite has been secured by Birnie & Diack.

C. H. Hardwick & Co., have nearly 300 tons of stock ready for shipment.

It is said that McKenzie & Paterson are to disolve partnership and that James Thompson, John Q. A. Field and Henry McGrath have been selected as appraisers.

Duncan Rusk of Mason, N. H., has been engaged as superintendent of the Braintree Red granite quarries.

The Union Veterans' Union will receive bids and designs for the Green Clay Smith memorial to be erected in the Arlington cemetery, not to exceed $2,500.

Dell & Co. are quarrying stock for the Middleboro soldiers monument.

The mild weather the past few days has made work in the quarries possible again. In extreme cold weather it is almost impossible to quarry much granite.

The quarry Railroad company report no no let up in busines and they have all that they can do.

Badger Bros. are cutting a pedestel for a statute of a revolutionary soldier to be carved in granite for Sudbury, Mass. H. W. Beattie is modelling the statute.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to earn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

MINERS' AWFUL DEATH

Entombed by Explosion and Caving In of a Roof.

Twenty-Nine Dead Bodies Brought to Surface.

Terrible Calamity Said to Be Due to Carelessness of Gas Inspector.

DAYTON, Tenn., Dec. 21.—Twenty-nine miners were killed in the Nelson mine entry No. 10, near here, by an explosion yesterday. The explosion was succeeded by a terrific crash, and the roof of the passage through which the miners had entered fell, leaving no avenue of escape.

The men, both white and colored, including several boys, entered the mine to go to work at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, but nothing of the awful catastrophe was known until 11 o'clock, when the drivers at entry No. 10 found their way blocked by a solid wall of coal and slate.

The Nelson mine has been worked for 12 years or more, and the entry where the unfortunate miners are entombed ran back more than two miles from the mouth of the mine. The mine is of the kind common in southern coalfields, known as drift, or level-veined mine, worked in the direction of the vein, straight into the face of the mountain, but before the entry is reached a long slope extends to a level several hundred yards below at an angle of about 20 degrees. The cars are pulled up from the foot of the slope, where tramcars, drawn by mules, connect with them outside by cable, which haul the coal up with remarkable rapidity.

Hard Working Rescuers.

Rescuing parties worked all day like grim death. The foul air quickly exhausted the workers, who were relieved by fresh hands. At the drift mouth hundreds of women and children soon gathered, and pictured their grief and despair in heartrending tones.

As the mine is ventilated by air shafts, or passages, the caving-in of the wall in the entry cut off the draught, and death was certain to those who breathed the poisoned air.

At 4 o'clock a way had been broken through the debris in the passage of entry No. 10, and the blackened corpses of the dead miners were carried to the outside, where the work of identification began. The number of victims, first reported at 24, reached 29. Life had long been extinct in all the poor remains of humanity stretched at the mouth of the tunnel.

It is reported that the gas was first ignited in No. 9 by Tom Hawkins, gas inspector, on his usual morning round of the mines. The flames were rapidly communicated to entry No. 10 by means of side passages. All the men at work in entry No. 9 escaped, except Hawkins. In No. 10, which forms an angle in the banks and connects with the outside world at the foot of the lower slope, the deadly gas drifted and congested, doing its work so well that not one of the men in the rooms of this cross passage is alive to tell the story.

Banking Concerns Go Under.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Yesterday was a day of excitement on Wall street, and matters for a time bore the resemblance of a panic. Before the opening of business on the Stock Exchange it was announced that $3,400,000 in gold would be sent out of the country, and later in the day the export of $600,000 was announced. This, together with the cable advices from London announcing extensive sales of American securities, and the tenor of the war news from all quarters, was responsible for the general feeling of uneasiness that prevailed even early in the day. The spirit of the market was to sell, and in the big exchanges this was done to an extent rarely before surpassed. In the Stock Exchange the sales for the day were 775,761 shares. As a result of the decline in stocks the failure of the following firms was announced on the Stock Exchange during the day: Nichols, Frothingham & Co., Samuel S. Sands & Co., Denyffle & Co., L. A. Feldman and B. Fenton.

The Champion Liar.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 21.—The impression is growing that Harry Hayward, the prince of liars in life, left his master-piece of falsehood to follow after his death in the remarkable ante-mortem statement. Not only are there many internal evidences that he told many sensational tales simply from a desire to pose as a great criminal, but it now transpires that Harry to at least three persons characterized the statement as a pack of lies. His father declares that Harry told his parents before the confession that they need not worry about what he said, it was to be a tissue of lies constructed to meet the demand for sensation.

Willing to Arbitrate.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21.—The great trolley strike is in all probability off. Late last night Mayor Warwick succeeded in inducing a proposition to be made looking to an amicable settlement of the trouble. The proposition comes from the Union Traction company to the strikers, and is that if the men will come back to work and peace is restored, the management will cordially and considerately receive any committee from the ranks of their own employes, and will hear their complaints and grievances, and remedy the same within the range of fairness.

Deplored by Free Traders.

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—The New England Free Trade league held its annual notable banquet last night. The Monroe doctrine and the recent criticism of the remarks of Ambassador Bayard furnished topics for a lively round of discussion. Resolutions were adopted deploring Mr. Cleveland's special message dealing with the Venezuelan question, and the league also put itself on record regarding the attack on Mr. Bayard. The ambassador and his remarks at the Edinburgh meeting were heartily endorsed.

Raided In Earnest.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Dec. 21.—The moonshine and gambling den known as the "Black Cat" on the Elkhorn was raided at midnight. After a bloody fight the whole gang were landed in jail. Two men will die and J. B. Estey was instantly killed. Only one of the officers was injured, and he will recover.

Murder at Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 21.—John Kane, 40 years old, a bookkeeper employed in Robert Geers' paper box factory, upon leaving his office last night shortly before 10 o'clock, was murdered by an unknown man and woman. Kane had ordered the couple to "move on," and they resented it.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Shows but Little Change From That of the Past Few Months.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say: The strong Americanism of the president's message has given its character to the week. Popular feeling was profoundly moved, but, excepting in stock and cotton markets, business was remarkably dull and scarcely affected.

Not because of any foreign question, but solely because of influences which have been in continuous operation for months, prices of manufactured goods continued to decline. There is no great change in boots and shoes, and in some branches the demand appears a little better, though gradually lower prices are offered, and leading jobbers look for prices still lower. Leather still declines, averaging 2 per cent lower for the week, though hides at Chicago are scarce, and about 2 per cent stronger.

Failures for the week have been 377 in the United States, against 349 last year, and 32 in Canada, against 36 last year.

Prices of iron and steel have fallen about 3 per cent for the week and are now 8 per cent below their maximum, bessemer, pig and gray forge and most kinds of finished products having yielded more or less. Minor metals are weaker, copper being offered at 10 cents net. The American production in November was 16,330 tons, and the foreign 7728 tons. Lead is weak at 3.20 cents, and tin, after a raise in options, is selling at 13.75 cents.

There is no change of importance in the market for cotton goods, which is not active enough to prevent some accumulation. Print cloths are a shade weaker.

The market for woolen goods has not improved, scarcely any, except clay mixtures and a few fancy cassimeres, selling at better than last year's prices, and clothiers are not in haste to contract largely, owing to uncertainty as to foreign prices. New orders for the heavy weight goods are more delayed than usual and remarkably small.

Sales of wool are mainly confined to immediate needs of manufacturers, who are buying but little ahead, and for three weeks of December have been 17,179,800 pounds, of which 8,935,100 were foreign, against 16,504,100 in the same weeks of 1892, of which 4,104,500 were foreign.

Vessels Badly Damaged.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 21.—A further installment of damaged shipping reached here yesterday, including the steamers Hattie May and Dolphin from Sydney, the barkentine Corisande from Maceo, and the schooner Little Minnie from Gibraltar, all of which sustained more or less injury in the recent gales. All the captains unite in saying that the weather has been unexampled in severity. The barkentine Aureola was almost in a sinking condition. The missing local vessel Gold Finch made port yesterday. She suffered considerable damage, and was driven far to sea.

Ready For Service.

Boston Man Tried to Burn Block Owned by His Sisters.

Property Had Been Left Them by a Will.

Family Affair In Which Isaac Blackburn Is the Black Sheep.

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—John Blackburn of Jamaica Plain died several months ago, and left a will that seems to have caused some trouble, which resulted in an attempt to burn property bequeathed by him to his two sisters. A confession was made to State Fire Marshal Whitcomb yesterday by Isaac Blackburn, brother of the deceased.

His story, in brief, is this: When John Blackburn died he left the Blackburn estate on Green street, Jamaica Plain, a large wooden structure, to his sisters, Mrs. Caroline Currier and Miss Sarah F. Blackburn.

The building was occupied by several families in the upper stories, and on the street floor there were several stores. One of these was a grocery store, run by Henry and Ben Blackburn, John's brothers.

One of the provisions of the will was that these brothers should have the use of the premises occupied by them as long as they lived without payment of rent. Next to this grocery store, in the same building, was a restaurant, run by Mrs. Stevens.

About 4 o'clock on the morning of Dec. 2, fire broke out under the restaurant, and had burned through to the first floor before it was extinguished.

Evidence of Incendiarism.

Fire Marshal Whitcomb the next morning discovered in an ash barrel a bottle which had contained kerosene. In the cellar there were evidences of attempts to burn the place at several spots. The oil had been thrown against wooden partitions in four or five places and matches applied. All but one of the attempts had been unsuccessful.

After the collection of a good deal of evidence and the examination of numerous people, suspicion pointed to Isaac Blackburn, who lived with his two sisters, the owners of the property.

Yesterday he was brought to the state house and examined. At first he denied having had anything to do with the matter, but finally confessed that he had set it.

Then the marshal wanted to know why he did it. Blackburn said he was influenced in his action by hearing his sister, Mrs. Caroline Currier, say that she wished the building was burned down, so that she could put up a nice brick block.

He said he had also heard his sisters complain of the provision in the will by which Henry and Benjamin were to get their store without paying rent. They would have to pay rent if they occupied a store in a new building.

Dead Miser's Bank Books.

WATERBURY, Conn., Dec. 21.—Constable Branzinski has brought a civil suit for $1200 against Christian Hauser as administrator. Jacob Furror died a month ago, and was supposed to have money concealed about his house. Hauser, who was appointed administrator, was sure of it, but the cellar was searched unsuccessfully. After the search, Hauser sold the contents for $25 to a peddler, who found bank books in a bed which showed deposits in two Waterbury banks and one Southington bank for $1200. Hauser seized the books for the estate, and now controls the deposits. Branzinski bought the claim from the peddler, on the ground that the books were included in the goods purchased, and now sues Hauser, the administrator, for the amount. Hauser will contest the case.

Self-Defense Claimed.

HARTFORD, Dec. 21.—Testimony for the defense was presented yesterday in the trial of George Swain for manslaughter, in killing William F. Boyle. Witnesses were examined to sustain the claim of the defense that Swain killed Boyle in self-defense. It was shown that Edward Boyle and his brother, the dead man, were both intoxicated the night of the tragedy. William Teel testified that Swain shot into the ground, and then a man ran toward them, and he was knocked down by a blow from behind. He did not see Swain shoot Boyle.

Torpedo Boat No. 6.

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 21.—The laying down of the keel for torpedo boat No. 6 at Bristol is expected to be begun very soon, word having been received that the first shipment of steel plates are on the way. The Herreshoff machine shops have already begun on engines for the two boats, and one of the cylinders is now being worked up. The second boat, No. 7, will not be started until the hull of No. 6 is off the ways.

By Order of Admiralty.

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 21.—Lieutenant Grand, H. R. M. S., visited the Howell torpedo testing station at Tiverton yesterday, and witnessed two shots with 17.72-inch torpedo and one with a 14-inch. The shots were perfect, and the British representative appeared well pleased with the American production. Lieutenant Grand witnessed the exhibition by order of the admiralty.

Indictments Against Liquor Dealers.

BATH, Me., Dec. 21.—The grand jury broke the record for Sagadahoc county yesterday, and created something of a war scare among the liquor dealers of Bath, by reporting 57 indictments, 48 of which are against dealers in this city. Harry Hall Captured.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 21.—The police captured Harry Hall, a notorious bicycle thief of Boston, who has been stealing bicycles all over the country. There are several requests for him on file here, but Portland, Me., had the call, and he was sent to that city today.

Forced to Assign.

BOSTON, Dec. 21.—The clothing firm of Fisk & Goff of this city and Portland, Me., assigned yesterday. The amount of assets and liabilities cannot be ascertained at present. Mild weather and the crowding of one or two creditors caused the assignment.

PLEADING FOR PEACE.

Noted Preachers Deplore the War Talk of the Past Few Days.

Wickedness of War Pointed Out From Pulpits.

"Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men," Should Be the Ruling Thought.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—A number of pastors of New York city and Brooklyn delivered discourses yesterday upon the subject of a possible war with England. Rev. Charles H. Eaton, pastor of the Church of the Divine Paternity, preached a sermon on the wickedness of war.

It was deplorable, he said, that the day on which Christians were to celebrate the birth of Christ and proclaim from every pulpit the doctrines of peace, the nation should be eagerly waiting the ultimatum of statesmen and mutterings of war should fill the land.

In the course of his sermon, "Civilization's Debt to Christianity," Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters of the Bloomingdale Reformed church said: "War is cruel, hateful, wrong. War is hell. The political demagogues who at this Christmastide are shouting for war will be branded by the second sober thought of the American people as the criminals of the 19th century. When these men had an opportunity to fight for their own land, when the Stars and Stripes were trailing in the dust, they sent substitutes.

"A war between England and America could never be terminated until one or the other went into bankruptcy or had no more men to fill the ranks. As the preacher of the Gospel of peace and universal brotherhood, I call for arbitration. 'Blessed are the peacemakers.' I pray that England and America may look across the centuries and hear the angels' proclamation, 'Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men.'" in the Madison Square Presbyterian church, took for his text, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men." The sermon led up to the Venezuelan question, and he made a passionate plea for peace. He said in part:

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst,

"It almost seemed as though there were a providence in the way in which these Christmas days synchronize the year with events that are just now filling our hearts with disturbance and throwing an uncomfortable shadow across the track of the near future. Now, we do not care to beat about the bush in this matter, but prefer to go straight to the mark by saying that if Christendom wants to make the religion of Jesus, with its Bethlehem, its angelic choir and its anthem of 'Peace on Earth' a laughing stock to the ungodly and a contempt to the heathen, the best thing it can do will be to set the two foremost Christian nations of the earth to work blowing up one another's cities and blowing out one another's brains.

"Unless we utterly misconceive the sentiment of the Christianized masses, both here and on the other side of the water—I say unless we utterly misconceive that sentiment as it seems to be asserting itself in sober second thought—such an issue will be morally impossible. But the church must now move to the front.

"There will be no conflict that will go beyond the point of messages and pronunciamentoes on either side, if the church of the Bethlehem Christ comes out and records its veto. Christianity both here and in England is too thoroughly an integral part of national life for armies and navies to clash in warfare. We are not here to discuss the international technicalities of the case.

"This is not the place to enter into a philosophical or historical exposition of the Monroe doctrine, only it is safe to say that this nation is not going to be drawn into an international conflict of arms—to the dishonor of Christianity, the discouragement of civilization, the destruction of life and treasure and the demoralization of our entire organic life—in behalf of a doctrine such that probably 90 per cent of a congregation, as well informed as this, would not be able to state intelligibly, and the other 10 per cent, who can state it, disagreeing among themselves as to whether the doctrine is applicable to the present situation.

"We are not speaking disparagingly of loyalty to country or patriotic regard for our national rights. But patriotic passions are incensed, and can easily be fired to the point where righteousness is ignored and reason and balanced consideration tabooed, and that is the mischief of inflammatory sheets that make a paying newspaper business of fanning the flames of international animosity. I wish for two weeks that it could be a state prison offense to print newspaper headlines with anything larger than small capitals.

"If the nations would first take up the business that belongs to them, and if England and the United States would join hands in the rather more Gospel enterprise of rescuing pillaged and outraged Armenia from the dirty, bloody grip of the Turks, these two nations of brothers would soon find themselves in good Christian condition of spirit probably to settle that little question of civil engineering down in Venezuela in a way that would save both parties not only their pride and their heads, but their Christian repute."

"A Species of Hydrophobia."

Of all the anti-war sermons preached in this city the fiercest was that preached in the Central Metropolitan church by Rev. S. P. Cadman. Dr. Cadman is an Americanized Englishman, and his language was directed with equal vehemence against the war advocates of both countries.

Beneath the thin veneer of religion, he said, there was much of barbarism in all of us, when the howlings of the war dogs could bring us so near the throats of our neighbors. If war was averted, he said, it would be only because of the intervention of the religious. Dr. Cadman then denounced the chaplain of the house of representatives because of the prayer which he recently offered.

Continuing, he said: "The English people and newspapers, I am sorry to see, are no better than those on this side. The whole thing is characterized by species of hydrophobia. It is jingoism gone mad. And for this jingoism, England, more than anybody else, is responsible. At the treaty of Berlin, England offered to take care of the Christians within the territories of the sultan. How she has done so, the slaughter of 1,000,000 Christians in the time that has elapsed sufficiently testifies. The pretensions were the bloodiest kind of a bloody farce. The slaughter now going on in Armenia is the aftermath of British jingoism.

"War to this nation will mean the destruction of our liberty. It will mean the setting up of military ideas for the people. It will mean possibly the substitution of the empire for the blessings of republicanism. Just think of it, an empire. Here we now talk of making one man president for the third term. Twelve years with more power than is enjoyed by most European monarchs. It is preposterous. I protest against any one man having 12 years of such extraordinary power. Who is he that he is absolutely necessary to the safety of the republic?"

From the Hub.

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—Nearly all churches in the city yesterday held special Christmas services. Several of the pastors found time to make comment in their sermons on the difficulty with Great Britain over the Venezuelan boundary. In many cases the government was criticised for its aggressive course, and all the ministers who touched on the subject protested against the United States taking up arms.

Rev. Dr. J. B. Brady, pastor of the People's Temple, said: "Any man who will jeopardize the interests of this great nation by bringing it to the verge of war, by defending any political or governmental measure, that would bring us to war with the greatest, most educated, most evangelizing sister or mother of ours on the other side of the sea—no matter who or what he is—is unwise, unpatriotic, criminal in his talk, and ought to be hushed. The evangelizing, elevation, education, glorification of this world lies in England and America."

Rev. I. J. Lansing, pastor of the Park Street church, censured the government for its action in regard to the difficulty, and said that it had acted unwisely and unjustly, as was evidenced by the testimony of experts on international law.

Rev. F. W. Hamilton, pastor of the Roxbury Universalist church, said: "The feelings and associations of Christmas, with its lessons of peace and good will, would go far to render impossible any war between two great representatives of the English-speaking race."

Rev. E. S. Wheeler said: "I believe that the very best thought of New England and of the whole country is for peace, and opposed to the application of the Monroe doctrine between us and England. I believe that it is a petty game of the politicians in Washington, and will come to naught."

Rev. Dr. G. C. Lorimer of Tremont Temple delivered a sermon on "The Christmas Message, or Peace and War." He strongly favored peace, but did not think in the president's message there was a threat of war. "It can, of course, be deduced," he said, "it can be wrung out of it, but I think Mr. Cleveland was exceedingly cautious and careful in his representation."

All For Peace.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 23.—Portland ministers, generally, spoke on the Venezuelan question in their sermons yesterday. Dr. Woodard of the Second Advent church said he believed the whole thing to be tinged with political coloring, and thought the action hasty. He claimed that England was too strong, and we would regret any trouble with her.

Rev. Dr. Dalton of St. Stephen's Episcopal church said that in case of war Portland would be the first point in the country to suffer. He blamed congress and the president for rushing into a compromising position before the country's defenses were completed.

Rev. Dr. Blanchard of the Universalist church in his sermon counseled peace if it could be peace without sacrificing the nation's honor.

From other churches came similar sermons; all counseled peace and calm deliberation on the subject before war is declared.

A Dangerous Spot.

The fence near the depot on Atlantic avenue is broken, and as it is, a person accidentally stepping off the sidewalk might do himself severe injury, as the sidewalk is raised quite a distance from the pasture, and at present there is nothing to prevent a person from stepping off. If the owners of the land will not repair the fence, the fence viewers should have the city attend to it at once as it is very dangerous.

CHRISTMAS SUNDAY.

"Peace on Earth" an Appropriate Theme This Year.

Joyful Anthems by the Choirs and Sunday Schools

Concerts in the Evening, with Festivals Later in Week.

Yesterday seemed more like an ideal Easter Sunday rather than the fourth Sunday in Advent. It was a beautiful day, and the church services generally were largely attended.

Centre Congregational.

Large congregations attended the services Sunday at the Evangelical Congregational church. Rev. E. N. Hardy, the pastor, took for his morning theme "Christ, the Interpreter of Life," taking his text from St. Luke, "A light to lighten the Gentiles." He first propounded the question: Why do we celebrate Christmas? He enumerated several reasons but maintained that Christ should be the central thought, and spoke to that point. Special music was rendered by the choir. The pulpit was decorated.

At 7.30 P. M. there was a very fine Christmas concert by the Bible school under the direction of Mr. Charles Sampson. The recitations and songs of the primary department were particularly good.

The programme was as follows:

Hymn, "Joy to the World."
Scriptures, Is. 9, 1-8; Luke 2, 8-20.	Charles Sampson.
Prayer,	Rev. E. N. Hardy.
Solo, "Christmas Eve."	Miss Isaac.
Reading,	Miss McFarlane.
Christmas Gifts,	3 girls, 3 boys.
Scriptures,	Mrs. Burns' class.
What is said of the Advent of Christ?	7 girls.
Song,	Primary Department.
Recitation,	Edith Mildred.
Who was the Stranger whose Advent brought out the Angel choir.	Class of girls.
Reading,	Miss Burns
Recitation,	Russell Hanson.
Song and chorus,	3 girls.
What was Christ's Mission?	6 boys.
Recitation,	8 boys.
How Christ was received.	3 boys.
Reading,	Miss Merrill.
Quartette, Misses Isaac and Gray, Messrs.	Hayden and Isaac.
Short address by the pastor.
Song,	Primary Department.
Offering.
Hymn and benediction.

The festivities of the Bible school will be held tomorrow. That of the primary department in the afternoon at 2 30 and of the main school in the evening. Several surprises are planned for the little ones, and a grand entertainment is anticipated in the evening.

First Church.

Evergreen in abundance was used for decorative purposes at the First church, Sunday, and Rev. Ellery C. Butler, the pastor, preached an eloquent sermon in the morning on "The fashion of the world" to a large gathering.

The old First church looked exquisite under the reflected light from its new electric burners at the vesper service. The vivid red of the pulpit curtain brought into clear relief the pure white of the mural tablets and busts which were trimmed with holly garlands. More delicate green was massed at the corners of the pulpit. In front, tall white callas arose from a bed of green; forming again a fine contrast in color. The pillars were twined with garlands which also outlined spaces, and formed particularly graceful lines at the doors. Rev. Mr. Butler gave an extempore talk from the text, "He came and his own received him not." He drew in forcible language, a picture of the Prince of this world and the Prince of Peace whose advent this season commemorates, closing with an expressed hope that we of this generation might live so it could in the future be written of us, that "He came and we did receive Him. The vesper music was fine. Palm branches ringing in jubilant tones.

Universalist Church.

Rev. A. E. White of Cambridge delivered a very interesting lecture at the Universalist church last evening, to a large audience. His subject was "Christ in Art." Many fine views were thrown onto a large curtain in front of the desk. They were from costly paintings by noted artists, and showed the places of interest in the life of Christ; also as he appeared on noted times and occasions from babyhood to the crucifixion. The lecture was interspersed with singing of suitable hymns.

Christ's Church.

Rev. Walter Russell Breed took for his Christmas sermon at the morning service "Jesus in History." There was also special music by the choir. In the evening the rector spoke on the "Fulfilling of the Law." The interior of the church was very prettily decorated with evergreen, and there were many potted plants about the chancel rail.

The Christmas tree and Sunday School festival will be held Tuesday evening There will also be preaching service with holy communion at 10 30 A. M. Wednesday.

St. John's Church,

Special services will be held at St. John's church, Christmas day. There will be an early morning mass at 5 o'clock, also at 9 and 10.15 o'clock. In the evening at 8 o'clock there will be vesper services. There will be a Christmas tree and exercises by the children Friday evening.

BOY DROWNED.

Five Go Through the Ice in Quincy Reservoir.

Among the skaters on the Quincy reservoir in Braintree this morning were five boys who happened to get together on a weak spot and all went through the ice.

With difficulty four were rescued, but the oldest son of Mervin Colton was drowned. He was about eleven years of age.

The mother of the boy is in Boston doing Christmas shopping, and the father who works in the city has been notified.

The body has been recovered.

Wollaston Depot Improvements.

On Saturday night the old ticket office at the Wollaston station was torn out and work begun on building a new one at the westerly side of the waiting room. The men's and women's waiting rooms, which have heretofore been separated with a petition and door, will now be thrown into one large room with an arch opposite the ticket office dividing the rooms into halves and materially adding to its attractiveness. Other needed improvements are to be made in the building.

Christmas Charities.

It seems as though Wollaston's charities were boundless. And now it is the Wollaston school that makes the patients at the City Hospital and a number of worthy families happy with Christmas offerings. This past week the school has forwarded to the Hospital a box of jellies and preserves. Beside what gifts it has distributed among worthy families in Quincy one barrel and four boxes of food and clothing, and a like amount among several needy families at Wollaston.

The Saturday Shoot.

D. B. Lincoln is coming to the front at the Wollaston Trap club shoots. At Saturday's shoot he was high man with 21 birds. Bates and Brainard were second with eighteen each. Christmas forenoon at 9 o'clock sharp there will be an open shoot. Every member with friends is expected to take part. The score Saturday.

The local postoffice was a busy place this morning as there was almost a constant stream at the stamp window mailing letters and packages.

A treasurer of the Quincy Savings bank will probably be elected at a meeting tomorrow night. Three or more are mentioned for the position.

Rupert F. Claflin who has been elected as Councilman has resigned as a member of the Board of Managers of the Adams Academy, which has been accepted.

Mr. Wales reports about forty thousand words received on the prize word contest from all parts of the city. The winners will be announced in tomorrow's LEDGER.

Perhaps you have overlooked George A. Mayo in making your Christmas purchases but you cannot afford to as he advertises bargains today which should be investigated.

L. M. Pratt & Co. have a very pretty Christmas window. The scene represents an open fire place which is filled with broken candy, and about this are trays of other confections.

Miss Bessie L. Drew has returned to her home on Walker street, where she will spend her Christmas vacation. Miss Kolb and Miss Webster have also returned from their schools to spend the holiday vacation at home.

A light is very much needed at the corner of Clive and Walker streets. Will the city not put some sort of a beacon there, we should be pleased with a kerosene light if an electric would be inconvenient.

Massachusetts Bay Colony of Pilgrim Fathers is to give a complimentary social and entertainment to their friends at Music Hall tonight. After the entertainment the Colony will hold its regular meeting.

Miss Dearbon, the principal at the Coddington school was rembered by her associate teachers and the A. grammar class at the close of the school term, the teachers presenting a handsome silk umbrella, and the scholars an elegant volume of Lowelle poems, together with a beautiful bouquet of pinks and roses.

A broken window at the residence of the late Daniel Baxter on Franklin street gave rise to the rumor that the house had been entered as the family were away. The matter was reported to the police but Officer McKay who made an investigation reports that the building has not been entered. The window was probably broken by some boys throwing stones.

Santa Claus will make his appearance at the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, on Christmas night at 6.30 o'clock. A Christmas tree, which it is hoped to be heavily laden, will interest the children. The entertainment for the evening will consist of recitations, solos, dialogues, etc., and the real "St. Nick" will positively appear.

A church bell on the Memorial Congregational church has been spoken of. At present there is no church bell in Atlantic, and nothing to call people to church on Sunday. Could not an entertainment or some other attraction be arranged for the purpose of raising funds necessary for purchasing a bell, or is there not some wealthy citizen who might donate one; it would be welcome.

Complaints have been quite numerous of late that a young man was making a nuisance of himself by exposing himself to women on Hancock street. Sunday Officer Ferguson was detailed to look out for him and the officer was not long in catching him in the act and placing him under arrest. The young man, who is old enough to know better, was brought into court this morning and fined, and it is hoped that this will be a lesson for him to behave himself in the future.

IN BLEEDING ARMENIA.

Red Cross Society Needs $100,000 to Carry on Its Work.

Sultan Thinks That Powers Do Not Mean Business.

Force Is the Only Argument Which Will Bear Weight With Turks.

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—An audience deep in sympathy with the Red Cross society movement for the relief of the Armenians heard M. H. Gulesian lecture last evening in the Boston Young Women's Christian association building.

Mr. Gulesian spoke earnestly upon these three points, into which he divided the subject: "What Was the Cause of the Massacres in Armenia? Why the Powers do Not Interfere, and What the Red Cross Can Do."

After briefly picturing the Armenian life and character, and speaking of the treaty of Paris, after the Crimean war, by which the Christians of Turkey were guaranteed religious freedom, the lecturer stated that the Armenians made great progress in education and business, and the sultan became much alarmed. His fear increased after the Russo-Turkish war, following which a systematic persecution of the Armenians was instituted.

Mr. Gulesian stated that the sultan evidently knew that the European powers did not mean business. The only argument which would bear weight with the Turkish government was force. The United States, as a disinterested nation which would not be looked upon jealously by the powers, should do something

In the Name of Humanity.

The speaker said he had heard people say that the United States had practically no army or navy with which to fight the Turk, but it seemed strange to him that there should be so much talk of war over the Venezuelan matter. They could not fight for the suffering and dying Armenians, but they could fight for some sand in Venezuela.

Speaking of Miss Barton's crusade, he said that, as the Red Cross society was an international order, it alone could penetrate into Turkey without interference on the part of the Turkish government. He thought this was the only hope left to the thousands of little children starving in the mountains, and he explained that the society could do a vast amount of good in the way of establishing hospitals, bureaus, etc. About $100,000 would be required by Miss Barton before she could start, and he made a strong plea for assistance to the cause.

As a result of the lecture, several liberal contributions were made to the fund. Mr. Gulesian expects more in the course of the next few days.

Bridge Swept Away.

HARTFORD, Dec. 23.—The temporary bridge connecting the town of East Hartford with this city was carried away by the ice early this morning. The bridge has been unsafe for a month past, and though it has been strengthened at intervals, the ice had pressed against the spilings so strongly that they snapped like pipe-stems when the heavy ice struck them. Travel over the bridge had been stopped for seven hours before it had been swept down the stream. The bridge was built by the Berlin Iron Bridge company, to take the place of the old East Hartford bridge which was destroyed by fire last summer.

Becoming Frequent.

BOSTON, Dec. 23.—Another serious incendiary fire occurred in the Boston and Albany railroad stock yards at Brighton late yesterday afternoon, when two large barns, containing 45 head of stock, a large quantity of hay, etc., were destroyed. The fire is the fifth of incendiary origin which have occurred in the same locality within the past few months. In every case the fires occurred about the same time in the afternoon and always on a holiday or Sunday. A wild steer and a number of hogs broke loose during the fire. Nobody was injured, however.

Sailed Into Police Commissioners.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 23.—Rev. C. L. White bitterly attacked the police commission from the pulpit yesterday for alleged non-enforcement of the prohibitory law, asserting that the commissioners could close 94 places where liquor is sold in one day if they said the places must close and meant what they said.

Officers Badly Handled.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 23.—Thomas Colleran is under arrest, charged with assault with a knife on James Warren. Officers Warren and Quigley tried to arrest Colleran for drunkenness. His entire family set on the two officers, Warren being stabbed. He is in a serious condition, while Quigley is badly hurt.

Would-Be Nimrods.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 23.—Three boys, whose homes are in Malden, Mass., were arrested here yesterday as runaways. The lads were on their way to Boothbay harbor, from whence they intended to go to Florida to shoot ducks. The boys were each about 13 years of age.

Pastor Savage's Decision.

BOSTON, Dec 23.—Rev. Minot J. Savage, pastor of the Church of the Unity, this city, states that he has decided to remain in Boston. He was considering a call to the Church of the Messiah, New York, as assistant to Dr. Collyer, the present pastor.

Mrs. Ann Kennedy, aged 75, of Middleburg, Vt., died from a shock, incident to burns received while lighting a fire with kerosene.

Wilbur Gilson, aged 60, slipped through a railroad trestle bridge near Rutland, Vt., and was fatally hurt. His descent was 140 feet.

C. W. Anderson of Springfield, Mass., was found dead at Charleston. Death was due to heart disease. Anderson was a 33rd degree Mason.

Mayor Jewett of Haverhill, Mass., will permit athletic exhibitions in the future, provided there are no boxing matches made for decisions.

Alexis Pelkey is under arrest at Fall River, Mass., to await the outcome of wounds inflicted on his father with a knife during a family quarrel.

The body of Patrick Fallon, an aged man, was found in the Pawtucket river. Although the nose was fractured, Fallon's death was decided as accidental.

BROOK STREET EXTENSION.

A Reason Perhaps Why N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Favor the Scheme.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The discussion at Wollaston over the proposed Brook street extension beneath the New Haven's trade has brought out the fact that the street is awkwardly situated for such an undertaking. This same extension was petitioned for about two years ago and through its apparent impracticability quietly pigeon-holed. If our memory serves us aright when the matter was up before, so eminent an authority, as Mr. H. T. Whitman considered it as being impracticable, owing to the awkwardness of the location. As the conditions are the same today as they were when the scheme was first broached it is presumed that the same arguments used against its construction then, holds good at the present time.

I contended in my article on this subject in last Saturday's LEDGER that the increase grade of Newport avenue, opposite the stores, would be a serious detriment to Wollaston's business interests. The Master Teamsters' association of Boston declares that any grade over three per cent. is unfit for ordinary teaming purpose. The Board of Alderman of Boston when establishing the grades of streets always takes this into consideration and has the grades where possible at or less than that unit. The present grade of Newport avenue opposite the depot is over seven per cent. If the Brook street extension is put through the grading of Newport avenue down to the extension will naturally increase the grade one or possibly two per cent. It will not only do that but it will perpetrate this grade, as the intersection of Brook street and Newport avenue, coming at the foot of a hill, will make it impossible to ever eliminate it.

It is possible that the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., is as interested in having the extension put through as any of the petitioners, as its construction would presumably be an outlet for the trans-track traffic during the laying of the two additional tracks and the subsequent rebuilding of the Beale street bridge. The road's engineers have recently made surveys for the extension and the plans are now on file in the Chief Engineers office at Boston. The tunnel has the minimun clear of but 12 feet, useless for the heavy teaming for which it is intended. The road could not very well close up the Beale street bridge during the reconstruction as that would literally divide Wollaston into halves, the nearest bridge being at Squantum street, four-fifths of a mile distant. To obviate this difficulty a false bridge would have to be built at considerable expense to the corporation. But on the other hand if the city can be persuaded to ask for the extension of Brook street, the lion's share of the expense will be thrown upon it by the commissioners, and at the same time an outlet but 300 feet distant will be made for the obstructed Beale street travel at a comparatively small expense to the road. The New Haven's interest in the matter is a supposition, but suppositions often times congeal into very cold facts.

CHRISTMAS SUNDAY.

Calvary Baptist.

The congregation at the Calvary Baptist church listened with much interest to a beautiful discourse on the birth of Christ, by the pastor. Text from Luke 2:14, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." This was indeed a time of expectancy to the Jews. They wondered when the Prince of the lion of Judah was coming. When? seemed to be the question of every devout Jew. On the plains of Bethlehem were shepherds watching their flocks; hearing the rustling of wings and looking saw an angel and a great light shone round about them. The announcement of the angel was the birth of Christ the Redeemer of the world. After the message was delivered a host of angels appeared, singing the words of the text. First we consider the occasion of this angelic refrain, irrepressible joy because a "Redeemer" has come, contents of this angelic refrain, Immanuel's reign, God sending peace on earth, peace, because one more powerful than satan has come whose government has no end of increase and peace that the nations of the earth are strangers to.

First Presbyterian Church.

The choir sang happily chosen anthems excellently at both services, and at the pastor's public request, will repeat them next Sunday. There were good congregations. In the evening the subject was, "What Christmas Means to Us."

The preacher said that many children have only a vague idea of the babyhood of Jesus, but a vivid conception of the Teutonic myth-god. Along with this conception is the selfish thought of Christmas as a time of getting. The story of the Baby of Bethleham is infinitely sweeter; and the children listen to it eagerly and will not grow up to find that they have been taught a falsehood; and this beautiful story carries with it the idea of Christmas being a time of giving.

It is the selfish conception developed which makes of Christmas a time of exchanging—a market-day, a bazaar—in homely English, a swapping-day, crowned by a feast. Christmas ought to mean a day of drawing nearer to the Christ who drew near to us in His incarnation, a day of good-will and of gifts to the needy in His name.

At Quincy Point.

The excellent music was the striking feature of the Christmas service at the Washington street church. Many compliments were heard on the work of the choir both in the morning service and for the aid they rendered in the Sunday school concert in the evening. The morning sermon was a call to the people to open their treasures and welcome royally the Christ to our neighborhood and our church by devoting time and thought and means to him in this time of special financial need. The parish committee are working earnestly and enthusiastically to remove the debt and provide for necessary expenses of the church by appealing for personal pledges. This once accomplished, the effectiveness of the church work will be doubled. The committee should have the hearty cooperation of all interested in Christian work in this neighborhood.

An unusually interesting concert was given by the Sunday school Sunday evening, assisted by the choir.

At Atlantic.

The Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, was crowded Sunday at both morning and evening services. An interesting Christmas sermon was given by the pastor in the morning. A large and most excellent choir furnished music at both services. In the morning Mr. W. H. Owen sang a tenor solo, and a response rendered by Miss Susie Hall, Mrs. Matthews and Mr. Walter Hall, were well worthy of comment. In the evening a very interesting account of a trip through Bethlehem was listened to by a very large congregation. Mrs. W. F. Cummings favored with a soprano solo.

Christmas will be celebrated at the Memorial Congregational Sunday school, on Christmas night at 6 30 by the following entertainment and a heavily laden Christmas tree, expressly laden by Santa. The programme to be given is as follows:

Chorus, "Ring the Bells,"
Recitation,	Miss May Nelson
Duet,	Misses Hayes and Wilson
Dialogue,	Miss Kolb's class
Recitation,	Miss Ida Harding
Singing, "Ring all ye Christmas Belles,"	Miss Bennett's Class
Dialogue,	Miss Bennett's class
Chorus,
Recitation,	Katie Burch, Ethel Hill and Mabel Wilson
Dialogue,	Miss Hall's class
Solo,	Miss Nellie Shaw
Dialogue,	Alice Evans and Helen Arvidson

Good-night Chorus.

Santa Claus is expected to arrive at some time during the entertainment and please the children before they return to their homes.

At Wollaston.

The churches at Wollaston were crowded both at the morning and evening services. The music was well rendered, programs of which have already appeared in these columns.

In connection with the vesper service at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday evening the Rev. Edward A. Robinson read Dr. Van Dyke's "The Story of the Other Wise Man." The music which was by the double quartette, with Miss Mary Virginia Hastings as soloist, was exceedingly well rendered.

The Wollaston Unitarian Christmas festival will be held on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock; the Baptist on the same evening at 7 o'clock and the Congregational on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

STAND OF SILVERITES.

Would Have the Nation Pay Obligations With White Metal.

Congress Decides to Forego the Holiday Recess.

House Has Already Taken Up Consideration of National Finances.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The session of the senate Saturday was not able in bringing out a very pointed statement from Dubois (Rep., Ida.), who was understood to voice the views of the silver element in the senate, that no financial legislation was possible along the lines desired by President Cleveland and strenuously urged in the message of Friday evening.

It was patent to every senator, Mr. Dubois said, and should be understood by the country, that the president's desires for the retirement of the greenbacks, or the authorization of a bond issue, were utterly impossible of accomplishment. The only action the senate would take, if it was given the opportunity to vote, would be to adopt the resolution of Mr. Vest (Dem., Mo.), offered earlier in the day, directing the coinage of silver bullion in the treasury and the payment of government obligations in silver. Mr. Dubois' declaration came at the close of the session, and thereafter the senate adjourned until tomorrow—the day before Christmas—thus acceding in part to the president's request that a holiday recess not be taken pending the grave financial complications.

The only immediate response to the president's message was in the presentation of two resolutions favorable to silver, that by Mr. Vest and another by Mr. Butler, the new Populist member from North Carolina, proposing gold payments while the metals were at a parity, and silver payments when gold went to a premium. Efforts were made for the immediate consideration of the measures, but Mr. Platt's objection sent them over.

The house on Saturday responded to the president's message by pigeon-holing the resolution for a holiday recess and preparing to go to work to provide some means for the relief of the treasury. There was no difference of opinion, on the surface at least, that congress should remain at its post. The speaker announced the committees, and the decks were cleared for business. The ways and means committee, to which the measures were referred, met immediately to organize, and today the work of framing a bill commenced.

This Week In Congress.

This promises to be an eventful week in the house. Before adjournment is reached next Saturday the Republican leaders of the house intend that a bill shall have been sent to the senate in response to the demand of the president's message of Friday for some means of relieving the treasury situation and protecting the gold reserve.

The Republican leaders determined to act promptly as soon as the message was sent in, and all idea of taking a recess for the holidays was abandoned in the face of the situation presented. The ways and means committee was organized Saturday, and Saturday night the Republican members held a secret meeting at the Capitol, at which Speaker Reed was present to discuss the details of a bill which, in their opinion, would furnish the desired relief.

As a preliminary it was decided that while the situation in the senate as to the fate there of any measure passed by the house should be kept in mind, the house must act independently of the result in the upper body. The general outline of a measure was practically agreed upon, but the details have not been completed. The sentiment was unanimous that no gold bonds should be authorized, but that a bill on the lines of Mr. Reed's amendment of last year should be drawn up, and with that should be coupled some tariff changes for the purpose of raising additional revenue.

Last winter the Republicans took the stand that the menace to the gold reserve was caused primarily by the lack of revenue to meet the expenses of the government, and that

Is Still Their Position.

Mr. Reed's bond proposition, which the committee will adopt, provides first for the reduction of the rate of interest on bonds to be issued under the acts of 1870 and 1875 for the purpose of resuming specie payment and protecting the specie reserve from 4 to 3 per cent, and, second, for a low rate, low denominational coin bond which would practically be a debt certificate to be used to supply deficiencies in the revenues.

By the terms of the bill it is probable that provisions will be inserted to provide that the proceeds of any bonds issued under the acts of 1870 and 1875, as amended, shall go to the reserve, and of the latter bonds to pay current expenses. In this way a separate account can be kept, and the proceeds of bonds sold to maintain the reserve cannot be used to pay current expenses.

The details of the tariff changes will furnish the most difficult task in framing the bill. There is practical unanimity of sentiment, so far as can be learned, among the Republican members of the committee for a duty on wool and compensating duties on woolens. The western members want the duty on wool to be at least 8 cents a pound, but the indications are that it will not exceed 5 cents. There is some discussion of appropriation to make a horizontal increase on all the schedules, except sugar, of from 15 to 20 per cent, but that is opposed in certain quarters as Being Not on Protection Lines.

It seems probable, therefore, that wool and woolens, lumber and various articles will be selected. While there is, it is said, some difference of opinion on this point, it seems certain that there will be a time limitation of 2 years or 30 months on the life of the tariff provisions of the bill. The point will be made that it is an emergency measure for raising revenue, and, therefore, could meet with the approval of all who believe that the treasury needs additional revenue, no matter what the individual opinions may be regarding protective duties.

The house adjourned immediately today, and the Republicans of the ways and means committee went to work to perfect the details of the bill. It is hoped that it can be ready by tomorrow, and if so it will probably be passed under a special order of the committee on rules or possibly under suspension of the rules. Speaker Reed and his lieutenants are not disposed to brook delay. They believe the house should do its duty promptly.

After the bill has been passed and sent to the senate, the question of whether congress shall remain in session for the remainder of the holidays will rest with that body. If the senate will proceed to consideration of the bill, the house will remain in session, probably adjourning from day to day, but if the senate should, after the passage of the house bill, show that it did not propose to go ahead with it, and should deliberately pass a resolution for a holiday recess, it is probable that the house

Would Agree to It.

As to the attitude of the Democrats toward the bill it seems probable that it will be opposed by most if not all of the Democrats. The silver Democrats are not disposed to vote for any bond proposition, first, because they believe there is another remedy in the hands of the executive—the redemption of notes in silver. They might vote for coin bonds to borrow money if the executive said that money was needed to meet current expenses, but as the demand for authority to issue bonds is not based on that ground—which in fact is distinctly disavowed—their opposition to the bond feature of the bill is certain.

They would probably also resist the measure on account of the increase in the tariff schedules. The administration and sound money men might be disposed to vote for a bond authorization, but will probably be deterred from voting for the measure because of its tariff propositions, so that the solid opposition of the Democrats is looked for. The overwhelming Republican majority insures its passage, however, beyond question. It is likely that several amendments will be offered by the Democrats if they can secure recognition for that purpose—one to authorize the redemption of the treasury notes of 1890 in silver and another to coin the silver in the treasury and possibly a plain free coinage amendment.

The Senate Program.

The course of the senate this week will depend in part, if not entirely, on the turn which affairs shall take in the house. In the event that the house should adjourn over the holidays the senate will be ready to acquiesce, as a majority of the senators are still unquestionably favorable to the usual holiday recess. The probabilities point strongly to the absence of a quorum the greater part of the week in case no recess is taken. The calendar contains only one bill of general importance, and not to exceed half a dozen minor bills. Consequently there is little prospect of actual legislation in any event. It is therefore more than probable that whatever sessions are held will be devoted largely to the speechmaking. If the house should send over a financial or revenue bill there would be no possibility of receiving a report upon it for some time; but such a measure might afford subject matter for informal speeches.

Ranks Are Full.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—So many applications for the privilege of accompanying the Red Cross on the proposed Armenian relief expedition are coming in that Miss Clara Barton has prepared a general reply, in which she says: "At the present time it is not possible to definitely judge of the number of assistants that may be required, nor of the character of the help that will be needed. The Red Cross, having performed active field service in a dozen great disasters, has drawn into its rank a staff of faithful and diligent helpers, upon whom it can call at a day's notice, and that staff, for the present, seems all sufficient."

About the Katahdin.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The president has decided that the government cannot accept the ram Kathadin, because of her failure to attain the 17 knots speed required by the contract. Senator Hale has accordingly introduced a bill in the senate authorizing the acceptance of the vessel. Naval authorities are of the opinion that she is an efficient warship, and is prevented from attaining the prescribed speed only by peculiarities of her model for which the builders, the Bath (Me.) iron works, are not properly responsible.

With England.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—At St. Paul's cathedral, Westminster Abbey, and at numerous churches in London and the provinces, the sermons yesterday referred to the Venezuelan crisis. At Wolverhampton, the Congregational church, where Dr. Charles Berry is the pastor, resolved to cable to the Brooklyn Congregational church a message of sympathy with its efforts to preserve the peace.

Hotel Burned.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Dec. 23.—Fire yesterday resulted in a monetary loss of $50,000, one man's life and the severe injuring of several others. The fire originated in a bakery and spread to a clothing store and the Central hotel, entirely destroying the three structures. The scene in the burning hotel was exciting. The guests all escaped with their lives, but saved little else.

American Ahead.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 23.—Play was resumed in the international chess tournament Saturday, when one game resulted as follows: Pillsbury (white) drew with Steinitz after 55 moves, the game being a queen gambit, declined. Lasker was unwell, and so the game with Tschigorin was not played. The present score: Pillsbury, 3½; Lasker, 3; Steinitz, 1½; Tschigorin, 1.

But One Life Lost.

SOUTHAMPTON, Dec. 23.—The Red Star steamship Berlin has returned here with her bow damaged by a collision with the bark Willowbank, whose crew were saved and are aboard the Berlin. The Falmouth pilot on the Willowbank, who went below to save his clothes, was drowned. The Willowbank sunk immediately.

All Perished.

DENVER, Dec. 23.—While skating on Lathrop lake, Charley Jones, aged 8, fell through an airhole in the ice. His brother Robert and sister Maggie, aged 21 and 20, respectively, and Ida Ball, aged 16, attempted to rescue him, and all four were drowned.

Refused to Accept.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 23.—Friends of ex-President Harrison assert without qualification that he had received an offer of the presidency of the Venezuelan commission from the administration and that he had declined the position.

Heavy Outflow.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The exports of specie from the port of New York last week amounted to $7,131,574 in gold and $946,352 in silver. The imports were: Gold, $437,747; silver, $20,527.

Disastrous to Shipping.

QUEENSTOWN, Dec. 23. — There is a violent gale blowing off the Irish coast, and several small crafts have been swamped. Passenger packets are putting back to harbor for shelter.

HEROIC WOMEN.

Their Struggle Against a Common and Merciless Enemy.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Woman's heroism is not evinced by fearlessness or enterprise in time of danger, but her courage and fortitude are unquestionable in time of suffering.

Think of the woman who smiles and tries to make those around her cheerful, while she is racked with the excruciating tortures of womb trouble.

Think of one who, day by day, begs her physician to help her, while the torture of tortures could not add to her misery.

Does she yield? No! She endures her agonies, and meets her friends with cheerfulness.

This is woman's heroism, and few men realize how prevalent they are. Physicians rarely render relief in such cases.

After twenty years of success, with ever-increasing popularity, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is, to-day, woman's only sure and safe refuge from inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, ovarian trouble, leucorrhœa, painful and suppressed menstruations, kidney trouble, nervous prostration, and all manner of distressing and life-sapping female diseases.

"O my sisters, believe what is told you of this wonderful medicine! Before I took it I had falling of the womb and leucorrhœa. My womb came down so badly I could not walk across the floor; the pain was excruciating; now all is so changed, and I so happy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved me from a life of misery. Don't, don't suffer, I say, when a cure is so easily obtained."—MRS. WILLIAM HOWE, 163 Antoin Street, Detroit, Mich.

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE.

Pupil Sues Tutor For Making False Representations.

Newspaper Scheme Falls to the Ground.

Defendant Restrained From Selling or Transferring Notes in the Case.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—A wonderful newspaper scheme, conducted by Andrew J. Drexel Biddell of Philadelphia, a member of the Drexel family of bankers, in his Harvard college days, came to light yesterday when a bill in equity was entered in the United States court in this city by Biddell against William E. Chancellor of Worcester, claiming that Chancellor, who was his tutor, had obtained $25,000 worth of notes from him under false representation. Biddell says he was but 19 years old, and that being a minor the notes are void. The newspaper scheme was to form an association to be known as the National News company, to publish newspapers in several cities. There was to be a capital of $100,000, $75,000 to be furnished by Biddell and $25,000 to be supplied by a loan by Chancellor.

Plaintiff Studied at Harvard.

Mr. Biddell, who obtained his majority last October, came to Cambridge in March, 1894, and took a special course of study under the tutorage of Chancellor, who was a student in the law school. In October Biddell went to Philadelphia, and was soon followed by Chancellor, who found a position as teacher in a private school. Biddell made out notes amounting to $75,000, of which Chancellor afterward obtained possession.

In his bill, Biddell claims that the defendant, by attention and apparent kindness, gained his confidence and induced him to make plans for entering into business with him after Biddell attained his majority. Biddell, therefore, withdrew from all relations with Chancellor, and heard nothing from him until December, 1895, when Chancellor sent him a letter, informing him that he held certain notes of Biddell's for $25,000. In this letter Chancellor admitted that they were signed by a minor, but that certain banks in Nebraska and New York were ready to take the notes.

Doesn't Remember Giving Notes.

In his bill Biddell states that to the best of his recollection no such notes were ever given by him. One of the notes for $1000 was paid by the Drexel Banking house in Philadelphia. Chancellor claims that the object in the maker's mind when he drew the notes was indemnity, in case no partnership was formed in the newspaper scheme, and also as a compensation for services rendered and cash advanced. He was willing to receive $10,000 as a compromise sum.

Biddell states that Chancellor has been paid in full for his services rendered as tutor and that no money had been advanced to him which had not been fully repaid by the complainant's father.

Judge Colt granted a restraining order against Chancellor forbidding him to sell or transfer the notes in the case, and that the notes be deposited with the United States court clerk pending proceedings.

Biddell also asks that a decree be entered declaring the notes to have been obtained through false representation and from a minor, and that therefore they are void and that the notes be cancelled.

Ready For Sentence.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 24.—George O. Tilton, one of the so-called boodle aldermen of this city, who has been a fugitive for many months, returned to his home here last night, he having been released from jail at Salem yesterday. Tilton's brother, Andrew J. Tilton, and George A. Hall, a prominent real estate dealer, furnished the necessary $10,000 bonds. The ex-alderman went to his home on Franklin street as soon as he arrived. He will attend to his business affairs here and will abide by the decision of the court, which will impose sentence on him sometime next month. Since Tilton left here last year he had been staying in Montreal, St. John and other Canadian cities.

Change About of Boston Police.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—A general shaking up in the Boston police department was announced last night by the police commission. Among the most important changes are the promotion of Assistant Chief Inspector Dugan and Lieutenant Hunt to the rank of captain. Captain Hemmenway, who has been in the department for over 30 years, is retired, having reached the age limit. Captain Donovan is assigned to the vacancy. Donovan's place is taken by Captain Dawson, who is replaced by Captain Hunt. In addition to these promotions, one new lieutenancy and two sergeancies were made.

Young Swindler Set at Liberty.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 24.—Chief Child has released Mamie Marchand, who was arrested Saturday for forgery. Although she is less than 15 years of age, it was found that she was a clever writer, and had, by means of checks and an innocent appearance, swindled a large number of business men out of money. In every case she represented that the check came from her employer. Owing to her youth, the state declined to prosecute her.

Contract Labor Case Settled.

CONCORD, N. H., Dec. 24.—Governor Busiel and council yesterday settled the state prison labor case which had been brought before them, by granting the Massachusetts shoe contractors leave to withdraw on their application to secure the contract. The Manchester ministers did not appear to press their malfeasance charges against the police commissioners of that city, and the opinion was general that the case had fallen through.

Cattle Shipments Increasing.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—Shipments of live cattle to Great Britain via Boston will probably be largely increased in the near future. Armour & Co., the largest packers in the world, have commenced to export steers on the hoof, and will probably be numbered among the largest exporters. Their shipments will be largely made from this port, the first lot, 840 steers, going forward on the Cunard steamer Sylvania early in January.

Didn't Suit Boston Aldermen.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—The resolution passed by the common council a its last meeting, congratulating President Cleveland for the dignified, able and patriotic manner in which he treated the Venezuelan matter by sending his message to congress, came up for concurrence before the board of aldermen at its regular session yesterday afternoon and was indefinitely postponed by a strict party vote.

Crook in the Tolls.

BOSTON, Dec. 24. — Among the large number of people who have been arrested for shoplifting during the past few days is William Harris, and the police are now investigating several charges of a more serious nature against him. He is believed to have been connected with several lodging house thefts and burglaries in Lawrence and other places.

Rhode Island Dyers' Difficulties.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 24.—The failure of Whittle, Hanrahan & Co., dyers and bleachers in this city and East Greenwich, is the heaviest in manufacturing circles in this state for many years. The assets amount to $276,825, and the liabilities $315,000. The cause of the failure cannot be stated at present.

New England Briefs.

Captain Averill of Salem, Mass., is dead.

John Davis, 75 years of age, committed suicide at Boston.

Fifty feet more of the temporary bridge between Hartford and East Hartford has been swept away.

The safe in the East Saugus (Mass.) station of the Boston and Maine was blown open and $50 stolen.

The jury in the case of superintendent of schools and master of the Walnut Avenue school in Revere, Mass., were unable to agree.

Recruits are being registered at Boston for the "Monroe League," whose members all have to agree to serve under the national flag in foreign lands.

At a meeting of the Society of Colonial Wars, held at Boston, resolutions deprecating the creation of feelings of hostility toward England were passed.

William Elliott of Springfield, Mass., died of brights disease. He was a lover of good horses, and had at times owned some of the cracks of the trotting track.

A letter has been received at Amesbury, Mass., from Senator Lodge, endorsing the movement to preserve the mansion occupied by John G. Whittier as a memorial to the poet.

George H. Perry was arrested at Bangor, Me., charged with burglary in Burke or Malone, N. Y. He declares his innocence. His reputation has always been above reproach.

The International Trust company of Massachusetts begun suit at Cleveland against the Cleveland, Canton and Southern Railroad company to foreclose the first mortgage, upon which it holds $1,000,000 of bonds.

The New England Jewelry Travelers' association held its sixth annual banquet at Boston last night. Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: E. A. Merrill, president; R. M. Hamilton, vice president; W. C. Wahr, secretary and treasurer.

Bids For Battleships.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The board of naval bureau chiefs, after carefully considering for several weeks the bids submitted for building battleships 5 and 6, have recommended to Secretary Herbert the acceptance of the bid of the Newport News Dry Dock and Shipbuilding company to construct both ships on the plans of the navy department for $2,250,000 for each. In the event that the Union Iron works of San Francisco, the next lowest bidder at $2,740,000, shall scale down their bid so as to leave only a reasonable difference between their figures and the $2,250,000 asked by the Newport News company for one ship, it is recommended that each of these companies be awarded the contract for building one vessel. The secretary still has before him the alternative proposition to ask congress for authority to accept the bids to build six ships of the Kearsarge class, two to go to the Newport News company, two to the Union Iron works and two to the Cramps, on condition that all of the bidders shall meet the figures set by the Newport News company in their bid, namely, $2,250,000 for each ship.

Manitoba's School Question.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 24.—The Manitoba legislature has been dissolved, and an appeal to the country will be made on the school issue. Polling will take place on Jan. 15, and the new house meets Jan. 25. Premier Greenway, in an address on the issue, says: "I assert that our people are perfectly competent to deal with their educational concerns, and I resent the imputation that they have treated any portion of the community with injustice or in a spirit of intolerance. I protest against the proposed action of the Dominion government in inviting parliament to destroy our national school system without investigation and in ignorance of the circumstances."

Two Killed Outright.

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—A frightful dynamite explosion occurred yesterday on a drainage canal, about one mile from the small town of Romeoville. Two men were instantly killed and five fatally, and two severely, injured. The men were preparing a blast with dynamite cartridges, one man holding a drill while another tapped it gently, forcing the dynamite down into the hole prepared by the drill. The two men killed were literally torn to pieces, and the others were shockingly mangled.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

AN UNUSUALLY large number of persons have visited Quincy from Braintree, Weymouth, Milton and other places in this vicinity during the last ten days to purchase their Christmas presents. Many of the stores have been full of customers and the purchasers have gone away delighted. The display of useful and handsome goods suitable for presents has been large, and the prices more reasonable than in Boston. And a much better opportunity to select has been offered.

THE DROWNING ACCIDENT.

How the Young Colton Boy Lost His Life at Quincy Reservoir.

The drowning accident at the reservoir of the Quincy Water department at Braintree, Monday, which was briefly noted in the LEDGER of that date, was a sad affair coming as it did almost on the eve of Christmas, the most joyful season of the year.

Monday morning three boys, Mervin Colton, aged 14 years; John Toner, aged 12 years, and Robert Toner, aged 10 years, were in the woods near the water-shed gathering holly.

They had secured all they desired and shortly before noon started for their homes in Braintree. When they reached Dailey's farm, in order to take a short cut, they started to cross the reservoir on the ice.

All three were together and when about fifty feet from the shore the ice gave way and all three were thrown into the water. The two Toner boys hung on to the floating ice until rescued by workmen from Dailey's farm.

The other boy was unable to do so and after struggling for a few moments sank and was drowned, there being about 9 feet of water at that point.

His body was recovered some three-quarters of an hour later. Although the physicians worked over him for a long time they were unable to resuscitate him.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. R. A. ANNIVERSARY.

The Sixth of John Adams Council of Wollaston.

The John Adams Council, Royal Arcanum, of Wollaston, celebrated the sixth anniversary of its institution, which occurred on the 7th, on Monday evening. The celebration was also observed as the usual ladies' night. There was a large attendance of members, friends of the order and ladies.

The assembly was called to order by Regent John N. Emerson, who, in a few well chosen remarks, sketched the history of the council from the time of its inception by brothers Charles R. Sherman, Charles T. Baker and Watson H. Brasee, its subsequent institution on Dec. 7, 1889, with 36 members, down to the present time.

Interesting remarks upon the purpose and growth of the order were made by Grand Vice Regent C. W. Clark, Grand Orator A. G. Walsh and Orator Robert F. Ross, who also acted as master of ceremonies.

Besides the speaking, Edward W. Emerson, the famous impersonator, assisted by the Cole children, gave one of their inimitable entertainments.

Pilgrim Fathers.

Massachusetts Bay Colony, U. O. of P. F., with invited friends gathered in Music hall, Monday evening to observe Forefathers' day. The hall had been tastefully decorated with flags and bunting and the large stage presented a picture of a forest. This scene was utilized for the very striking tableaux in which Mr. Thomas Clair with Master and Miss Clair represented in faithfully copied costumes the Plymouth Colonists.

During the evening the Pilgrim fare of parched corn was served to all from pewter plates, whose authentic records can be traced back to 1638, when they were owned by Robert Carver of Plymouth Colony. They are now the property of John Carver of Atlantic. The programme was as follows:

Tableau, The Pilgrims at Plymouth.
Welcome address, Gov. Charles R. Safford.
Violin and Piano Selection, Master Frank Curtin and Miss Emma Curtin.
Song by Male Quartette, William Owen, Frank Tilton, Harry Reed, Charles Read.
Recitation, Miss Annie P. Hall,—"The Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers."
Song, Mrs. W. F. Cummings, with violin obligato.
Tableau, The Pilgrims attacked by Indians.
Piano Solo, Mrs. Dr. D. A. Bruce.
Address, Rev. J. Herbert Yeoman,—"Why did they come?"
"America," sung by the audience.

After the exercises, and after the friends had retired, the colony was called to order in due form for the annual election. The following were chosen for the next term of six months:

Governor,—James H. Churchill.
Lieut. Governor,—Harry Read.
Secretary,—Miss Annie Clean.
Treasurer,—Mrs. Fannie Wilde.
Collector,—George H. Sherwin.
Chaplain,—Rev. J. H. Yeoman.
Sergeant at Arms,—Frank Tilton.
Dep. Sergeant at Arms,—Mrs. Louize De Huff.
S. of I. G.,—Frank Allen.
S. of O. G.,—Eben Stocker.
Rep. to Supreme Colony,—Charles R. Safford.
Trustees,—James Curtin, Roger W. Wilde, John Carver.

These officers will be installed the second Monday in January, when the supreme officers will be present.

The Clerkship of House.

At the annual meeting of the Republican Editorial Association, held in Boston, December 11, there was a general discussion of the question of the clerkship of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, and these resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we regard it as a definite and common sense proposition that Republican victories should mean something else than retaining Democrats in office.

Resolved, That we therefore call upon the Republican members of the incoming House of Representatives in this State to cast their vote for and elect a Republican to the clerkship of the House.

Resolved, That the argument that the clerkship of the House is a non-political office, and that therefore the present Democratic incumbent ought not to be disturbed, applies with equal force to the offices of state treasurer, state auditor and secretary of state.

Resolved, That the Republican leader who should advocate in state convention the nomination of a Democrat for state treasurer, state auditor, secretary of state, or attorney general, would be dropped with a dull thud which would cause belief in an earthquake throughout the commonwealth.

Doesn't Fit the Case.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trade in Boston, in commemoration of the John Jay commercial treaty of 1795 with England, our townsman, Dr. William Everett, in an after dinner speech, made a profound impression. An exchange says: "He cut entirely loose from Cleveland, attacking his message, declaring war to be a most infernal idea, and that the Munroe doctrine doesn't fit the Venezuela case at all."

Christmas-Tide.

BY ALEX. M. CRAIG.

Of all seasons and festivals, Christmas is most universally recognized amongst civilized communities. From remote ages it has descended to us, gathering in its progress the hallowing associations of good will and respect. Amid the darkness and gloom of the middle ages, it shines out as the one bright star to mark the glory of the epoch that called it into being.

In all Christian lands men feel themselves peculiarly influenced by the ideas which the season represents. Many an estranged love and forgotten friendship have been resurrected into renewed action by its benignant counsel.

At the Christmas season, what person but feels a keener interest in the welfare and happiness of his fellow beings, looks with more sympathetic tenderness on the struggles and vicissitudes of the unfortunate, and extends with a convivial and lavish hand the gifts or greetings peculiar to the time.

The better favored surely regard with more interest, and bestow more generously on the helpless and the suffering. The humble dwellers in the rustic cabin of the wilderness and the nameless outcasts of the city streets, are knit together by the bonds that mark as brothers all the varied conditions of humanity.

Especially endearing is the Christmas-tide to the family circle, that unit of society upon which the happiness and prosperity of a nation primarily depends. The little children gathering fruit and toys from the Christmas tree, or bending in gleeful happiness over the laden table which loving hands have provided, realize in the highest degree the particular charms of the period.

Even in those households where personal reunion is impossible, where space erects a barrier that Christmas even cannot overcome, the potent power that blends the distant to the near, tends to brighten the memories of the past and renew old-time ties.

The parents, in the old homestead, noting with natural pride the prosperity of their far off children, look back with thankfulness on the years that have gone since infant feet toddled around their knees and infant voices lisped their first numbers, their earliest fears.

The children in town, are drawn by all the endearing claims of love and respect, that the Christmas season inculcates, to the home in which they were reared, and realize in all its plainness the manifold sacrifices the parental care made on their behalf.

The Christmas card that is sent, or the gift that is bestowed costs but little effort by the sender, but eternity alone can reveal, among the myriad joyful effects of Christmas tide, the heartfelt contentment which their receipt gives to the parents. The givers and the receivers are doubly blessed.

Even in homes where a more insurmountable barrier than measured space separates the members, where only a vacant chair serves to remind those remaining of what had been, the Christmas season, fraught with its sacred memories succeeds in knitting in closer unity the survivors and creates among them a fund of common sympathy because of common consciousness in loss.

Labor does not relax its industry at this Christmas season for the mere privilege of indulging in pleasure. There is a higher reason for the almost universal cessation of work and pursuits.

There is a message that comes echoing down the centuries that men must have leisure to ponder. A message laden with the accumulated experience of ages, and glowing with the fervent promise, that some day in the not remote future we may hear above the dying clamor of enmity, and the bitterness of strife the Christmas bells ringing with more than pristine purity. "Peace on earth good will to men." This is the most sublime chorus ever sung by seraphic choir; the sweetest melody the heart of man can conceive.

In it are centred the hopes and aspirations of every longing mind. Round it revolve the struggles of ages and the sincere prayers of countless generations of men. Its peal vibrates through every crevice of history, ringing the knell of baseness and superstition and the more glorious notes that proclaim the advancement of truth, of freedom and fraternal peace.

Scrofula Bunches

Formed on my neck and humor broke out on my face. Sores came on my forehead and caused me much suffering. I took my doctor's prescriptions for the blood and other troubles, without much benefit. The scrofula not improving I resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla upon the recommendation of my friends, and it has effected a permanent cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla has also given me strength and renewed health. I gladly recommend it as an effective blood medicine." MISS CARRIE M. WELLS, Sanbornton, N. H. P. O. address, Laconia.

CITY APPOINTMENTS.

To the Editors of the Ledger:

An editorial in the columns of your paper of December 7, declared that the selection of W. Walter Ewell as Commissioner of Public Works would be the most level-headed appointment that an independent Mayor could possibly make. The article further stated that I am interested in his appointment, which is true.

An effusion appeared in the Advertiser of December 10, beginning with a statement that "the people were astounded when they read the LEDGER," and going on in a long tirade because the LEDGER had had the audacity to allude to such a matter.

If Mr. Ewell had been one of Brother Green's political friends, I suppose that the LEDGER'S declaration would have met with his approval. The editor of the Advertiser reminds me of the ass that donned the lion's skin in order to frighten timid people, but whose long ears and braying quickly revealed his identity and no one was alarmed.

The disguise assumed in the Advertiser editorial was too transparent to deceive trained politicians of either party. I believe that its readers will be quick to observe how ready Mr. Green is to give place to an article favoring the candidacy of Mr. Fallon, one of his own political faith, while he had condemned like action on the part of others.

The suggestion which the LEDGER made was a proper one, and no sensible appointing power would resent a recommendation in favor of one who had proved himself eminently worthy of the position.

As regards the heavy tax-payers of the city, almost the only benefits which they can receive are good roads and fire protection; and in my opinion they have a right to be heard concerning the appointment of an official so important to their interests as the one under consideration. Mr. Ewell may have sometimes erred in judgment during his perplexing administration, but no man that ever held the responsible position of Commissioner of Public Works gave to the people better results for the money expended.

Small politicians almost without number are forcing themselves upon the city as candidates for various places of trust. These men are totally unfit for the positions which they seek. I earnestly hope that influential citizens will endeavor to prevent them from receiving favorable recognition.

There are several of the present city officers who, I trust, will be retained, as I believe they are faithfully serving the municipality. Among these may be mentioned the treasurer, the auditor, the superintendent of cemetery and the chief engineer of the fire department.

One of the most important of the matters which now confront the Mayor-elect is the perfecting of the official machinery for a vigorous enforcement of the liquor laws. If rumor can be relied on, intoxicating liquors are being sold within the city limits, and it is my opinion that certain members of the police force are responsible for this condition of affairs.

In this connection, it is but justice to Mr. Hodges to state that he has done as much toward suppressing illegal liquor selling as any executive since Quincy became a city.

Mr. Adams has an opportunity seldom accorded to a young man. In the late contest for municipal honors he received the support of a large portion of the business men of both parties, and is therefore placed in a very independent position with reference to appointments.

I believe that he will not disappoint those who have reposed confidence in him, but ignoring party lines, will look only to the best interests of the city over whose destinies he has been chosen to preside, and thus maintain the high standard of honor with which the name of Adams has ever been synonymous.

I sincerely hope that the controversy between the Advertiser and the LEDGER will continue, believing that a constant fusilade will evolve something advantageous to the public.

Affairs at a Standstill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Now that congress has acted upon the president's suggestion in authorizing the appointment of the Venezuelan commission to locate the boundary line between British Guiana and Venezuela, and the subject is again one for executive treatment, it is believed that Secretary Olney will formally acknowledge the receipt of Lord Salisbury's two notes, and perhaps take occasion, as a matter of courtesy, to formally advise the British government of the course which this country intends to pursue, supplementing it perhaps by a request to be put in possession of evidence within the control of the British foreign office respecting the boundary line.

Representative Beach (O.) today introduced the following bill, authorizing the President of the United States to call an international conference:

Be it enacted that the President of the United States be, and he hereby is, authorized to invite the governments of the other American republics to appoint plenipotentiaries with full powers to meet in conference in the city of Washington within one year from the approval of this act, for the formal acceptance and declaration of the Monroe doctrine as a principle of international law.

Sect. 2—That any government may appoint as many plenipotentiaries as it may elect, but in the determination of questions before conference no government shall have more than one vote.

Sect. 3—That the president be, and he hereby is, authorized to designate the secretary of state as the plenipotentiary on the part of the United States, and that the sum of $50,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be appropriated out of any moneys in the treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated for the payment of the expenses of said conference, and the same shall be disbursed under the direction of the president in accordance with section 291 of the revised statutes.

END OF STRIKE.

Philadelphia Car Strikers' and Employers' Troubles Settled Satisfactorily.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—The great trolley strike is ended. This is final. John Wanamaker is the man who brought about the settlement, succeeding where all others failed. He was aided in the work by members of the Christian leaugue. The basis of the settlement is as follows:

First—While the Union company will only treat with the workmen in its employ, it will allow them membership in any lawful organization.

Second—It will take up all grievences and give them full and fair consideration.

Third—It will, so far as it has vacant places, immediately put on the old men, and as fast as vacancies arise will give preferences to any of the old men yet unemployed, and endeavor to arrange the trips of the cars to favor the old men as far as possible without violating its contracts with the new men.

The questions of compensation and hours are left for future determination. Concessions were made by both sides. The strikers reported for work this morning.

Exile Stepniak Killed.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—Serglus Stepniak was killed by a passing train while walking over a level railway crossing at Chiswick. He was born in 1841 at Hadjatsch, in the Ukraine mountains, and came of a semi-noble family, descended from the Cossacks of Little Russia. From 1859 to 1863 he was a student at Kieff, and published several works during that time, which were prohibited by the government in 1862. In 1870 he became a professor at the University of Kieff, but was removed from his chair by the government three years later. He was exiled in 1876 on account of his criticism of the system pursued by Count Tolstoi, one of the ministers of justice, and he thereupon settled in Geneva, writing various popular works in the Little Russian dialect.

Large Territory Involved.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Chief Justice Bingham of the district supreme court has rendered a very important decision in the case of the city of Las Vegas, N. M., against the secretary of the interior, holding that 496,446 acres of land, valued at about $4,000,000, mostly occupied by the city, legally belongs to it, and cannot, therefore, be made part of the public lands of the United States. The decision held that the effect of the act of the congres of 1860 was to divest the United States of title to the land, and to invest in the claimants under the grant from Mexico. Assistant Attorney General Brenton gave notice of an appeal to the court of appeals on behalf of the government.

Felters Unshackled.

ATLANTA, Dec. 24.—Trone Wilson, an aged negro convict, who was pardoned from the Georgia penitentiary by Governor Atkinson yesterday, is probably the last slave to receive the benefits of President Lincoln's emancipation proclamation. Wilson was in jail in Liberty county as accessory to a murder when the negro race was set free by the president. He was afterward sent to the penitentiary, and now enjoys the first breath of free air he has ever known.

Clothing Contractors Yielding.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—The tailors are firm, and say they are winning. Meyer Schoenfeld said the situation was practically unchanged, only that seven contractors had repented and signed a substitute agreement with the Brotherhood of Tailors. A resolution was adopted by the ladies' branch pledging support to the tailors, and women pickets were appointed to visit the locked-out shops and prevent, if possible, the employment of non-union tailors.

Killed by Cable Cars.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Henry J. Newton, aged 72, of this city, was knocked down by a cable car yesterday at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-third street, and almost instantly killed. Mr. Newton was president of a bronze powder manufacturing company, with offices in this city and Nyack. He was one of the best known spiritualists in the United States, and was the inventor of the spiritualists' cage and other devices used by spiritualistic mediums.

Must Stand Trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—The steamer Australia brings the following from Honolulu: The trial of Underwood, alias Morrow, and Sheridan, the two alleged conspirators, has been postponed. The government denies the report that the men will be allowed to leave the country without trial. It is claimed a good case can be made out which will implicate several men in San Francisco.

Fifteen Souls Perished.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—A dispatch from Caracas states that the steamship Nansemond, Captain Laksy, from Curico for Maracaibo, was in collision (probably on Dec. 16) with the Spanish steamship Mexico, near the island of Aruba. The Nansemond was sunk. Captain Laksy and 14 persons were drowned. Thirty-five lives were saved by the tug Augusta.

QUINCY DEBATING CLUB.

S. O. Moxon, Esq., Also Endorses the Benefits of Debate.

The following letter is the last of the series—a series which has well carried out its purpose as it has shown how cordially men of experience, men who have made a success in life, endorse the debating club, and how the writers one and all urge the young men of Quincy to join at once.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I have been much interested in several valuable and timely communications which have recently appeared in your columns in support of the Quincy Debating club. The prevailing impression that debate upon any question means long arguments for and against, in which everyone is more or less bored and nothing is decided, will not apply to this case. The voluntary composition of the association and the great variety of subjects which it may properly consider, making it possible to interest members of every temperament.

The ability to deliver an address acceptably is an admirable qualification, and is well and quickly acquired in debate, but the real benefit is to be found in the general experience of those who participate. As one of your contributors so well has it—"It is a place where one learns to give and take." To give hard blows in debate is comparitively easy, but to take hard raps philosophically is not quite so natural and agreeable to the average individual, and consequently must be acquired. In the course of every man's life, whatever his calling, the ability to calmly meet opposition is of great value, indeed I believe that no element in the training of the average citizen needs to be more earnestly cultivated than the disposition to manfully meet opposition, cheerfully accept and acknowledge defeat and modestly carry the honors of victory.

It is not given to every man to be a convincing orator and ready debater and is by no means necessary, but the fair discussion of interesting questions, will surely develop whatever of talent any assembly may possess, and while the decisions arrived at, may, in themselves be inconsequent, the very process by which conclusions are reached, will not fail to impress upon those who participate, the great importance of being well grounded in all the facts pertaining to any project in which they may be engaged.

Does any young man desire to extend his knowledge of parliamentary rules, to accustom himself to publicly address his fellow citizens, to broaden his conception of other men, and to learn the art of appropriating to his own use whatever of good he may observe in his contact with other men. Such a one may very profitably begin in the debating club. It is a powerful educator in the great principles of the equality of men and begets that spirit of tolerance and forbearance which are the characteristics of good citizenship. No young man can afford to let this opportunity pass.

S. O. MOXON.

Few people know that all plants contain digestive principles. They cannot absorb their food until it is digested any more than animals can. The Mount Lebanon Shakers have learned the art of extracting and utilizing these digestive principles, and it is for this reason that their Shaker Digestive Cordial is meeting with such phenomenal success in the treatment of dyspepsia. The Shaker Digestive Cordial not only contains food already digested but it also contains digestive principles which aid the digestion of other foods that may be eaten with it. A single 10 cent sample bottle will be sufficient to demonstrate its value, and we suggest that every suffering dyspeptic make a trial of it. Any druggist can supply it.

DOWN TO HARD WORK.

Republicans Showing Great Activity In Committees' Labor.

Democrats Opposed to Proposed Revenue Bill

Which Will Be Introduced by the Opposition on Thursday Next.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The Republicans of the house, since they are to be deprived of their holiday recess, have determined to proceed with the work of the session, and have other committees improve the time while the ways and means committee are engaged in the preparation of a revenue bill.

Their object is to make this a short session and bring about the final adjournment as early in the summer as practicable. Chairman Cannon of the appropriations committee will get that body at work at once on the first of the appropriations' bills, and hopes to make a good record for finishing business within a reasonable time.

Chairman Hitt of the foreign affairs, which seems likely to be the most important committee of the next congress next to the two mentioned above, says that he will call a meeting for an early day. The Venezuelan-British Guiana boundary question is at present out of the province of the committee, because congress has delegated its consideration to President Cleveland and the commission to be appointed.

So far as known the matter will not come before congress again until the report of that commission is made, or unless the president should call the attention of congress to some new phase of the dispute. But there are several other international questions that the committee will soon have to deal with, and some of them are so conspicuous in interest that its action will prove of great importance.

Foremost among these is the movement by the Cuban insurgents and their American supporters to secure recognition of their status as belligerents. Even if it were disposed to postpone this delicate question, and no such disposition is manifest, it will be difficult to ignore it for several reasons, and a great number of petitions have already been sent to the committee.

Chairman Hitt says that this will be one of the first matters taken up. There is talk that the most feasible plan of dealing with the question would be to appoint a delegation to investigate and report upon the standing of the revolutionists. In addition to Cuba and Venezuela, the Waller case and the alleged attempt of Great Britain to advance its Alaska boundary will have to be considered, because resolutions calling for information have been introduced, and some of these are privileged resolutions, which call for consideration within seven days under the rules.

Dissenting Democrats.

The Democrats of the house will oppose unanimously, so far as can be ascertained, the revenue bill which the Republicans will bring in on Thursday. Both the silver and anti-silver Democrats assert that there is no necessity for an increase in the revenues, as they claim that the available cash in the treasury over and above the gold reserve is amply sufficient to meet any deficiencies that may occur for the next two years.

The gold men would be willing to vote for bonds, preferably gold bonds, to fortify the reserve, but they point out that, in their opinion, no bond bill will meet the situation. The trouble, they declare, is the existence of the greenbacks, which can be used to pump gold out of the treasury, and unless their redemption and retirement is provided for, the gold purchased with bonds would simply be piled up to be drawn out again, and the only practical effect would be to increase the interest-bearing debt without removing the active agent for weakening the reserve.

It is not improbable that some of the Democrats will offer as a substitute a comprehensive plan for the retirement of the greenbacks, including an authorization for an issue of $500,000,000 in bonds for that purpose and the reduction of the tax on national bank circulation and the increase of currency to be issued on deposits of bonds from 90 to 100 per cent. This latter, they say, would increase the national banking system and prevent a contraction of the currency.

The silver Democrats of course are opposed to bonds to increase the gold reserve, and will resist the measure reported by the Republicans, both on that and the tariff grounds. The silver Democrats of the house, after discussing the situation, have about decided to offer as an amendment, or substitute for the bill, a joint resolution making it mandatory on the secretary of the treasury to redeem greenbacks and treasury notes in silver when the gold reserve falls below a certain point. Mr. Bailey of Texas will probably offer the resolution.

Opposed to Bond Measure.

The Republican members of the house from the far west, to the number of 9 or 10, held a conference yesterday, and determined to oppose any bond measure or anything looking to an increase of the indebtedness of the country. They will also support any silver bill, and if the bond bill should be consolidated in one measure they will likely vote against it. The silver strength of the Republicans has not yet been ascertained, but it includes all the states in and west of the Rocky mountains, with supporters in some of the Mississippi valley states.

The banking and currency committee also held a meeting and formulated several requests for information to the comptroller of the currency, to be used in preparation of the currency bill that will be formulated after the holidays. Among the inquiries is one calling on the comptroller of the currency for information as to the relative stability of large and small banks. Mr. Walker, the chairman of the committee, expects the bill reported to follow closely the lines of the bill he offered in the last congress, which provided for an extension of the national banking system and the issue of circulation against deposits of greenbacks.

The house Republicans will introduce on the day after Christmas, and pass within the week, two bills in response to President Cleveland's message of appeal for help for the treasury. One of these two bills will be a tariff bill to increase the revenue; the other, a financial plan to maintain the gold reserve and prevent alleged existing trouble with the greenbacks.

This party plan has been perfected by two meetings of the Republican members of the ways and means committee; the first held Saturday night with the co-operation of Speaker Reed and other leaders; the second, yesterday afternoon. Although strong efforts were made to preserve secrecy concerning the details of the plan its features have been obtained from unquestionable authority.

The tariff bill will be entitled, "A bill to increase the revenues and to prevent deficits in the treasury;" will go into effect when signed by the president, if he signs it, and will remain in effect until Aug. 1, 1898, when by its provisions its operation will cease.

Its items follow: A duty on wool of 60 per cent of the McKinley law rates. A compensatory duty on woolen goods of 60 per cent of the McKinley act rates. A duty of 60 per cent of the rate of 1890 on lumber, which will be from 10 to 15 per cent ad valorem. An increase of 25 per cent from the Wilson-Gorman act rates on cereal breadstuffs, dairy products and livestock, including poultry. A horizontal increase of 15 per cent from the Wilson-Gorman rates on all other schedules, with the provision that in no case shall the duty exceed the McKinley rates, except where the Wilson-Gorman rates exceed those of the McKinley law.

The second bill will provide for two issues of bonds. The first will be an unlimited amount of 3 per cent five-year coin bonds to protect the gold reserve, with the provision that the currency, redeemed by the proceeds, shall not be paid out for current deficits in the revenues, unless the expenses of the government are in excess of the revenues (which, it is expected, they will not be if the first bill is in operation).

In addition the second bill will provide for only 2 per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness, not to exceed $50,000,000 in amount and to be disposed of at the discretion of the secretary of the treasury, to meet current deficits in the revenue. These are to be offered for sale at the subtreasuries and depositories of the government. It is possible also that there may be added to this bill a plan to increase the currency by authorizing national banks to issue circulation to the par value of all the government bonds deposited by them with the government as security for their notes.

Leaders Are Confident.

The leaders are assured that both bills will pass the house without material opposition, and there are strong hopes that the senate will act upon them favorably. Saturday night's meeting showed a general sentiment in favor of incorporating the whole plan into one bill, but reasons were advanced yesterday which led to the division of the tariff and bond schemes.

Among the rank and file of house Republicans there is a movement to hold a caucus Thursday morning to pass upon the bills, but the leaders look upon the caucus with distrust, for there combinations may be formed to change the tariff features, and once the special interests find the doors to tariff changes open, much time is likely to be consumed. To all members who have come to him to secure consideration for the particular interests of their constituents, Chairman Dingley has replied that the bill under consideration is not a tariff bill, but a temporary revenue bill. The same argument has been used in committee with the members who opposed the horizontal raise of 15 per cent, on the ground that it was opposed to the protection theory.

How much debate will be allowed has not been decided, but not more than two days at most is planned. The bills will be laid before the Democratic members of the committee Thursday morning, and be introduced in the house that day with a rule to limit debate and to bring a vote not later than Friday night. On this point the remark is attributed to Speaker Reed, "This house is no debating school and arguments for longer debate will meet with the response that the bills are emergency bills, which should be passed at once if at all.

Smith Got the Decision.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 24.—Billy Murphy of Australia and Solly Smith of Los Angeles fought last night at the arena of the Olympic club. The men were well trained, and fought 14 fairly savage and scientic rounds. Murphy was the cleverer, but he lacked the physique necessary to withstand Smith's rushes and clinches. In the first round Murphy was knocked down, and in the second round Smith was forced to the ground. In the 14th round Murphy was knocked down several times, but seeing that Murphy was beaten the referee separated the men and awarded the fight to Smith. The men are featherweights.

Damaged by Ice.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—The torpedo boat Cushing suffered considerably from contact with ice on her trip from New York to Washington by the inland waterway. In places in the canals and in the Susquehanna river the ice was three inches thick, and in forcing the lightly constructed boat through this ice her thin bow plates were so badly dented as to require several of them to be replaced. The bow frames were also bent and must be straightened.

Couldn't Stand Disgrace.

Getting Ready to Fight.

IN ARMENIA'S BEHALF.

Boston Business Men Take Steps Toward Raising $500,000.

New England Cities Will Be Asked to Co-operate.

Money Will Be Turned Over to Red Cross Society to Distribute.

BOSTON, Dec. 27.—A meeting of representative business men of this city was held last night to consider what measures should be taken to support the American National Red Cross society in its proposed work of taking immediate relief to the Armenians in Turkey. The meeting was called by Hagop Bogigian of the Boston Armenian relief committee. As a result of the meeting, immediate steps will be taken toward raising $500,000. Meetings will be held in this city to further the work, and relief committees will be established in all large New England cities.

Mr. Bogigian presided at the conference last night. In opening, he spoke of his interviews with Secretary Olney and Miss Clara Barton, at Washington, and members of congress. The general opinion was that the Red Cross society was the only available channel of relief.

Jonathan A. Lane said that the work should be initiated on a large scale. The business men of the city, he said, were ready to respond to a citizens' movement.

Rev. E. G. Porter, chairman of the Boston Armenian relief committee, reported that there had already been remitted to Turkey $14,358.81 without any expense. He read a letter from Miss Barton explaining the situation, and also letters from the Armenian relief committees in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other large cities. Mr. Porter exhibited a map of Armenia, showing the sites of 43 massacres in Turkey in red.

Mr. Clement said that the Red Cross needed help at once, and the business men of Boston ought to do all that is asked for.

Deaths From Starvation.

Philip Moen, chairman of the Worcester relief committee, told of the relief work in Worcester, which had the largest Armenian colony in the country. He said that reliable reports from Armenia indicated that there were hundreds of thousands of people destitute and with little to live on until next harvest. He said many were dying from starvation daily, and that the people of Boston should respond generously to the appeal of the committee. The porte, he said, continually sought to offset facts by false and damaging stories about the Armenians. Our people should be on their guard against these stories.

R. H. Stearns thought the appeal should be made at New England business centers. The mayors, he thought, should lead off and the people would follow.

Richard C. Humphreys and Mr. Wilder also made short addresses in favor of doing something immediately.

S. S. Blanchard believed that the committee should issue circulars and acquaint the people with the true state of affairs in Turkey.

J. S. Paine said that the business houses must take the lead, and favored pushing the work right away.

Rev. Arthur Little, D.D., believed in having a committee in every New England city to explain the situation in all its details and urge the people to come to the assistance of the unfortunate people.

Winthrop Martin believed the Boston newspapers would assist the committee in every way possible.

A committee was appointed to wait on the mayor, in company with the relief committee, to make arrangements for a public meeting. The committee will co-operate with similar committees, which, it is expected, will be chosen from business men in other New England cities.

HELD ON SUSPICION.

Thomas Noonan Believed to Know Something About McNally's Death.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 27.—Thomas Noonan, familiarly called "Shiner," is detained by the police while the investigation into the death of James McNally goes on. Medical Examiner Palmer held an autopsy yesterday, and gave an opinion that McNally died of suffocation, the wounds inflicted on his head not being of sufficient severity to produce death. The last blow might have produced brain congestion, which was present in a small degree, but the bruises and cuts were superficial. Suffocation was produced by the position in which McNally was found, his body being jammed against the building while his head was pressed on his breast so tightly that contraction of the respiratory organs and closing of the windpipe followed.

Noonan says he met McNally in a saloon Wednesday afternoon, and invited him to go to the theater in the evening. McNally said he had no money, but accepted the invitation on Noonan offering to buy the tickets. After the theater they walked to a North Main street saloon, and in there Noonan says a smooth-faced young man opened the door and beckoned to McNally. The latter went out immediately, and Noonan, although quickly following, could find no trace of either.

Noonan says he went out to a dance hall and remained until 2 o'clock. McNally had not drank anything during the evening. Noonan saw that a man had been murdered on reading the morning papers, and recognizing the description, went to the morgue and identified the body. Noonan has not yet satisfactorily explained his whereabouts between 10:30 and 12 o'clock, the time of his leaving the theater and arrival at the dance hall.

Proposes to Evict Prisoners.

PARIS, Me., Dec. 27.—There was some excitement here yesterday over a new complication in moving the county seat to South Paris. When workmen were moving the furniture from the old courthouse, Horace M. Cummings forbade the removal of any permanent fixtures, and notified the county commissioners that the prisoners must be removed from the old jail at once, although the new jail is not ready. The deed which gave the land for a county seat contains the proviso that, whenever the buildings cease to be used for court purposes, the land and buildings shall revert to the grantor or his heirs. Mr. Cummings is one of the heirs, and asserts that the property now belongs to the heirs, as courts have ceased here.

Will Resist Payment of Policy.

HARTFORD, Dec. 27.—The Travelers' Insurance company of this city has received a copy of the complaint in the suit of Julia Ging, sister of Catherine Ging, to recover the amount of the accident insurance which was issued in favor of Catherine Ging, and assigned by her to Harry Hayward, who instigated her murder at Minneapolis. The policy was for $3000, and was issued in November, 1894. The company at no time has recognized the validity of the claim as presented, either by Hayward or the Ging estate. It will resist the payment to the last.

Unfit For Occupancy.

BOSTON, Dec. 27.—Professor G. F. Swain reported to the governor and executive council yesterday that the old portion of the state house on Beacon hill is unsafe, and public safety imperatively demands that the interior of the building should be reconstructed without delay. Professor Swain speaks of the building as a fire-trap of the worst kind. The walls have innumerable openings. He is led to the conclusion that it would not be prudent to reconstruct the building as a fire-proof structure, utilizing the present foundations.

No Pardon For Ham.

BOSTON, Dec. 27.—The executive council yesterday formally rejected the application for a pardon for ex-Alderman W. W. Ham of Haverhill, now serving sentence for "boodling." The prisoner claimed he was suffering from consumption, and that his confinement aggravated the disease; but a physician reported to the council that an examination failed to confirm the consumption plea.

May Go on Venezuelan Commission.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—President Cleveland has asked these men to serve on the Venezuelan high commission: Edward J. Phelps of Vermont, ex-minister to England, and Robert T. Lincoln of Illinois, ex-minister to England. The third will not be tendered to anyone until Mr. Phelps and Mr. Lincoln have accepted. The third member is likely to be one of the associate justices of the United States supreme court, probably either Justice Brewer or Justice Brown.

William Orders a Schooner.

GOUBOCK, Scot., Dec. 27.—The Emperor of Germany has ordered a first-class racing schooner of Watson. Henderson will build her, and have her ready for the racing of next year. She will carry an immense rig—20,000 square feet of canvas. The hull dimensions are being kept secret.

'Frisco Firm Shut Out.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Secretary Herbert yesterday formally awarded to the Newport News company of Virginia the contract for building both of the new battleships, for one of which the Union iron works of San Francisco was a competitor.

WILL BE NO WAR.

Would Be a Case of Political Suicide For England to Attempt It.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Professor Rudolph Cronau, the distinguished German geographer and historian, is in Washington as the American representative of the Cologne Gazette. In answer to the question:

"In case war should result between England and the United States, would Germany or any other power support England?"

He said: "Most certainly not. There is a difference between a feeling of sympathy and furnishing soldiers to fight England's battles in this particular case. Germany now shows sympathy with England because it takes all information about the English Venezuelan frontier from English sources only.

"As soon as Germany is aware that England was guilty of foul play with Venezuela I trust to the German love of justice to bring national sympathy wholly on the side of Venezuela. According to its present understanding, Germany has no interest in the Monroe doctrine. Germany has no colonies in America, and never will have.

"But Germany has very extensive commercial interests in America and will not risk them to support England and pull chestnuts out of the fire for that selfish nation. I hardly believe that England will gain the support of any European nation. Austria, Italy, Denmark, Scandinavia, the Netherlands, Belgium and Portugal have no interest to give such support.

"Spain is too weak, and France, the old enemy of England, will not do it, and Russia would be only too glad to see England in trouble, because then might arise the chance for Russia to force a way to the Bosphorus and India. England, through her selfish policy, has today no friends in Europe, and is practically isolated.

"Where could England now find soldiers enough, since the days have passed when she could buy them from German princes? As far as I know the spirit of the American people, they will defend their country to the last drop of blood, and convert every yacht and every schooner into a vessel of war, as they did 100 years ago.

"I think England knows too well the risk of such a fearful war, which might perhaps result in her destruction. England is too smart to commit suicide, and, therefore, I do not believe that there will be war."

THE BOSTON JOURNAL prints a dispatch from Hagerstown, Md., which says that the Christmas sermon of Rev. H. Evan Cotton, formerly of Quincy, created a great stir in his congregation. People of this city know of Mr. Cotton's admiration for President Cleveland for whom he voted twice when in Quincy, and his attack in this instance only illustrates further how the President has shattered the confidence of his supporters in his unwise course.

"Hour by hour," he said, "the President's utterance stands publicly impeached by the honest common sense of the people. Bitter disappointment has come to many who felt that, with his great gifts, he might have lifted the nation to higher, surer planes of action; but he has been dragged from his place as a statesman down to the level of the political leeches that surround him. By one breath of his mouth he threw millions of the people's money in the maelstrom of financial ruin; in another breath he piteously invokes his Congress to avert the crash he has called down upon our heads, and millions of lives are disturbed by the horrible possibilities of cruel war."

COUNCILMAN BRYANT will probably be the next President of the City Council without a contest, as no one else seems to aspire to the position. Mr. Bryant has been amoug the most prominent members on the floor, and next year will be the longest in the term of service. Opposition in his own party because of his course in recent election seems to have subsided. As chairman of the Committee on Streets and a member of the Finance Committee, he has become familiar with the important departments of the city government, and his friendship for Mayor-elect Adams should result this year in harmony between the administrative and executive departments of the city and a business-like progressive administration rather than a political one.

AGAIN RUMOR connects Mr. George G. Saville with the appointment of Commissioner of Public Works. His name has been mentioned in past years, but he has never entered the field as an aspirant for the office. With a Technology training, and practical experience as an engineer, he has many of the qualifications for the position. He is a Quincy boy, and interested in Quincy, and believes in progress. Mr. W. W. Ewell remains the choice of many because of his experience and good record, but if Mayor Adams does not see his way clear to appoint him, they would be pleased to see it Commissioner Saville.

THERE CAN be no doubt that the country now has a hustling Congress, and it is a pleasure to see the promptness with which business is despatched. They did not dilly dally with the Venezuela matter, and now they propose to stop the depletion of the National treasury and stop the accumulation of debt. Only the veto of the President can check the onward march to prosperity, and upon him will then rest the responsibility.

Quincy Debating Club.

The question at the next meeting of the Quincy Debating club will be:—

Resolved,—That the Munroe Doctrine is applicable to the Venezuela Question.

The object is not a discussion of President Cleveland's policy, interesting as that might be, but a debate on the broader and more fundamental questions of—What is the Munroe Doctrine? What is the Venezuela Question? Is the Munroe Doctrine applicable?

The principal disputants will be: For the affirmative,—H. B. Faxon and E. V. Fitts; and for the negative,—A. R. Fitts and Fred Tupper.

Several articles have already been reserved in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., and others will be added. At present the list includes:—The full text of Munroe's message, containing the famous doctrine. The Venezuela Question by W. L. Scruggs, a former U. S. minister to Venezuela in the December Review of Reviews, and also a general summary of the question in the same magazine. ITALIAN BALL.

A Grand Success in Attendance and Also Financially.

The sons and daughters of Sunny Italy turned out in goodly numbers Thursday evening at the fourth annual ball of the Italian Operative of Mutual Relief Society, which was held at St. Mary's hall. This is the representative Italian society and numbers among its members many of our citizens of that nationality. Its object is to extend relief to its members during sickness and also pays to the members of the family of the deceased, $100. Its dues are nominal, yet in the short time during which the society has been organized in Quincy it has accumulated a fund of $2,000 and the ball Thursday evening was to add to this fund.

No expense was spared to make this a success, which it certainly was in every way, being largely attended and having as its guests representatives from many of the local organizations as well as Italian societies from Boston and other places.

Suspended from the centre of the hall were the American and Italian flags, while on the platform was Hobb's orchestra of eight pieces. If anyone loves good music it is the Italians and in this orchestra they had their fill, for the music furnished for the concert and for the dancing was of the highest order.

The dancing commenced at 9 o'clock and continued until 4 o'clock in the morning.

The officers of the society are A. Cappellini, president; P. Giuseppini, vice president; O. Lancisi, corresponding secretary; A. Luppi, financial secretary; and N. Fossati, treasurer.

Simone Vergobbi was floor director, assisted by Pietro Soia, and the reception committee were Pietio Giuseppi, E. Buzzi, Di Marco and G. Berni.

Sabbath Protection.

In connection with the address to be given by the Rev. M. D. Kneeland, D. D., in the Centre Congregational church, next Monday evening, we print extracts from the Declaration of Principles of the League of which he is secretary:

"The New England Sabbath Protective league is formed for the purpose of defending the Sabbath against the persistent encroachments upon its sacredness by business and pleasure.

"While we recognize that the highest purposes for which the Sabbath institution exists can only be promoted by moral suasion, we hold that it is the duty of legislatures, by securing, as far as possible, to all citizens a seventh day free from labor (except works generally acknowledged to be of "necessity and mercy"), to protect men who would otherwise be oppressed and degraded by continuous and unremitting toil.

"Leaving everything which belongs to personal conduct and responsibility, as to this great question, to individuals, * * * * this League aims to defend and secure such legislation as will maintain a proper observance of the Lord's Day and prevent the strong from oppressing the weak, and the immoral from corrupting the young and inexperienced."

The principal officers of the New England Sabbath Protection league, are:

President,—Bishop Randolph S. Foster, D. D., LL. D.

Vice Presidents,—Rev. Reuen Thomas, D. D., Massachnsetts, Hon. Neal Dow, Maine, Ex-Govrenor Carroll S. Page, Vermont, Hon. Thomas B. Stockwell, Rhode Island.

Secretary,—Rev. Martin D. Kneeland, D. D.

Treasurer,—Ezra H. Byington, Newton, Mass.; and the long list of eminent names on the executive committee is headed by Governor Frederic T. Greenhalge, Massachusetts, and includes Governor Urban A. Woodbury Vermont, Senator William P. Frye, Maine, Hon. Elijah A. Morse, Massachusetts, Hon. G. W. Horton, Rhode Island, and other distinguished publicists.

Several representative citizens of Quincy, besides the clergy, have accepted invitations to be present and speak a few words of commendation of this work on Monday vening.

"Fun in a Fog" tonight at Hancock hall.

Meeting of the trustees of the Savings bank tonight.

Who will be the first prisoner to be arraigned in the new court room?

Mr. Howard S. Baker of Billings street with his family spent Christmas in Rockland.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hall entertained a large number of their relatives at their home Christmas.

The many friends of John Cunningham of Atlantic are to give him a complimentary concert and dance at Music hall, Friday evening.

The Ladies' Social Circle of the Methodist church will hold a meeting for work on Thursday afternoon, January 2, at 2 o'clock, with Mrs. R. F. Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McCarthy of Hancock street are mourning the loss of their child. They have the sympathy of all their friends in their bereavement.

Henry H. Faxon presented Clerk Churchill of the District court with one of his famous knives for a Christmas present. Is Henry seeking to bury the hatchet?

Mr. Henry H. Faxon again very kindly remembered the Memorial Congregational Sunday School with a present of cash to purchase supplies for the Christmas festivities. Mr. Faxon has the sincere thanks of all the school for his kindness.

Miss McNeil of West Quincy who has been a teacher at the Quincy school Atlantic, for the past thirteen years, has severed her connection with that school. She has always been held high in the esteem of her pupils and the children all feel sorry to have her leave them.

Presbyterian Christmas.

At the Presbyterian church on Water street the Christmas festival was held at six o'clock on Tuesday. The service was entitled "Joy to the World," and consisted of appropriate scripture readings and recitations about the Christ-child, with Christmas carols. The singing was under the leadership of Mr. George Bowman, and gave evidence of careful drilling. The infant class, which had been trained by Miss Jennie Phillips, gave its part of the exercises delightfully. Each child present received the customary gift of candy and an orange, but what was unusual but most beautiful, the children and others brought articles of food to be distributed by the deacons to the poor, and more than filled three barrels with their gifts. The superintendent, Mr. Alfred Bishop, presided and the pastor gave a short address. The church was beautifully decked with evergreens.

Good Templars Have a Tree.

Merrymount lodge of Good Templars had a jolly time at its meeting Thursday evening, which was a reunion of present and past members. After the business of the evening had been transacted there was a brief entertainment followed by a distribution of presents from the Christmas tree, George Chubbuck officiating as Santa Claus.

The entertainment was as follows:

Remarks, D. G. C. T., Joel T. Watson, Boston.
Song, Miss Belle Fletcher.
Recitation, Miss Margaret Cleverly.
Piano Solo, original, Mrs. G. J. Lawton.
Recitation, J. W. Alexander.
Irish Song, F. E. Lawrence.
Remarks, Alex. Craig.
Song, Mrs. G. J. Lawton.
Piano Solo, original, Mrs. Lawton.

Christmas Gift to Pastor.

A reception was given at the manse on Christmas night by the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Westly Peach to their friends. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed. Ice cream and cake were served by Mrs. Peach, assisted by Miss Bessie McMillan, Miss Marjorie McKay, Miss Lizzie Gordon, Miss Jennie McDonald and Miss Maggie Chisholm. During the evening the ladies of the church presented Mr. and Mrs. Peach with three handsome parlor chairs. Mrs. Geo. O. Shirley read the presentation speech. Mr. Peach feelingly responded on behalf of himself and Mrs. Peach, thanking the ladies for their kind remembrance.

Although Rev. Mr. Peach has been but a year pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Quincy he and his esteemed wife have endeared themselves to the hearts of all who know them by kindly sympathy and their faithful and untiring work among the people.

Christmas at Wollaston M. E.

A large audience was present at the Christmas concert by the Methodist Sunday School, Wollaston, last Sunday evening. All the parts were finely rendered. The thanks of the audience are due Mr. Chritchley for his splendid performance on the cornet.

The annual Christmas tree festival was held at the Methodist Episcopal church on Wednesday evening at 6 30 o'clock. The exercises began with "shadow pictures" showing Santa Claus in his workshop, testing his toys to see if they were in suitable condition for distribution among the boys and girls. This exercise greatly delighted the little people. This was followed by tableaux, in which Santa Claus was just entering a room where a little girl was asleep. He then with his assistants distributed the presents on the Christmas tree among the expectant children and others in the audience.

MILTON.

East Milton people are complaining that a number of Christmas gifts received through the mails were broken which they claim is due to the way in which the mail bags are handled. The gate tender at the depot whose duty it is to deliver the mail shirks his duty it is claimed, and gives the bag to any boys who happen to be about to deliver. These boys pull and drag the bag along the street and when the door of the post office is reached give it a throw which would naturally tend to smash any breakable articles.

A number of the friends of Mrs. Thomas Hope gave her a surprise party Wednesday evening and presented her with a handsome banquet lamp. A grand good time was enjoyed.

Workmen are putting in a drain to free the cellar of the Baptist church from water.

John Curtis, 2d, of Quincy, who purchased the grocery business of the late L. C. Barnes, has assumed charge of the store. All the former employes have been retained.

The Baptist Sunday School will hold a concert Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The pupils of the East school had a Christmas tree and festival Tuesday.

Rev. M. Angelo Dougherty of Cambridge will preach at the White church, Sunday morning. In the evening there will be a Christmas concert by the Sunday school.

There was a hot game of foot ball here Christmas morning between the East Miltons and Mellen Bray team, which resulted in a victory for the home team by a score of 10 to 0. Brackett of the East Milton team covered himself with glory by several brilliant plays.

Joseph Pearce is to open a cash grocery in the building on the corner of Adams and Granite streets.

The annual ball of the Milton Fireman's Relief association will be held Friday evening, Jan. 17.

The third of the subscription parties will be held in Elisworth hall, Friday evening, Jan. 10.

John McDermott was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday.

Jeremiah L. Cullinan was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued one week.

Rich who was a little out, said he belonged in Boston and when asked by the court where he was going when he got out, replied to Boston. Go ahead now said His Honor and as Rich disappeared through the door he shouted back: "Good bye all, wish you good luck."

George Curley and Henry Griffin of Weymouth were arraigned upon three complaints charging them disturbing the peace, evading fare on the Braintree & Weymouth street railway and for attempting highway robbery upon Justin A. Carver. They were fined $8 each for evading fare, discharged on the disturbing the peace complaint, and the complaint for attempt at highway robbery was continued.

DINGLEY'S TARIFF BILL

Pushed Through the House Without a Sign of Delay.

The Senate, However, Likely to Kill It.

Another Issue of Bonds Probable, Without Waiting For Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Finance has taken the place of war. The country is about to see a test of the strength of the administration's policies in the two houses of congress, and possibly the executive may have a chance to express his opinion on congressional policies.

The house yesterday responded to the appeal of the president by passing a tariff bill, the operation of which is limited to 2½ years, and which is designed to raise $40,000,000 for the relief of the treasury. The bond bill will be passed today.

The vote yesterday was on party lines, with two exceptions. The Republicans all voted for the bill, except Hartman (Mon.), who did not vote, and the Democrats and Populists against it, save Newlands (Pop., Nev.), who voted in favor of the measure. The especial order under which the bill was brought to a vote at 5 o'clock last evening, after 3½ hours of debate, was ironclad in its character, and compelled the members to adopt or reject it without opportunity of offering amendments of any kind.

Although there was the brilliant setting that usually accompanies a field day in the house, the debate lacked much of the spirit and vim which generally characterize a partisan battle in the lower branch of congress. Even the preliminary skirmish over the adoption of the rule, which ordinarily is the subject of fierce wrangling, passed off quietly. The debate itself was participated in by the leaders on both sides.

The final vote on the passage of the tariff bill was much confused, and individual counts do not tally with the official record. The vote as it appears today in the Congressional Record shows the yeas, 227; nays, 81. The only divergence from party lines was as follows: Baker (Kan.), Bell (Colo.), Kem (Neb.) and Stroud (N. C.), all Populists, voted against the bill. Hall (Mo.) and Spencer (Miss.), Democrats, voted for the bill, as well as Howard (Ala.) and Skinner (N. C.), Populists, and Newland (Nev.), silver men. The record has 47 members not voting.

Its Fate Uncertain.

What the senate will do with the tariff bill is a matter of great conjecture. The Republicans will need a few Populist votes to get it through, but as most of the third party people want a tax on wool, their support may be obtained for the whole measure. On the other hand, it is asserted in some quarters that the Populists will attach a free silver clause to any such measure, and the situation may be summarized by saying that nobody knows what the senate will do.

With neither of the two great parties having a majority, and with such a decisive silver lead, little in the way of straightforward legislation can be expected. Congressman Cannon of Illinois well epitomized the situation when he said: "We can do anything in the house, because it has just come from the people. It is sound on the money question, and it has the capacity for legislation, but the senate," he goes on to declare, "is neither fish, flesh nor fowl, nor good red herring."

One member of the house well summarized the three legislative proposals most prominently mentioned in these words: "There is the tariff bill, which the president will not sign; the bond bill, which will be but a slight improvement over the power he already has, and the certificates of indebtedness to cover current deficiencies, the very existence of which the president has so far declaimed."

Another Issue of Bonds

Under the old provisions is very likely. While it would be courteous, as has been suggested in the press dispatches, for the president to wait and see what congress is willing to do on the bond question, the state of the treasury reserve will permit little delay, and the word senate has become a popular synonym for exasperating and needless delay.

The president and Secretary Carlisle have plans all arranged for another issue of bonds, and it will be delayed only long enough to see whether there is any chance of prompt congressional action. The issue of $50,000,000 more of bonds will by no means make the suggestions for treasury relief a dead letter. Congress may well go ahead and determine what it is willing the administration should do the next time it needs money. Fifty millions will not last long in the present condition of our financial system and the current revenue deficit.

But that the president will wait for congress this time seems unlikely. J. P. Morgan was in Washington Tuesday and in conference with the treasury officials. So was Francis L. Stetson, of the firm of Stetson, Tracy, Jennings & Russell, with whom Mr. Cleveland had his law office during the period from '89 to '93. Mr. Stetson was the attorney for the syndicate in the last bond issue, and his presence in town at this time not unreasonably gives credence to the idea that there is a bond issue in the air, and not very far up in the clouds either.

Opposition to Bond Bill.

Republican members of the house who are opposed to the bond bill to be voted on today met in caucus last night at the Ebbitt House to mature plans for opposition. Forty members, representing 23 states, were present. While the western and southern states were mostly largely in attendance, there were also members from the east and north. It was claimed by the leaders that not more than half of the Republicans who antagonize the bond bill attended the caucus, and that they have enough votes to defeat the bill unless it is modified.

Johnson (Cal.) called the caucus to order. Broderick (Kan.) was elected chairman, and Colson (Ky.) secretary. The caucus chose a committee of seven, consisting of the following members, and instructed them to confer with the speaker: Broderick (Kan.), Baker (N. H.), Bowers (Cal.), Cannon (U. T.), Pickler (S. D.), Milne (Mich.), Burton (Mo.). Barrets (Mass.) and Foote (N. Y.) were among the eastern Republicans who spoke, but thsy did not commit themselves to the plans of the caucus.

No Business Next Week.

After the second revenue bill has been disposed of, the house will do little business until Jan. 6, and will practically have its holiday recess, of which it has partly been deprived, next week. It cannot well adjourn for more than three days, under the rules, while the senate is in session, but it was decided at the meeting of the committee on rules yesterday that there will be formal meetings every third day, with adjournments over, and that no important business will be brought forward on the floor. Under these conditions there is little probability that there will be a quorum of representatives in town next week.

Pleaders In Evidence.

Despite the small chance that a tariff measure now passed has of becoming law, the city is rapidly filling up with the representatives of the special interests who want to be remembered even in this provisional measure. The ways and means committee have served notice upon these representatives that they have no time to listen to their familiar tales, and even Judge Lawrence of Ohio, whose devotion to the wool tariff never flags, was denied an opportunity to present his case.

Speaker Reed is reported to have said to a caller who was insisting upon his support for certain tariff changes that the present bill was for revenue and not for protection; that the country had no time for an exhaustive consideration of the whole field of protective industries, and that an immediate improvement in revenue was all that could be attended to.

Senator Smith (N. J.), a protectionist, has given the representatives of the pottery interests of his state, now in the city, to understand that if the house was unwilling to hear their plea, it was not unlikely that the senate could be induced to put on in the form of an amendment such legislative favors as that industry desired.

Heirs Not Satisfied.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—David McClure, the appraiser appointed in the taxation of the Jay Gould estate, has filed a second report. The total amount of the property taxable is, Mr. McClure finds, $75,615,473.08. Deducting the expenses of the settlement of the estate and the legacies and annuities, the value of the residuary estate is placed at $72,453,960. A life estate in trust of one-sixth of the residuary estate is left to each of the six children of the testator. Both sides are dissatisfied with the appraisement, and it is believed that the case will ultimately be taken to the court of appeals.

A Quadruple Alliance.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—The Daily News publishes a dispatch from Viennia stating that Lord Salisbury is negotiating with France and Holland, with a view to adopting common action against the policy of President Cleveland. Spain, the dispatch adds, has already assured Great Britain of her agreement with the latter on the question. It is believed that Great Britain, France, Holland and Spain will form a quadruple alliance to protect their American possessions against the United States.

Conducted Secretly.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Lord Dunraven and his companions, George R. Asquith and Commodore Glennie, arrived here yesterday. Today they appeared before the first hearing of the committee appointed by the New York Yacht club to investigate the charges brought to the attention of the club by C. O. Iselin. The hearing will be private, as far as it is possible for the club members to make it. There is a general express of disgust here over the action of the club in this respect.

The Tailors' Wage War.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The tailors' strike situation remains unchanged. Arrangements are being made for fitting up shops where union men will be employed and union wages will be paid. In some of the details proposed the plan is co-operative, but the strike leaders express their confidence in their ability to conduct matters on a sound financial basis. They are confident that this will bring the "bosses" to terms and prevent for all time the return to the sweat shops.

Fire Loss of $300,000.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 27.—The building at 5 and 7 West Baltimore street, occupied by the firm of Oehm & Co. as a clothing store, was totally destroyed by fire shortly after midnight. The adjoining buildings, also occupied by Oehm & Co., were badly damaged by water. Loss on stock is placed at $200,000, and on the buildings at $100,000. The fire is supposed to have originated from the electric light wires.

Lynching In Prospect.

CHATTANOOGA, Dec. 27.—William Bartow, a white man, 22 years of age, was arrested yesterday for outraging Doshia Purdy, a white girl, aged 6 years, who is now in the hospital, and who is expected to die. The girl's mother is also in jail, as an accessory to the crime. The news of the fiendish act has not yet become generally known here, but when it does a lynching is not improbable.

Trial Begins Jan. 10.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—A board was appointed yesterday for the trial of Captain Healy, until recently in command of the revenue cutter Bear of the Behring sea patrol fleet, on charges of drunkenness, conduct unbefitting an officer in the revenue cutter service, etc., which were preferred against him by officers of the fleet. The board will convene at San Francisco on Jan. 10.

College Boys Won.

MEMPHIS, Dec. 27.—A most unique game of football was played here yesterday afternoon between a picked eleven of Princeton and Yale universities and the Memphis Athletic club. The 'varsity men won the game easily by a score of 38 to 0. The first half was called with the score standing 22 to 0 against the Memphis men. In the second half the mixed team had everything its own way.

MARCH OF INSURGENTS

Bringing Them Nearer and Nearer to the Capital of Cuba.

Said to Be Fully Supplied With Ammunition.

Both Sides Realize That the Crisis Is Now Close at Hand.

HABANA, Dec. 27.—The last news of the movements of the Spanish columns was that they were heading for Guanabana, the last headquarters evacuated by Campos, situated not far from Matanzas.

The fact is that so many announcements of the defeat and retreat of the insurgents have been made that it will require strong confirmation to make anyone believe that such is an actual fact. When the insurgents first entered the province of Santa Clara, it was announced that they had been defeated with great loss and had retreated across the border. But the next news received from the frontier was that the Cuban army were threatening Placetas, more than half way between the border and the capital of Santa Clara, and since then they have apparently pushed onward with little or no interruption.

On the other hand, Campos has actually retreated from Santa Clara to Cienfuegos, Palmillas, Colon, Jovellanos, Limonare, Guanabana, Matanzas, and, finally, to Habana. There is no denying this, for Campos is now in Habana.

The absence of news of the movements of the insurgents is causing some anxiety among their friends here, but they claim Gomez and Maceo are in possession of the railroad and telegraph wires, and that it was with difficulty that Campos succeeded in reaching Habana Christmas night. Be that as it may, the only news obtainable is that furnished by rumor, and if the authorities are in possession of any additional facts, all such matter is carefully suppressed.

In the meantime, active preparations are being made here for the defense of the city, and for forwarding to the front all the troops which can be spared. It is understood that the Spanish columns in the rear of the insurgent army have been ordered to concentrate about the frontier of Matanzas, and that every effort is to be made to prevent the retreat of the Cubans into Santa Clara.

While these preparations are being made to apparently stop the insurgents from escaping back into Santa Clara, the land fortifications of Habana are receiving attentions day and night. A number of additional earthworks have been thrown up during the last month, also, and these are being hastily completed and supplied with guns as rapidly as possible. The magazines are being plentifully supplied with ammunition, and the outposts of the Spanish troops around Habana are being strengthened and more securely fortified.

There is an air of hurry and anxiety about the different headquarters here which does not seem to indicate that the supreme authorities are in any way satisfied that the insurgents are retreating, and if military activity goes for anything, the most determined efforts are being made to prevent a surprise.

The insurgents, when last heard from, were well to the westward of Matanzas, and threatening to capture the railroad lines. Shortly afterward, all news from the front was suddenly shut off, and a few hours later Campos arrived here, after having been driven from town to town by

The Victorious Insurgents.

There is considerable speculation here as to the actual number of men under the command of Gomez and Maceo. The highest estimates have it that the Cuban army numbers 12,000 men, while the lowest number of followers of the insurgent leaders are credited with having under their command is 6000.

It is to be presumed, however, that Gomez and Maceo may have 10,000 men with them, as they are known to have been joined by large numbers of adherents since they entered the province of Matanzas. The insurgents have also been plentifully supplied with ammunition, said to have been stored for their use at different points and accumulated and hidden for months past.

In order to enable as many troops as possible to be sent to the front, all the marines and sailors who could be spared from the Spanish fleet have been landed, and the former are now doing duty as artillery men wherever their services are needed. All the volunteers available are under arms, and every male inhabitant capable of doing active service or of finding somebody else to do it for him has been or is being called on to bear arms.

A conservative estimate of the force at the disposal here of General Campos has been made and it is estimated that he has 20,000 regulars and about 40,000 volunteers with which to meet the insurgent army. But the Spanish regulars and volunteers are scattered over a large expanse of forts and fortifications, composing the defenses of Habana, and when the brilliant achievement of Gomez and Maceo in passing through the many Spanish columns, said to number from 40,000 to 80,000 men, in the provinces of Santa Clara and Matanzas, is taken into consideration, there is some justification for the belief of the friends of the insurgent cause that it will not be long before Gomez and Maceo are outside of Habana. This, however, is ridiculed by the Spanish authorities here.

News From the Front

seems to be interrupted by both rail and telegraph, for, in any case, no information is obtainable concerning the movements of the insurgents.

This was the state of affairs late yesterday afternoon, and although General Campos upon his arrival here announced that the Spanish troops in Matanzas occupied advantageous positions, and that the Cubans would either be compelled to fight a pitched battle in that province or surrender, it is not generally believed here that the march of Gomez and Maceo upon Habana has really been completely stopped, and that they are in retreat.

In support of this it is said that if Gomez and Maceo were really retreating, the government would not be slow in making public every item of news obtainable concerning this feature of the hitherto triumphant march of the insurgents from the province of Puerto Principe, through the province of Santa Clara, into the province of Habana, in spite of the numerous columns of Spanish troops in the territory traversed.

The last news of the movements of the Spanish columns was that they were heading for Guanabana, the last headquarters evacuated by Campos, situated not far from Matanzas.

NAPOLEON,
ONCE ASKED FOR AN OPINION,

Gives a Graphic Description of His Ideal Woman. Mothers Please Note.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

In response to a question asked by a lady, the great Napoleon replied, —

"My ideal woman is not the beautiful-featured society belle, whose physician tries in vain to keep her in repair, nor the fragile butterfly of fashion, who gilds the tortures of disease with a forced smile.

"No! my ideal is a woman who has accepted her being as a sacred trust, and who obeys the laws of nature for the preservation of her body and soul.

"Do you know, my knee involuntarily bends in homage when I meet the matron who reaches middle age in complete preservation.

"That woman is rendered beautiful by perfect health, and the stalwart children by her side are her reward. That's my ideal woman."

To grow to ideal womanhood the girlhood should be carefully guarded.

Mothers owe a duty to their daughters that in too many cases is neglected.

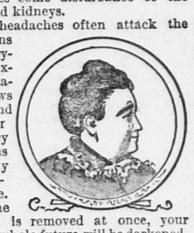

Nature has provided a time for purification; and if the channels are obstructed the entire system is poisoned, and misery comes.

At a mothers' meeting the wife of a noted New York divine said to her listeners: "Watch carefully your daughters' physical development.

"Mothers should see that Nature is assisted, if necessary, to perform its office, and keep their daughters well informed as to matters concerning themselves."

Irregularities, from whatever cause, are sure indications of organic trouble. With irregularities come disturbance of the stomach and kidneys.

Violent headaches often attack the victim; pains shoot everywhere. Extreme irritability follows quickly, and then utter despondency overwhelms the already over-burdened life. Unless the obstruction is removed at once, your daughter's whole future will be darkened.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will accomplish the work speedily. It is the most effective remedy for irregular or suspended action known.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 29. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—How next year may be made better than this has been.—Phil. iii, 7-14.

The close of a year is a good time for looking both backward and forward. It is practically universally considered so, for at the close of each year the majority of people take a glance at the year just gone and a look into the year to come, with the intention if possible to make the new an improvement upon the old. Such a time is very appropriate for such a retrospective, and though in some cases great good may not be accomplished by it, yet it is not to be despised, for in many instances much lasting benefit is the result.

There is always room for improvement. Each new year could easily be an improvement upon the past if we went about it in the right way. No Christian can reach a point where he cannot improve. Paul was never satisfied with his attainments, but anxiously desired to improve, and if we follow his example we may make the new year better than the past year.

In his endeavors to improve, Paul placed a high ideal of attainment before him. He aimed to be found in Christ, not having his own righteousness, but Christ's, and that he might know Christ, and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings. He placed "the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" as the mark before him. His ideal was to be nearer to Christ and more like Christ. This should be the aim of every Christian, and there is room for advancement toward it.

Paul, in endeavoring to improve, realized his lack of perfection. "Not as if I had attained," he says, "but I follow after if that I may apprehend that for which also I am apprehended of Christ Jesus." To improve we must first realize our need of improvement. We must disabuse ourselves of the false idea that we have about reached perfection and that there is nothing beyond for us in Christian character, in Christian experience. This should not be a difficult matter. If Paul was not satisfied, it is presumptuous for us to be. Let us study our weaknesses. Let us learn our defects and faults, and we will see in what and how we may improve.

Paul, in endeavoring to improve, put forth earnest effort. "I press toward the mark," he says, using the figure of the runner putting forth every effort to reach the goal before him. Improvement can only come through earnest, constant, consecrated effort. Let us press forward that we may come nearer to Christ and be more like Him.

Recent Religious Statistics.

Religious statistics just announced show an interesting comparison of the relative strength of the different denominations in this country. About one-third of the whole population are communicants of some church. Of these nearly one-third are Catholics, about two-fifths either Baptists or Methodists, about one-eighth Presbyterians or Lutherans and about 1 in 40 Episcopalians. The Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians are strongest in the country districts, the Catholics and Episcopalians in the cities.—Philadelphia Press.

The Consecration Meeting.

The freshest and most sacred of all a society's services should be the monthly consecration meeting. It is an ominous sign when this gets into any sort of a "rut," for at the consecration meeting the personal relation between each member and the Master is revealed.—Golden Rule.

Read His Book.

An author does not care for your compliments if you have not read his book. And yet some people imagine that if they will say nice things about the Bible the Lord will excuse them from reading it.—Bible Reader.

Like Godliness.

Some things look like godliness, but upon examination have only its form. They are without its life and power. "Be ye filled with the Spirit."—Philadelphia Methodist.

Endeavor Pickings.

The Christian Endeavor bird? The humming bird. It makes things hum!

If you have in your society a good information committee, you are not one society, but two.

If you do your Christian Endeavor work to be seen of men, the eye of heaven will be closed upon it.

The Floating society is getting a foothold in Great Britain, one having been formed in Liverpool, and the movement is extending among the seaports of Wales.

Dr. Bevan's church of Melbourne has been compelled, on account of its size, to divide its Christian Endeavor society. This is the first case of the kind in the island continent.

My Island Home.

I cannot tell how far my boat
May sail on life's rough seas
Before it shall so gently float
In the soft island breeze
Before its keel grates on the sand
Where beckons many an angel hand.

I know not through what storms and calms
My shattered bark may sail
Before I sight the feathery palms
Where never ocean gale
Breaks on the shore with sob and moan
Of the beloved island home.

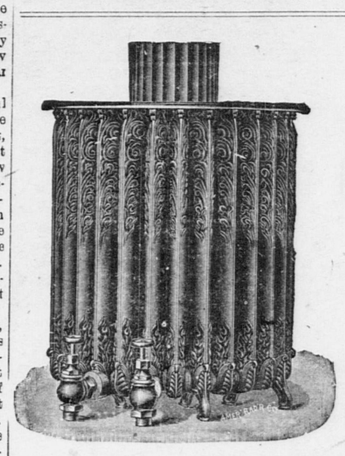

Speed on, speed on, oh, ship at sea,
Over the crested waves
And bring that peaceful isle to me
Where balmy sea wind laves
The fevered brow with its soft kiss,
Filling the earth worn soul with bliss.

A SCRAMBLE FOR LIFE.

Two Dozen Persons Killed In a Needless Panic In a Theater.

Exits of Building Were Entirely Inadequate.

Terror-Stricken Multitude In an Awful Mass on Stair Landing.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28.—In a senseless panic, caused by a defective gas burner and a foolish cry of fire, at the old Front Street theater, last night, 24 people were killed, two fatally injured and 10 more seriously hurt.

The United Oriental opera and dramatic company of Boston, under the management of A. Schongold and Abram Tansman were billed to present the Hebrew opera "Alexander," and the theater was filled with a motley throng. About 3000 persons were in the house when the orchestra began playing the introductory.

Ten minutes after the curtain rose, one of the attendants went up to the second tier to light a gas-jet, which appeared to have been extinguished. As he turned the cock and applied a match, the light flared up, and it was seen that there was no tip to the burner. The jet was well down toward the stage, on the left side of the house, in plain view of the greater part of the audience, but as the glare from it showed against the wall, someone in the gallery shouted "Fire! Fire! Fire."

In an instant there was a mad scramble for the door, in which the whole audience took part. The vanguard of the terror-stricken multitude reached the entrance on Front street, pushed on by the howling, shrieking mob behind them. Those in the foremost rank were compelled to turn to the right and to the left to reach the double entrance way, built in the form of storm doors.

Passing through these doors, they reached a flight of steps, leading from each door, downward to a landing from whence a broad stairway of moderate height would have carried them into the street, and to safety. The steps leading to the doorway are about five feet high, but the landing at their base is narrow.

Down these the frightened people hurled themselves in the frightful struggle to reach the open air and to escape the certain death they thought was behind them. As the crowds from the two doors—one on the right, the other on the left—reached the landing, they met. There was a brief struggle, and then some one lost his or her footing and fell.

A Scene of Terror.

In a moment the crowd, pushed with irresistible force from the rear, crowded upon the prostrate form and began, in turn, to stumble, reel and presently to fall prone upon the floor under the myriads of feet coming like a herd of frightened buffalo from behind. In less time than it takes to tell it, the landing was packed 20 or 30 deep with the panic-stricken multitude, and the hundreds behind them were struggling over them to reach the street.

The tumult attracted an immense crowd from the outside, many of whom tried to gain entrance to the theater, thus adding to the confusion. A dozen policemen, also attracted by the shrieks of the frightened crowd, hurried to the scene, and, using their clubs on those outside, rushed through the doorway to the writhing mass on the landing.

The officers dragged out the prostrate ones, passing them to those on the sidewalk. Ambulances carried the dead to the morgue and the wounded to the city hospital, wherever practicable, but in many cases the more slightly injured, and in a few cases those who were badly hurt, were taken to their homes by friends.

When the mass on the landing had been cleared away, the frightened mob inside were quieted down sufficiently to enable the police to clear the theater, when it was found that there had been no danger, and not a soul would have been injured had the audience but remained seated.

Nine bodies were taken to the morgue, all of them dead from suffocation. Of those taken to the city hospital, 15 are dead. Two more will die, and 10 are desperately hurt. The dead are of all ages, from mere infants to gray-haired men and women. All were killed or injured in the terrific crush on the fatal landing, not a casualty having happened inside the house, although the crush there was tremendous.

The Front Street theater is an old, tumble-down affair, on the west side of Front street, between Gay and Low streets. It has not been used for theatrical purposes for several years, but has recently been the scene of many glove contests under the auspices of the Eureka Athletic club. The means of egress were confined to the two narrow doorways opening upon the stairways leading down to the narrow landing upon which last night's tragedy occurred, and the house has long been considered too unsafe to be put to public use.

CUBAN STRIFE.

Insurgents Reported to Have Turned Their Backs Upon Habana.

HABANA, Dec. 28.—News of small engagements and movements of the troops and many more rumors of unauthenticated reports arrived here continually throughout yesterday, all accompanied by the general claim that the insurgents were in retreat, and that the raid into Matanzas was ended. No reliable estimate could be made of the real position of the insurgents or the numbers and force which they mustered in any one place.

Their movements could only be surmised from the reported movements of the Spanish forces and their encounters with forces of the insurgents, which do not appear to have been in great numbers in any of these encounters.

The official reports, or that portion of them which is allowed to gain publicity, give the impression that the insurgents are no longer making any aggressive movement toward Habana, but are striving by every means to effect a retreat back into Santa Clara, while the Spanish forces are reported to be putting forth every effort to secure a battle with a large body of the insurgents and to cut off their retreat.

While the official reports state that Quintin Bandera, the commander of the northernmost column of the insurgents, is retreating, the points named as being occupied by him do not indicate any marked change from his position of yesterday morning. For instance, an official report states that Bandera has retreated from Guamacaro, which is several miles north of and nearer Matanzas than Sumidero, where Bandera was reported yesterday morning.

Late reports would indicate that a portion, at least, of Gomez's column had crossed the line back into Santa Clara and is now near the Cienega Oriental de Zapata, the great swamp land in the southern part of Santa Clara province.

Gomez's force was reported yesterday afternoon to have left Jaguay Grande, where he was in the morning, and to have gone by way of Entrada toward Cienfuegos in Santa Clara.

If that report be true, it by no means necessarily follows that the insurgents have determined to evacuate Matanzas province immediately. Bandera and Maceo in the north seem to be holding their own against the Spanish forces. The fact that Gomez has not been repulsed in any serious engagement and is not being driven by any pursuing force would indicate that his movement is a strategic one.

It is probably designed to hold a safe line in retreat for the columns of Bandera and Maceo, should that become necessary, while those leaders continue their apparently erratic but always destructive course from one unexpected point to another, continuing the ravaging of the province of Matanzas, which was the object of the whole movement.

A report is in circulation here that the mayor of Macurijes, his family, including the ladies, and everyone of his household, have been murdered by the insurgents. The same fate is said to have overtaken the mayor of La Giura. These towns were on the course of Gomez's line of march.

It is also reported that General Prat had an engagement with the insurgents yesterday at Recreo, which is several miles east of Maceo's position at Cimarrones. The insurgent loss is said to have been five killed, eight prisoners and the wounded unknown.

Will Be Named Kentucky.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The twin sister of the new battleship Kearsarge has been named by Secretary Herbert after the state of Kentucky. As congress had anticipated the selection of a name in the case of the Kearsarge, it was believed to be better to name her sister ship at once, instead of allowing her to be known for the three years she will be under contract as battleship No. 6. Excepting the Kearsarge, especially named by congress, of the five first class battleships built or authorized, New England stands sponsor for one, the Massachusetts; the middle west two, the Indiana and the Iowa; the Pacific coast one, the Oregon, and the south one, the Kentucky.

Escaped With Their Lives.

HALIFAX, Dec. 28.—Twenty-three men, crews of the American fishing schooners Jennie Seaverns, Hattie D. Linnell, Mabel R. Bennett and S. P. Willard, which were driven ashore at St. Pierre, Miq., about a fortnight ago, arrived here last night on their way home to Gloucester, Mass. On the 11th inst. the schooners went into St. Pierre for shelter from a storm then threatening. By midnight it was blowing with terrific force, and the schooners pitched and rolled in a dangerous manner in the heavy seas and subsequently drifted ashore. The captains of the schooners remained at St. Pierre. The men left for Boston by train today.

HEADED FOR CANADA.

Gustave Ganlin Has Fled With a Young Lowell Girl.

He Got a Forged Check Cashed In Nashua.

Father Endeavored to Save His Erring Son From Punishment.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 28.—Nashua has a sensation in the shape of a young man who passed forged checks, and who wound up his career in this section by running off with a girl from Lowell, Mass., of a very respectable family.

The young man arrived here during the early part of December. He was quite stylish appearing, formed many acquaintances, spent money freely and seemed to have considerable means behind him. He gave his name as Gustave Ganlin and his residence as Woonsocket, R. I.

On Dec. 12 he went to the Security Trust company and presented a check for $250, purporting to be signed by Alexander Ganlin and drawn on the Providence National bank. Treasurer Sargent did not know the young man and was

A Bit Shy of Him.

The young man said his father was worth $50,000 to $75,000, and was in business in Woonsocket, R. I. That was all right, but Treasurer Sargent thought best to be sure, and wanted the young man identified. So the latter went out and returned with Charles Duhamel, a merchant doing business on Palm street.

Mr. Duhamel was a distant relative of the young man, and had also been bookkeeper for his father in Woonsocket. He supposed the check was all right, and went to the bank. He even had faith enough in the young man to endorse the check. The young man soon after went to Lowell.

On the 21st of the month the check was returned from Providence marked "a forgery" by Alexander Ganlin, the young man's father. The police were notified, and Inspector Flood was put on his track. The officer went to Lowell and then to Woonsocket, but could get No Trace of the Young Man.

At Woonsocket, however, he found Ganlin, Sr., who expressed himself willing to pay the check if the boy could escape punishment. This, however, the officer could not promise, and so returned home.

It has been learned that young Ganlin's career in Lowell was of an exciting character, and he left behind him a heart-broken family. He met in that city a handsome young woman and called at her house, representing that he lived in Nashua. On Christmas day both he and the young woman disappeared.

The parents came here in search of them, but failed to find them. At last accounts the couple, without waiting for a marriage ceremony, had taken a train northward, and it is supposed they have taken up their residence in Canada.

A GILL MONUMENT.

Patriot and Daily Ledger Propose a Life-Size Statue.

The late George L. Gill befriended and aided so many in life, and has remembered so many generously in his will, that the editors of the DAILY LEDGER and QUINCY PATRIOT feel confident that many would be pleased to contribute toward the erection of a statue in Quincy granite to his memory.

At the north of the First church near the fountain is located "Gill square," so recognized we believe by a vote of the town some years ago. Since the fountain was placed there, the more common name fountain square. During the coming year great improvements will probably be made about the church by the church and city, and it would seem a very proper place to erect a memorial to a member of this church; in the business centre of the city in which he was so long active. His was a life to emulate and it would be a daily reminder to many.

A popular subscription is therefore inaugurated today by the publishers of the DAILY LEDGER and QUINCY PATRIOT, who head the list with $10. All subscriptions will be acknowledged in both papers. Efforts will be made immediately to secure from Quincy granite manufactures and sculptors the cost of the memorial proposed, and the public will be kept posted from time to time. Communications favoring the project are solicited and will be published. It is the small subscriptions that are wanted—especially those of $1—but we are in hopes to receive several large subscriptions. Mr. Frank F. Prescott, the city editor, will act as treasurer, to whom all subscriptions should be forwarded.

NEW TREASURER.

The Savings Bank's Gain the City's Loss.

City Treasurer Burgin Elected to Succeed the Late George L. Gill.

A Brilliant Career for Young Man Since He Came to Quincy.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Quincy Saving Bank last evening Mr. Clarence Burgin, the City Treasurer of Quincy was elected treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George L. Gill.

A change in the office of treasurer of the Quincy Savings bank has not occurred since this institution and the National Granite bank became separate. In 1868 Mr. George L. Gill became an assistant to Cashier Horace B. Spear, and upon the separation in 1871 he became treasurer of the Savings bank and removed it to its present location. For a generation Mr. Gill faithfully conducted the institution and its growth has been almost phenomenal, the 2175 depositors in 1871 having increased to 7298 at the last report, and the amount of deposits from $677,394.29 in 1871 to $2,022,627.62 Dec. 1. This grand achievement is due largely to the careful administration of the late treasurer, under whose directions the investments have largely been made. The depositors have had the greatest confidence in him, and the bank has been extremely fortunate in the periodical financial panics. The following summary will be of interest:

1845,	1,203	$ 247,119.44
1855,	1,656	399,751.00
1867,	1,559	387,114.25
1871,	2,175	677,394.29
1875,	3,432	1,210,045.47
1880,	3,344	1,025,629.83
1885,	4,406	1,144,.39.66
1890,	5,773	1,528,503.59
1895,	7,145	1,853,887.96
1895 (Nov. 30)	7,298	2,022,627.62

Presidents and Treasurers.

The offices of president and treasurer have been filled by the following gentlemen who have all been prominent citizens of Quincy. The presidents:

Thomas Greenleaf,	1845—1856
Josiah Brigham,	1856—1867
Daniel Baxter,	1867—1871
Edward Turner,	1871—1878
Israel W. Munroe,	1878—1879
Charles Marsh,	1879—1886
Horace B. Spear,	1886—1889
Rupert F. Claflin,	1889

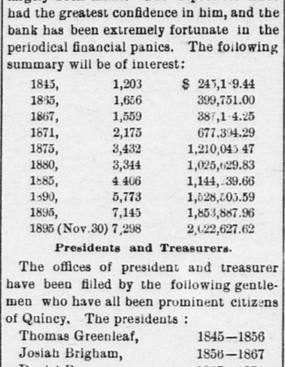

The treasurers:

Israel W. Munroe,	1845—1855
John C. Randall,	1855—1868
Horace B. Spear,	1868—1871
George L. Gill,	1871—1895
Clarence Burgin,	1896

During the treasureship of Mr. Munroe the bank was at his store, now occupied by Sanborn & Damon in the PATRIOT building. Under Mr. Randall and Mr. Spear it was in the old banking rooms of the Quincy Stone Bank now occupied by Dr. Gilbert. In 1871 it was separated from the National bank and removed to rooms fitted up for it in its present quarters.

The bank is fortunate in having met with no losses from loans or investments, which is largely due to the fact that loans are made only on the best security. They are today well placed and strongly secured. Deposit book No. 1 is still open, as are many of those taken out in the early days of the institution.

Miss Hattie L. Burrell, a niece of the late treasurer has been his faithful and obliging assistant since 1879, and is acknowledged to be one of the best penmen and accountants in the city. Miss Mildred Estes recently entered the bank, and is a valuable assistant.

For twelve years Mr. Burgin has been a resident of Quincy and his career among us has been a brilliant one, a series of advancements in positions of trust. In January, 1884, he came to Quincy and entered the employ of the granite firm of Frederick & Field as bookkeeper and draughtsman. Five years later he formed a partnership with Mr. R. D. Gordon of this city and entered into the wholesale and retail jewelry business in Boston, which partnership still continues. During the vacations of Mr. Spear from 1892 to 1894 Mr. Burgin acted as cashier of the National Mount Wollaston bank, and conducted the affairs very satisfactorily. He has always shown an interest in matters of finance, and it was largely through his management that the Quincy Quarry Company and the Lyons Granite Company were successfully established. In August, 1894, he was appointed City Treasurer to succeed the late Bryant N. Adams and was reappointed by Mayor Hodges this year, and fills the office at the present time. The city finances were never more ably handled, or the business transacted with such promptness and system, as under Treasurer Burgin, and what is the Savings Bank's gain will be the city's loss. Mr. Burgin is also a director of the National Granite bank, treasurer and director of the Lyons Granite Company, director of the Quincy Quarry Company, a member of Rural lodge, F. & A. M.; St. Stephen's chapter, R. A. M.; South Shore commandery, K. T., and other organizations. He is also prominent in the new movement to organize a Board of Trade in this city, which promises to be successful and a boon to Quincy.

Mr. Burgin was born Oct. 27, 1865, in Rutland, Vt., his parents being Mr. Thomas and Mrs. Jane (Scudder) Burgin, both from London, England. In 1870 the family moved to Springfield, Mass., where Clarence was educated and graduated from the High school. In the evening drawing schools he acquired a good knowledge of that art, and later in the employ of Charles Sidney, the architect and civil engineer; with John Lyman Faxon, the architect, and with Frederick & Field of Quincy, he became an expert draughtsman.

The LEDGER congratulates the Quincy Savings Bank upon the choice, and Mr. Burgin upon his continued success.

ST. JOHN'S TREE.

A Happy Time Last Night at Hancock Hall.

Presentations to Revs. Friguglietti and Cunningham.

An Amusing Entertainment of Music and Farces.

The children and teachers of St. John's Sunday school, with their parents and friends, were present in good numbers at Hancock hall last evening. Rev. F. A. Friguglietti, Rev. John P. Cuffe, and the director of the Sunday school, Rev. Francis A. Cunningham, were also present, and as later developments demonstrated, the presence of Frs. Francis and Cunningham was much desired, as they were to be the recipients of many tokens of love and affection from those in their charge before the close of the evening's entertainment Another person who attracted a deal of attention was a tall, fine-looking gentleman of middle life, who sat in the rear of hall, known to all by fame, and to but few personally. This gentleman was none other than Samuel A. Kitson, the noted sculptor, and those who did know him wondered at his presence last evening. But the events of the evening told the tale.

The entertainment opened with a chorus from Norma by the Sunday school choir, and the young misses pleased the audience by their fine execution.

Miss Olive Smith gave a comic solo, entitled "Jennie and Joe," in which she portrayed the troubles usually besetting a "spooney" couple.

Then came the Reilleys in "Fun in a Fog," with its rich, mellow brogue, wealth of anecdote and character, and the attempt on the part of both characters to get as far as possible from the truth in enumerating their respective possessions.

Miss Elenora O'Connell gave a fine solo. Miss O'Connell is a sweet singer, with a full, mellow voice, and her appearance before any gathering is always a pleasure.

The young girls of the Sunday school were next heard in a chorus.

Miss Olive Smith again pleased the audience with a recitation, and on an encore gave "Reilly and I."

At this point there was a lull in the proceedings, which was broken by Master Samuel Donovan stepping to the front of the platform, and in behalf of his teachers and fellow-scholars presenting in a neat speech to Rev. F. A. Friguglietti a bust of the venerable Archbishop Williams of Boston of heroic size, by Samuel A. Kitson. The young man's words moved the audience, and as Rev. Fr. Francis came from the rear of the hall toward the stage the audience arose en masse and applauded.

Fr. Francis was moved by the thoughtfulness and affection on the part of the Sunday School, and thanked the donors for their very acceptable gift. Those who have had the pleasure of seeing the Archbishop recently pronounce the bust a most faithful likeness, and Mr. Kitson was publicly congratulated on his success.

Hardly had the applause which greeted the recipient's thanks subsided, when Master Michael Duffy, in feeling words, presented the director of the Sunday School, Rev. Francis A. Cunningham, with a most beautiful chalice.

Fr. Cuningham was dumbfounded for an instant, but regaining his self-possession, accepted the gift in words of warm praise for his teachers and scholars.

Before he had time to reach the shelter of the stage wing, Master James Haley of the Boys' Sodality presented him with a silver crucifix. The reverend gentleman responded, and was surprised a third time by Miss Annie Roche presenting him on behalf of the Girls' sodality with a beautiful set of Brevaries. The feelings that had been fomenting through these surprises culminated in this last gift, and Fr. Cuningham, from a heart overflowing with love and gratitude, thanked one and all for their very appropriate gifts.

The chalice is of exquisite design, handwrought and of solid gold. The stem is studded with six large amethysts and at the base is a cross of California diamonds. The inscription on the rim of the base reads: "To Rev. Francis A. Cuningham from the Sunday School Teachers and Children, Christmas, 1895."

The crucifix is of silver of chaste design, and reads: "Rev. F. A. Cunningham from the Boys' Sodality, Christmas, 1895."

The Brevaries from the young ladies are handsomely bound, with cover title in gold and printed in red and black.

Fr. Cunningham received many congratulations from the audience, all recognizing that though the presents came from the Sunday school, still they were but evidence of the esteem in which he is held by the whole parish. His years of faithful service have borne good fruit, and the expression of last evening were but his just reward.

The entertainment closed with "Jingle Bells" by the boys, and then Santa Claus appeared and distributed choice boxes of candy.

The teachers of the Sunday school were presented by Fr. Cunningham with portraits of himself at the close of the evening.

Miss Margaret Garrity, the organist of St. John's church, conducted the musical portion of the entertainment.

Keith's New Theatre.

Christmas week was one long to be remembered at Keith's New Theatre, Boston. The entertainment was pronounced one of the best which the management has ever selected for the enjoyment of its patrons; society people formed box parties to witness the wonderful acting elephants every evening throughout the week, and Mr. Keith, in accordance with his annual custom voluntarily increased the salaries of his old and deserving employes. The coming week is to be positively the last one of the wonderful troupe of elephants, as the engagement cannot be extended longer. The vaudeville programme is a splendid one, including the marvelous high wire performers, the Zalva trio, who are without a doubt, the cleverest artists in that line who have ever visited this country.

The Social Realm.

A Happy New Year.

* * *

Mr. Herbert Fay Nye conducts a concert given by the Braintree Singing school next Thursday evening, at Braintree Town Hall.

* * *

Mr. Henry French is home from Newburyport.

* * *

Now that Christmas is over and all have had time to draw a long breath, the attention is drawn to the social life and there are whispers of card parties and dances innumerable.

* * *

Henry G. French of Braintree acted as best man at the wedding of his brother, Harry, in Whitman, Christmas day.

* * *

"'Tis true 'tis pity
Pity 'tis 'tis true."

Exactly expresses the sentiment of many in our city when the matter of not having a hall fit to hold a dance in, is brought to their notice. As it now is if the party is not too large a hall at Braintree or Wollaston can be used which is very inconvenient. If the party is to be a large ball, why it cannot be, that is all.

* * *

The engagement is announced of Miss Emma L. Chubbuck of North Weymouth and Mr. Charles Mayberry of this city.

* * *

The last of the six to ten dances takes place at Braintree tonight.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Fred Insley (Miss Elizabeth Souther) of Ashmont have moved to Quincy into the house of Mrs. L. G. Horton on Hancock street.

* * *

The marriage of Mr. John A. McIntosh and Miss Catherine Smith was solemnized in the Presbyterian church, Water street, Christmas eve, by the pastor, Rev. Robert Westly Peach. The church was crowded. Miss Lulu McIntosh, the groom's sister was bridesmaid, and Miss Maria Menhinick, maid of honor. Mr. Alex. Russell was groomsman. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Henry Smith.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson V. Titus are now located at their home, 502 Beacon street, Boston.

* * *

The engagement is announced of Mr. Oscar Hough and Miss Lucy E. Cushing of Hingham.

* * *

Mr. Ernest Arthur Grover of Plymouth and Miss Clara Maud Smith of Braintree were united in marriage Dec. 24th, at the home of Mr. Starkey, by Rev. A. A. Ellsworth. Mr. and Mrs. Grover will reside in Plymouth.

Man, in society, is like a flower
Blown in its native bud. 'Tis there alone
His faculties expanded in full bloom,
Shine out, there only reach their proper use.
—Cowper.

Miss Georgiana Brackett of Kansas City, Mo., a student in Smith college, and Miss Fanny Sutton of Boston, were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Robert Westly Peach at Christmas dinner.

Cards are out for the marriage of Miss Mary Hutcheon to Mr. John Lamb, which will take place January 1 at 6 Rodman street, Quincy.

It is rumored that a course of Germans are to be given soon at Long's hall, Braintree.

* * *

The engagement is announced of Rev. Rennette C. Miller, pastor of the Methodist church of Nantasket and Miss Ethel M. Beale, formerly a teacher in Hull.

Company K Notes.

Co. K extends their congratulations to their popular battalion commander, Major William H. Oakes, who is to be married Jan. 1st to Miss M. M. Church of Andover, Conn. The event will take place at the home of the bride.

There was a shoot on Christmas day, which practically opened the target season of '96. Some good scores were made, but we are unable to give them at this time. Lieut. Whitney will be in charge of the target practise the coming year, and under his efficient coaching we may expect to see Co. K in the front rank of marksmen when the season closes. He will be ably assisted by Corps Higgins and Lowe.

Col. George F. Hall, Inspector general of rifle practice, has made his annual report, and among other things he recommends that men who do not qualify in at least the lowest grade of marksmanship be discharged. Although such a radical change is not generally approved, stronger efforts than ever will be made to qualify every man.

Contralto solo by Miss Lucy Hayes.
"He shall feed His flock like a Shepherd." from the Messiah.

Elihu Burritt, the learned blacksmith, knew 18 languages. He was self-taught, generally needing only a dictionary and a grammar to master any language he chose to learn.

IN THE NEW COURT ROOM.

The District Court Held in Adams Building Today.

The session of the district court was held in the new rooms in the Adams building for the first time this morning, and previous to commencing business His Honor briefly addressed those present, stating that now the court had moved into its new rooms, he wanted it understood that those who attended court must behave themselves and there must be no tobacco spitting on the floor or in the corridor or upon the stairs.

The first case called was that of John Leary of Brockton who was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. He told a good story and the court released him.

Robert Hart was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy and placed on three months probation.

John Miller was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

NOT THIS TIME.

An Unknown Man Attempts to Draw Money on Another's Book.

About 8.30 this morning a man representing himself as Charles F. Webster of Norwood called at the Savings Bank and presenting a book in that name attempted to draw out the money. The official suspected him and kept the book and the fellow departed. Half an hour later the rightful owner of the book put in an appearance and claimed it.

The man is described as being about 25 years of age, smooth face, light complexion. He wore a light suit with a red sweater.

Christmas Music.

The Wollaston Baptist society will hold special services on Sunday. In the morning the quartette assisted by a chorus of trained voices will render:

"Blessed be the Lord God" Barnby
"Silent Night-Hallowed Night," Becker
"Once again O blessed time," Dykes

The evening musical service is as follows:

O Bethlehems Babe, with violin obligato Quartette and chorus
"O Little Town of Bethlehem," Neidling Quartette
"It is the Blessed Christmas Morn", Bartlett
"Angels from the Realms of Glory," Smart
"O'er Bethelems Hill in Days of Old," Gilchrist
"Hark What Mean Those Holy Voices." Burdett
"Today the Joy Bells," Buffington
Duet, Misses Pike and Emery
Song, by Christian Endeavor Boys.

Another Christmas Tree.

The Calvary Baptist church held its Christmas festival at Doble's hall last evening. The interior of the hall was very prettily decorated for the occasion with hemlock boughs and two large trees occupied the platform. Suspended in the centre was a large star and these words: "Our classes for Christ and the church."

The entertainment consisted of vocal and instrumental music, readings and an exercise by eleven little misses under the direction of Mrs. Lloyd Jones.

Then came the distribution of presents among those present.

Castle Square Theatre.

On Monday evening next, Dec. 30, the Castle Square Opera company begins its thirty-fourth continous week with a production of Gounod's grand opera Faust. When the management definitely announced a representation of the grand opera Carmen, dire failure was predicted, but the company scored a tremendous success and the opera ran for two weeks to the capacity of the beautiful theatre.

The cast of the opera will employ for the first time the united strength of the entire company. The two prima donnas, Miss Lane and Miss Mason will alternate in the role of Marguerite,—Gounod's music being too great a tax on any one voice for eight performances. Mr. William Wolff has the part of Mephistopheles, which is entirely suited to his magnificent voice. Mephistopheles will be a new role for Mr. Wolff. The public has seen him in roles of almost every description since the opening of the opera season, and may confidently expect all the sly, fiendish depravity which the part calls for.

Faust, the title role, is well cast with Mr. Persse. It requires immense voice compass and vocal strength to sustain the high notes in the finales. Faust will be given for the entire week with usual matinees New Year's day (Wednesday) and Saturday at 2 P. M.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

LEGAL TENDER NOTES

Must Be Retired and Cancelled to Straighten Tangled Finances.

'Tis the Only Permanent Remedy, Says Carlisle.

The New Bond Bill Meets With Strong Opposition In Congress.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Secretary Carlisle made the following statement last night in response to the question: "What, in your opinion, will be the effect upon the financial situation of the tariff bill passed by the house of representatives on Thursday?"

"I had," said Mr. Carlisle, "supposed that very few could now be found who believe that our financial difficulties were caused by the deficiency in the ordinary revenues of the government, or that they can be relieved by increasing taxes upon the commodities consumed by the people. These difficulties are the necessary results of our financial legislation, and they cannot be removed, even temporarily, by tariff laws, nor by any other measures which do not directly enable the government to procure the means necessary for the maintenance of the gold payments."

"Do you think, then, that the bond bill presented in the house today will furnish any relief to the treasury?"

"I am satisfied that there is but one permanent remedy for our financial embarrassments, and that is legislation providing for the retirement and cancellation of the legal tender notes; but, recognizing the fact that such a measure would require time for its consideration, and for its complete execution, if adopted, I had hoped that congress would immediately take the necessary steps to assist the government in its efforts to procure and maintain such a gold reserve as may be required to remove the distrust and apprehension which have precipitated the present emergency.

Doesn't Go Far Enough.

"The bill reported by the committee on ways and means falls very far short of the requirements of the situation, and its passage will not beneficially affect the situation with which we have now to deal. Our difficulties were produced and have been prolonged and aggravated by the fear that, notwithstanding all the efforts of the administration, we may ultimately be unable to procure gold for the purpose of redeeming our notes, and, consequently, be forced to a silver basis, and this fear cannot be wholly removed until some action is taken by congress clearly indicating a purpose to pay all our obligations in gold when demanded by holders.

"Although there is no substantial reason to distrust the character of our notes or other securities, or to doubt the purpose of the government to maintain gold payments, the facts that there has been no legislative declaration upon the subject, and that no legal authority exists to make them expressly payable in gold, not only prevent the sale of our bonds for the replenishment of the reserve upon the most advantageous terms, but increase the demands for gold by the presentation of notes at the very times when we are least able to meet them without injury to our credit.

"If it was not generally expected that the three classes of bonds already authorized by law will be paid in gold at maturity, they could not be sold, except at an enormous sacrifice, but even this general expectation is not sufficient to altogether satisfy investors, and especially In Times of Financial Disturbances.

"About $16,000,000 could have been saved to the people on the last issue of bonds if congress had consented to make them expressly payable in gold, instead of coin. This condition is not at all improved by the pending bill, which still requires all bonds to be payable 'in coin,' as heretofore, and confers no new authority, except the power to issue and sell 3 per cent bonds, also payable in coin, after five years, with interest payable in coin semi-annually.

"At the present time, our 30-year 4 per cent bonds, with interest payable quarterly, are selling in the markets at rates which yield investors more than 3 per cent per annum, and this fact should not be overlooked in determining whether or not a 5-year 3 per cent bond could now be sold at par, as the pending bill requires."

"What will be the effect of the provision prohibiting the sale of bonds except after public advertisement?"

"Assuming that a sufficient amount of gold could be procured in that way, any secretary of the treasury would prefer to advertise for the bids, but it is evident that there may be circumstances when prompt action is required in order to preserve the credit of the government, and in such cases a peremptory provision requiring a public advertisement might defeat the object of the law and prevent any sale."

Speaking of the second section of the bill, which authorizes the issue of certificates to meet deficiencies in the revenue, Secretary Carlisle said:

"While there is no necessity at the present time for resorting to the exercises of the power which that section confers, and may not be in the future, the secretary of the treasury ought always to have the authority to issue and sell or use in the payment of expenses short-time certificates or bonds of the character described in that bill. Such authority ought to have been conferred upon him long ago, and it ought to be made permanent instead of being limited to $50,000,000, as it is by the bill. Except as to this limitation, the second section of the bill is a good one."

Considered by Congress.

The house yesterday dwelt upon the consideration of the bond bill, which, in conjunction with the tariff bill passed Thursday, constitute the relief which the Republican house of representatives offers the Democrats to meet the existing financial situation.

The bill aroused the united opposition of the Democrats and Populists, the gold Democrats being arrayed against it because they claimed it did not give the secretary the authority to issue gold bonds with which he desired to replenish the reserve, and the silver Democrats on the ground of their general opposition to bond issues. The latter contended that the raids on the treasury could be stopped if the secretary would use his discretion to redeem notes in silver when the reserve was threatened.

In the Republican ranks, also, there developed such bitter opposition to the bill as originally drawn, and to the proposition to force the bill to a vote, that the Republican members of the committee on ways and means incorporated in it an amendment specifically declaring that nothing in the act should be construed as a modification or repeal of the act of 1878 for the reissue of the greenbacks when redeemed, and the committee on rules extended the limit to debate until today at 3 o'clock, but declined to give the members of the house opportunity to offer amendments. These concessions probably brought a few of the fractious Republicans into line—how many the vote today will show.

But 11 Republicans went over the party traces yesterday on the adoption of the rule. This, it is stated, does not represent more than one-fourth of the opposition to the measure itself.

The feature of the day was a strong speech from Johnson (Rep., Cal.), appealing to his Republican colleagues to vote against the bill. He scored the Republican leaders for bringing in the bill. He said he had voted for the revenue measure Thursday under protest, but he refused to follow them on the present bill. Political expediency which involved a surrender of principle, he declared, would never succeed.

The debate ran far into the night. The principal speeches were made by Messrs. Dingley (Me.) and Grosvenor (O.), Republicans, and Messrs. Turner (Ga.) and Patterson (Tenn.), Democrats.

Representative Barrett's impeachment resolution was quietly smothered by the house committee on foreign affairs. At the meeting of the committee yesterday it was voted to report Representative McCall's resolution, which was much more conservative and simply called for "information from the president" as to Ambassador Bayard's speeches at Edinburgh and Boston, Eng.

A Wordy War.

The senate was enlivened by a spirited and somewhat personal debate, in which Mr. Hill (N. Y.) and Mr. Teller (Colo.) were the principal figures.

Mr. Hill precipitated consideration of the bond question by offering a resolution declaring that future bond issues to renew the gold reserve should bear a provision that they would be payable in gold and silver at the option of the holder. In support of this, Hill made a speech setting forth the difficulties of negotiating bonds under the uncertainties of the present law, and he branched out in a general discussion of finance, and among other things urged the permanent retirement of the greenbacks in accordance with the recommendations of the president and secretary of the treasury.

Teller's reply to Hill was cutting, sarcastic and personal. He repudiated and protested against the efforts of the president and all his "tide waiters" to defame the credit of the United States. He spoke of the recent visit to Washington of a great New York banker, one of those who had participated in the "dishonorable or imbecile" bond transaction of last year. The galleries were crowded during the debate, and the senators, as well as spectators, keenly enjoyed the caustic tilt.

Allen (Pop., Neb.) added his protest to that of Teller against the defamation of our national credit. No final action on the Hill resolution was taken.

Senators Quay and Burrows gave notice of amendments which they propose to offer to the house tariff bill when it shall reach the senate for consideration. Senator Quay's amendment provides for an increase of the duty on wrapper tobacco, making the duty on unstemmed tobacco imported in bulk $2 a pound, and on stemmed tobacco $2.50 a pound.

Senator Burrows' amendment provides for a duty equal to 60 per cent of the McKinley law duties on a large number of articles of schedule A, concerning chemicals, oils and paints; on manufactured burrstones and grindstones; on iron ores, cotton ties and copper and manufactures of; on a large number of agricultural products, including fresh milk, yields of eggs, plants, fresh fish and salt; on lemonade, soda water and other similar waters; or flax, hemp, straw and binding twine, and on feathers, paintings, statuary, hatters' plush, coffee and hides.

Democratic Senatorial Caucuses.

The Democratic members of the senate held a caucus yesterday for the purpose of considering the committee assignments made by the steering committee. The caucus endorsed the work of the committee, and authorized it to continue its work by making some minor assignments which had not been agreed upon before the caucus act. Owing to this state of affairs, the list was not in shape to be given to the public when the caucus adjourned. It can be stated positively, however, that there was no change in the assignments to the more important committees which have already been published.

The list will be presented to the senate Monday next, in connection with the Republican assignments. Senator Mitchell (Or.), as chairman of the Republican caucus committee, will at that time present the list with a resolution, upon which a yea and nay vote will be taken, which will be a test of the Republican strength for organization. It is not doubted that on this test the Republicans will secure a sufficient vote to insure the control of the committee and in accordance with the assignments already made by them.

The Republican senators held a brief caucus after the adjournment of the senate for the purpose of considering a complaint from the Democratic senators concerning the formation of the committee on Indian affairs. The committee consists of 11 members. The Republicans assigned five Republicans and two Populists to this committee, leaving four places for the Democrats. The Democrats took exceptions to this adjustment, and they were given another member.

The caucus also decided that the Republican members of the senate should be requested to be present at next Monday's session, with a view to making sure of a quorum when the question of reorganization of the committees it has been agreed upon comes up. It was also agreed in the caucus that if the house would consent to the proposition congress should adjourn over on Monday until the following Monday.

—The large reservoir to be constructed at West Boylston to supply Boston, Quincy and other cities with water will be a sad blow to that country village. It will lose more than one-half its entire valuation. One-third of its dwellings, three churches, four schoolhouses, and four factories must be sacrificed, and nearly half of the population of the town turned out of their homes. The loss in valuation will exceed $500,000.

HE PAID HUSH MONEY.

San Francisco Preacher Then Found He Had Been Duped.

Charges That He Is a Victim of Blackmail.

Woman Whom He Had Arrested Tells Quite a Different Story.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—Fashionable society in this city is stirred to its depths by the arrest of Mrs. Mary A. Davidson on a charge of extortion preferred by Rev. C. O. Brown, pastor of the First Congregational church.

Dr. Brown charges her with blackmail, and says that he paid her $500 to secure her silence in regard to his alleged relations with Miss Overman, a young woman from Tacoma, who visited at his house.

Mrs. Davidson, who is a woman about 60 years of age, came here during the midwinter fair as a representative of a Boston corset firm. She has attended Dr. Brown's church for about a year, and has taken great interest in church matters. Miss Overman came here from Tacoma for her health and visited at the house of Dr. Brown, whose family she knew in Tacoma. After a stay of several months, during which time she became acquainted with Mrs. Davidson, Miss Overman returned to Tacoma, but came back to San Francisco, when Mrs. Davidson promised to secure employment for her.

According to Dr. Brown, Mrs. Davidson came to him last November, at the time when there was intense excitement in the city over the exposure of the double lives of several old men who had been debauching young girls, and told him that she had been commissioned by Mrs. Jane Elizabeth Baddin, a lodging-house keeper, to demand $2000 down and $100 a month for 10 years if he did not want his intimacy with Miss Overman exposed. Mrs. Davidson said that Miss Overman had confided in her and would testify against him, and that Mrs. Baddin knew that he had occupied a room in a lodging house with an unknown woman. Mrs. Davidson pointed out to him that owing to the state of public feeling almost anything that witnesses would swear to would be believed, and Advised Him to Settle at Once.

Dr. Brown was horrified at the nature of the charges brought against him, and saw no means of escape. He succeeded, however, in reducing the figures to $500 down and $35 a month for five years. He paid Mrs. Davidson $500, for which she signed a receipt. After paying over the money, Dr. Brown attempted to find Mrs. Baddin, but without success. Finally he met Miss Overman, who was shopping with Mrs. Davidson, and reproached her with her perfidy. She indignantly denied that she had made any charges, and, when confronted with Mrs. Davidson, denounced the woman as infamous.

Miss Overman immediately left Mrs. Davidson's house, and went to the home of Dr. Brown, where she is now under the protection of his wife. Then the minister consulted with the deacons of the church, and the result was the arrest of Mrs. Davidson. Both the minister and Miss Overman deny that there is the slightest foundation for the charges.

Mrs. Davidson, when seen after her arrest, said Dr. Brown called on her several months ago and voluntarily confessed his love for Miss Overman. He asked her advice, and she told him to sever his relations with the girl at once. Miss Overman, she says, confessed her love for Dr. Brown, and that he had promised to pay her $35 a month. A few days after this Mrs. Davidson says Dr. Brown handed her $35 to give to Miss Overman, saying he had promised to pay her that amount for 10 months.

Some time ago a strange woman, who called herself Mrs. Baddin, called on Mrs. Davidson and said she knew of Dr. Brown's and demanded $10,000 as the price of her silence. About six weeks ago she sent for Dr. Brown and told him of Mrs. Baddin's demand. He said: "It is all true, and more, too."

Intimacy With Miss Overman

Mrs. Davidson continued: "He refused to see the woman, and asked me to handle the business for him. He said: 'You have our hearts' secrets,' and told me everything. Dr. Brown said he could not pay her $10,000, but would pay $5000, with $500 down and the rest at the rate of $35 a month. Dr. Brown said he would leave San Francisco within three months, as he had calls from churches in Brooklyn and Philadelphia."

Next day she paid the $500 to Mrs. Baddin, who said she was going to leave town, but would return each month for the $35. Mrs. Davidson says Dr. Brown has paid $35 for Miss Overman in August and September, November and December. She concluded her statement by saying: "I have kept this secret for the sake of the church; for the sake of Miss Overman and Dr. Brown, but the truth must be told, and I am sorry that I am obliged to divulge these things."

The First Congregational church was crowded yesterday morning as a result of the exposure of the alleged blackmailing attempt upon Dr. Brown. The minister appeared as usual, and in his sermon referred indirectly to the attack upon his reputation. One of the deacons also spoke, and corroborated Dr. Brown's statement that he had consulted with the officers of the church before causing the arrest of Mrs. Davidson. After the church services, a number of the congregation shook hands with Dr. Brown and expressed confidence in him.

Sullivan May Peach.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 30.—The trial of Martin Dalton, on a charge of being an accessory to the murder of Anthony S. Haswell, five years ago, begun in the common pleas division of the supreme court this morning before Judge Wilbur. Dalton is defended by John M. Brennan and Dennis Holland. Attorney General Dubois will conduct the case for the commonwealth. Haswell was killed for his money. It is believed Sullivan will testify in court and tell all he knows of the case.

AWFUL WORK OF A MOB

Kentucky Woman Burned Alive by Friends of Murdered Husband.

Her Paramour Suffered Death From Shotguns.

Wretches' Pleas For Mercy Fell Upon Ears Deafened by Vengeance.

LEBANON, Ky., Dec. 30.—A mob Saturday night burned Mrs. T. J. West alive and killed W. Deveres, her paramour, at Mrs. West's house on Cartwright Creek, a short distance north of this city. The mob is said to have numbered about 75, and it was about 12 o'clock when they appeared at Mrs. West's house. Mrs. West, Deveres and his little daughter were the only persons in the house.

The tragedy was one of the most brutal ever enacted under gruesome sway of dread Judge Lynch. Despite the pleadings for her father's life of a half-clad, frightened child, and the prayers and tears of the sick and helpless woman, the mob went through with its work with cold-blooded, cruel deliberation, and only left when certain that both man and woman were dead.

The affair was the outgrowth of the old story of a faithless wife and vengeful husband. Several months ago, Deveres, a middle-aged widower, was accused by Thomas West, a prosperous farmer, of intimacy with Mrs. West. A quarrel followed, lasting until West instituted divorce proceedings and declared that Deveres must die. The men met in Lebanon. West snapped his revolver, which missed fire, and Deveres killed him on the spot. On the plea of self-defense, the murderer secured bail and scandalized the neighborhood by immediately taking his two daughters and moving into West's house. The relatives of the murdered husband swore vengeance, and Saturday night it came.

Close to 1 o'clock a band of men rode up to the West homestead and demanded admittance. "Tom West is dead; now it's your turn," the spokesman called, and Deveres and the woman awoke to find their house surrounded. Mrs. West rushed to a darkened window and began a wild, hysterical plea for mercy. A dozen bullets answered her cries, and the demand for immediate surrender was repeated. Deveres, too, asked for a hearing, but his request was greeted

With a Shower of Shots.

"We'll give you 10 minutes to open up; then you burn," said the mob's leader, and his men quietly retired from the door. A hurried consultation was held inside the house, and then, white and terror-stricken, the little girl of Deveres was thrust out to plead with the mob. Clad in her night robe, barefooted and unprotected, she bravely walked out into the moonlight and sobbed out a prayer for her white-haired father's life.

"Get out; you're liable to get shot yourself," a ruffian said, and the panic-stricken child fled to the cabin of a negro neighbor. Mrs. West then appeared at the door, and referring to her condition, made a last appeal for mercy. It was unavailing, and in another moment the house was fired.

The shrieks of the imprisoned wretches failed to move their torturers, who, as the flames reached the room where the couple were living, could see man and woman in the agony of death by the fire. Just before the roof fell, the woman was seen to reel across the room and plunge headlong into the fireplace among the burning coals, and there she died. Wild with pain, Deveres at the last moment made a dash for liberty, but a score of bullets stopped him half a dozen steps from the door.

Yesterday morning the little girl led her negro protector to the scene, and there the bodies, scorched beyond recognition, were found, untouched by the lynchers.

It is not improbable that the scenes of Saturday night will be re-enacted in the vicinity shortly, as the outrage has aroused the

Most Intense Indignation

among the people of the county. Because of the fact that West's relatives had threatened vengeance, there is a strong belief that they are responsible for the crime. The uncertainty, however, as to just who was implicated has so far prevented further trouble.

The child of Deveres, who was a witness to the tragedy, is dangerously sick as the result of the fright and exposure, but upon her recovery she may be able to identify some of the lynchers. The night was brilliant with moonlight.

The scene of the horror was visited by crowds of curious people yesterday, and it was well toward noon before the bodies were cared for by an undertaker.

Mrs. West's corpse was charred almost beyond human semblance. Overcome by the flames, she had fallen into the large old-fashioned fire-place of the living room, and the head was almost burned from the body.

Deveres' body was pierced by at least 25 bullets. Before his desperate dash for liberty, he had been frightfully burned, and would probably have died without the gunshot wounds. His hair and beard were burned off, his clothes were in charred shreds and his face blistered and blackened.

Mrs. West had three children. Two, who are young ladies, are said to have been driven from the West home when Deveres came there to live, and they have been with West's relatives recently. There is great excitement, and it is believed that Mrs. West's friends will be revenged.

Justice Nave late yesterday afternoon held an inquest upon the bodies of the victims. Several witnesses were examined, but nothing tending to incriminate any one was developed. The investigation will be continued.

Rum and Murder.

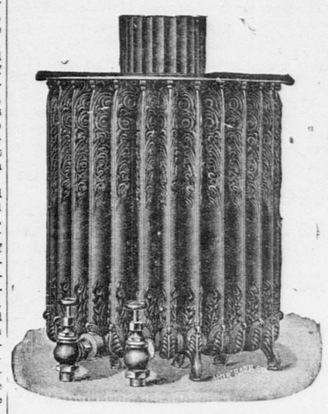

PRINCETON, Ind., Dec. 30.—John Cooper and George Martin were traveling horse traders and stopped at Oakland City to get a jug of whisky. They pitched their tent and quarrelled. Martin finally battered Cooper's brains out. Their families were with them. They were brothers-in-law. Martin rode away, leaving the dead man lying in his wife's arms. The woman remained in the woods all night with the corpse. Martin is at large.

APROPOS THE Brook street extension matter and the fact that the New Haven Road had made surveys for a bridge with a headway of but 12 feet the following dispatch from Bridgeport, Ct., where something of a similiar nature exists makes interesting reading. In the LEDGER of Dec. 14, Mr. Whiting, our Wollaston correspondent after a thorough investigation of the question, wrote an article stating that a bridge with a headway of less than 15 feet would be practically useless for public traffic and that to obtain such a headway the grade of Newport avenue would have to be materially increased. This statement was immediately questioned. It now looks as if the premises assumed by Mr. Whiting were correct. The dispatch referred to reads as follows:

The agreement reached by the city's committee and the Consolidated road Saturday evening, relative to the four-tracking improvements and the elimination of grade crossings, does not please the taxpayers. The committee's statement that the total cost to the city will hardly reach $250,000, is sternly offset by a provision in the agreement that the cost shall, under no circumstances exceed $400,000, and the fact that the railroad company refused flatly to reduce the limit to $300,000. A cause for great dissatisfaction is the provision which allows only a 12-foot headway for all streets crossing under this big structure, which passes right through the heart of the city and covers a distance of nearly four miles. A headway of 15 feet at least is demanded for public traffic.

PROBABLY THE last meeting of the City Council of 1895 will be held this evening, although if there is any important measure requiring an interval between the readings there may be another meeting the last of the week. The present Council has been criticised for want of action, but these people have only in mind the failure to provide schoolhouses. They overlook the fact that the city has voted to go into the Metropolitan water system and passed a sewerage act. The former entitles the Council of 1895 to the distinction of having spent the most money, its obligations amounting to nearly a million and one-half dollars. Progress on the sewer system has been retarded by the failure to make an appropriation for expenses or salaries of commission.

PROBABLY MOST of our readers are not aware of the large amount of business that was done by the merchants last week. In fact, it surprised us, and no doubt will many of our citizens, to read in today's LEDGER the immense quantity of goods sold by one of our enterprising firm—L. M. Pratt & Co.

GOOD FOR Capt. Morrison! It shows the stuff that our militia is made of, whether it was in the right or wrong. They held the fort Saturday night, and the Long and the short of it was heard in the Quincy court today.

HELD THE FORT.

Six-to-Ten Party Have Protection of Militia.

Attempt of Owner of Building to Prevent Use of Armory a Failure.

He Now Attempts to Get Satisfaction in the Courts.

Another of those enjoyable six to ten dances was held at Long's hall, Braintree, Saturday evening, and the unexpected excitement of dancing in a fortified citadel was huge fun.

It seems there is a conflict between Co. K, who have their armory here, and Mr. Long as to who should receive pay for the use of the hall by outsiders. Friday morning Mr. Long notified a member of the six-to-ten committee that unless he received pay for the use of the hall for the previous occasions before 9 A. M. Saturday, the party would be refused admission to the hall.

Capt. Morrison of Co. K was consulted by the dancers and he told them that he had given them the right to use the hall and he should see that they had it, and that they should be protected.

Early in the afternoon Mr. Harry L. Patten and Mr. William S. Osborne, the managers of the dance, arrived on the scene, and soon after the fun commenced. Mr. Long, as agent of the property ordered the young men out, and they reluctantly obeyed.

Mr. Long had with him several of his men from the shoe shop, and also Constable Mischler, and when the coast was clear he proceeded to nail up the entrance door.

Private Frank E. Woodworth notified Capt. Morrison of the situation, and he appeared on the scene about 4 o'clock. Approaching the building he saw that all the windows in the hall were opened, as though an attempt was being made to make the place uninhabitable.

Capt. Morrison ordered Private Woodworth to break open the door and he obeyed with a soldier's promptness. Naturally Agent Long was boiling with wrath, and with the assistance of his engineer, Mr. Elmer Holbrook, the door was again barricaded. This time by the use of a pair of tongs, and Constable Mischler was placed in charge.

Not to be baffled Capt. Morrison ordered out the company, using the telephone to summons the men. When they responded, which was in some cases but a few minutes, they were ordered into their uniforms.

Then Mr. Long and his men were ordered out, and not retiring voluntarily they were put out by force, not however, until Capt. Morrison had shown Mr. Long his permit from Col. Bancroft and Adjt. Ballard, for the rental of the hall. Mr. Long offered resistance but he had to go, also Engineer Holbrook, the constable and others.

Lieut. W. H. Whitney with a squad of men was then placed at the door to prevent the admittance of outsiders, and the crowd of spectators cheered the soldier boys.

Mr. Long went off and it seems he was after the sheriff. He also consulted Lawyer McAnarney at Quincy, and an attempt was made to get Judge Humphrey to issue a warrant, but he declined to act hastily, and decided to summons the interested parties to his office on Monday.

At the hall it was discovered that the heat had been turned off, the light disconnected, etc. Connection was secured however with the electric light, and it being a comfortable night dancers did not need artificial heat, so all was in readiness for the dance at the advertised time, and the militia remained on duty to see that the party was not disturbed.

The Law.

Section 5 of Chapter 465 provides:

"Armories provided for the militia, under the provisions of chapter 384 of the acts of the year 1888, shall not be used except by the active militia of this Commonwealth, and they shall not be loaned or let to anyone except for a proper military purpose, and then only when application is approved by the Commander-in-Chief and intermediate commanders."

The town pays rent to Mr. Long to the amount of $400, also $100 for heat and light.

Mr. Long and also the Selectmen were notified of the new law some three months ago. The company had permission from Col. Bancroft of the fifth regiment to let the hall. But the section quoted says the armories shall not be used by outsiders and shall not be loaned or let, so that Co. K may be exceeding its authority.

In Court Today.

A hearing was held before Judge Humphrey in the district court this morning, to see whether a warrant should be issued against Capt. W. E. Morrison of Co. K, for disturbing the peace. The hearing was held in the Judge's room and reporters excluded.

Hon. Asa French appeared for Capt. Morrison and the town of Braintree, and J. W. McAnarney, Esq., for Mr. Long.

No evidence was taken in relation to disturbing the peace but the statements of Capt. Morrison, the chairman of the Board of Selectmen of Braintree, and Mr. Long were heard.

The court refused to issue a warrant this morning but took the matter under advisement.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

City Council tonight.

Miss Bliss, the milliner, has gone to New Hampshire for a week's visit.

Sabbath protection meeting tonight in the Centre Congregational church.

Miss Eva Bassett spent several days of last week with relatives in Newton.

J. H. Wales caters for the Forester's ball at West Quincy, Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hill with their two daughters spent Sunday in Beachmont.

Mr. John T. Hunt with his family have moved into the Boisclair house on Squantum street.

Miss Viola Willis is to return to her school this week. She has spent a few weeks vacation in Atlantic.

W. R. Lofgren has just completed a $5,000 house for N. E. Hollis on the corner of Tremont and West streets, Braintree.

Mr. Frank J. Flood of Wollaston has been confined to his house for some time by a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

New Year's day is observed as a holiday in all states with the exception of Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island.

About four o'clock this afternoon a new box—No. 65—just located at the corner of Squantum and Faxon streets, will be pulled one round for test.

J. W. Wilbur, real estate dealer of Boston, has sold to Mary E. Alger of Atlantic, 20 acres of farm land, situated in Franklin, Mass., on private terms.

Col. Francis W. Parker and George I. Aldrich, Esq., both former superintendents of schools in this city, have been invited to attend the High School reunion Jan. 24.

On Thursday the ladies of the Baptist society of Wollaston will hold their yearly meeting and supper will be served at seven to which all members of the congregation are invited.

The Memorial Congregational church and society combined are to give their new pastor, Rev. Edward Norton, and his wife a reception at the church next Wednesday evening, Jan. 1.

The 30th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Olney of Wollaston occurs on New Year's night. It is superfluous to add that they will keep informally open house on that evening.

There is a general feeling of dissatisfaction that the public schools of Quincy should be in session on New Year's day and it is something unusual in Quincy that they should open the day before.

The lecture of the Rev. M. D. Kneeland, D D., on Sabbath Protection, takes place this evening at 7 30 o'clock, in the Centre Congregational church. Other ministers and representative citizens will take part.

Some one, probably a boy, was locked into E. B. Souther's store Saturday night, and after the occupant had departed he helped himself to an air gun and a few coppers and let himself out by the back door.

The LEDGER received today an autograph letter from Hon. Richard Olney, the Secretary of State, requesting the insertion of an advertisement of the death of Charles King alias Charles Gibbons of Quincy, Mass., at St. Stephen, N. B. He died Oct. 9, 1895, and his friends can obtain further information by applying to the department.

The engine of the 10.15 outward train jumped the track at Atlantic Saturday night, near the junction of the Granite branch, and as a consequence all trains were delayed several hours. None of the cars left the track and no one was injured. The trouble is said to have been caused by the interlocking switch which is being changed over.

The store of F. F. Crane on Chestnut street was entered sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning by unknown parties who gained an entrance by breaking the glass in one of the back windows and turning the catch. Once inside the money drawer was forced open and about 25 cents in coppers taken. Nothing else has been missed.

To be Incorporated.

One of the most promising industries of Quincy is that of bicycle manufacturing. The Quincy Cycle Co. has one contract of 5000 wheels and to do this large order has decided to enlarge its capital and become incorporated.

A meeting of the capitalists of the city is called for Thursday evening, and has the endorsement of such men as John R. Graham, John Swithin, Rupert F. Claflin and Clarence Burgin.

As dividends from bicycle corporations are among the largest now received, it is a grand opportunity to help along an industry which will benefit the city.

Quincy Shoe Company.

A meeting of the Quincy Shoe Co. was held Saturday evening at the office of the Quincy & Boston street railway, at which the following additional officers were elected:

President,—John R. Graham.

Directors,—John R. Graham, Rupert F. Claflin, Wilson Tisdale, Clarence Burgin, Herbert T. Drake, John Swithin, F. A. Bicknell.

THE GILL MONUMENT.

About $2,000 Will Probably be Needed for Memorial.

Four granite firms which make a specialty of statuary work have been invited by the PATRIOT and LEDGER to outline a design with the probable cost in Quincy granite. A statue with a suitable pedestal will cost in the vicinity of $2,000, perhaps less. At the proper time, when the subscriptions warrant it, a committee on design will be selected, and it will be the effort to obtain something artistic, which it is hoped may lead to other works of art in this city.

It has been suggested that the southerly angle of the church yard triangle, at the corner of Hancock and Temple streets, would be the more suitable place for the statue when the contemplated improvements are made. This would put a finish on the corner and would overlook City Square where Mr. Gill has so long been a familiar figure.

Another has suggested a mortuary chapel at Mount Wollaston cemetery in memory of Mr. Gill. This is something very much needed, especially in winter, at this cemetery. Yet it is doubtful if subscriptions of $20,000 could be obtained Such a costly undertaking should more properly be undertaken by the city.

For as the light
Not only serves to show, but render us
Mutually profitable: so our lives
In acts exemplary, not only win
Ourselves good names, but do to others give Matter for virtuous deeds, by which we live.
—Chapman.

The first subscription to supplement that of the PATRIOT and LEDGER is that of Mr Charles A. French of 17 Adams street, who forwards $1. Who will be the next?

Popular subscriptions of small sums are desired and should be forwarded to Mr. Frank F. Prescott, who will act as treasurer. All sums will be promptly acknowledged in both papers. These contributions have been received.

The Glorious Birthday.

One of the finest Sunday school concerts, ever given in the Universalist church was enjoyed by a large audience last evening. A new Christmas exercise prepared by S. W. Straub, entitled "The Glorious Birthday," was carried through in a very creditable manner by the superintendent, choir and school. There was an unusually large amount of singing, and the choir under its excellent chorister, Herbert F. Nye, did nobly.

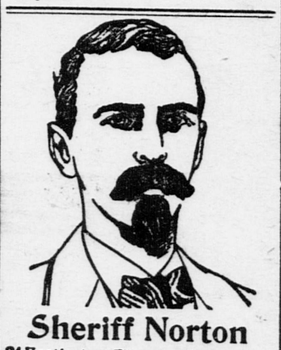

The remarks of the pastor, at the close of the exercises were both appropriate and pleasing, and the gathering returned to their home much pleased with what they had seen and heard; and with a feeling that the evening had been well spent.

Complimentary Concert.

Last Friday evening the friends of Mr. John Cunningham tendered him a complimentary concert and dance at Music hall, Atlantic. There was a very good attendance and the affair was very enjoyable. Those who gave their services in the concert were Mr. Joseph Callahan, reader, Mr. John Lonie, violinist and whistling soloist, the Riggs sisters of Everett, song and dance artists, Mrs. Emma Fratus, reader, Mr. Phelan and Miss Mary Bruce, duetists, the Lawler brothers, quartette, Mr. Joseph Roche, reader, Mr. Joseph Murphy, xylophone soloist, Mr. Eddie Rudderham, comedian, and Mr. Cornelius Duggan, vocal soloist.

After the concert dancing was enjoyed until 2 A M., music for the same being furnished by Hanson's orchestra. The floor was in charge of Mr. Martin Cunniff who was assisted by eighteen aids.

IN THE CHURCHES.

Rev. Mr. Breed took a seasonable text for a brief, strong talk Sunday evening. He emphasized the one essential fact of a necessity of finishing work begun. As this year is finished, one naturally asks, how many of plans laid out during the past year, were concluded? How many things were taken up, and soon dropped? Too well finish a work, a plan must be first formed, then it should be completed, finished. He alluded to the last words of Jesus at close of his life. "It is finished." "I have done the work thou gavest me to do." The short sermon furnished with a fruitful theme for the full congregation that listened to it. The music especially arranged, was fine. The view of the decorations from the entrance of the church showed with what artistic care they were up, as two horizontal strips of evergreen at the altar entrance, gave an impression of perspective, distance that was unusual and the evergreen festooned to the rafters lent an air to the interior that was restful and yet inspiring.

The Rev. E. C. Butler of the First church spoke before a crowded house at the Wollaston Unitarian vesper services on Sunday afternoon. The congregation was not made up wholly of Unitarians as prominent members of the Congregational, Baptist and Methodist societies were noticed among the large audience. Mr. Butler read his scripture lesson from the eleventh chapter of Hebrews.

He based his theme upon an incident happening between the Christian Knights and Ialadin in Scott's novel of the Talisman. He spoke upon the Old and the New Man, the man of the mediæval ages and the man of modern times, showing how, step by step, he had ceased to rule the world by mere brute force to the present dominative of intellect. Modern civilization has not taken place fortuitously, but in a definite manner, and under the control of natural law; that the intellectual development of the human race does not move forward like a dream, without reason or order, but that there a predetermined, a solemn march, in which all must join, ever moving, ever resistlessly advancing, encountering and enduring an inevitable succession of events; that individual life and its advancement through successive stages is the model of social life and its secular variations.

The attendance at the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, was very large at both morning and evening services. The pastor, Mr. Norton, preached strong and effective sermons at both services on the closing of the year. The choir with Mrs. Coe as organist rendered several pleasing selections.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Christian Endeavor Union will be held this evening in the Centre Congregational church at the close of Dr. Kneeland's lecture.

On Tuesday evening at 8 eight o'clock services appropriate to the close of the year will be held at the Wollaston Congregational church.

The Wollaston Baptist church was never decorated so prettily for the Christmas season as it is this year Rev. Preston Gurney gave another Christmas sermon, Sunday, his text being taken from Luke, 2:10.

The weekly neighborhood meeting of the Wollaston Baptist society will be held at Deacon Gannett's on Tuesday evening.

SUNDAY NIGHT FIRE.

House in Process of Erection Damaged About $450.

It was in the vicinity of 2.30 this morning, when officer Bradley, while walking along Granite street meditating to himself that the lot of a policeman was not a happy one, discovered that a fire was in progress in the vicinity of Centre street.

He started for the fire with an alertness of a true born policeman and in a short space of time reached the scene and found the fire to be in a partly completed house off Centre street which was being built by Carpenter Swanson.

The officer rushed to the nearest box and at 2 55 the fire alarm bells were sounding an alarm from Box 138.

The fire department responded with its usual promptness and upon its arrival found a very brisk fire that at first looked bad for the house. There was a hydrant near at hand and the firemen soon had the satisfaction of having the fire under control.

The fire was caused by a stove, that was being used to dry out the plastering, getting too hot and setting fire to the wood work. The loss will not exceed $450.

TODAY'S COURT.

No Room for the Curious and the Dock Too Small.

The new court room proved much too small to accommodate all the regular attendants and as a result all those who had no business with the court were politely informed that their services could be dispensed with this morning, and they reluctantly vacated their comfortable seats for a stand on the sidewalk where the county officials were hauled over the coals for not providing room for them. There was also an unusual number of prisoners in court this morning and the dock proved much too small. Perhaps after once settled down in the new quarters things will be arranged more conveniently.

Richard Hennessey of Quincy was arraigned for drunkenness. Case placed on file.

William Buchan of Milton was sentenced to Dedham for 3 months.

Henry H. Burrell of Weymouth was arraigned for drunkenness. Case continued until Wednesday.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

SHED AND QUARRY.

H. W. Adrian has the contract for a large shaft monument of medium Quincy granite for western parties. The bottom base is 7x7. The two bottom bases are to be fine hammered; the plenth will be polished on four sides and the die polished on three sides a bronze medalion occupying the remaining side of the die. The shaft is 20 feet high and the monument when completed will stand about 35 feet high.

Thomas & Miller have completed a handsome sarcophagus of Quincy granite to be erected in Pennsylvania to the memory of Thomas Henry Burrows.

But little work was done in the stone yards last week as the most of them have shut down until after New Year's.

Swingle & Falconer report that business for next season looks very encouraging.

It is reported that W. C. Townsend of Zanesville, O., is to assume charge of the plant formerly operated by him in Quincy. This plant is situated on the main line of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., and has a spur track running into the yard. It is undoubtedly one of the largest and best equiped cutting plants in the city giving employment to eight gangs. Since Mr. Townsend sold out several years ago the plant has been operated by several different firms who have not run it to its full capacity.

BRAINTREE.

The little two year old daughter of Mr. Leonard, of Monatiquot Heights, who set herself on fire last week, is doing well and will retain no permanent injury from the accident.

A Braintree man, who has been in and about Boston for fifty years, says he has been in all kinds of jams, rasberry jams, strawberry jams, and political jams, but never did he see one like that of Monday in Boston's shopping district. Of all the jams that he ever saw jam, he never saw a jam, jam as that jam jammed.

The fourth quarterly conference of the M. E. church at East Braintree was held Thursday evening.

Elmer Morrison Ellsworth came to bless the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Ellsworth last week Sunday, at one o'clock.

Last Monday night while Mr. Solon David was driving in Quincy he ran into a heavy team and was thrown to the ground. His carriage was demolished and his right arm is now in splints.

The report circulated in Boston papers to the effect that Rev. C. L. Crathern had been called to the Second church in Braintree is not true. The people like him very much, and are considering the matter, but have not yet called him.

A game of Hare and Hounds was indulged in by some members of the High school and the Wilde Athletic association on Friday morning. The Hares were: Frank Newhall, Fred Saunders, Ralph Gerry. The Hounds were: Arthur Vining, Arthur Fisher, Marion Jollett, Arthur Jones, George Mansfield, John Coughlin, and James Turley. After a run of about ten miles consuming one hour and fifteen minutes, Coughlin captured Saunders near the paper mill. After the game was over they all discussed Frankforts at Wilde's.

Nahanton Tribe, No. 81, I. O. R. M., elected the following officers last week:—Prophet, A. L. Litchfield; Sachem, E. E. Jackson; Senior Sagamore, Francis J. Mansfield; Junior Sagamore, Geo. Jones.

A Pretty Calendar.

We acknowledge the receipt by mail of a very prettily arranged calendar from the Novelty Wood Works, Boston, of which Mr. John J. McNutt is the owner. The engraving on the calendar is a copy of a photograph of the birth-place of Mr. John J. McNutt, the present owner's father, who founded the plant a half a century ago. Mr. Walter P. Hill, one of our correspondents, is a representative of that well known house.

The Police Force of Quincy.

QUINCY, Dec. 28, 1895.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

DEAR SIR:—It is a great pity that a man like Mr. Henry H. Faxon, who has in the past done good work in securing the enforcement of the liquor laws should every so often be subject to fits of delivering himself of the most blind and unreasoning abuse of anybody and everybody connected in any way with the machinery of the law, First it is the lawyers, then it is the judges, last year it was the present Mayor, and now it is the police.

Some people believe in Mr. Faxon for what he has accomplished in his younger days. Others who don't know him, see and read his periodical effusions, and having no knowledge to the contrary believe that Quincy is a disorderly place, a hot-bed of corruption and a paradise for rum-sellers. In this way he injures the cause of temperance and gives the reputation of Quincy as a law-abiding city, a black-eye; whereas the facts are that Quincy is an orderly city, extremely free from disturbances of all kinds, for one having so large a class of foreign labor, as can be testified to by any person going about amongst them.

There have been comparatively few arrests made this year, for the violation of the liquor laws, for the very good reason that there has been very little if any evidence that the law was being violated. In all cases where there has been a suspicion based upon any tangible evidence of such a violation, prompt arrests have been made, and convictions have followed in every instance but one. This state of things is largely owing to the fact that the liquor laws in Quincy were strictly enforced last year, as well as several years prior.

Mr. Faxon's own statement verifies this when he says in his interviews published in the papers, that he had a private detective located in Quincy during a part of the summer, engaged solely for the purpose of securing evidence against liquor sellers, who reported to him that it was impossible for a stranger to buy a glass of liquor in the town.

The trouble with Mr. Faxon aside from his desire to get himself into the newspapers and stir things up, is he expects more than the law allows; the law does not yet prohibit drinking liquor, and we can't make arrests founded simply on vague rumors without evidence that liquor is sold.

The police force of Quincy is composed of an honest, courteous and pains-taking body of men, doing their duty conscientiously, but without vindictiveness against any person or class of persons and the attack of Mr. Faxon charging them with dishonesty and incompetency, is cowardly and uncalled for in view of the facts, and is ill-befitting a man of Mr. Faxon's standing. Mr. Faxon well knows that under our city charter the Mayor is at the head of our department of police, and that any just complaint against myself or the men would be immediately investigated either by the executive or the council at the election of Mr. Faxon. The police department courts the fullest public investigation of itself. If Mr. Faxon has further to say, let him bring his charges before the Mayor or the council; I do not care to further discuss the matter through the newspapers.

JOSEPH H. HAYDEN,
Chief of Police of Quincy.

Before semaphore signaling came into vogue on English railways a lighted candle at night in the window of the station house signified "stop," while its absence indicated the line was clear.

ALL AT SEA

But Finally Rescued from Danger. Result of Taking a Friend's Advice.

There are thousands of women to-day entirely at sea, so to speak, as far as their ailments are concerned.

They are overtaken by some female complaint, and send for their doctor in all haste. He usually tries this and that without success; he is all at sea, and his poor patient is with him. Suddenly a lady friend tells the sufferer to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because it has cured her.

The following letter shows the result of that trial, and is a sample of thousands of similar cases happening daily.

"I had been very sick for a long time; doctored with many prominent physicians. They pronounced my case dyspepsia, and said there was a tendency to cancer of the womb. There was a sense of fulness and weight in stomach after meals, loss of appetite, and offensive belching of wind, dizziness, 'all gone' feeling in pit of the stomach; headache, heartburn, palpitation at times, urine high colored. A lack of interest in all things.

"The doctor's medicines gave me but little relief. I was almost in despair, when a friend advised your Compound. I took it, and am now perfectly well. I can recommend it to all women. A number of my friends and neighbors have taken it on my recommendation, and have always found relief." — MRS. JAMES CRANKSHAW, Frankford, Pa.

Tried to Wreck a Train.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 30. — Fred Hasbrouk, aged 12 years, was arrested last night for placing obstructions on the Berkshire division of the Consolidated road. Two other boys were connected with Hasbrouk's scheme to derail a train for this city a few days ago. The prosecuting attorney does not think the boys realized the gravity of their work, but believes that they were simply willfully mischievous. All the boys were arrested last night.

VETOES OF PRESIDENT

Await the Bond and Tariff Bills Should They Pass the Senate.

The House Quickly Disposed of Both Measures.

But Little Work Will Be Done In Congress This Week.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Speaker Reed put the bond and certificate bill through the house Saturday evening as it was reported by the ways and means committee and without giving opportunity for a vote on the amendments which the administration desired.

The attempt of the anti-bond Republicans to knock out the bond feature failed, for they could only muster 47 votes, including all the silver Republicans, although they did bring down the majority for it to 34, the vote standing 170 to 136. Then the certificate section was adopted, and the bill passed without a division.

The closing hours of the debate were lacking in spirit, and there was practically no excitement until the vote was taken. The margin of 34 by which the first section of the bill (against which the Republican opponents of the measure massed their opposition) was passed, showed that the friends of the measure had marshalled every available vote in its favor.

As it was, 47 Republicans refused to act with the majority of their party. The Populists and Democrats, with the exception of Mr. Hutchinson (Tex.), who voted for the bill, presented an unbroken front against the bill.

The bill, as passed, amends the resumption act so as to permit the issue of 3 per cent coin bonds, redeemable after five years at the pleasure of the government and payable in 15 years, with the specific proviso that nothing in the bill shall be construed to repeal the act of 1878 for the reissue of the greenbacks, and that the bonds shall first be offered for subscription at the sub-treasuries and depositories of the United States.

The second section of the bill provides for the issue of three-year debt certificates of denominations of $20 and multiples thereof in amounts not exceeding $50,000,000, to meet temporary deficiencies.

On Friday night the Republican managers were not counting upon more than 20 majority for the passage of the bond bill; they are satisfied enough with their 34 majority. It required, however, a good deal of hard work on their part to pull the figures up to this level.

Forces All In Line.

The whippers-in had their hands full. Mr. Reed's strongest lieutenants had to labor with the men who were threatening to bolt to induce them to vote for the bill.

A strong argument used was that the president, without waiting to see what the action of congress would be, had made up his mind in advance to issue bonds, and that a contract had virtually been made with the Morgan syndicate. It was said that under these circumstances no Republican ought to be influenced by the fact that the president declared the bill to be unsatisfactory.

That this bill cannot pass the senate is conceded. It will there be amended by the free silver men, who are in control of the finance committee and the senate itself, and come back to the house in such a shape that the house will reject it without much consideration.

It of course makes little difference what the senate does, as the president will not accept the bill. The free silver men want the satisfaction of passing some kind of a free silver bill, and care very little what happens after the bill has once left their hands.

There is no common purpose between the house and senate, and no common ground upon which both they and the president can stand. It is open war all round.

The tariff bill will probably come before the senate next week. Its future is not only uncertain, but is regarded with indifference. It is possible that it will be passed by the senate after considerable amendment, and if so the house may reject it.

But whether it is or not, the president will promptly give it his veto, so that so far as practicable results are concerned the bill might as well have never been reported from the ways and means committee.

Congressional Forecast.

The program in the senate for today is to perfect reorganization of the committees, listen to a speech by Senator Lodge on the Monroe doctrine, to refer the bond bill to the finance committee and then adjourn over until Thursday, unless the house can be prevailed upon to adjourn over until the following Monday.

In case of a session on Thursday, there will, in all probability, be a slim attendance, with another adjournment until Monday, Jan. 6. The adjournment over is almost certain unless a financial debate should be unexpectedly sprung.

Some of the members of the finance committee have expressed the hope that the revenue bill might be reported in some shape by Thursday, and if it should, more or less talk in the senate would occur.

The organization of the committees will proceed through the adoption of a resolution for the appointment of the list which Senator Mitchell will offer, embracing the Republican and Populist assignment as made by the Republican caucus, and the Democratic assignment as made by the Democratic caucus. It is not yet known whether a yea and nay vote will be demanded. If such a demand is made, it is presumed that the Populists will either vote with the Republicans or refrain from voting altogether.

The program in the house is for an immediate adjournment tomorrow until Friday, and from Friday till Monday, Jan. 6.

Judge Alvey Called Upon.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 30.—Richard H. Alvey, chief justice of the United States court of appeals in the District of Columbia, has been requested by President Cleveland to become a member of the Venezuelan commission. The proposition took Judge Alvey by surprise, and he begged for time to consider the matter before committing himself. This, the president granted, and Judge Alvey now has the matter under consideration. He is at his home in Hagerstown.

Police Commission In Hot Water.

NASHUA, N. H., Dec. 30.—The pastors of local churches yesterday continued their attacks upon the police commission and its alleged non-enforcement of the prohibitory law. It is now said that Chairman Spalding of the commission will resign at the next meeting of the governor's council.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

PERHAPS 'TWAS THIEVES

Who Were Primarily Responsible For the Baltimore Theater Disaster.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 30.—An inquest over the victims of the Front Street theater disaster was held yesterday, and the coroner's jury found that no one was to blame except the people in the audience, who lost their heads and brought on the panic.

The members of the jury viewed the body of Jennie Henkle, and Dr. Kierle performed an autopsy in this case to determine the cause of death, which was shown to have resulted from suffocation. It was certified to the jury that the same cause held in all the other cases, and no other autopsies were made.

Twenty witnesses were examined, and the incidents of the disaster were rehearsed without material change being made in the facts as heretofore published. There was plenty of testimony to the effect that gas had been escaping in the Front Street theater for many months and that the managers of the house have been repeatedly requested to remedy it.

Two men also testified that, in their opinion, the cry of "Fire!" which brought on the panic was raised by thieves for the purpose of robbery. It was brought out that various articles were stolen during the frightful crush, including all or a great portion of the box office receipts for the night, a pair of diamond earrings, which were snatched from a woman's ears, and a large number of overcoats, canes and umbrellas.

Witnesses also swore they saw two men running away from the theater after the panic was under way, and that the fugitives refused to stop when called upon to do so.

Will Be Doctored.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—With all the testimony in the Defender case before the committee, and with Lord Dunraven and Arthur Glennie on the high seas, homeward bound, the worst of the international yachting storm has blown over, and the patient hearing of the sensational charges made by Lord Dunraven will probably be finished by this evening. It will be thoroughly digested, arranged and expurgated in parts before it is allowed to appear in public. It is asserted that portions of the testimony by Lord Dunraven and C. O. Iselin exhibited a marked degree of warmth. These portions will, doubtless, be toned down for general publication.

Government's Promise Not Kept.

DURANGO, Colo., Dec. 30.—The board of trade has issued an appeal to the people of the United States on behalf of Chief Ignacio and the Ute Indians, who, with him, declined allotment of land and moved to the western end of the old reservation, on the promise that an agency should be established at Navajo Springs. No agency was established, and the Indians, who refused to travel 75 miles to the eastern agency for their supplies, are said to be only kept from starving by the charity of the settlers and the Durango board of trade. The Indian department is charged with being "cold-blooded."

Suspected of Murder.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Albert A. Nellis, a real estate dealer, is suspected of having murdered Mrs. Jane Runnett. The body of the murdered woman was found in the hallway of the house in which Nellis lived. Nellis at first denied that he was acquainted with Mrs. Runnett, but afterward stated that he had known her for 15 years, and that his wife and the murdered woman were close friends.

The Chessmasters.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 30.—Yesterday's play in the international chess tournament was as follows: Steinitz (white) and Pillsbury drew a Petroff defense after 35 moves. Lasker (black) beat Tschigorin in a Giuoco piano after 45 moves. The score to date: Pillsbury, won 5, lost 2; Lasker, won 4½, lost 2½; Steinitz, won 3, lost 4; Tschigorin, won 1½, lost 5½.

No Clew Found.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—At midnight, 48 hours after the theft of Mrs. Burden's $50,000 worth of jewels, it could not be said that the police were any nearer the recovery of the stolen goods. They have made some progress in the task of discovering the probable identity of the robbers, but even that progress establishes nothing definite.

Waller Feels Grateful.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—A letter received from ex-Consul Waller, dated at his prison in France, states that his health has improved recently. He also states that there has been an improvement in his treatment. He expresses gratitude to those who have befriended him and his family in their country.

Assets Are Light.

BANGOR, Me., Dec. 30.—The liabilities of Elisha W. Shaw of Newport, who recently filed a petition in insolvency, are estimated to be about $285,000. The assets are estimated at from $50,000 to $55,000. This failure is regarded as the greatest business disaster in recent times in this part of Maine.

A Double Tragedy.

SISTERVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 30.—At Cochransville, Frank Rogers, 20 years old, while drunk, shot Alice McClelland twice and then fired two bullets through his own heart. Miss McClelland was an inmate of a so-called houseboat. The man is dead, the girl dying.

No Over-Issue of Stock.

LACONIA, N. H., Dec. 30.—Treasurer Edmund Little denies the statement, published in a Boston Sunday paper, that there is any over-issue of Laconia street railway stock, and says that the stock book is in his possession and has never gone out of his hands.

Crew Safe.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 30. — Schooner George P. Trigg, Captain Robertson, from Charlottetown, P. E. I., to Halifax and Portland, is ashore on Three Top island. She will undoubtedly be a total wreck. The crew are safe.

Regulars Doing Duty.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 30.—At the request of United States Minister Terrell, the sultan has ordered that regular troops replace the reserve soldiers who are guarding the missionaries in the exposed parts of the empire.

Wheat For Australians.

MELBOURNE, Dec. 30.—A shipment of 1000 tons of California has arrived at Sydney. The stock of old Victorian wheat, together with the orders already placed in California, will cover the net deficiency of Australasia.

Small Receipts.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—The exports of specie from the port of New York last week amounted to $2,314,574 in gold and $1,000,000 in silver. The imports were: Gold, $151,566; silver $3059.

THE CUBAN WAR.

But Little Reliable News From the Center of the Disturbances.

HABANA, Dec. 30.—In spite of the reports received here that the main body of the insurgents had retreated from the province of Matanzas and were once more in Santa Clara, reports continue to come in of damage done at various points in Matanzas and of threatening movements of bodies of insurgents. Whether these are wandering and isolated bands cannot be estimated accurately. An engagement with an insurgent band was reported yesterday from the province of Pinar del Rio, the westernmost part of the island.

Uneasiness is also caused in official circles by reports that come from the province of Santiago de Cuba, the Oriental province. The report of Jose Maceo's flight seems to be without foundation, as there are renewed evidences of his activity in that province, and the troops stationed there are finding abundant occupation.

The Spanish authorities have reason to suspect that a movement is contemplated in the Oriental province to bring about a junction of the insurgent bands there, and troops are actively engaged in trying to prevent the coming together of Jose Maceo and Rabi, whose combined forces would afford means for a formidable movement that would effect a diversion and prevent the withdrawal of Spanish troops to re-enforce those active against Gomez, Antonio Maceo and Bendera in Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces.

Nothing authentic is known of the immediate whereabouts and doings of Gomez and his forces, who were said to be threatening Cienfuegos. Nothing has been heard from there, though several skirmishes are said to have occurred in Santa Clara province, with the result that 15 insurgents were killed and nine taken prisoners.

The insurgents seem to be still in considerable force in the neighborhood of Cardenas and Cimarrenes. The bands of Pancho and Peroz, who were said to be retreating, burned the station at Murga and destroyed several houses at Lagunillas. They also plundered the stores at Contreras.

England's Hands Full.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The Times this morning publishes long dispatches from Cape Town, Paris and Berlin, bearing on the Transvaal question, which seems to be displacing the Venezuelan question in the public interest. The Paris dispatch quotes The Debats as saying: The London Times seems to be avenging itself on the Boers for the moderate tone it was obliged to adopt toward Uncle Sam. The Times also has a column article, explanatory of the Transvaal trouble, which says: Equality of representation, with taxation, language, law, responsibility of the administration to the legislature and the removal of religious disabilities are among the chief of the Uitlanders' demands, while they desire to maintain republican institutions. The Times complains that the French and German press are criticising England without properly grasping the history or geography of the question. The Times believes that no desperate remedy, such as an appeal to force, will be required. Some reasonable concessions, it continues, even though not all that the Uitlanders might rightfully claim, might avail the postponement of a conflict. The Americans and Germans are siding with the Transvaal government in the controversy over conceding rights to foreigners.

IN ARMENIA'S BEHALF.

Boston Business Men Consider What Should Be Done.

Is Estimated That $500,000 Will Be Needed.

Perfectly Willing to Place Funds in Hands of Red Cross Society.

BOSTON, Dec. 31.—In response to the invitation issued by several prominent citizens for a meeting at which to organize in support of the American National Red Cross in its proposed work in behalf of the suffering Armenians in Asia Minor, a number of the business men of this city assembled yesterday at noon in the aldermanic chamber at city hall.

Mayor-elect Josiah Quincy acted as presiding officer. In opening the meeting he said, in part: "We have seen the great powers stand idly by and make no efforts thus far to put to an end the extraordinary conditions prevailing in Armenia. While people of the United States have no direct interest as European countries have in the affairs of the Turkish empire, they have, nevertheless, been aroused to a sense of the necessity of some action toward alleviating the sufferings in Armenia."

Miss Clara Barton, who is at the head of the Red Cross organization, was then introduced. She said that three weeks ago she had never thought that she or the Red Cross society would be called upon to aid the Armenians. It was not until a committee from Boston solicited her aid that she had given it consideration. It was necessary that the Red Cross society should receive unanimous support, and that ample financial support should be furnished, she said. It was necessary that the society should be backed by the credit of the government and American people.

When the money asked for had been subscribed, the society had no alternative but to accept the mission. The society has been carried for 12 years, and had never appealed for money. It had always gone to a field of action with supplies sufficient to do some good when they got there.

Miss Barton, in answer to a query, said if there was anybody in this country whom the Turkish government would be likely to allow to enter Armenia, it was the representatives of the Red Cross society.

Hon. Jonathan A. Lane moved the adoption of a set of resolutions that had been drawn up. They were read by Secretary Guild, and passed, as follows:

The Resolutions.

Whereas, the appeal from the suffering Armenians in Asia Minor has stirred the hearts of our countrymen and led to organized efforts for relief; and

Whereas, the American National Red Cross has announced its readiness to take the field as soon as adequate support is assured; and

Whereas, Miss Barton, the president of the Red Cross (whom we gladly welcome as our guest today) is hopeful that the way will be open in Turkey for her and her staff to distribute our gifts in the afflicted districts of the interior; therefore,

Resolved, That the chairman of this meeting be authorized to appoint a committee of 30 gentlemen, with power to add to their number, to inaugurate a plan for obtaining subscriptions throughout the city.

Resolved, That in view of what has been done by the Boston committee of five in receiving and forwarding over $30,000 through trustworthy channels, we would ask their assistance in this larger movement of our citizens;

Resolved, That in order to secure full cooperation in this work, the governors, mayors, boards of trade and citizens generally throughout New England, be and hereby are requested to unite with us by effecting similar organizations without delay.

Resolved, That we recommend Messrs. Brown Bros. & Co., 50 State street, as the treasurers of our funds.

The committee appointed by Chairman Quincy is composed of J. A. Lane, Alden Speare, W. F. Robinson, Eben Jordan, Jr., A. Shuman, E. H. Dunn, F. W. Breed, Frank Wood, J. P. Bates, Edwin Ginn, S. B. Capen, T. P. Capen, T. S. Wentworth, J. V. Fletcher, A. A. Pope, Franklin Haven, J. M. Sears, W. A. Gaston, C. F. Donnelly, J. C. Paige, S. S. Blanchard, C. H. Taylor, J. S. Holmes, Stephen O'Meara, Jerome Jones, E. H. Haskell, J. H. Hecht, W. H. Sayward, M. P. Kennard, A. S. Porter and A. G. Weeks.

Red Cross' Conditions.

G. H. Pullman, a member of the Red Cross society, declared that if the Red Cross went to Turkey on this mission to Armenians, it must go unhampered by any conditions attached to the funds. The society must have absolute control of them. He ridiculed the terms "venerable" and "decrepit," which had been applied to Miss Barton, and declared that no man present could surpass her in endurance in carrying on the work of relief.

In reply to questions, he said that $100,000 should be in the hands of the society before it applied to Turkey for admission. He thought that a conservative estimate of the number of Armenians who are destitute was from 300,000 to 350,000.

Chairman Porter of the original relief committee told about the formation of the Anglo-American committee of relief in Constantinople. He stated that England had already sent about $100,000, which was more than America had sent. Another question brought from Miss Barton the statement that she had no knowledge of the Red Cross being sent from any other country. The international society approved of the mission of the American branch.

Addresses were made by Mr. Gulesian, Mr. Lane, Robert T. Paine and Mrs. Julia W. Howe in support of the movement to raise funds for the support of Red Cross work in Turkey. Mrs. Howe's address in special was a most impassioned plea for civilization, for Christendom to repress the Turk and put an end to the massacre of Armenians.

In closing, Mayor-elect Quincy thanked Miss Barton on behalf of the audience for her presence and aid and also those who were with her.

Anthony Found.

BOSTON, Dec. 31. — Frederick E. Anthony, the Providence real estate broker, who mysteriously disappeared from Young's hotel, this city, Dec. 21, was last night found quietly eating a hearty supper in a Causeway street restaurant. He was taken to Young's by his relatives and left for Providence today. His friends and relatives engaged the services of the police and Pinkertons, and offered a reward of $500 for information that would lead to his location. This information was furnished last evening by A. W. Lewis, proprietor of the restaurant, who notified J. W. Tillinghast, Anthony's nephew, and Mr. Bliss, who had been active in the search. Anthony did not seem surprised to see them, and without hesitation accompanied them to the hotel. He refused to make any explanation of his disappearance, but it is understood his mind was slightly deranged.

Brookfield Bank Robbed.

BROOKFIELD, Mass., Dec. 31.—Hiram P. Gerald, cashier of the Brookfield Savings bank, has disappeared. It is believed he is a defaulter to the amount of between $10,000 and $15,000, and his disappearance strengthens this belief. About three weeks ago George W. Johnson, president of the bank, was appointed receiver. He instituted an investigation into the affairs of the institution, and soon discovered something wrong with Gerald's accounts. Attachments have been placed on his property in Brookfield, and a deputy sheriff went to Springfield and placed an attachment of $20,000 on Gerald's property in Hampden county. Gerald was town clerk of Brookfield. He ran a drug store, was interested in many business enterprises and was prominent in the affairs of the town.

Well Known in Lynn.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 31.—Mrs. Mary A. Davidson, arrested for blackmail in San Francisco, had a rapid career in Lynn, in 1880-81-82-83-84, when she conducted a piano agency. She was finally arrested for selling mortgaged property and served one year at Sherburn. A sensational controversy with a minister and a host of creditors seeking her were other incidents in her Lynn history.

Ready For Service.

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 31.—Steamer St. Croix, built by the New England Ship-Building company of Bath for the International Steamboat company, made her trial trip yesterday, and last night made her first trip from Portland to St. John. On the trial spin to Seguin and return, the St. Croix developed a speed of 17¾ knots an hour. She will run from Boston to St. John.

End of Libel Case.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 31.—William P. TROOPS ARE MARCHING

But, It Is Believed, With Their Backs Toward the Insurgents.

Reports of Spanish Victories Are Discredited.

"Official" Reports Continue to Record the Winning of Many Battles.

HABANA, Dec. 31.—In spite of official reports the belief is entertained here that the Spanish forces have again sustained a serious reverse, and that instead of the insurgents being repulsed and routed, the Spaniards are retiring before their advance.

There are manifestations of grave uneasiness in official circles, and the belief is prevalent that the insurgents intend another extensive incursion into Matanzas province and westward toward Habana.

Word has just been received that General Valdez overtook the insurgent bands of Gomez and Maceo at the Maria plantation, where they were found stationed in an advantageous position. The engagement which followed was evidently a hot one, the insurgent cavalry making vigorous attacks upon the flanks of the Spanish forces. The artillery fire of the Spaniards proved effective, and the official report which is now received says that the insurgents took flight in two directions, having been divided by the assault upon them. They left seven killed and many arms, and carried away many wounded.

It is reported that the Spanish forces went in pursuit of the flying insurgents and overtook them at the Caney plantation. Here the enemy made a vigorous resistance for an hour, but were finally compelled to retreat, leaving eight killed and carrying away their wounded. The troops, it is said, lost 17 wounded.

It is further reported that an engagement is now in progress at a point between the villages of Perico, Cuevitas and Jovellanos, between General Valdez and the insurgents. Cuevitas, Perico and Jovellanos are all to the west and northwest of Colon, and are from 12 to 20 miles nearer the city of Matanzas and that much more remote from the border of Santa Clara than is the village of Calimete, at which point the Spaniards were said to have first engaged Gomez Sunday evening.

News has been received of movements by the insurgents which would indicate that their forces still overrun pretty much the

and they seem to have an uninterrupted line of communication clear across the province and into the southern part of Santa Clara to the eastward of the city of Cienfuegos. They have burned the village of Gavilau, in the Cienfuegos district, southeast of Cienfuegos and near the coast.

Besides the serious fighting believed to have occurred near Calimete, there is a force of insurgents reported to number 2000 moving in the neighborhood of Camarioca, a town only about 15 miles from the city of Matanzas and north of a line between Matanzas and Cardenas and very near the coast.

The stations at Caobas and Cabazas, which are in the immediate neighborhood of Matanzas and to the south, have been burned, as well as the canefield of the Joaquin plantation. The stores in the village of Pedroso, near to Macurijes (Corral Falso), have also been plundered. Camarioca is the farthest point north at which the insurgents have been reported, and Cabazas is almost on the line of the province of Habana.

No further reports can be had of the engagement near Calimete, as telegraphic communication is still much interrupted. It is believed that the operations that are being conducted by the insurgents in Matanzas are much more extensive than anything yet reported would indicate.

High School Reunion,

FRIDAY EVENING, JAN. 24, 1896.

Reception. Addresses and Music. Refreshments, Dancing.

All graduates of the Quincy High School are invited to attend the annual reunion to be held at the new High School Building on Hancock street, Friday evening, Jan. 24, 1896, at 7.30 o'clock.

The Board of Government urges each and every graduate to give this reunion the support of his or her presence and hearty interest. To once a year renew old school ties and revive old memories would seem to be a pleasant thing, and the future of the Association depends largely upon the success of this meeting. Graduates at a distance can materially aid by becoming members of the Association; the annual dues of 50 cents may be forwarded to Mr. C. Eaton Pierce, treasurer.

Tickets are limited to the graduates, but each can purchase two, so that they may have an escort. They may be procured of any of the board, at seventy-five cents each, or at John O. Holden's store, 154 Hancock street, Quincy. Please inform the Treasurer at your earliest convenience, whether you desire one or two tickets, that arrangements may be made.

Hon. C. F. Adams, 2d, Mayor-elect of the city of Quincy, has accepted an invitation of the Association to be its guest, and many of the past and present teachers of the school and school superintendents are expected.

The reunion will consist of a reception, speeches, music, and a two to three hours' dance. Light refreshments will be served at 9 o'clock. A good orchestra will be in attendance throughout the evening.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

THE MANUFACTURE of 5,000 bicycles in Quincy next year should keep about 100 men busy at good wages. Success to the Quincy Cycle Co.

NOW IT is said that neither Messrs. Ewell, Fallon or Saville will be selected for Commissioner of Public Works, but that William T. Shea of West Quincy may be the man.

Smith America Monument.

A meeting was held in Boston Monday to take steps for the erection of a National Memorial Monument, either in Newton, Boston or Washington (as the Trustees may decide upon after a careful examination of the case) to celebrate the lately deceased author, Rev. S. F. Smith, D D., and his immortal national hymn, "America," which is reported to have been first publicly sung in the Park Street Church of Boston, through the efforts of Lowell Mason and the school children of that time.

Addresses were made, officers elected, and the following resolutions adopted:

Resolved, That the erection of a national memorial to Dr. S. F. Smith, should appeal to all churches, societies and individuals, in view of the national character of his works and genius—and that contributions should be generously bestowed for the success of the plan. Schools are especially requested to add their gifts to the cause, while all public unions, societies and organizations are invited to pass resolutions for financial support, and especially to interview their legislators for State appropriations.

Boys Arrested.

Inspector McKay arrested three juveniles this noon who are supposed to be the boys who entered Souther's news store and F. F. Crane's store between Saturday night and Monday morning.

The boys are William Bennett aged 19 years, John Douglass aged 13 years and Benjamin Stover aged 10 years.

The Stover boy is the one who has been caught in several thieving scrapes within the past three weeks but has got off as the parties did not care to prosecute him.

This time he will be brought into court and the chances are that he will be sent away.

Young Bennett also has a bad record and he may also go away during minority.

The Monroe Doctrine.

There was an interesting debate at the meeting of the Quincy Branch of the Irish Land league Sunday evening on the following question: Resolved, "That the Monroe Doctrine is applicable to the Venezuela boundary question"

Mr. John Cavanagh and Mr. Patrick Fay spoke for the affirmative and Mr. William Faircloth and Mr. Edward Lawton for the negative.

BRAINTREE.

A lecture will be given at the Town Hall Sunday evening, Jan. 5th, upon the Armenian question. It will be given by an Armenian student who is studying at the Emerson College of Oratory, Boston. It will be held under the auspices of the Baptist, Methodist and Congregational churches.

The G. A. R. will install officers next Friday evening.

A petition is now in circulation asking the management of the electric road to run cars down to the Braintree depot as of old. It is thought that as the car from South Braintree leaves that place about two minutes ahead of advertised time nearly every trip, and is obliged to wait at the Square for the car from Quincy, that it could easily run down to the depot and back, thus accommodating the public much better than now, with no additional expense. If the leaving time at North Braintree is three minutes past the hour and half hour, instead of five as now advertised, there is ample time to do this, and until some better way can be provided it is hoped that the company will grant the petition.

SAYS GOOD-BYE.

The City Council of 1895 Adjourns Sine Die.

Mayor's Veto Causes Another Debate on Hancock Street Poles.

Many Matters were Referred to the Next City Council.

Every member was present at the last meeting of Council of 1895 held Monday evening.

Upon request of the Mayor, Councilman Grindell drew the following jurors, Charles F. Colby, John Ross, George A. Mayo.

Communications.

The Commissioner of Public Works, in a communication, stated that all companies had or were complying with the ordinances requiring the polls to be painted.

The Mayor requested the transfer of $225 from unexpended balances to miscellaneous fire department appropriation and $100 from receipts of parks to appropriation for parks. Councilman Adams offered the necessary order which was passed to be ordained.

The Auditor requested information as to whether he should approve bills amounting to $128 for clerk hire of the City Clerk.

Councilman Bryant moved that Auditor be instructed not to approve bills, which was voted.

The vote was doubted.

Councilman Bryant said the committee considered the matter of a clerk for the City Clerk but as his predecessor had asked for no appropriation for that purpose, the committee thought $100 sufficient, and that was appropriated.

The motion of Councilman Bryant prevailed.

The Mayor returned without his approval the order relating to the removal of poles on the westerly side of Hancock street. He found these poles were used by the fire department and Electric Light Co., and to change the fire alarm wires now would incur a large expense, also it was quite a hardship on the Electric Light Co., who had been refused permission to go on the new poles and if the others were taken down it would leave Norfolk Downs and Atlantic in darkness.

COUNCILMAN SPEAR,
He fires a parting shot at Councilman Bryant accusing him of getting the Committee on Streets into many holes.

Councilman Bryant said this was no hasty matter. The Committee on Streets had heard the Electric and Telephone companies and the Mayor has evidently heard only one side. When the order was passed granting the new location it was done at the suggestion of the Committee on Streets. The order provided for the removal of the old poles. He also stated that the Telephone Co. was willing for the Electric Light Co. to use its poles. That the latter were careless and had cut fire alarm wire at Wollaston.

Councilman Johnson would like to have officials of Electric Light Co. state their case.

W. G. A. Pattee of the Electric Light Co. came forward and said the Telephone Co. had refused them right on their new poles on Hancock street, or to that effect, and that no wire was cut at Wollaston.

Chief Engineer Williams was called forward and in answer to questions by Councilman Bryant said: The wire was taken off and tied round a pole. Could not state that it was broken. Had informed Mr. Bryant that it was cut but afterward found that it was not. The Electric Light Co. had no right to touch fire alarm wires without notifying him. The Electric Light Co. had caused much trouble, but had rectified it as soon as notice was given.

Mr. Pattee was then allowed to continue and said in stringing wires it was hard to do just what was right. The superintendent had received instructions not to interfere with other wires. Last spring the Committee on Streets recommended a new location for the Telephone Co. on Hancock street but no notice was given the Electric Light Co. It so happened that the Electric Light Co. used those old poles and he did not think that the Committee on Streets or Mayor knew of the condition of affairs there. It was a hardship to the Electric Light Co. If we take our wires down it cuts off Norfolk Downs, Wollaston and Atlantic from house and street lights. You also put the city to several hundred dollars expense to change the fire alarm wires. Next spring when the double track goes through probably some arrangement can be made to use those poles.

In reply to Councilman Bryant, Mr. Pattee said the reason this company objected to changing wires now was that the Telephone Co. forbid it and then the great expense.

The Chief Engineer was called forward again and Councilman Bryant attempted to question him as to the ability of the men employed by the Electric Light Co., but the chair ruled against him.

In reply to Councilman Phillips, Chief Williams said the poles were not unsafe at present and in reply to Councilman Bigelow the chief said it would cost $700 to change the wires; the removal of the telephone wires was a help to the poles.

Councilman Bryant said the city should be able to maintain equally as good a construction for its fire alarm wires as it wanted the Telephone Co. to do. Is it fair to reason that the Telephone Co. would not ask for a new location if they did not consider the old poles unsafe. Electric light wires are much more dangerous. Do we want poles that are unsafe?

COUNCILMAN BRYANT
Denies the charges and says Councilman Spear has attended but few meetings. Accuses executive of being derelict of duty.

Councilman Pinkham said Councilman Bryant states that the Electric Light Co. have a right to go on these poles but they claim they can not do so without an order from the Council. Shall we order these poles down before we give the Electric Light Co. a right to the other poles?

Councilman Bryant said that the Telephone Co. do not dispute the right of Electric Co. to go on the new poles but the Electric Co. will not stand the expense according to the agreement. The fire alarm wires have got to be moved sometime and why not now?

Councilman Sprague believed in protecting the home companies and that the Mayor's veto should be sustained.

Councilman Nickerson hoped Mayor's veto would not be sustained. The Committee on Streets had given this subject much time. It was no reason because Electric Co. were careless that they should be excused.

Councilman Johnson thought Mr. Pattee was right, that this whole matter was caused by a misunderstanding of the contract. The question as to whether the contract had been lived up to did not enter here. Our first duty was to our citizens and he did not think Council wanted to impose any hardship. He thought Mayor's reasons were good.

Councilman Rice asked, if we order these poles down have we got to give the Electric Light Co. a new location?

Councilman Bryant replied that the Telephone Co. is willing but they must come under the contract. The Electric Light Co. say we can not afford the expense.

Councilman Adams asked Mr. Pattee if he had any conversation with the Telephone Co. except the letter.

Mr. Pattee,—Yes last October when they refused to allow us to use the poles.

Councilman Adams then asked Councilman Bryant if he had received any direct statement from the Telephone Co.

Councilman Bryant replied that he had last Friday, when they said they were willing if the contract was lived up to.

Councilman Adams said, if we assume that Councilman Bryant tells the truth he has something later than the letter. We should discuss this question knowing that the Electric Light Co. can put its wires on these poles. We want the best, that is, one set of poles that are safe, and we must protect the rights of the city with the utmost care. The Mayor's objections are to the expense, and that there is not time. To the first objection he thought the city should stand expense of moving its wires, and if there is not time he thought the Council would give way for a few days. There would be nothing gained by putting it off.

Councilman Spear said the whole thing originated with the chairman of the Committee on Streets, and it is not the first time he has drawn the committee into a hole. He wants to freeze the Electric Light Company out. Some consideration should be shown them.

Councilman Bigelow was glad to hear a little truth. He thought this one of those things that the chairman of committee on streets has forced onto the Council. He thought it wise to keep those wires on that side of the street for the present.

Councilman Bryant replied that all he could say was that Councilman Spear had not attended a sufficient number of meetings of the Committee on Streets to know what it has done. The original order says

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENT'S HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL,

Probably better known as Adams' Field, is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Elopement at West Quincy.

There is considerable interest in West Quincy over an alleged elopement last Friday. The parties in the case are John Bianchi and Mrs. Julius Comi.

It seems that last Thursday evening Mr. Comi attended the Italian ball, and upon his return home during the early morning hours found Bianchi with his wife, and he lost no time in ejecting him from the house, although his wife offered objections.

The next morning in the neighborhood of 7 o'clock Mrs. Comi taking her child with her left the house, and has as yet failed to return. Investigations showed that Bianchi disappeared about the same time and it is presumed that the two are together. The matter has been reported to the police who have as yet been unable to locate them.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Granite a Stumbling Stone.

Quincy granite figures in the Atwood-Peabody libel case now on in Boston and the following catechism is reported by the Record, Mr. A. . Davis, the superintendent of construction being on the stand:

"What do you understand by block granite?"

"Granite cut out in square blocks by stone cutters with drills and other tools."

"How many sides has a piece of block granite?"

"Four."

This answer caused many smiles to be exchanged in the court room, which the unmathematical witness could not understand.

Witness fully described under examination, the several kinds of stone used for foundations.

Witness further testified that the cellar was filled and graded by Woodbury & Leighton for $1400.

The court then took a recess of 10 minutes.

After recess Samuel Roberts, a contractor testified that he furnished part of the stone for the interior wall of the cellar, and sold it to Woodbury & Leighton.

Witness testified that the exterior was built of Quincy rubble. The top course of the wall was of block granite.

Witness averred that the price at Quincy was $2.50 per perch for rough stone. Block granite at that time cost $4 50 to $5 delivered.

By Mr. McLaughlin—"What was the average size of the blocks in the wall?"

"About 15 inches."

"How do you define block granite?"

"It must be of three dimensions, the length, the rise and the width. In the Boston markets it is supposed to be 18 inches rise."

This witness also testified that a piece of block granite had four faces.

"Might it not have only two faces?" asked Mr. McLaughlin.

"No."

Witness did not agree with Davis in saying that block granite must be cut out by hand.

"What is grout?"

"Grout is stone that is blown out by powder blasts."

By Storey—"How is block granite made?"

McLaughlin—"I pray your honor's judgment."

Judge Gaskill—"I think that question has been answered."

Young Men's Christian Association.

The young men's rally Sunday afternoon was unusually well attended and the talks very interesting. Mr. Gregg, of Harvard college, sang a solo.

Rev. Mr. Wilson of the Neponset Baptist church will speak next Sunday.

The New Year's reception tomorrow afternoon and evening will be well worth attending. The graphophone concert will be both unique and entertaining. The instrument to be used is one that can be heard in a large hall seating from one to two thousand people. The concert will be given at 5 o'clock and 8 o'clock. The ladies of the auxiliary will receive from four to ten o'clock.

The debate next Thursday evening will be the most interesting, probably, of any yet held by the Debating club. The average young man knows very little about the "Monroe Doctrine," and now that there is so much talk about it and its application to Venezuela he is anxious to understand it. Thursday evening will give him a good opportunity.

January Magazines.

The first edition of the January McClure's is 3,000,000 copies—an increase of 170,000 in three months. It is easy to understand these great strides in circulation when one has read, in this number, the remarkable story of Lincoln as the manager of Denton Offutt's saw-mill and country store at New Salem, the victorious wrestler against the champion of Clary's Grove, the student, between whiles, of Kirkham's Grammar, a candidate for the legislature, and a captain of raw recruits in the Black Hawk war; and when one has inspected the twenty-five pictures which help to vivify this most engaging chapter of Lincoln history. We have been advised heretofore that the history of Lincoln's early years was lost. This can be said no more; for Miss Tarbell has recovered it for McClure's down to its smallest detail.

The January number of the New England Magazine opens appropriately with an article on "The Winter Birds of New England," by Mr. William Everett Cram. A very charming article it is, and exquisitely illustrated by its author, who is a young New Hampshire naturalist. The frontispiece of the magazine is a fine portrait of John Trumbull, accompanying an article upon the great patriot painter by Miss Ellen Strong Bartlett. An illustrated article no less interesting is that by Mrs. Lydia Avery Coonley of Chicago upon "George F. Root and His Songs."

Outing for January is a beautiful number. An elegant holiday cover and many fine illustrations please the artistic eye, while this golden promise is fulfilled by the quality of the text. The world's magazine of sport, travel and recreation, never celebrated the birth of the New Year in more charming guise.

The complete novel in the January issue of Lippincott's is by Mrs. Alexander, the author of "The Wooing O't" and other well-known books. "Mrs. Crichton's Creditor" was also her admirer, but his devotion was disinterested almost beyond parallel, and her innocence and sense of duty were such that the two would have made a model pair—if only they had been paired. As for Mr. Crichton, there was much less to be said in his favor.

Godey's Magazine has brought out another novelty for the January issue, in the shape of a Woman's Number. All the articles, stories, and psems in it are either by or about women. If anyone thinks, however, that the magazine is less interesting on this account, let him read in Joseph Dana Miller's "The New Woman in Office."

SAYS GOOD-BYE.

old poles should be removed. When any gentleman accuses me of bringing in an order unknown to the Committee on Streets it is a falsehood. We know that the executive department has not attended to its business during the past year as it should, and he brought the order to enforce the original order.

The Council then refused to pass the order over the Mayor's veto by the following vote:

YEAS,—Adams, Bryant, Hayden, Nickerson, Parker, Phillips, Rice, Rinn, Sidelinger.—9.

NAYS,—Barker, Bigelow, Dixon, Geary, Grindell, Johnson, Lamb, O'Brien, Pinkham, Russell, Shackley, Spear, Sprague.—13.

Petitions.

Councilman Russell presented a petition to run a guy wire across School street, which was referred to the executive department.

Reports.

The Committee on Streets reported that order granting locations of poles to Telephone Co. and order relating to assessments of betterments on Walker street extension be referred to next Council. Adopted.

The Committee on State Aid reported leave to withdraw on petition of Catherine M. Lapham. Adopted.

E. W. HENRY BASS

Who retires from the City Council after six years continuous service, three as President.

The Committee on Public Grounds reported that order relating to Liberty Square be referred to the next Council. Adopted.

The order authorizing the Water Department to expend the $45,000 was passed to be ordained. Councilman Bigelow and Phillips voting in the negative.

The order granting the Quincy & Boston street railway a location for a double track on Hancock street came up for its final passage.

Councilman Rice said this was one of those important matters. There had been no discussion on this question. He believed it should be referred to the next Council and he so moved.

Councilman Bryant saw nothing to be gained by waiting. The Committee on Streets had put all the restrictions they could on the company.

Councilman Russell thought the city should get something in return from these valuable locations.

The Council then voted to refer the order to the next Council.

The special committee appointed to draft resolutions on the death of George L. Gill reported as follows, which were accepted by a rising vote:

WHEREAS: In the death of Mr. George L. Gill the city has lost one of its foremost citizens, a man who, for nearly one-third of this century, served the citizens of Quincy faithfully and well as Town Clerk, be it

Resolved,—That in the death of this honorable and faithful public servant, this community loses one of the best examples of true manhood, loyal alike to his God and to his fellowmen. As representative to the General Court in the years just previous to the Civil war, his career was honorable and creditable; as postmaster during the war his services were most valuable to the town; as treasurer of the Quincy Savings bank, his untiring zeal and wise judgment placed it high among Massachusetts banks. His charity, his courteous manner, his unfailing willingness to aid the rich and poor alike, made him beloved by all. The City of Quincy, in meeting assembled, hereby bear testimony to his many virtues and noble character, and to his widow and family tender their heartfelt sympathy in their great sorrow. Be it further

Resolved,—That these resolutions be entered upon the records of this Council, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

New Business.

Councilman Adams offered an order transferring $150 from receipts of interest to removal of snow. Passed to be ordained under suspension of the rules.

Councilman Adams offered an order extending a vote of thanks to President Bass and City Messenger Tirrell, which was adopted.

President Bass responded feelingly and said while he retired from the Council he should endeavor to attend its meetings. He also expressed thanks for the City Messenger.

Councilman Bryant moved all unfinished business be referred to the next Council. Voted.

Councilman Geary read a brief poem on the parting of the Council, after which the Council of 1895, at 10.03, adjourned sine die.

FOR THE SABBATH.

Dr. Kneeland's Address Shows Progress in Work of League.

A union meeting of the Christian Endeavor societies of Quincy was held Monday evening at the Centre Congregational church, Rev. Robert Westly Peach presiding.

There was a goodly company of Endeavorers present despite the rain, but the general public was not very largely represented. Unfortunately also, the City Council being in session, several of the councilmen who desired to be present were kept away; and as some of the churches are now holding special meetings, their pastors could not come.

Those who were able and willing to be present heard a stirring, "factful," forceful address, full of courage and of hope. When Dr. Kneeland told of some of the losses to the cause of Sabbath observance during the last decade, and then of some of the victories since the organization of the New England Sabbath Protective League, there was a spirit of thanksgiving aroused in the hearts of the listeners.

Rev. Martin D. Kneeland, D. D., secretary of the New England Sabbath Protective League, was the speaker, in the interest of Sabbath Protection and in part he said: I consider it a privilege and honor to speak to Christian Endeavorers as I had the honor of forming one of the first societies in New York. Christian Endeavorers are true on this great question which is on the line of good citizenship. The young people are to lead the generations which are to follow. Christian Endeavorers to the number of two and a half million members stand for a better Sunday, and they are to lift the standard higher. The last part of the past week about thirty applications by corporations and others were made to the Commissioner in Boston for permits to work on Sunday, but through the efforts of the League, in every instance permits were denied, and it is a settled fact in Boston that no such permits shall be granted in the future.

The workingmen are aroused on this subject. He had told them of the privilege of worship, and had seen many attentive eyes, if not dim eyes with thoughts of the old home where mother taught them to pray.

The noblest work is denying yourself for some one else. The two great thoughts are, fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of humanity. We shall be lost unless we do something to elevate our brothers. The nations that have stood for the Christian Sabbath have prospered. The New England Sabbath Protective League has had this thought of maintaining and preserving the Christian Sabbath. One thing the league had gained last year was the closing the theatres on Sunday and he thought the league had gained the point of stopping the work on the subway in Boston on Sundays. He believes the Lord prospers us if we keep His law.

The league has only been organized about five months, and is going to organize branch societies, auxiliaries, juniors, etc. He closed by saying that the Christian Endeavor Union here was the first to invite him to speak to them, and he would like to have it stand solid for the league, and would like to see every Christian Endeavorer's name on our list who is not ashamed to be identified with the New England Sabbath Protective League.

After Dr. Kneeland had spoken, Mr. Edward Southworth said that now he understood the news item that the West End street railway company had been refused permission for track-work, etc., last Sunday. He did not know that any body could withstand the West End Company.

Mr. T. H. Wason and Mr. W. F. Cummings, Rev. C. A. Parker, Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, Rev. Robert Westly Peach, also spoke brief words of commendation of the work of the New England Sabbath Protective League.

A report of the annual meeting of the Union will appear tomorrow, including the report of Rev. Robert Westly Peach, the president.

POPULISTS HELD OFF.

Allowed Republicans to Take Control of Senate Committees.

Vigorous Speech by Lodge on Monroe Doctrine.

No More Tariff Legislation in the House During This Session.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The committees of the senate yesterday passed into the control of the Republicans. The change in the political complexion of the committees was effected by the adoption of a resolution organizing the committees as agreed to by the Republican and Democratic steering committees.

The Populists, with the exception of Mr. Kyle (S. D.), declined to vote, and the Republicans, having a plurality of the senate, were thus enabled to adopt the resolution by a vote of 30 to 28. Mr. Kyle voted with the Democrats against the reorganization.

A two-hour debate followed the adoption of the resolution, the purpose of which was mainly political. The Democrats, under the leadership of Senator Gorman, seconded by Senator Harris, attempted to show that the reorganization was effected by an alliance between the Republicans and Populists, contending that the silence of the latter, by making possible the reorganization, indicated acquiescence. They also insisted that the Republican assumption of control saddled them with responsibility for legislation. The Populists, led by Senator Allen (Neb.) and Senator Butler (N. C.), denied that they were in any way responsible for the result.

The Republicans, under the leadership of Senator Mitchell, chairman of the Republican steering committee, and assisted by Senators Hoar, Hale, Allison and Chandler, combatted the argument of the Democrats by asserting most emphatically that the Populists had even refused to make any suggestions as to their committee assignments, and had, as a matter of fact, been left by the reorganization in the positions to which they had been assigned under the Democratic control of the senate. The Republicans strongly protested also against being held responsible for legislation.

Lodge's Logic.

Before the reorganization, Senator Lodge, who has made a brilliant reputation as an historical biographer, delivered an address on the Monroe doctrine. He treated it from an historical standpoint, and gave an exhaustive sketch of the origin and progress of the dispute over the Venezuela boundary.

Although temperate in language, he took the ground that unless we insist that Venezuela's dispute with Great Britain should be submitted to friendly arbitration, we would surrender the essence, spirit and vital principle of the Monroe doctrine, which he contended was as essential to the safety and welfare of the Americans as the balance of power was to the safety and welfare of European nations.

Mr. Lodge gave a very interesting sketch of the history of the Monroe doctrine, and told how it was vitally involved in the Venezuela boundary controversy. He followed then with a brief relation of the pending dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela, which, he said, had now reached a crisis affecting most gravely the honor, the interests, the rights and the well-settled policy of the United States.

If England, with no authority but a disputed claim, seized territory and declined arbitration upon it, her action, he declared, did not differ from seizing and holding new territory in the Americas by right of conquest. If she could seize territory under a claim which had grown larger with each succeeding year, there was nothing to prevent her taking indefinite regions in South America. The senator referred to the claim made on Venezuela by Great Britain for reparation on account of the arrest by the authorities of the former country of British subjects on the disputed territory. But the question of reparation, he declared, must not be mixed up with the acquisition of territory.

If Venezuela paid the indemnity fixed and demanded by Great Britain, she acknowledged in so doing that the disputed country is British territory and made the whole case void. We had, he continued, neglected too long our foreign policy and the great interests of the United States which lay beyond her borders. He wanted the matter of the boundary dispute settled by arbitration, because if settled otherwise it was a blow to a vital principle to the welfare and dignity of the United States. He did not believe the people of England had the least desire to engage in hostilities with the United States any more than we sought or desired hostilities with them. "We have," said Senator Lodge, "seen British forces at Corinto. We know the attitude they assumed in Venezuela. They are attempting to take land on the Alaskan boundary. They have just denounced the modus vivendi and reopened in that way the perilous dispute of the seal fisheries. It is not by accident that those events have all occurred or all come to an acute stage within the past year."

The senator closed by expressing the belief that the questions between England and the United States would be peaceably settled, but it was very clear that such settlement could only be reached by action on the part of congress and the president, which should be as firm as it was temperate, and which should maintain the Monroe doctrine absolutely and at all hazards wherever it justly applied.

A Silver Scheme.

Senator Jones (Ark.) presented an amendment which he proposes to offer to the house bond bill. It provides that any holder of silver bullion, who is a citizen of the United States, may tender the same to the secretary of the treasury and have it coined into silver dollars, the seigniorage to be the difference between the coinage value and the market price of the bullion in New York, for the cancellation of all bank notes of less than $10; directing the secretary of the treasury to coin the silver bullion in the treasury into silver dollars, to be used in redeeming the treasury notes issued for the purpose of purchasing silver bullion under the Sherman act, and for redemption of the greenbacks in either gold or silver, and for their reissue according to the provisions of the act of 1878.

Through With the Tariff.

There will be no more tariff legislation by the lower house of congress in this session. If the business interests of the country have been fearful that existing conditions would be disturbed by any new revision of the tariff rates, or any uncertainty caused by efforts to re-enact the McKinley law or change the Wilson act in the direction of higher duties, their apprehension may be set at rest by the statement made yesterday by Chairman Dingley of the ways and means committee.

Mr. Dingley said very positively that he was sure the Republicans would not attempt any important tariff changes, now that the revenue bill had passed the house, and that his opinion on this point was given irrespective of whether or not the revenue tariff bill passed last week was successful in the senate or received the president's signature.

There are Republican members of the ways and means committee who think that the house should put itself on record on the tariff by a comprehensive bill, even if it be foreseen that such a bill could never become law, but this sentiment has visibly weakened on the Republican side of the house since the beginning of the session. It is probable that these members will defer the views of Chairman Dingley, particularly as Speaker Reed, whose nearest adviser Mr. Dingley is, holds the same opinion in opposition to attempts at tariff bills in this session.

Mr. Dingley considers it a foregone conclusion that President Cleveland would veto any comprehensive bill for a higher tariff, so the house leaders think it would be a waste of time and effort for the house to attempt to pass such a bill and launch it upon a career of interminable debate in the senate, to be followed by protracted settlements of differences between the two houses. Moreover, they take into consideration the disturbances to business which would be inevitably incident to such a season of tariff agitation.

Mr. Dingley will call a meeting of the ways and means committee for Tuesday of next week. There are many bills for tariff changes before the committee, most of them providing for advances in certain schedules: Wool and woolens, lumber, live stock, farm products, salt and many other things, but it is unlikely that any of these will be reported to the house. Mr. Dingley thinks that the Republicans generally desire to make the session a short one, and that their efforts will be to that end.
